K.U.R. 1932 FINANCE.

Railway Effort To Make Ends Meet.

EXPENDITURE REDUCED BY £450,000 SINCE 1930.

Deficit Last Year, £189,000.

PROFITS SWALLOWED UP BY HEAVY BURDEN OF LOAN CHARGES.

After meeting all charges, including loan interest and sinking fund, the Kenya and Uganda Railways and Harbours Services report a deficit on the year 1932 amounting to £189,000.

As a result of the losses during 1931 and 1932 the "Deficit Account" of the Service has now reached a total of £350,000.

Strenuous efforts were, however, made by the management to reduce expenditure to keep pace with falling revenue. The earnings of the Railways and Harbours show a decrease of £445,700 compared with 1930 but the ordinary working expenditure has been brought down during the same two years by £472,397.

A tribute is paid by the General Manager to the value of branch lines which, although operated at a loss, have been the means of opening up large areas of country and showing that three-quarters of a million tons of traffic since 1927.

No Branch Line Accounts.

The 1932 Report of the Kenya and Uganda Railways and Harbours has just been issued. It is dated April 22 and is signed by General G. D. Rhodes, the General Manager.

The combined working results during the year were as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Item and Amount. Revenue £1,725,940; Expenditure £1,202,720; Balance £ 523,220. Subsequent lines show Railway revenue, Harbour revenue, and expenditure on railway revenue.

On the total capital expenditure on the transport service of £22,319,000 the balance gives a surplus of £23 per cent. The corresponding proportion of the total—that is to say on the transport income amounting to £1,919,000 the return is equal to 4.47 per cent.

Revenue, although the combined Railways and Harbours had a balance after paying ordinary working expenditure and making contributions to the general fund of £523,220, this balance was insufficient to meet the Railway and Harbours loan charges. Those charges including sinking fund were as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Item and Amount. Railways £630,450; Harbours £307,102; Total £937,552.

After deducting the balance of revenue, £523,220, there is shown a deficit on Railways and Harbours for the year 1932 of £193,332. This loss has been transferred to the deficit account.

The Report adds it should be noted that the amount of loss has been reduced, at other matters, to £209,564 to the deficit fund on account of the proceeds and £124,560 to the

TRADE UNIONS SUBMIT TO GOVERNMENT.

[REUTERS BERLIN'S AGENCY.] Berlin, May 5. The Catholic and Christian Trade Unions and the Union of Clerical Employees whose membership total a million have submitted to Nazi control, thus obviating Government intervention.

The Nazis have also announced control of the League of German Industrialists. A communique issued after a conference between Herr Hitler and Herr Krupp von Bohlen states that the latter will remain President of the League with Herr Otto Wagner (Herr Hitler's economic adviser and Herr Alfred Moller, another Nazi economist as Reich Commissioner for the Ruhr) as his deputy. Herr Krupp von Bohlen had undertaken to bring the powerful industrial group into line with the Government policy of "adopting economic facts to political conditions."

[BY WIRELESS.] Rugby, May 5. By a rearrangement of procedure in the House of Commons, the British Plan is to be considered at a meeting today and the new proposals, modified recently in its composition by the British plan.

The British Government has adopted the plan, which is a modification of the original plan, and has been recently postponed.

Loan Responsibility.

A statement of the capital account of the transport and harbour expenditure for 1931 and 1932 is guaranteed by the respective governments in the following proportions:

Table with 2 columns: Country and Amount. Kenya £1,065,960; Uganda £ 600,530.

A footnote to this table explains that the Uganda Government has accepted responsibility for approximately £250,000.

MUTHAIGA GOLF CLUB. Empire Day Open Competition. Qualities of Medal Play.

Fortcoming events. Several important events have taken place of recent date, and I think I should first direct my attention towards that of an event to come on Empire Day, May 24.

There will be a golf tournament open to members of any club in Kenya. It will be over 18 holes, and will be played on May 24th. I have seen, very good friend "Noble" trying out the course these days, and I can give you a good stand he will definitely enjoy. There is no more welcome of golfers than at the moment, and I am hoping that he will be among the many we hope to see on Empire Day.

There will be quite a lot of medals used the conditions "hard and spongy." To my way of thinking it is the best I have ever seen. I am sure that the player who is able to play on this course will be a player of great merit. I have seen several of our members play on it, and I think that some of them are playing very well. I think it is perhaps the reason why it is so popular, and I think it is perhaps the reason why it is so popular, and I think it is perhaps the reason why it is so popular.

On Friday we have our monthly mixed foursome competition, and I am sure that we will see a very fine entry, one which will be a credit to the club. It will be played on May 11th, and I think it will be a very fine one. I think it will be a very fine one, and I think it will be a very fine one.

On Tuesday the ladies' open was played for, and resulted in a win for Mrs. Lewis with a net 31. I really feel performance on her part. This member I feel sure is going to be a member of the club for many years to come. I think it will be a very fine one, and I think it will be a very fine one.

On Saturday, May 13, we have the Secretary's prize, the centennial golf match, and I think it will be a very fine one. I think it will be a very fine one, and I think it will be a very fine one.

There is just one more task I have to perform, but believe me it could not be done without you. I have to ask you to help me in my task, and I think it will be a very fine one. I think it will be a very fine one, and I think it will be a very fine one.

Prospects For The Association Season. STRENGTH OF THE POLICE AND CALLIES' TEAMS. Enthusiasm of the Players.

With the football season only some two or three days away, the question of the prospects for the public today is that appearing in the prospects of the teams. Undoubtedly there has been a certain fallow age in the standard of the game during the past year or two, and it results for the clubs to bring it back to the standard of the past.

And now I shall turn to the prospects of the Callies-Norfolk's legs for a season is concerned. In practice they have shown them, as a working side, and I have the feeling that they are likely to have a most successful season ahead of them. A series of preview games has found the selection of the Callies-Norfolk's legs for a season is concerned.

The Police Side. Carrying on Traditions of the Past. This year will see the Police team once more competing in representative form. They are dependent upon some dozen players to help them in the task.

On Saturday's game was a fight between the opposing backs and the speed of the game was considerable. Neither side gave anything away, and the tackling was the hardest that has characterized the game for many a season.

Don't Treat Settlers as "Tiresome Interlopers."

LORD FRANCIS SCOTT'S APPEAL TO HOME GOVERNMENT.

Kenya's Difficulties.

THE CLAIM FOR A SHARE IN CONTROL OF FINANCE.

Lord Francis Scott, Leader of the European Elected Members of the Kenya Legislative Council, has made a comprehensive outline of Kenya's problems and aspirations in an address at the Overseas League in London on April 20.

There were only two discordant notes—one minor and one major. In the first case the Chairman considered the Elected Members inconsistent in their attitude to the Native Federation Fund—but promised to study all the speeches again. The second was a charge levelled by Sir Sydney Hill that Lord Francis Scott and the Elected Members were not "strictly representative of the feelings of the Kenya people in general."

Lord Francis appealed to the Government to cease regarding the settlers as tiresome interlopers and to make a bold and generous offer of constitutional advance.

Sir S. Henn's Charge.

Through many channels, Mr. Henn, pointed out, including those for natives and Europeans were not made good. He said that the Kenya Customs and Excise authorities were not doing their duty and were not maintaining the value of the pound. TRADE AGREEMENT WITH THE ARGENTINE.

The definition of a reasonable rate annually towards the payment of the services of Argentina's external debt is another matter than the United Kingdom, the full amount of sterling exchange resulting from the United Kingdom purchases of Argentine products will be made available for current payments to the United Kingdom. Frozen pork balances will be funded by the bank by the Argentine Government of the United Kingdom.

Regarding tariffs, a supplementary agreement, containing provisions as to duties and quantitative regulations to which each country is obliged, will be concluded as soon as possible and will form the essential part of the construction.

Powers of Amendment.

If this supplementary agreement is not concluded by August 1, the most convenient date may be fixed by either party at one month's notice. Any dispute which may arise shall at the request of either party be submitted to the Hague Court which both agree to accept either tribunal or procedure. The Convention comes into force when the ratifications are exchanged, with provision in force for three years and is terminable at six months notice. Ratifications will be exchanged in London as early as possible by the British Official Wireless Service.

FURTHER DETAILS.

Problem of Frozen Balances.

The obstacle to Anglo-Argentine trade, mentioned by the £10,000,000 frozen British credits in the Argentine, has been removed by the Anglo-Argentine trade agreement, whereby the Argentine undertakes that the sterling balances, arising from the sale of Argentine products in the United Kingdom, shall be available to the United Kingdom's current requirements. The Argentine in 1935 will accumulate a sterling balance of £12,000,000 paper money to provide a cash payment to holders of frozen balances, while the larger frozen balances will be dealt with by a "banking scheme" under which the Argentine will issue 20 years four per cent. interest bonds in exchange for the frozen balances.

In regard to customs, the Argentine will revert generally to the status of duty free before 1930 on goods on which British goods are in a position of duty. The Argentine will maintain the same tariff and other goods as present in the period before war or imposed duties not imposed now or imposed duties of quantitative limitations on special Argentine products, including raw wool.

OTHER AGREEMENTS.

Negotiations Still Proceeding.

(By wire.)

Answering a number of questions regarding the trade agreement negotiations and proposed developments, the President of the House of Commons, Mr. Walter Runciman, in the House of Commons today said the work of the agreement with Argentina was being pressed for early completion. The agreement with Denmark, laid before the House last week, would be estimated, based on an annual average of British exports to that country of about £1,200,000, representing an increase in employment of nearly 6,000 persons.

Detailed negotiations with Finland would begin on May 23, when general trade negotiations with the German Government opened, probably after the World Economic Conference, on the basis of certain terms which would be raised.

Mr. Runciman stated he recently discussed with the Japanese Ambassador the question of Japanese reciprocity with British goods in the world markets, and asked him to put certain suggestions before his Government. Mr. Runciman is prepared to make a statement on British Overseas Trade.

JOHN MASEFIELD.

Nairobi Lecture on His Life and Work.

Mr. T. G. Benson, M.A., of London, lecturer on the McMillan Memorial Lectures last Monday evening, speaking as the chairman of the series and works of John Masefield, Mr. M. Benson provided over a large attendance.

Mr. Benson said that John Masefield, because he was one of the great users of the time, but because the writer more than any other had laid his interest for twenty years.

On the way he sings with all the art of a natural story teller of the most common things of life, and man's work and suffering, and one can get more knowledge of the poet from his own writings than any biographer can give. Even to this day he has a day's writing and nothing personal. But he is a poet, and his poetry is a part of our life and a passionate appeal to the beauty of things.

Early Days.

Masefield, who was born in 1878 in the rich country of the west, the Ludlow, Herefordshire, the poet's land of hope and dreams, was driven by a restless spirit within to the sea, and at the age of 14 he went for training on the Conway. The sea and the life of a sailor were his early inspiration and have given colour to his writings ever since, and only for a brief space of time did he leave the sea. He seems to have been a restless spirit, and his early years were spent in the sea and his contrast of this world with the world of his own writings.

War Works.

During the War one or two books of poetry appeared from his pen, but he came under the public eye chiefly because of his descriptions of war scenes and battle incidents. "Gallop!" which appeared in 1916 was written in an original, highly polished style, but descriptions of scenes were often original and with stressed positions. His views were essentially those of a poet, and although there may not necessarily have been any direct influence on his work, Masefield used the film camera to draw, and he laid the art of making his poetry live.

The stern realism of a sea-faring life was never admirably and vividly depicted in his narrative poem "Dulce" and one could not help thinking that many of his hero's sufferings were reminiscences of Masefield's own.

Mr. Benson illustrated his lecture by reading pieces from different poems. "In his works," he said, "are all the good traits which make Masefield worth reading, and which will stand you for him a place in posterity. Even if that is not granted he will at least be remembered in posterity as the man who by his wide range, and an enormous, influence, making

On Sunday, April 20 Cherragan brought a strong mixed team over to Eldred and were defeated by the home side by 4 matches to 4. The visitors, who were the winners of the Murray Cup last year, were expected to carry the day, but Eldred won a well deserved victory. The teams consisted of three men's pairs and two ladies' pairs. The home team, captained by Eldred, played a very good game, and a considerable knowledge of courtship and his services to death duty and well placed.

Early Days.

The result was as follows: the Eldred pairs being victorious first in each instance:— Ball and Gray by 6-2, 7-5, 6-4; beat Collis and Gunn by 5-7, 6-4; beat Fry and Galt Ball and Gray by 11-9, 7-5; beat Collis and Gunn by 6-2; beat Fry and Galt Ball and Gray by 7-5, 6-3; Mardall and Barrett lost to Ball and Gray by 5-7, 2-6; beat Fry and Galt Ball and Gray by 7-9, 2-6; Mardall and Barrett lost to Ball and Gray by 7-5, 6-1; beat Mr. Holt and Miss Mearns by 6-2, 7-5; beat Mrs. Nervis and Mrs. Mardall by 7-5, 6-1; beat Mrs. Holt and Miss Mearns by 6-2, 7-5; beat Mrs. Nervis and Mrs. Mardall by 7-5, 6-1.

War Works.

During the War one or two books of poetry appeared from his pen, but he came under the public eye chiefly because of his descriptions of war scenes and battle incidents. "Ogilvy" which appeared in 1916 was written in an exceedingly polished style, but descriptions of scenes were often overladen with strained poetical effects. His view was generally that of a poet, and although factually correct they were not as well known as they were. It is interesting to find that Massfield's poetry life.

The poem "Ogilvy" and "The Dawn" could not help thinking that many of his best offerings were "romanticisms of Massfield's own."

Mr. Benson illustrated his lecture by reading poems from different parts of his work, but he said, "one of the good things which will surely win for him a place in poetry. Even if that is not granted he will at least be remembered in poems as the man who by his verse, had an effect on making his

Joint East African Board.

After a recent absence from England extending over several months, I have been extremely anxious to return to London to learn of the negotiable controversy that has most recently broken out between the various African and European papers over supposed shortcomings on the part of the Board which has been followed by a demand from some quarters for resignation by the East African Association of their representatives on the London Board.

I am not concerned here to deal in detail with the questions raised over the Board's proposals firstly because my absence from the continent has prevented my being present at the various discussions, and, secondly, because I am not a member of the Board, and therefore do not know the exact nature of the proposals. It is, however, a matter of fact that the Board's action has done so without having the whole of the facts before them. In fact, the Board has been misled by statements published in their papers by irresponsible persons that have no foundation in fact. On the particular income Tax question, no one has ever asked the Chairman of justifying the action taken by himself and his colleagues, and therefore will only refer here briefly to one or two statements published in their papers. The Joint East African Board itself, which I left uncommitted, might be asked by some of my East African friends as true history.

I would refer in particular to the letter published in the "East African Standard" under date 21st January over the signature of Major F. Cavendish-Bulbeck. It is not concerned with views, whether they be those of the Editor, such as for example an article in the editorial of the 1st January, or those of his contributors and correspondents in various numbers of his paper, since the free expression of opinion is one of the aims of every right and to the only one that is in quite a different order. But it is quite a different matter when statements made in his editorial are contrary to fact and attempts thus based upon them.

In the letter in question Major Cavendish-Bulbeck says: "The Board was in fact set up by the Colonial Office as a body to whom they could refer in order to come to a decision on any matter which was referred to them." The formation of the Board was not a consequence of the fact that it was set up in London as an English body.

SIR E. HENN'S HISTORY OF JOINT E.A. BOARD.

Reply to a Critic.

To the Editor, "E.A. Standard."

Sir—I enclose a letter and enclosure I have received from Sir Sydney Henn and would ask you to be good enough to arrange for its publication in your columns. In view of the strong feeling which exists in the country on the subject of the Joint E.A. Board, and further in view of the fact that Sir Sydney Henn's letter is a personal attack on me, I feel—such as I dislike conducting a correspondence through the columns of the Press—that I must at the same time write a note.

In the first place, I would point out that my letter of January 13th, published in your issue of January 14th, dealt with a general principle. My object was to demonstrate that the channels whereby this country's point of view is disseminated in London were unbalanced, uncoordinated and ineffective, in view of the conditions and the fact that London is now within six days of Kenya.

You must find a question mark of answer to this in my letter. The Joint East African Board's attitude towards Empire Tax was, to my mind, merely a further example of the disadvantages from Kenya's point of view of the existence in London of a recognized and comparatively well-organized body which puts forward views which are not in accordance with those actually held here.

Sir Sydney Henn is anxious to repudiate statements published in the "East African Standard" by what he considers "respectable persons" by which, I imagine, he chiefly refers to me. I do not think he is quite happy in his choice of adjectives, as although it may appear to be unobjectionable, or, at least, I do not think that I can rightly be classed as being an entirely unrespectable person. In general terms, the views I expressed in my letter have been supported by two leading articles in your columns; by letters from individual subscribers; by a letter from Lord Bessborough, Scott, the Leader of our Elected Members; by a cable sent to the Secretary of State on behalf of the Elected Members; by a farther letter sent to the Secretary of State by the Acting Chairman on behalf of the Elected Members' Organization; and by speeches at meetings of the various Chambers of Commerce, the various Trade Associations, and the various Irresponsible persons or bodies. Apart from general views, however, there are questions of fact concerning which Sir Sydney Henn suggests that I can furnish facts. As an instance, he makes a quotation from my original letter to the effect that the Board was in fact set up by the Colonial Office as a body to whom they could, when they found it convenient, to use an American (sic) expert. He adds that there is not a word of truth in this statement and suggests the version of the history of the formation of the Board.

Without entering on a detailed historical criticism of Sir Sydney Henn's memorandum, I would point out that it scarcely tallies with the statement contained in the Joint East African Board's letter, published in your columns under the signature of Sir John Allen, as his report on the Board was originally established at the instance of the Colonial Office to give them a modified view of the situation in East Africa, generally, and especially in Kenya, and in the territories and in this country (England). In fact, contrary to the view pressed by me in Kenya at the time that the Board was set up, it was originally intended to be a purely unofficial organ in the territories. The Colonial Office had looked on a body representing the East African interests as a whole, and had pointed out that East African interests, both commercial and agricultural, were very largely frustrated and diverted from their normal channels in the territories (England) which made it essential that the members of the Board should be drawn, as far as possible, from the Colonies and from the United Kingdom.

Therefore, although it is not a matter of great importance, it would seem that my version, at any rate, as far as the territories are concerned, is more accurate. I think that the general position was that in 1917 and 1918, a period during which Kenya was going through a most difficult time, similar to the present one and when the trouble over the Indian question was at its height, the members of Kenya were anxious to see that, in so far as possible, a most satisfactory exposition in London of this country's point of view, that in 1917 and 1918, a period during which Kenya was going through a most difficult time, similar to the present one and when the trouble over the Indian question was at its height, the members of Kenya were anxious to see that, in so far as possible, a most satisfactory exposition in London of this country's point of view, that in 1917 and 1918, a period during which Kenya was going through a most difficult time, similar to the present one and when the trouble over the Indian question was at its height, the members of Kenya were anxious to see that, in so far as possible, a most satisfactory exposition in London of this country's point of view.

of our Indian being in London. I do not think that it would be to our advantage to agree to the establishment of such a body in order that by having a few legal representatives in it, they might be able to take advantage of the facilities of Sir Humphrey Laggart to White Settlement could to some extent be counterbalanced.

I am glad that Sir Sydney Henn is very busy. After a period of time of this nature we must expect some order, although I may be—I did in fact do so, but I do not think I may be in the time to do so. I am glad that Sir Sydney Henn is very busy. After a period of time of this nature we must expect some order, although I may be—I did in fact do so, but I do not think I may be in the time to do so.

This country is a young Colony and is rapidly developing its own colonial point of view, and although it thoroughly appreciates the necessity of creating and maintaining a friendly atmosphere in England, it has on matters regarding its own domestic affairs, little or no tolerance for a bazaar English point of view. It is a body of well-intentioned gentlemen at Home call themselves authorities on East African and express opinions on our behalf which are not held here. It is only a matter of time when no concrete is made without breaking eggs, nor can any institution be removed without the use of some degree of force. The fact does remain that both Sir Sydney Henn and Sir John Sandeman Allen are regarded as having authority on East African matters. The fact does also remain that in the opinion of many out here, the fact does remain that both Sir Sydney Henn and Sir John Sandeman Allen are regarded as having authority on East African matters.

double; that his Parliamentary Committee has been established by the suggestion of a reputation as an East African authority. I am sorry if these remarks have hurt if people in public life disseminate the impression that they represent a particular interest or community, and if they continue to disseminate that impression after they have been told several times publicly that they do not. It is indeed a strange spectacle, quite unaccountable, to see the impression that they represent the advancement of our interests in East Africa as a "sacred cause" desperately fight to retain their positions on a body which no longer has our confidence, rather than endeavouring to recognize that body so that it should prove more acceptable to the Colonists, or, at least, to the public in general. I am more in sympathy with the Colonial viewpoint. The doctrine which Sir Sydney Henn and Sir John Sandeman Allen appear to promulgate is: "You young people don't know what you are talking about. You are ignorant and uneducated. You are not going to continue giving the Colonial Office our advice and to interfere in East Africa."

I can only assure them respectfully that those days are past. We realize that the Joint East African Board may have done good work on our behalf in the past and we are not purely retrospective. We know, however, that it is no longer possible to have such a purpose, if not set up, as to be harmful to our interests. We intend letting those who know what opinion we are in, why, and no longer to continue to be misled by the opinions and ideas that are put forward by the Joint East African Board we should hold.

In general terms I admit that my letter of January 13th was rather full; it was deliberately full, as I felt that our progress was being blocked by an out-of-date institution in the foundation of which I intended to make a hole in which a stick of dynamite might be inserted when the time came.

Yours etc,
P. CAVENTISH BERTINCK,

Amalgamation Of The Rhodesias.

AGAIN A LIVE ISSUE IN NORTHERN TERRITORY.

Colonial Office Bombshell.

GRADUAL REPLACEMENT OF CIVIL SERVANTS BY AFRICANS.

The question of the amalgamation of the Rhodesias has been raised again in active form. It has been precipitated by an announcement by the Secretary of State proposing the gradual substitution of Europeans by Africans in the Civil Service as a contribution to the balancing of the Budget.

This has been the last straw to break the opposition of Mr. L. F. Moore, the veteran leader of the European Elected Members who for years has been avowed from amalgamation in the Northern Territory.

Moore now declares that it is a choice of two evils, the worse of which he thinks is continued domination by the Colonial Office. In two years he believes that if the territory persists they will succeed in breaking down any Imperial Government opposition to amalgamation.

It is a choice, Elected Members believe, between a Greater Rhodesia or a smaller Rhodesia. They apparently do not want to have anything to do with East Africa which still suffers from the suspicious "White Paper."

Bitter Budget Disputes.

Addressing the Legislative Council of Northern Rhodesia recently, the Governor of the Northern Territory, Ronald Meade, announced proposals made by the Secretary of State relating to the Civil Service which have given rise to considerable controversy. The proposals are designed to save £200,000 in 1926 and to reduce the budget to 1925. The Governor said that all the efforts of the Government are concentrated upon the possibility of effecting the savings indicated.

The proposals involve, it is said, the reduction of the salaries of the Elected Members and the reduction of the salaries of the Elected Members in the Northern Territory. The proposals are designed to save £200,000 in 1926 and to reduce the budget to 1925. The Governor said that all the efforts of the Government are concentrated upon the possibility of effecting the savings indicated.

Increased Taxation.

Among further proposals is a reduction in the Income Tax allowance set on the Government's side. The Government has a right to tax on paper. The Government has a right to tax on paper. The Government has a right to tax on paper.

A Private Conference.

When the Council reassembled the next day, the Secretary of State, Mr. Robert Cecil, was present. He was accompanied by Mr. Meade and other officials. The meeting was a private conference.

Diminution Opposed.

The Premier declared that opposition to the retention of the Elected Members would be strongly opposed. He said that the Government would strongly oppose any diminution of the salaries of the Elected Members.

A CRIMINAL GANG IN TANGANYIKA.

Round-Up by Police at Kilosa.

DARING BURGLARIES.

Neighborhood Terrorized For Three Months.

From the end of last year onwards the residents of the area round Kilosa have been greatly harassed by regular and daring bands of burglars and thieves. In a single night a host of thieves committed several of their nefarious crimes. One European house, one Indian house, one African house, one mission, seven miles from Kilosa, during about three months at least 15 to 20 cases of burglary and all descriptions might have been reported to the Police and many more. Many cases were never reported by people when their loss was not considerable.

Explosion Mystery.

The method of action of the thieves was quite ingenious. They entered European houses after cutting metallic pipes, collected things from the kitchen and other rooms using the sleeping room and escaped with the stolen goods. The Police, did their best but the explosion of the bomb in the house of the Elected Member, Mr. J. D. Calcutt, was a great headliner. The charge after the explosion of the bomb in the house of the Elected Member, Mr. J. D. Calcutt, was a great headliner.

ALLEGED THEFT.

Charge Against a European.

J. D. Calcutt, a European, appeared in the dock of the Resident Magistrate's Court at Kilosa on Monday, in connection with a charge of theft. The charge was against a European. The charge was against a European.

Goods Recovered.

Later, on Friday, when Kilosa was visited by a fire, the loss of goods was estimated at £10,000. The goods were recovered. The goods were recovered.

Terror Ruled.

MARRIAGE.

MAYERS — WILKINSON. On May 1st in Nairobi, Roy Oswald son of the late Mr. G. B. Mayers of Mtwani and of Mrs. Mayers, formerly daughter of the late Col. Sir Henry McCullum, 13th Regiment, Terrence, Malakani, Steane Street, London.

the influence of the depression the population is shrinking; it is equally clear that Northern Rhodesia has little hope, with its white population of 10,000 and the present pro-African sentiment in Rhodesia, of obtaining any important constitutional advance. It was perhaps for good reason that Mr. Moore's whole body of settlers will agree with him— it is forced by the threat to their future to attempt to save the wreckage of their hopes by joining the self-governing Dominion to the south. He has been encouraged to do so because he has observed the unwillingness of the Civil Service Government and the Colonial Office to associate unofficial members in financial policy or consider reductions in the ordinary members of Administration (and the burden on the Territory lines with which East Africa, and particularly East Rhodesia, is faced).

For
East African Standard
WEDNESDAY, MAY 9, 1935.

A Reminder from Rhodesia.

The discussion in the Legislative Council of Northern Rhodesia three weeks ago, reported in our columns today, might have taken place in any of the East African legislatures, it is perhaps the first striking impression of an important debate, in the same direction of view on methods of balancing the Budget, many of the same proposals have been put forward from the Territories, and the House of Representatives, which we are familiar in the north in similar circumstances and there has come from the Secretary of State, through the Government, the same type of laudible, impracticable, irritating and untimely pronouncement which in past years has created controversy in almost every British African Dependency. There is, of course, no doubt, a certain relief factor. H.E. Sir Donald Storey is not, at the moment, to be contemplated from his correction that Northern Rhodesia is a white man's country. That the reaction upon opinion of the Secretary of State's despatch was immediate. It brought into controversy in almost the whole question of the amalgamation of the two Rhodesias. Mr. Storey has been an opponent of the Electoral Members, who for years has been an opponent of the amalgamation only on the grounds that the opportunity should be given in white population and in population which could negotiate with the Government, and in the future, should be able to take their own course. It is quite clear that under ed fear of what has been called "Greater Liberia" has a very little effect to being made officially, to expand white settlement, the process has already begun in the Government. (Rhodesia) it is the frankly acknowledged policy of the Government in Kenya, the real strength of white influence, the position must be adversely affected by movements in Northern Rhodesia to turn its back on the north because of the Commission Reports and the White Papers. East Africa in the view of the Government from the British communities in the South and that the Government will not be easily shaken by promises of a better and improved position on the part of those who have no real knowledge of actual facts and conditions.

Practical Hints BATTERIES

Batteries and High Tension Supplies.
When going further with the setting up of a set an understanding of the characteristics of the batteries in a battery operation is essential in order to avoid making improper connections from those of the set, with consequent extensive damage. The connections to most manufactured sets are usually connected with respect to one or two terminals placed on the outside of the set, but these are sometimes situated with or near the top, and attempts to connect them may result in disaster.

Battery Functions.
It has been previously explained that when a valve amplifier, it draws the required power from an external source and, further, it requires a source of electrical power to heat what is known as its filament. In a battery operated set these are usually respectively supplied by a dry battery, which is not re-chargeable, and an accumulator which can be recharged as required. The dry or High Tension Battery is required to furnish a very small amount (approximately) of current at high voltage (pressure) whereas the accumulator or Low Tension Battery is needed for the supply of a comparatively large current at low voltage. As the current drawn from the H.T. Battery is so small it lasts for quite a long time.

A Circuit.
In an endeavour to make my meaning clear, I have signified a fundamental valve circuit, that of a one valve amplifier.

It is the filament or "C" the Output, "G" and "F" are respectively the grid and plate of the valve and "P" the filament circuit. "A," "B" and "C" are all batteries, "A," "B" and "C" are the filament, the High Tension battery and the accumulator or Low Tension battery. "C" is a third battery which will be dealt with later.

I here draws the filament circuit in heavy lines in order to show where the Low Tension current flows. Let us assume that "C" is a 120 volt battery and the valve being a two valve, "B" is of 2 volts. In a complete receiver the — or negative ends of the two terminals "A" and "B" are invariably connected to the special point or terminal of the set which is in turn connected to earth, if one is used.

Burning Out.
A study of the diagram will on one reveal that should the connection from either Low Tension positive or Low Tension negative in some manner get connected to High Tension positive the voltage is likely to fluctuate in the region of 120 volts. This voltage on the filament is very much more than sufficient to burn it completely away and the valve would be ruined. Further, as all the valves in a receiver are similarly connected with respect to the batteries, such a connection would burn out every valve in the receiver. As a diagrammer, I believe as if this could hardly happen but in a receiver with a number of High Tension tapings and consequently leads a moment's carelessness could have this effect.

Other Causes.
The correct lead each carry the High Tension current and of valves a broken G.B. connection may result in serious damage. — If not in complete ruin.

Next Week.
Next week I propose to deal with the various forms the battery "A," "B" and "C" may take.

Unheeded Listeners.
I have received information from a reliable source that plans are afoot for ferreting out unheeded listeners.

I would therefore recommend all those who have not the necessary receiving licence to obtain one as early as possible.

The Postmaster-General has been very lenient in the past and so far as I am aware I have only heard of one listener who has been prosecuted.

Ample time has been given to licensees to take out licenses and anyone using a receiving set will be liable to a heavy penalty if found out.

For those who are not aware of the license fee I would mention that twelve months' license costs Shs. 50/- and a six months' license Shs. 27/6.

The Week's Reception.

Monday night must be given the palm for the best night of the week and signals from all over the world came in with quite remarkable strength.

The Empire station came through extremely well and I was most interested to hear the Right Hon. Winston Churchill at the Empire annual banquet. His speech came through perfectly. I have recently noticed a falling off in strength on most stations after about 9.30 p.m. but Monday was an exception.

This falling off is hardly what one would expect and I hope it is only a temporary phase.

The Day Final.
The running commentary on Cup Final also came through well and although I am not sure on this point I got quite a lot out of it.

I think those commentators who are extremely well done — who must congratulate the B.F. for some very fine effects in its reception.

LISTENERS' QUERIES.

"Aerial" will be glad to answer all queries by readers. They should be addressed to him via "The East African Standard," P.O. Box 300, Nairobi. Replies will be given in this page.

Questions—After working very well for some time my receiver has become very difficult to tune. As soon as a station is applied to my extent it begins to make a very distinct popping sound. Can you help me?

Answer—Your set is probably "overdriving" due to a run down H.T. Battery. If the battery shows less than about 90 per cent of its rated voltage, this is very likely the cause. See that the large condensers across the H.T. tapping have not become disconnected.

R.W. Nairobi.
Questions—How can I tell when my L.T. battery is nearly exhausted?

Answer—A voltmeter will give some indication. When the voltage drops below 1.2 volts per cell the charge getting low. This is, however, not very reliable and the only really reliable method is to use a hydrometer which gives the specific gravity of the acid and can be tested. Alarms invariably print on the accumulator data as to the strength of the acid when the cell is fully charged and when dis-charged. Such hydrometers for this purpose may be obtained locally at a few shillings.

Each week a short description of the most important and up-to-date wireless apparatus in the wide range of wireless apparatus. The notes will be supplied by the Nairobi leader. This week, the subject is the "Crosley" Wireless Receiver designed by The Motor Mast and Exchange Limited.

Battery and High Tension Supplies. Before going further with the setting up of a set an understanding of the functions of the various parts of a battery operated set is essential. The most common mistake is to connect the positive terminal of the battery to the positive terminal of the set, with consequent damage to the set, and also a sometimes disastrous fire or even explosion. The connections to the various parts of the set should be made as follows:—The positive terminal of the battery should be connected to the positive terminal of the set, and the negative terminal of the battery should be connected to the negative terminal of the set. It is very important that the connections should be made as follows:—The positive terminal of the battery should be connected to the positive terminal of the set, and the negative terminal of the battery should be connected to the negative terminal of the set.

Other Causes. The correct leads look nearly as if they were correct, and the High Tension current and

Next Week. Next week I propose to deal with the various forms of the battery "A," "B" and "C" may be the smallest power flashlight globe available. It will burn out and break the circuit before any damage can be done. This simple precaution is well worth following and may be the means of saving a considerable amount of money. Some receivers are fitted with it, but there were many which are not and I would recommend those having sets to buy one to insert in the smallest small flashlight globe in the High Tension lead as close to the battery as possible.

LISTENERS' QUERIES.

The Crosley Set.

"Aerial" will be glad to answer all queries by mail. They should be addressed to him by "The East African Standard," P.O. Box 241, Nairobi. Replies will be given in this page.

The Crosley Company has now produced a version of its last year on the A.C. mains of the portable used in Nairobi.

EL, Nairobi. Questions—What working very well for some time my receiver has become very difficult to tune. As soon as the signal is applied to any station it begins to make an intermittent popping sound. Can you help me?

By adapting their Super-Heterodyne Circuit, and their patent short-wave tuning coil, loud characters are able to obtain reception from every country in the world.

Unlicensed Listener. I have received information from a reliable source that plans are afoot for ferreting out all licenseless listeners.

The Crosley Company has further announced to overcome the difficulty, mainly experienced with wireless constructors, by which, referred to in our "Crosley" Column, they can now manufacture a complete Crosley set, consisting of their own Gramophone Amplifier, Short Wave Adapter, and the usual Broadcast constant type of receiver.

Next week. Next week I propose to deal with the various forms of the battery "A," "B" and "C" may be the smallest power flashlight globe available. It will burn out and break the circuit before any damage can be done.

The "off" "on" of having to obtain these different types of leads to obtain Gramophone reception, Long Distance, Short Wave reception, is now completely overcome. It is merely necessary to turn on, in order to connect the various coils, necessary for the conversion of Short into Long Wave, and by this simple means the Crosley receiver can receive any programme from any country in the world.

R.W. Nairobi. Questions—How do I tell which my L.T. battery is really exhausted?

NEW EVIDENCE ON MAN'S ANCESTORS.

(Continued from page 1.) Went were seen relative of the two types of African skulls. In the region, a small big, prognathous nose, an anteroposteriorly elongated braincase, and a very large dolichocephalic and the remains of an animal skull.

A Horse's Teeth.

The fossils from Kanjara, however, had a later aspect. All the remains of elephant were of Asiatic or European type. The largest of these was a large pig, distinct from that found at Kanjara. It was a very modern appearance. A horse was remarkable for its comparatively short face.

Homo Sapiens Type.

The Anatomical Committee appointed to report on the findings of the excavations which exhibited a condition consistent with great antiquity and showed that all the fragments should all be assigned to the same type of Homo sapiens. It is not possible to say for certain that the Kanjara remains were concerned, the Committee observed, no characteristic of the type of Homo sapiens in regard to one Kanjara skull. The Committee noted the unusual thickness and other features distinct from the skulls of modern man.

Another Kanjara skull, however possibly a female, was thinner and the Committee prepared to regard both as representative of the Kanjara type, although they remarked upon the possibility of some distortion of the actual specimens in the process of reconstruction.

Significant Claims.

So far as the Kanjara jawbone was concerned, the Committee agreed that the appearance of the specimen was not dissimilar to the high arching jawbone of the first right molar tooth, the Committee were not able to do any detail that was in compatible with its inclusion in the type of the lower jawbone. In view of this conclusion, the Committee had regard to the fact that the Kanjara jawbone was not dissimilar to the teeth showed signs of wear and that Dr. Huxley had been exploring the Mountains of the Moon, the Bismarck Range, between New Guinea and the Solomons, and had discovered the remains of bones and jawbone.

Sir E. Grigg's Appeal on Behalf of Kenya

ADDRESS TO CONSERVATIVE WOMEN'S ASSOCIATION

A Misunderstood People.

PROGRESS RETARDED BY UNCERTAINTY OF IMPERIAL POLICY.

Edward Grigg during the course of an address in England recently to the Conservative Women's Reform Association, made an eloquent appeal on behalf of the country and people of Kenya. Particularly, he urged that it was a matter of some importance that the Englishwomen of England should inform their attitude towards the Englishwomen of Kenya whose problems did not seem to be appreciated by their sisters in England.

He described Kenya as a wonderful country with the finest imperial policy, however, was the cause of great uncertainty, and was always the people never knew where they stood in regard to it.

He added that the economic development of the country was due to the settler, and yet when anything was done to give them an opportunity, assistance in England got up and said it was against native interests. Sir Edward Grigg supported the dual policy that was the cause of the present difficulties in regard to native affairs was due to middle-headed thinking in England.

"Middle-Headed" Thinking.

London, April 5. (By Air Mail.) Sir Edward Grigg said that the other members of the Conservative Women's Reform Association at their recent meeting at their guest which was held at the Phoenix Restaurant, Burgess Road, London, and the Chairman of the Committee of Enquiries was as follows:

As Sir Edward Grigg said that he was delighted to have the opportunity of addressing the members of the Women's Reform Association on the subject of Kenya, and that he had no intention to do so as he considered what was the Association's attitude towards Kenya was a matter of some importance.

THE GOLDFIELDS IN THE CORI RIVER AREA.

known, but the reef indicates an promising as shown in Loganside.
Indeed, the report on the Geological Survey of the Logdorian Area
by A.L.M. F.G.S. Government geologist, in most respects, is well applied to the country west of Logdorian.
In a sense the Cori River is not entirely a new discovery. It has been known for some time, but only recently by Kinyu. Some people will "prefer" to think that it was
"rediscovered" at them.

Actually it has been worked for at least a decade and today operations are in progress by the Kenya
Prospecting Syndicate, under Major Lathbury, Kinross, Prospector, Syndicate, under Mr. Harcourt and Major Webb, as his own mine and Company. Considerable gold has been reported from it. The gold returns are usually quoted by the authorities in two divisions, "free gold" and "dressed" gold. "Free gold" includes Logdorian, but more than half have been no recent returns from Logdorian. All "elsewhere" returns are from the reefs of the Cori River area.

How to Reach the Fields.

The general appearance of the country is rolling granite hills and hurdled hills. There is no road, including outside roads, to the country as a whole. From Kisumu one can be reached from Kisumu by a main road, and the position of crossing the Cori River is at the mouth of the river. However, one will only take a leave. The position is at the charge of railroads who are on duty each day from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Another way to reach the Cori River area is by a main road from the port of Mombasa to Lake Victoria.
Within the road the roads are, including outside roads, in partly due to their being, owing to want. Nevertheless the roads should be regarded as being only really good during the dry season. The road is in a very normal condition—should have been good, and, with a little aid, will be about possible.

provided the necessary capital for the development of the field to the time of his death. After that no further capital was forthcoming for pure development.
Later, however, development was discontinued from the previous and replanting a portion of the already developed area occurred. At the end of 1928 it was obvious that further development was discontinued for the time being.

Mr. Murray Hughes concludes by saying that the map contained in the report "shows the area particularly promising and where useful discoveries may be made.
The streams between the Lake
Victoria Range and the Kenyan River boundary of some detail gold in small quantities, which is all to be expected under the particular weathering conditions; but for all that, apparent plenty they indicate possibilities lying further to the north.

"The country to the east should be carefully prospected one day at least in areas of less than 100 miles north of the main coast and a mile within the straits.

"It is said that gold-bearing ores have been found in granite rocks all over the world in many hundreds of gold-bearing granite. It is true that gold is not found there than southeastern part of the world. It may be standing on granite that extends for some miles round one and still be less than half-tonnes from a contact." The "best" being that which forms the roof and which has been found.

right under the hood the best engine ever made for the job required, called by its name
"Curbion". A new and exclusive Chevrolet feature—the Curbion engine—means it is good and it is balanced, no
more, no less—balanced.
Chevrolet is the low-price delicious that first victory over competitive vibration. Now, exhibiting by itself is not complete.
And the results are nothing less than stunning. Chevrolet's high of 50 miles an hour becomes an easy, comfortable driving speed. You get the same driving at 40 miles an hour and you enjoy it more. Chevrolet is the best way the smoothest, lowest cost you ever had under

LADIES' FASHIONS

A Letter from Paris.

The gown is made with the new fabric that has the influence drawn to the back and graduated into a small train. The bodice is cross-over in front, shows clearly around the figure with a rather high, waisted effect, and divided at the back into two strips which pass through a jewelled buckle at the waist.

New Details.

Most women like to hear about new "details"—and here is a charming one. A gown of soft black satin has the bodice cut like a wrap, and the shoulders, spread out like wide epaulettes, then crossed and tied in a big bow at the back of the high waist-line. Simple but immensely effective. You could vary the effect by using a coat of a different colour, or you could still and have a brooch at the neck.

Another new collar arrangement for a dinner or afternoon gown is the slightly stiffened epaulet of rich brocade or corduroy silk. The signal after the manner of a detachable vestment. The epaulet is fastened close to the throat with a jewelled buckle, and has a cap of deep fanned stuff to match. There is seen to best advantage on a plainly cut frock of soft velvet in very dark brown, wine, violet or green, or black. A flat banding of the same material, with a jewelled brooch, goes well with such bolsters for formal dinner occasions, weddings, and other special occasions.

For Sports.

Attractive little suits are made for sports, motor-ing and walking. A pullover of cream, buff, white, or pale yellow and plain jersey, with a ruffled surface, is made to mould the figure, and a little at the waist, and just covers the hips where again it is closely fitted. It is worn over a pair of trousers or wrap-up shorts, and large buttons. And to complete the suit there is a seven-eighths Fabric suits is still very popular. Here is an afternoon gown in anuberry, having a high neck finished with a loose tie of oyster colored crepe.

blue-satin in a material of the same colour; this fastening in front with big buttons to match those on the sides of the skirt.

If the jersey has a little V-neck, a neck of silk to tone will be needed. If a button-up neck, or one with a long narrow scarf that can be tied in a flat bow or turned over shakings with a pin, no scarf will be necessary.

REMEDIES FOR THE "GREY" SKIN.

According to one of the leading beauty specialists, there is no reason why women should powder their noses so frequently as they seem to find necessary. The skin, she maintains, should be treated in such a way that the velocity of the wind is not so rapid as to dry out the pores. A special pack is made for the women whose skin is predisposed to shininess or combined with it. It is a simple pack, made from milk and almost most mixed to a firm paste, the milk being added drop by drop until the proper consistency is obtained. Apply the paste to the face, and after the short rest is advised before going out for the evening. When you wake up, wash the face with cold water, with a little cold cream, and follow up with a dash of astringent lotion.

If you suffer from enlarged pores that help to create an "unpleasant shine" you should be careful about the vanishing cream you use, for any lot that best tends to increase the trouble. The better plan is to use an antiseptic preparation, one touch of which gives a suggestion of stickiness to which the powder may cling with out entering the pores at all. The stickiness holds at the touch of the powder, but the smooth velvety look remains for several hours. Now massage is useful for encouraging the tissues to function properly. The horizontal lines across the bridge of the nose that tell the forehead tale can be massaged away if taken in good time. Get a rubber roller of the smallest size, and roll it at right angles to the lines for a minute or two each night and morning. They will soon

Three new sleeves. At the top is the modern version of the "leg" pattern; in the center it shows one puffed at the elbow, and at the bottom is one finished off with a deep pointed puff.

CHOCOLATE PUDDING WITH SHERRY SAUCE. Two heaped tablespoonfuls of fine crumbs, three tablespoonfuls of granulated sugar, two ounces butter, two ounces castor sugar, three eggs, half-pint milk, vanilla essence. Beat the butter and sugar to a thick cream, then beat in the yolks of the eggs. Dissolve the chocolate in the milk, stir this into the mixture, and mix with vanilla. Taste, and mix in the bread-crumbs. Beat the egg-whites to a stiff froth and lightly add to the mixture. Beat in a well-greased basin, give with cream-puff paper, place the basin in a pan of boiling water—water should come about halfway up the side of the basin—and the lid on the pan, and steam the pudding for one and a half hours. Serve with Sherry Sauce made thus:—

Mix a wineglassful of sherry with the same quantity of water and a dash of cognac or superior. Bring to boiling point, remove from stove and stir in just enough oyster slightly to thicken the sauce. Boil gently for two or three minutes, stirring all the time.

DEATH. STUART SMITH: AL Government House, Nairobi, on the 29th April, James Stuart Smith, beloved husband of Kathie Stuart Smith, daughter of Sir Joseph and Lady Byron.

THE EAST AFRICAN STANDARD MONDAY, MAY 1, 1933.

The Goldfields Policy. The Secretary of State and the Government of Kenya have both accepted Sir Albert Kitson's proposals for the development of the Kenya goldfields in a Kaituma. The expert proposed division of the remaining territory into five sections. Two of those he suggested reserving for general prospecting and the remaining three for examination and development under the system of restrictive prospecting which Sir Albert Kitson's proposals for the development of the goldfields led to the prospecting and worked. The difficulties regarding mineral land rights, which have now been solved on a basis which need not deprive Africans of their landed possessions except in cases of special difficulty where an ordinary land exchange is impossible, have done to the gold in the unworkable and exaggerated attention intended by the original optimism of Sir Albert Kitson's view. The limited area of Kaituma, so far, has not yielded that optimism. A great deal of money has been spent by prospectors, but not too much for gold, making on a large scale has yet been discovered, the public have been available for consideration of the needs of the province. Kenya to work more rapidly equipped to-day than it was some ago in the distribution of the public's resources required for the goldfield has been established and time has been available for consideration of the needs of the province.
