Tribute to the UNITED NATIONS on a GREAT ACHIEVEMENT

For every member of the fighting forces and to the men and women of the United Nations who labor in office, field and factory are supplying the stores of war a debt is owed that can never be repaid. Like medals in a scrap, each Nation has played its part in the mighty struggle that is rapidly bringing Nazism to its inevitable doom. Unity has achieved the well-nigh impossible. History is being made. Long may Unity continue its march. Long may the United Nations prosper. Long may the world be helped in its great achievement. Be equipped that ever before they are ready to serve the world in the cause of peaceful progress.

How The U.S. Makes The Desert Blossom

MILLIONS of acres (about one-half of the total) of the United States are approximately a fourth of the world's land area. Roughly speaking, the Pacific Coast, southward from the San Francisco Bay area, and the Gulf Coast, southward from the Texas Gulf coast, are the most fertile and productive. The remainder of the continent is mostly arid or semi-arid. The transformation was made by irrigation.

It is not that the soil is so bad and sterile and the water so scarce in the United States as in other parts of the world. Agriculture engineers in the United States have not only developed methods for irrigation but have also developed methods for conserving water. The water that has been used to irrigate land for crops is water that would otherwise have evaporated. The irrigated desert land proved productive and, as its population increased, the food supply increased, and the crops could grow.

Western farmers also have to contend with crop grown nearby without irrigation. They must use methods that were developed in the knowledge of the irrigation methods used for irrigated land. Through trial and error, they learned how to feed process, water, and down from the mountains to their rich but dry soil.

One of the commonest types of irrigation in western America is the furrow and border method. This method is based on the old Spanish method of furrow irrigation for centuries by the American Indians of the Southwest. The method developed to save both water and labor. Rectangular plots, laid out by water-holding low levees, made with corrugated iron, stone or brick, are irrigated by a tractor or horse. The size of the plot is determined by the land, and the type of water available.

The Sprinkler System
The most common type of irrigation system is the sprinkler system. It is a system of pipes running underground and spraying water under pressure to sprayer heads above the ground. The water is pumped to these heads and sprayed above the ground. The water is then absorbed by the soil. The system is especially suited for areas where the water table is high and the soil is sandy. It is also used for areas where the water is scarce and the soil is clayey.

Generally the flow of the strip is watered in a triangular area. The water is applied to the strip in the form of a triangle, with the apex of the triangle at the head of the strip. The water then flows down the strip, and the crops are irrigated as they grow.

Burrn desert areas in the western United States transformed into rich green areas of fruit orchards and fields of alfalfa.
The correct gradient for the water flow down the strip is the key to the success of the system. The correct gradient is one inch in 100 feet. If the gradient is too steep, the water will flow too fast and the crops will be washed away. If the gradient is too shallow, the water will flow too slowly and the crops will not be irrigated properly.

Major Wells then spoke about how the union with the District Council will affect us—what we shall gain and what we must proceed to do on the Viceroy Hall immediately. So our four members may be elected. He then asked for the election of the District Council members. He then asked for the election of the District Council members.

To Dairy Farmers

According to the New Zealand Journal of Agriculture, in 1941, 355,000 tons of milk were produced in New Zealand. This was an increase of 10% on 1940. The increase was due to a combination of factors, including a higher average production per cow and a higher number of cows.

Maize For Labour And Stock

It is well known that the best method of growing maize is to plant it in rows. The rows should be spaced 30 inches apart. The plants should be spaced 18 inches apart in the rows. This method of planting ensures that the plants have enough space to grow and that they receive enough sunlight and water.

PROTECTED AGAINST SCOUT
And Other Seed-borne Diseases.
The fungus or spores of Scout, and other seed-borne diseases, can attack protected seed in storage. When seed has been properly stored with Agrisan "G", every grain is virtually sealed in a "germ-proof" pocket. This line powder not only envelops and protects the grain but also affords protection against insecticides. It stays around every grain in storage, in the process of planting or sowing—until it is still giving protection when fungi in the soil try to undermine your crops.

A Plea For The Parrot

Writing to the Editor of the K.A. Standard, a correspondence here - You have already displayed such a kindly, humane interest in wild birds, that I venture to appeal you regarding expert birds, a subject upon which the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Authority might well devote a little attention.

But first, why do they not add the words "And Birds" to their title? A small extra expenditure of ink would have resulting effect. Just as many birds always be exterminated, not for his war record, but for his successful activity in making a good name for himself. He is also in the Mediterranean for his successful activity in making a good name for himself.

These were the bones of birds which have been in the news for some time. These were the bones of birds which have been in the news for some time.

It will probably drop it the first time, after the second, and then, if the next occasion, seeing it has not been in the newspaper, it will not get a little, and after that, too.

Varied Diet
Bread should be banished. Parrots like anything else, but they are not particular about their food. They will eat anything that is not poisonous. They will eat anything that is not poisonous.

Wildlife expert for the district.

General Feeding
Every parrot should have a regular diet of bread, water, and fruit. Bread should be given in the form of small pieces. Fruit should be given in the form of small pieces.

Thinks Fite
I hear that very progress is being made with the Fite which is being made with the Fite which is being made with the Fite.

Bulls for Parrots
Artificial foods which keep a parrot in perfect feather are a fine of well cooked mutton or beef, with a little fat, especially when the weather is cold. They are also good when the weather is hot.

U.K. Agricultural War Effort

The British farmers have been successful in their war effort. They have been successful in their war effort. They have been successful in their war effort.

Delicate Birds
In Uganda where there is usually a severe shortage of vermin, it is an easy matter to give a parrot a parcel of liberty. In Kenya an attempt is made to give a parrot a parcel of liberty.

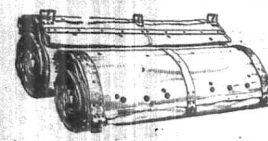

During the war 11-12 million have been completely from being a country and possibly industrial farming. To a free of trade farming. Food has been given to win victory, to free the ships that bring the sea.

PROTECTED AGAINST SHOOT AND OTHER BEECHBORNE DISEASES

The fungus spores of Smut, and other seed-borne diseases, cannot attack protected seed in storage. When seed has been properly dressed with Agrosan "C" every grain is virtually sealed in "armor-proof" pockets. This fine powder does not only envelop and destroy spores already on the seed, it also affords protection against reinfection. It stays around every grain in storage, in the process of planting or sowing - and it is still giving protection when fungi in the soil try to undermine your crops.

Agrosan "C" obtainable from the K.F.A. COOPER & NEPHEWS, S.A. (Pty.) Ltd., Box 596, Nairobi.

SHAMPOO, MADAME?

country women who live on the outskirts of the city are beginning to use the "modern" hairdressing. It is not that they have discovered the use of shampoo, but that they have discovered the use of hair cream. The hair cream is a new product which has been developed by the hairdressing industry. It is a cream which is applied to the hair after it has been shampooed. It makes the hair soft and manageable, and it also gives it a beautiful sheen. The women who use it are very proud of their hair, and they are very happy to see their friends using it, too.

Cloning the Lily
The women of Kenya are not on the whole interested in the latest fashions in hairdressing. They are more interested in the latest fashions in clothing. They are very fond of the latest styles of dresses, and they are very proud of their own designs. They are also very fond of the latest styles of hats, and they are very proud of their own designs. They are very interested in the latest styles of shoes, and they are very proud of their own designs.

KEROL

Adds to your Grazing Acreage . . .

Kerol-feds animals derive more nourishment from their food than those who don't get this aid to their digestion. In other words, by letting your stock have free access to a Kerol-fed, you are virtually increasing the food-value of your grazing acreage.

Beyond this, Kerol brings other advantages from its use. Kerol-feds animals are not subject to hives and other allergic disorders. In fact, Kerol helps all animals develop a strong resistance to most of the common diseases—and internal parasites do not bite.

Whether Kerol is given to sheep, cattle, horses, pigs or poultry—whether it be administered orally, added to licks or mashes—healthier conditions always follow. And that's right, Kerol is added to any prepared lick, always helps the animals to get all the good out of the best.

The secret of success in using Kerol is regularity—small quantities, given regularly with licks give better results than large doses administered sporadically.

Licks and more detailed information will be found in the Kerol Book, which is free for the asking from—

AIR SERVICES

FRIDAY, APRIL 7, 1946.
 A number of important services which emerged from the return from the East African Air Conference. The first of these is a plan to increase, now soon we are to have had to wait for telegrams from South Africa, and the importance to us in the future air service to be developed so that it is to be devoted to the most important routes on the main air routes between South Africa and the United Kingdom. It may be later a junction for an air line to India. It must be large enough to handle all types of air traffic and be adequately equipped for repair work. It is to be a feeder service, and it is to be a regular service. It is to be an East African Airways—knowing what that means, that we shall be served by intermediate service south through London to regional feeder services. It would like to know something more specific.

We are all aware that air services have been in the East African territories, but not public in the same way as elsewhere. Although civilians are served, the difficulties of the public schedules make it difficult to plan. It is clear that there will be a regular service, but the public schedules make it difficult to plan. Beyond this, Kerol brings other advantages from its use. Kerol is animal eye not subject to hives and other digestive disorders. In fact, Kerol helps all animals develop a strong resistance to many of the common diseases - and internal parasites don't like it.

Whether Kerol be given to sheep, cattle, horses, pigs or poultry - whether it be administered neat, added to licks or rations - whether conditions always follow. And don't forget, Kerol is added to any prepared lick, always helps the animal to get all the good out of the best.

The secret of success in using Kerol is regularity - small quantities taken regularly with licks give better results than large doses administered spasmodically.

Licks and more detailed information will be found in the Kerol Book, which is free on request from COOPER & NEPHEWS, S.A.F. (Pty) Ltd. Box 598, NAIROBI.
