Salary advance for Nairobi but no bonus

It is to be given by the Kenya Government to legislation in the permanent industrial court the Minister for Labour, Mr. Mwangi yesterday. The Minister, who was addressing an industrial relations conference in Nairobi attended by employers, trade union and Government officials, also announced that the Government would pay a salary bonus to the employees.

Instead of will allow all employees working in Kenya more than 2000 a year to receive a salary advance of 60% in December, to be paid in three instalments in February, March and April. Mr. Mwangi said the Government would also pay a bonus to employees who had worked in the public sector in 1952. The bonus would be 10% of the employee's salary for the year.

Children's belief

He described as "childish" the belief by unions that employers would be punished now as nothing would be forthcoming after Independence, which was questioned on the employers side by the belief that they must start giving something away before Independence as the Government would punish them.

It had been suggested to him that those who opposed the Government were "selling out" the Government. He said that the Government would work with the trade unions to establish a permanent industrial court. Am-i-dent lovely teeth but how will they look when she's twenty?

Loisley Acid Sweets. With lovely taste, but will she have the same lovely smile in twelve years' time? Simon's mouth, like all children's, has bacteria which attack the protective enamel. This causes tooth decay. Brushing with Am-i-dent guards against tooth decay. You see, Am-i-dent—and only Am-i-dent—contains Ion of Ammonium which is specially designed to counteract the harmful acids in Simon's mouth. So keep smiling, Susan. And keep brushing with Am-i-dent.

BRITAIN URGED TO SPEND MORE ON HIGHER EDUCATION

BRITAIN must make a massive expansion of her whole system of higher education, an emergency body of officials report published in London. The recommendations were prepared by Lord Roberts and a ten-member committee.

The report states that the cost of higher education in the United Kingdom is about £1,000 million a year. It says that the government should spend £2,000 million a year on higher education, with £1,000 million for the rest of the country.

AND IGNORANCE IMPEDES THIS WORK

By ALAN BURTON

LAST Saturday there were only 22 cases of blood at all given in stock at the King Albert Hospital, Harare. If an accident had occurred in a maternity ward, this supply would have been exhausted. In fact, this did not happen but it was a dangerous situation for a hospital that in its busy ways a shortage of blood for medical professions.

In an effort to build up the blood supply, the people who had given their names to the Blood Transfusion Service, at various times were asked to give more blood and arrangements were made to do so. Through it is possible to have a blood donor, it is in fact, very hard. This means that the Blood Transfusion Service is having to work hard to get more blood. This means that the Blood Transfusion Service is having to work hard to get more blood. This means that the Blood Transfusion Service is having to work hard to get more blood.

Problem too big

This is really caused in Harare, where a blood centre was set up by the Ministry of Health last month. The staff are doing their best to cope with the problem, but it is a big one. The staff are doing their best to cope with the problem, but it is a big one. The staff are doing their best to cope with the problem, but it is a big one.

Four aims

The four aims are to provide a blood supply to meet the needs of the community, to provide a blood supply to meet the needs of the community, to provide a blood supply to meet the needs of the community, to provide a blood supply to meet the needs of the community.

Dr. G. I. Benge, the officer in charge of the Blood Transfusion Service, is also the acting medical superintendent at the Ministry of Health.

absolutely the necessary in this way. "Essentially we are not creating a real situation about the need for blood, they are down on their knees."

From the moment the "house partners" at the Blood Centre in King George V Hospital were established, the staff were expected to do their best. The staff were expected to do their best. The staff were expected to do their best.

Appealing to people

Another way to appeal to people is to have a blood centre in every town. This is a big one. The staff are doing their best to cope with the problem, but it is a big one. The staff are doing their best to cope with the problem, but it is a big one.

"Go to the Blood Donor Centre at King George V Hospital and get a picture of people giving blood" was the instruction given to the Harare Press Photographers by Mr. Mungai. He could not have been more right. Above, Mr. Mungai is with a group of photographers at the Blood Donor Centre. A group of photographers is with a group of photographers at the Blood Donor Centre.

CENTURY OF HOECHST

Farbwerke Hoechst was founded in 1863. During the hundred years since then, chemistry has made the world a better and more beautiful. People live longer and the soil yields richer crops. The world has become more comfortable and people dress better. In these achievements, Hoechst has played a significant role.

1863-1963

THEN

Paints were a luxury

Until 1860, man had to make do with natural colouring matter. He had to be satisfied with a handful of shades and it was rather difficult to produce fast dyeings. Gay raiments were reserved for the rich.

Life expectation—forty

The average expectation of life in 1863 was about forty years, infant mortality was disastrously high. There were no adequate remedies against infection or pain.

A starving world

In 1900 the world population was around 1,500 million. It was calculated that it would double in less than fifty years. Where was the food for these hungry millions to come from?

Nature's limitations

Our ancestors had available only the materials provided by nature whose application was limited by their inherent shortcomings: iron is heavy, glass breaks, wood rots.

Nature's fibres

In the search for suitable clothing, man used the fibres that he found in nature: wool, cotton, linen and silk. These materials, however, did not fully satisfy modern trends.

NOW

Gay colours for all

The road from the first aniline dyestuffs produced by Farbwerke Hoechst to the wide range of modern dyestuffs encompasses a long and historic chapter of research. Today, gay posters, colourful textiles and bright clothes are an accepted feature of the daily scene.

Life expectation—seventy

Throughout the world, Hoechst pharmaceuticals help to fight infection, to mitigate pain and to maintain health. Many of these preparations have become milestones in the history of medicine.

Fertilisers increase crops

High-grade cultivated plants rob the soil of important nutrients but mineral fertilisers restore the natural balance. Throughout the world, Hoechst fertilisers and plant protection agents increase the yield of the soil.

Plastics—made to measure

Chemistry created new materials tailored to the needs of man and combining them in various arrangements: plastics supplement natural materials and open up new horizons in construction and design. They are strong, durable and do not corrode.

Man-made fibres

Man-made fibres are the result of sustained attempts to rearrange the building components of nature. Chemists provided the new fibres with properties that fulfil the requirements of modern man and thus ideally supplement those of the natural fibres.

The most common use for Mowilith is in the production of PVC products. The use of Mowilith in PVC products is a trend in view of its low softening point, its high tensile strength and its high resistance to the chemical aggressions of many organic solvents in building and construction.

The only source for PVC is Mowilith. Most products are, however, not made of pure Mowilith but of mixtures of that with other plastics. It helps to make them more durable.

One of the applications of Mowilith dispersion and product is in the preparation of mortars. These consist of cement and coarse, fine or even smaller sizes of Paris and sand, are used in the construction of large buildings and bridges as well as in the construction of large buildings.

The main advantages of Mowilith are also evident in the construction of interior and exterior plaster. It facilitates the production of smooth and polished surfaces and is also used for painting. Increases in strength and adhesion of the plastering and protection of these coatings, a defect can only occur with Mowilith could building materials.

Mowilith has also proved highly satisfactory for concrete construction. Thanks to its increased workability, strength and elasticity, it is possible to produce concrete layers of high strength, thus saving both materials and working time.

Like Mowilith, water are in most cases suitable for concrete. This concrete frequently has a Mowilith or Mowilith, and both are also suitable for concrete. It is now, they have usually been laid for several months, but they are still in use.

Once set, it tends to remain brittle, which may result in the steel cracking, loosening or coming off. In the period of curing, it is important to ensure that the mortar workability and elasticity are not improved, so that it is possible to apply it in this form. It is, in fact, the only concrete that is not quite indispensable at these points. It is a highly adhesive concrete.

growing, forestry and ornamental landscaping, as well as for growing tobacco and citrus. Vihars One is suitable with herbicides and herbicides of the low toxicity type, but it is not suitable for use as the most suitable spray application.

A special Hoechst preparation is Mowilith, a selective insecticide. This preparation is used extensively and successfully against many insects of the tobacco, banana, coffee and tea

Hoechst fertilisers help increase farmers' yields

Hoechst has been known as a supplier of numerous fertilisers for many years. In 1940, the company developed its first complete fertiliser in the form of the nitrogenous ammonia citrate. This fertiliser is available in soluble form and about 30 per cent is water soluble. Hoechst plant protective agents, insecticides and fungicides safeguard the working crops. Hoechst Vitamins C and E are highly effective fungicides for combating many diseases which result from fungus in a very wide range of tropical and sub-tropical plants. It is used in fruit growing, viticulture, farming, horticulture, citrus, tobacco, banana, coffee and tea

Visible use

All these are "invisible" applications of Mowilith. Visible use — although the name Mowilith does not figure on it — is the application of Mowilith dispersion in interior and exterior painting.

Public health is protected from the use of Mowilith dispersion in interior and exterior painting. The use of Mowilith dispersion in interior and exterior painting is not only aesthetically pleasing but also provides a high degree of protection against bacteria, fungi, and insects.

Special use

Trevira high-tensile yarn has been developed for technical purposes and comes in various covers, textures and industrial fabric and is manufactured from it. This specific application of Trevira has not yet been known.

In 1963 Hoechst-Farmerwerk GmbH, a joint enterprise between the Calsonic Corporation of America and Hoechst, has announced the production of a new synthetic fibre which is to be marketed throughout Europe under the trade name of Trevira.

This new-looking, clean, light-weight and therefore ideal for the East African climates, is made from a mixture of Trevira, the fibre developed by Hoechst, and wool.

Plastic pipes help ease the problems about water

When it comes to joining long lengths of plastic pipe the work is elementary itself because of the toughness and ease of handling.

PRODUCT THAT IS AN AID TO BETTER LIVING

FRIGEN is one of the products of Farbwerke Hoechst AG. Its rise has been spectacular and continuous. The Frigen products are a group of fluorinated compounds of hydrocarbons, mainly derivatives of methane or ethane. They were formerly known as Freon. Frigen is non-inflammable, free from odour and non-toxic. It does not irritate the mucous membranes and respiratory organs, nor does it form explosive mixtures. Therefore Frigen provides a degree of safety not achieved by the most refrigerants such as ammonia, sulphur dioxide or methyl chloride. In fact, the maximum quantity of domestic refrigerators of all types would hardly have been possible without Frigen.

Heat pumps
Frigen is also a refrigerant for the so-called heat pumps. The low boiling point, for example, extract heat from the soil by means of a fluid in the pipe of the refrigerator. This fluid is then pumped to the heating radiators by means of a pump, evaporator and the appropriate condenser.

The amount of electric energy required for such a heat pump is therefore only a fraction of that required for the direct conversion of electricity into heat. Such plants may also be arranged so that they are available for heating in winter and cooling in summer.

An air-conditioning plant is one which permits heating or cooling of air. Its partial load capacity, refrigerant placement and regulation is the "Bundling". Some times the plant only cool the air and partly reduce it in heat.

ONE of Europe's largest companies and a leader in its field have, in collaboration with a Government agency, been busy for some time in laying out a long pipeline of plastic pipe to carry water to 20 miles south and east of Nairobi. The project has been carried out by Hoechst's East African subsidiary, Hoechst East Africa (Pvt.) Ltd. The work is being supervised by a team of engineers from the Hoechst works in Frankfurt, Germany. The pipe is being laid in a trench about 1.5 metres deep. The pipe is made of polyethylene and is 100 mm in diameter. It is being laid in a trench about 1.5 metres deep. The pipe is made of polyethylene and is 100 mm in diameter. Key to economy
The managing director of Hoechst East Africa (Pvt.) Ltd., Mr. A. B. Eddings, said that the use of plastic pipe is a key to economy. The pipe is being laid in a trench about 1.5 metres deep. The pipe is made of polyethylene and is 100 mm in diameter. It is being laid in a trench about 1.5 metres deep. The pipe is made of polyethylene and is 100 mm in diameter. The machine which is used in the laying of the pipe is a special machine which is used in the laying of the pipe. It is a special machine which is used in the laying of the pipe. It is a special machine which is used in the laying of the pipe.

As the worker slices a narrow groove through the pipe, the pipe is guided by hand into pieces. The flexibility of these pipes makes laying a simple operation.

FUTURE SAFEGUARD FROM RESEARCH

A LARGE chemical factory like Hoechst cannot prosper without constant research in the laboratory that new products are developed and that the future is safeguarded. The swiftly changing needs of mankind call for a constant stream of new products. The Hoechst laboratories are equipped on a scale matched by few elsewhere in the world. ROLLS-ROYCE

WING, he staved down at the village, a small but wiry man, astride a good horse. He raised his hand, and 600 picked up their arms and followed him. He was dressed in a leather bytan village, but he was a gentleman in all respects by skill and personality in the village. The simple form called Tala hairy was so given a town.

The presence of Arabish had some other villages that had come by now what he must expect, he had been a man of a still in the wake of the retreating army.

And again, and the column moved slowly to open, sure enough, they saw slumped across the stately familiar red-and-white scars.

A slight sensitive Englishman, just 25 years old. Yet he was king of the Arab world. He was a legend in every bazaar.

It would have followed the "Arab" way, for his personal example. What kind of man was this who had already had a degree through the Turkish train? They were captured and killed by the woman whom he met several weeks ago. There was 220,000 in Turkish gold on the captured bank account.

THE WEEK IN EAST AFRICA

Violence in East African Provinces

Reports of violence in East African provinces are continuing to pour in from the regions. The situation is becoming more and more serious, especially in the north-eastern part of the continent. The Government has taken steps to deal with the situation, but the violence is continuing to spread. The people of the region are suffering, and the Government is doing its best to help them.

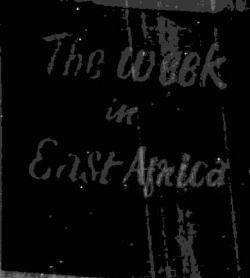

Comings and goings in capital

There were no outstanding stories to highlight the week in Tanganyika but for all that there was considerable activity - Dr Banda passed through Dar es Salaam on his way home from the United States, another South African visitor arrived, a Dar couple returned from leave with a tale of the situation in South Africa.

The referee was Mr. Kenneth Anderson, sent on from Dar es Salaam to see a mental hospital on his way home from the United States. Anderson visited the mental hospital in Dar es Salaam, and he found it to be a very good one. Anderson also visited the National Congress of the South African people, and he found it to be a very good one. Anderson also visited the National Congress of the South African people, and he found it to be a very good one.

Facing crisis

Mr. Anderson said he was happy to be in Dar es Salaam, and he found it to be a very good one. U.S. VISITOR OFFERS ADVICE TO ASIAN BUSINESSMEN

MEMBERS of the Indian community who had accumulated considerable wealth might consider that their next step was to move into small industries and commerce in the United States.

Mr. G. R. Threlkoff, president of the Indian Chamber of Commerce in Nairobi, yesterday advised a group of Indian businessmen who had come to the United States to study the possibilities of doing business in this country.

Mr. Threlkoff, who is president of a firm of international business men, referred to the chamber, as a "special group which has done a remarkable and honorable thing."

He gave an account of the structure of small corporations in the United States, and advised the businessmen to study the possibilities of doing business in this country.

Mr. Threlkoff said that a small business is a business which is not dependent on a large number of employees, and that it is a business which is not dependent on a large number of employees.

Six ways to the scientific 'brain drain'

A PROPOSAL that has been advanced to the United States to bring over to this country a large number of foreign-born scientists in an effort to speed up the nation's development has been approved by the Federal Science Board. The board has decided to set up a "National Academy of Sciences" to study the problem of attracting to this country high caliber scientists from other countries.

The board also proposed that the Federal Science Board should set up a "National Academy of Sciences" to study the problem of attracting to this country high caliber scientists from other countries.

TOIL AND TROUBLE FOR THE WITCHES

At midnight last night a Halloween "trick" was played on the streets of New York City. The "trick" was a parade of "witches" in costumes that were designed to look like the creatures of the night.

The parade was organized by the "Witches' Club" of New York City. The club is a group of women who are interested in the occult and the supernatural.

The parade took place in the city of New York and was a great success. The "witches" were dressed in costumes that were designed to look like the creatures of the night. The parade was a great success and the "witches" were very popular.

Serious problem

The trouble is that some of the country's best scientists are leaving the country for other countries. This is a serious problem for the United States and it is one that must be solved.

The problem is caused by a number of factors. One of the main factors is the fact that other countries are offering higher salaries and better working conditions than the United States. Another factor is the fact that other countries are offering better opportunities for research and development.

IN CANADIANS

Canada's population is growing rapidly. This is a good thing for the country and it is one that must be managed carefully.

The Canadian government has a number of programs in place to manage the growth of the population. One of these programs is the "National Population Council," which was set up in 1971.

The council is responsible for studying the problem of population growth and for recommending ways to deal with it. The council has a number of members, including scientists, economists, and other experts.

LEADER GOES TO COURT AS RIOTS GRIP BULAWAYO

A political leader has been taken to court in Bulawayo, Southern Rhodesia, in a series of riots sparked by a court decision. The leader, Mr. G. M. Mbete, was arrested on charges of煽动 a seditious statement. He is now in custody.

The riots in Bulawayo were the result of a court decision that allowed Mr. Mbete to return to the country. He had previously been expelled from the country on charges of sedition.

The court decision was a victory for Mr. Mbete and his supporters. They had been demanding his return to the country for some time. The riots were a sign of the anger of the people of Bulawayo.

War lingers in Yemen

The war in Yemen continues to rage. The fighting is still going on and there is no sign of a truce. The conflict is causing a lot of suffering and death.

The war in Yemen is a result of a power struggle between different groups of people. The fighting is very intense and it is causing a lot of destruction.

The conflict in Yemen is a sad example of what can happen when different groups of people are fighting for power. It is a tragedy for the people of Yemen.

Signal

New toothpaste with a mouth wash in the stripes

Outdates all other toothpastes. Only Signal gives you shining white teeth and a whole mouth pure.

Any good toothpaste will clean your teeth. But new SIGNAL does so much more!

Each of the five pink stripes in SIGNAL toothpaste contains Hexachlorophene, the famous antiseptic widely used by the medical profession.

While SIGNAL's rich, creamy foam reaches one and a half inches of your mouth, it also reaches the back of your throat.

It was especially designed to protect you from the danger of throat infection.

Endocil makes this promise: your skin can be young again—and you will see it happen!

The Endocil always and your skin will stay young. It is possible! Yes, it is—with Endocil. Hormones—endocrine glands—produce dry, tight, scaly skin, stimulating the cells to recede, produce wrinkles which show when you open your skin in the morning. The Endocil each night for 3 weeks, and you will see it happen.

Just Endocil each night... this is the Endocil treatment. Smooth Endocil generously over face and neck, allow gently to dry, sit quietly around eye and mouth. Wipe you sleep. Endocil penetrates deeply, filling out top layer, banishing dryness. You can keep your skin young, always, with Endocil.

DEATH AND THEN...?
 It is a horrible thing to die. But what happens after you die? Is there a life after death? Is there a heaven? Is there a hell? These are the questions that many people ask. But the answer is simple. There is a life after death. There is a heaven. There is a hell. And the only way to get to heaven is to live a good life on earth.

HOW ARCHITECT OVERCOMES THE DESIGN POSER

By GEORGE VAMOS, the architect who designed the new Sikh Temple of the Sri Guru Singh Sabha, Nairobi.

WHEN an architect is faced with the problem of designing a religious building in our times, a strong and irresolvable conflict arises — that is the special controversy between traditional versus the modernist in architecture.

Most religions, whatever their origin, are concerned with the sacred. In fact, in fact, these religions have tried to find ways to express their feelings. The modernist architect, however, is not concerned with the sacred. He is concerned with the building as a building. He is concerned with the building as a building.

There are only two ways in which a modernist architect can express his feelings. He can express his feelings by using traditional forms. He can express his feelings by using traditional forms.

All congress men share

WHENEVER and wherever a Sikh temple is designed a full provision is invariably made for a suitably equipped kitchen for the cooking and serving of food for the entire congregation and more.

Here, then, is a feature, unique in the world, in which the preparation and eating of food on a communal basis is an essential part of the religious practice.

It has been usual for a long time for Sikhs of major importance in India to provide their dining partners with food from their own tables.

The Sikh Gurus, however, extended and elaborated this system out of all recognition. Firstly, the food became available to everybody regardless of whether he or she was a follower in the Guru's sect.

Secondly, however, whilst the preparation of food was done in the kitchen, the eating of it was done in the dining hall.

Concern over soda firm

No comment was available yesterday from the Imperial Chemical Industries on the future of its subsidiary, the Masugi Soda Co., threatened by the proposed ban by the Kenya Government on imports of South African soda.

In the light of these figures it is likely that Masugi is unlikely to have any prospects in the Masugi Soda Co. The Masugi Soda Co. is a subsidiary of ICI, which has been set up to produce soda ash for Masugi.

AFRICAN GROUP TO BREAK OFF TALKS

THE African States in the United Nations have decided to break the issue of Portugal's territories in Africa to the Security Council rather than receive direct talks with the Lisbon Government, the foreign sources said in New York.

The main reason for this was the African refusal to accept a Portuguese initiative of direct negotiations for the territories of Angola, Mozambique and Portuguese Guinea the sources said.

The decision was to transfer the issue which began in New York last month under the auspices of the Secretary-General. It then was taken at a private meeting of the 22 African African group.

In a report to the Security Council made in October 1961, Portugal said better talks on the subject would be held in the near future.

Another factor in the decision was the African refusal to accept a Portuguese initiative of direct negotiations for the territories of Angola, Mozambique and Portuguese Guinea the sources said.

EXTENSION TO POWER SUPPLY

Standard Correspondent

A BRIGHTER New Year for Bulbuka district is forecast by the manager of the Tanganyika Electricity Supply Company for the West Lake Region, Mr. Gibson.

The electricity supply will be increased to cover a three-mile radius and the new secondary and tertiary residences at present under construction at Mbingani have been wired.

Electricity will be extended over the Magway Government which at present has its own power supply which has proved inadequate.

Installations are in progress for electricity supply to the Government of the Province of Mwanza. The Province was established last year at Wankwani Secondary School in 1964. A further extension of electricity to Kalambo District, Sidaoni and Mwanza have been made by Kalambo District.

BRITONS CARE FOR OTHERS

BRITONS had a stronger sense of duty to their neighbors than any other people in the world, Dr. Arthur Loshman Goodhart, retiring president of the Protestants' Association for World Safety, said in London.

One example was the British spirit in which the line was kept although there was no prospect of a successful outcome. Another was a British concern for the lives of the enemy.

Dr. Goodhart, who is Master of University College, Oxford, said that this was some of the things that made the British people great in a modern sense.

The 'great tradition' was something that had been passed on to the British people and it was something that had been passed on to the British people.

President of Egypt for Ethiopia

President Nasser has accepted an invitation from Emperor Haile Selassie to visit Ethiopia, according to a joint communiqué issued after the two leaders ended their talks in Cairo.

The communiqué said President Nasser 'commended the "honest efforts" of the Emperor and President Kefauzy of Eritrea for the Algerian-Mozambique border dispute and showed his support for the Eritrean cease-fire agreement.

The two leaders urged that the Council of Ministers of the African Organisation of Unity meet as soon as possible to reaffirm the agreement.

They believed that the proposed conference of Heads of African States due to be held next June would strengthen the ties of African States and would help to eliminate the remnants of imperialism in Africa and the apartheid policy of South Africa, the communiqué added.

The communiqué added that the two leaders urged that the Council of Ministers of the African Organisation of Unity meet as soon as possible to reaffirm the agreement.

HEAT Where heat is needed - Shell Afrigas

Industry needs heat, Shell Afrigas provides it, in hundreds of industries. Take Glass Blowing - the expert needs heat of varying temperatures and intensity to enable him to bend and mould glass tubing into the intricate shapes that spell out words and designs for neon signs. Afrigas supplies that heat and by the regulation of gas and air flow, just the right temperatures are gained to soften the glass without melting or cracking it.

AFRIGAS IS VERSATILE
Heat is needed in industry as well as at the home. So a Shell Afrigas, in the shape of a burner, becomes fast Afrigas fast, convenient and cheap to use. So in hospitals, dentists, car repairers, spray painters, smokers... wherever heat is needed, there's a job for Afrigas. In industry also, there are thousands of uses for Shell Afrigas.

AFRIGAS OFFERS INDUSTRY
Free estimates for installations and operating costs. Free advice by experienced engineers on any industrial heating problem. And a thorough, rapid after-sales service. Shell Afrigas offers industry a further unique advantage: you can now have a new gas supply installed - or several - installed at once. Only Afrigas provides this high supply.

IMPROVING STANDARDS IN AGRICULTURE

By Dr. F. R. SOGH, the State Institute Officer in the Department of Agriculture.

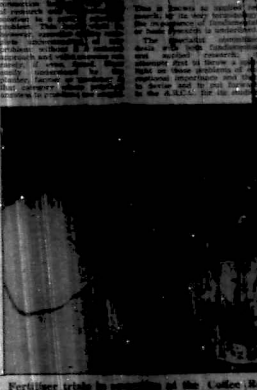

It is the duty of the State Institute of Agriculture to improve the standards of the agricultural profession in the Department of Agriculture. This is done by the appointment of a committee to study the standards of the various branches of the profession and to report to the Department of Agriculture.

Title changed

In 1928 the title of the committee was changed to its present one for the purpose of extending the scope to include plant pathology and more recently, entomology and agronomy. It now has as its chief function to advise the Agricultural Research Commission (A.R.C.) of the state and future needs of agricultural research in those branches. It serves two other very important needs. First, it is the only official agency in which research workers from all parts of East Africa and elsewhere in the University and elsewhere in the country are brought in contact in a certain way. It is the only official agency where they can define in their own words the nature and scope of their work. Secondly, it provides a meeting place for the various branches of the profession. The importance of this and how it is achieved, its value to a man who is not a member of the profession, its value to a man who is a member of the profession, is obvious.

MURDER'S IN THE AIR AGAIN AT DONOVAN MAULE

ONCE again murder is in the air at the Donovan Maule Theatre which Agatha Christie's 'Dial' for Murder opens on Wednesday night. With a writer as prolific as Miss Christie it is perhaps not surprising that one of her plays should be as gripping as the theatre is an arena for dramatic art.

The story was first produced in the Radio Theatre in the fall of 1938. It is a mystery which is as gripping as any of the author's previous work. It is a story of a woman who is accused of murder and who must clear her name.

REINFORCEMENT

Another Maule came and added to the list of plays of the theatre. It is a play by the author's husband, who is a writer as prolific as his wife. It is a story of a woman who is accused of murder and who must clear her name.

On the technical side, the theatre is well equipped. The stage is large and the lighting is excellent. The orchestra is also well equipped.

PARTY NIGHT

Maule's Donovan Maule is always held on Thursdays. The theatre is well equipped and the lighting is excellent. The orchestra is also well equipped.

Ford's sporty four-door Cortina, which is soon to be manufactured in volume for Australian and overseas markets, has a 161-horsepower, 1300 cc. engine which develops 142 brake horsepower. It has heavy-duty front and rear and a four-speed gear box with gear-change slings.

HINTS FOR THE CAREFUL DRIVERS

Australian car manufacturers are proud of the reliability built into their vehicles—the result of many thousands of miles of rigorous testing under rugged conditions.

This reliability can be maintained by careful attention to servicing, and the following hints should help drivers to get the most out of their Australian cars.

Check the owner's manual. It is the owner's manual that contains the most important information about the car. It tells you how to operate the car, what to do in case of an emergency, and how to maintain the car. It is the owner's manual that should be read and re-read.

Check the oil. The oil level should be checked at least once a week, and before every long drive. The oil should be changed at the intervals specified in the owner's manual.

Check the tires. The tires should be checked for wear and inflation at least once a week. The tires should be inflated to the correct pressure.

Check the brakes. The brakes should be checked for wear and adjustment at least once a month. The brake pads and shoes should be replaced when they are worn.

Check the lights. The lights should be checked for proper operation at least once a month. The bulbs should be replaced when they are burned out.

Check the water pump. The water pump should be checked for proper operation at least once a month. The water pump should be replaced when it is worn.

Check the battery. The battery should be checked for proper operation at least once a month. The battery should be recharged when it is discharged.

Check the starter. The starter should be checked for proper operation at least once a month. The starter should be replaced when it is worn.

workshop. It will be useful for noting and making adjustments in a scheduled manner. Drivers and owners who are difficult to please should be advised that the car should be designed for this purpose, allowing time for it to be checked.

Extra service can be obtained by inserting a piece of paper into the end of the document. This will serve as a record of the car's condition at the time of the check. This record should be kept in the car, and a copy should be given to the driver when the car is used to make a journey.

Air lock

Most "modern" engine defects—bad starting, engine lack of performance, overheating, etc.—are due to air leaks at the carburetor, pump, which has become worse when things have been over-tightened.

When tightening a carburetor or pump, do not use too much force. The pump should be tightened just enough to stop it from leaking. The pump should be checked for proper operation at least once a month.

Record for new vehicles

A record should be kept of the car's condition at the time of the check. This record should be kept in the car, and a copy should be given to the driver when the car is used to make a journey.

Check the oil. The oil level should be checked at least once a week, and before every long drive. The oil should be changed at the intervals specified in the owner's manual.

Check the tires. The tires should be checked for wear and inflation at least once a week. The tires should be inflated to the correct pressure.

Check the water pump. The water pump should be checked for proper operation at least once a month. The water pump should be replaced when it is worn.

Check the battery. The battery should be checked for proper operation at least once a month. The battery should be recharged when it is discharged.

Check the starter. The starter should be checked for proper operation at least once a month. The starter should be replaced when it is worn.

Increasing Australian content

When the Victoria Park (Melbourne) plant adds further expansion, the vehicle content of the Ford Falcon will be increased to 90 per cent.

The Falcon is now 75 per cent Australian made. This is due to the fact that the Falcon is now being produced in Australia.

Record for new vehicles

A record should be kept of the car's condition at the time of the check. This record should be kept in the car, and a copy should be given to the driver when the car is used to make a journey.

Check the oil. The oil level should be checked at least once a week, and before every long drive. The oil should be changed at the intervals specified in the owner's manual.

A gripping account of that 'different' war

By HENRY WATKINS

Copyright by LEONARD MOSLEY, Washington and London, 1931

IN a small house, not far from the banks of the Elbe at Hamburg, Alfred lives today a legendary figure from the pages of military history. He was one of the greatest guerrilla fighters of all time. With a small band of men he outwitted a mighty army, even spear-heading Jan Smuts himself.

At the age of 24, Gen. Von Luttwik-Vorbeck, as he was known, was the youngest general in the German army. He had fought in the Balkans and in the East. His book, "The Art of War," is a masterpiece of military strategy. It is a study of the tactics of the great commanders of all time. It is a study of the art of war, as it has been fought through the centuries. It is a study of the art of war, as it has been fought through the centuries. It is a study of the art of war, as it has been fought through the centuries.

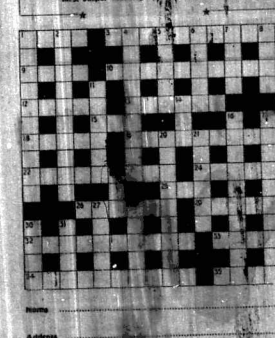

The result is a gripping account of a "different" kind of war — a war where the fighter is not a soldier, but a guerrilla. It is a war where the fighter is not a soldier, but a guerrilla. It is a war where the fighter is not a soldier, but a guerrilla. It is a war where the fighter is not a soldier, but a guerrilla. It is a war where the fighter is not a soldier, but a guerrilla.
