RAILWAYS P.R.O. likely choice for U.K. post

THREE weeks ago in this column I ventured to predict that Kenya's present Public Relations Officer in London, Mr. Ernest N. N. would become Kenya's P.R.O. His appointment to the post was confirmed by the Kenya Government yesterday (see Page 1). Now I venture to suggest that Mr. Robertson's successor should be Mr. M. H. Archer.

Mr. Malcolm Archer is a well-known public relations officer in Kenya. He has been working for the Kenya Government for many years.

MAENDELEO' NEEDS TO BE RE-FORMED AS INDEPENDENT BODY

By MUTIMBI LUKIMANI

Recently a meeting was held to discuss ways of removing the Mandeleo from Government control and re-forming it as a new and strong independent organisation for African women. This is a project about which I feel very strongly, and I would like to give some of my personal views, though they may not necessarily represent the views of all the members.

The ideas which brought this meeting about are, in my opinion, right, and it is a pity that they have not been given more publicity. But the time has come now when it is to be of real value, and help women to play their part in their own country's affairs.

We must make women's organisations in Kenya and in all other parts of our country's affairs. We must make women's organisations in Kenya and in all other parts of our country's affairs. We must make women's organisations in Kenya and in all other parts of our country's affairs.

MAINLY FOR WOMEN

development is just what it needs to help the community as a whole. It is not only the women who are to be benefited, but the whole community.

These associations have performed a very useful service in Kenya, and we should not forget them as we consider the future of our country. The services they do for us are many and varied, and it is not only the women who are to be benefited, but the whole community.

Every family, including men, women and children, should be the object of the department's work, and they should not be regarded as a separate entity. The member is a member of Mandeleo, not of any other organisation. Also, the women's movement is not a movement for women only, but a movement for the whole community.

MR. R. G. NGALA (Kisumu District)

Mr. Ngala, Kisumu, as a party leader of Kenya, is covered by Kadu's policy. I hope my constituents will be able to improve the standard of living of the majority of the country's inhabitants - mainly the millions of Africans.

MR. J. M. NYAGAH (Kiambu District)

Mr. Nyagah, Kiambu, is covered by Kadu's policy. I hope my constituents will be able to improve the standard of living of the majority of the country's inhabitants - mainly the millions of Africans.

I want people to be clean and healthy. They must be able to grow their crops throughout the year and have sufficient water for their stock. Better farming methods can enhance the productivity of the soil and enrich the peasants. I will strongly encourage people to work, assist to produce, to form co-operatives and understand co-operation between the Agricultural Dept. and the peasants in order to avoid fines and other hardships. Factories based on agricultural products must be set up to provide employment and raise the economy of the people. I will ensure that the district has secondary schools before the end of 1965 and will give special facilities.

Christ and sub-urban roads erected by the people themselves will be a great help. I will ensure that the district has secondary schools before the end of 1965 and will give special facilities.

The urgency of the problem in front of us impels us to get on with what is right - within our means - and to put away any old arguments as to who is right. Let those "double-thinkers" who are afraid of the future sell out now and leave us to plan our own future without interference, incessant moanings and cries of "wail".

Good relations

As regards Jomo Kenyatta, I should be condemned for not immediately so that he can join in the most exciting task of the house-building in Kenya. There should be plans for the establishment of good public relations with the Government, respect for law and order and honest and responsible service.

WATER TRES PASS! MEN OF THE WORLD GET MORE MILES PER TYRE ON FIRESTONE RUBBER-X

The new FIRESTONE RUBBER-X tread is of special wear-resisting composition that gives much longer tyre mileage. It's the longest wearing tread rubber ever used in Firestone Tyres. Laboratory tests in Firestone's multi-million dollar research centre in Akron, Ohio, U.S.A. have proved that FIRESTONE RUBBER-X resists damage due to heat, cracking, ageing and abrasion. The result: car owners and transport operators all over the world are getting more miles per tyre at the lowest cost per mile in tyre history.

Change of attitude warning
 In Tanganyika, authority papers were warned by the Minister for the Home Affairs to be on their guard against any change of attitude towards the Government of Tanganyika.

The Minister said that the Government of Tanganyika was determined to continue its policy of self-government and independence.

Warning voice from London
 VERY many statements are published in British newspapers (and others all over the world) from politicians and leader writers wishing to advance the individual interests of Kenya's white.

It is not possible to read these statements without being struck by the fact that they are all based on a common assumption: that the interests of the white population of Kenya are the same as the interests of the British Empire.

Expatriate staff aid by Britain

Standard Staff Reporter Kampala. UGANDA Government White Paper, published today, says that the British Government has offered to pay more than £2,000,000 a year towards the Protectorate's staff for expatriate staff.

The figure is based on the salary rates fixed by the Fleming Commission and authorised by the Uganda Legislative Council. It will be revised if the Uganda Government negotiate a five-year agreement with Britain to regulate the offer.

The White Paper says that if an agreement is signed, the Government will in future be financially responsible for the basic salaries of expatriate staff. It will be relieved of the cost of the education expenses which they receive, of half the cost of their appointments, leave and retirement, and also of the cost of their pensions and gratuities. It is stated that if financial aid is to be obtained from Britain, a Bill will be introduced later—April 1, next—an agreement to be signed before then.

Under this, the Uganda Government proposes to the Legislative Council's approval for signing an agreement with Britain during February. If approval is given, a Bill will be introduced later to validate the agreement.

Staff reductions

The White Paper says Britain proposes that the number of expatriate staff after self-government, lasting for five years from April 1, next, in accepting the Uganda Government says it wants to retain the staff but that there is no intention to go on as a separate staff. On the contrary, it intends to reduce the number of expatriate staff as rapidly as qualified local staff become available.

An assurance is given that neither the British nor the Uganda Government will allow the introduction of legislation that is necessary to deprive expatriate staff of the interests of good "value" of the service. "If an agreement is signed, the White Paper says, the British Majesty's Government," the White Paper

ELIASSA LISSONIS IS FOUND DEAD

LISSA, the famous Ugandan lioness who is the heroine of the book Born Free, is dead.

Five years old this month, Elissa was one of the most celebrated lionesses of all time, thanks to Mrs. Joy Adamson's best-selling book which has topped the publishers' lists both in Britain and America.

In the past year thousands have delighted in the story of the cubs, a few days old when found, which grew up in the care of Mrs. Adamson and her husband, minor game warden for the Northern Province, and eventually returned to the wild.

As she had been born in Elima, she died in the same place. Her death was due, it is believed, to an infection. Mrs. Adamson is in Nairobi, Kenya Department in Nairobi, Kenya, where her husband has occurred early this week.

U.N. FACES BIGGEST TEST

WITH more than 1,000 U.N.A.R. and Guinea troops ready to leave the Congo this weekend, the United Nations authorities in the Congo face the difficult task of finding replacements for the risk of a serious withdrawal in its seven-month Congo operation.

Mauco's contingent of 2,000 soldiers and a crash group of paratroopers are being sent to replace them.

Mauco's sources in Leopoldville said yesterday that Mauco had been asked to give up his units for the Congo operation. He is reported to have refused and to have asked for more troops to replace them.

There were no reports either from Leopoldville, capital of the Congo, or from the Congo, of any evacuation of Europeans going under way.

Talented team behind sponsored productions

HIGH FIDELITY PRODUCTIONS LTD. retain a string of artists, all of established popularity in East Africa, who appear in its productions as well as in the live shows organised by the sales promotion consultancy originally started by Mr. Peter Colmore; and now combined in the new venture.

The best known of these touring shows is probably the Aspro Show which has an all-African cast of comedians, musicians and singers. Another is the Beta Show with dances and other functions in addition to its public performances. Probably the best known solo performer is Edward Masego, singer and guitarist, who now becomes a director of the new company.

WIDE RANGE

Born in Elizabethville in the former Belgian Congo, Masego learned to play the guitar from his own hand and is now a well-known performer in Kenya where he met Colmore.

The first year he returned to the Congo to work in association with Mr. Colmore and they have been together ever since.

Mr. Masego, in addition to producing and selling African records, also appears in many of them himself, singing, playing and composing.

He also writes many of the lyrics for "spot" advertisements.

Another solo performer retained by the company is Kipanga, who was a Nairobi radio driver until Mr. Colmore introduced him to the radio business.

Most of these performers have been closely associated with Mr. Colmore the many years.

VARIED EXPERIENCE IN ENTERTAINMENT

THE production director of High Fidelity Productions Ltd., Mr. Peter Colmore, has been closely connected with the East African entertainment world for many years, and, in particular, with entertainment aimed at African audiences.

He came to Kenya more than 20 years ago as traffic controller with an air-charter company. During those years he served in the African theatre services in Ethiopia and Somaliland.

His first connection with entertainment was as an agent in connection with the company's advertisement unit. He then returned to Kenya and set up a radio station which became the first African radio station in the territory.

At the end of the war he gathered these African entertainers together and formed his own dance band which became the most popular jazz orchestra in the territory.

TOURED COLONY

In 1962 Mr. Colmore was invited by the Kenya Government to take over the programme director and sales promotion director of the East African Broadcasting Corporation. In addition, he formed an African entertainment unit to tour the Colony, particularly the areas affected by Mau Mau and this unit played a part in the Mau Mau trials. He was also involved in the Mau Mau trials, particularly in the Mau Mau trials.

It was also while touring the area that he met Mr. Masego, who was a Nairobi radio driver until Mr. Colmore introduced him to the radio business.

SALES SERVICE

Mr. Michael Orme, the company's executive director, first came to East Africa in 1960 to handle the sales and marketing of records. He was also involved in the Mau Mau trials, particularly in the Mau Mau trials.

Later, he was appointed manager of East Africa Records Ltd., where he gained experience of commercial broadcasting when it first started in Kenya, and he was also involved in the Mau Mau trials, particularly in the Mau Mau trials.

RUNS GALORE END NIGHT CRICKET FESTIVAL CRICKET

Narrow verdict but Police through

KENYA POLICE reached the final of the Kenya Cup by winning both matches in their group—but they were fully extended by the Europeans at the Nairobi Hockey Stadium on Saturday when Police won 4-3.

Europeans played a strong game and looked a much fiercer side even though four Olympic players were included in the Police ranks. On the run of play, Europeans certainly deserved a draw if not a win.

The Kenyan forward line was headed by the wingers Bennett and Taylor who were well served by the centre-forward, Restored lead.

Stop your habit of becoming a habit rabbit

EVERYONE knows the irritation that can be suffered by using their hands to talk. Some even scratch their ears or wipe their noses with the locks of their hands when they are observed in thought, while others madden the people around them by nervously flipping legs and forth when they are seated and trying to concentrate on what they are doing.

There are thousands of such habits, many of which make up a large percentage of the bad habits which delight our personal and professional enemies.

It is not a bad thing, then, to be free of such habits, and it is not a bad thing to be free of such habits as "habit rabbit", "leg flipper" and "mouth chomper".

We all possess our own personal habits, and it is in fact more than any other which makes up a large part of our individuality. If you are free of such habits, you are free of the irritation that can be suffered by using them.

It is not a bad thing, then, to be free of such habits, and it is not a bad thing to be free of such habits as "habit rabbit", "leg flipper" and "mouth chomper".

Rhodesians will return in 1962

As the Coppel players left for home yesterday their captain, Mr. Coppel, told the East African Standard reporter: "Nairobi will be seeing us again next year."

"We've had a good time both at the field and this is definitely going to be an annual trip for us. The cricket in their debut at the cricket ground was very good with a wealth of hospitality."

"Kerry people just couldn't do enough for us and we only think there was some who could repay them."

TERMITE TROUBLE?

It's not just a matter of exterminating old termite infestations, but also of preventing new ones from starting. To be sure, the use of the most modern termite repellents is essential. But the real trouble comes when the termite repellents are not used. The result is a termite infestation that is almost impossible to control.

WITHOUT THOUGHT

Firstly, it helps if one understands the mechanisms of habits. Firstly, they are not actions which are carried out mechanically and without any thought.

Secondly, the nervous impulses which carry the signal from the brain to the muscles are not carried out in a straight line. They are carried out in a zig-zag line, and it is this zig-zag line which carries the signal to the muscles.

HELPERS BRAIN

But today the answer can be given under a brand of thought, simply because the brain is not a muscle. It is a muscle which gives us the power to think, and it is this power which gives us the power to think.

Water for Wild Animals

DAILY the death toll rises among wild animals because of the drought which is still in the worst in Kenya since 1953. Emergency measures must be introduced to help them suffering from thirst and protect them from starvation and disease.

Children and growing-up animals are particularly at risk. In Africa, veterinary medicine is still in its infancy and the lack of modern equipment and supplies is a serious problem.

For these young herbivores the main source of water is the natural water holes and streams in the area. The present drought is severely reducing the amount of water available.

One of the main problems is the lack of water in the areas where the animals are concentrated. The water holes are drying up and the animals are suffering from thirst.

It is hoped that the Government will take steps to provide water for the animals. This could be done by digging wells and installing pumps.

Water is essential for the survival of the animals. Without it, they will die. It is a tragedy that is taking place in many parts of Kenya.

The drought is a disaster for the animals. It is causing them to starve and die. The Government must act quickly to help them.

New scheme for increasing water supply to Nairobi

KIMAKIA SITE NOT SUITABLE

Water City Council's Works Committee has reported by Mr. Hugh Dixon, representing the Council's consulting engineer, that the long-term plan for Nairobi's water supply is not a "master plan for water" revises the scheme outlined in June. The main difference was that it was proposed on the Kimakia site has been abandoned in favour of a new dam in the Chania River.

The new scheme for the change is that a more detailed study of the Kimakia area shows that the dam site proposed by the Kenya Survey maps is not suitable for a dam.

Water diversion It was also approved to augment Nairobi's water supply by increasing the raising of water from 2.7 to 3.2 feet to increase storage capacity from 2,500,000 gallons.

There will also be a diversion of water into the Saburi River and additional treatment of water at the Kisumu River and additional treatment of 2,000,000 gallons a day in the city before 1970.

The new scheme for water supply is estimated to cost 400,000,000 shillings. Mr. Dixon is designing a dam of 400,000 gallons per day.

City Council will get a report on the new plan in about two months.

KENYA ASKS FOR FAMILIAR RELIEF

Appeal to America for maize

AMERICAN aid — in the form of 100,000 bags of maize — is being sought for the drought-stricken areas of Kenya, where 150,000 Kamba tribesmen and thousands of others are running seriously short of food.

After six provincial commissioners from the worst areas met Government officials in Nairobi yesterday it was decided that Kenya should apply immediately for a free supply of 100,000 bags of yellow maize to combat famine in Central and Eastern Provinces.

The Government needs the American maize quickly. The Agricultural official said after the meeting that Kenya would have to supply the maize within 45 days if it were to be any use.

He said 350,000 bags were needed by the beginning of November. It was hoped an earlier crop from France would help, but it was likely that about 12,000 would have to be imported.

The request for U.S. maize is granted the local cost of distribution is one shilling a ton. The Board £15,000 at the start, but the Government has agreed to pay for the maize directly or as payment for a works programme, where the people were able to be imported.

Distribution would be in the Southern Provinces, north of the Central Province, bordering the Southern Province and the Masai highlands. The Masai might also receive maize but not in direct quantities.

The official said that maize would not be imported right away because it would cost more than the local crop. The Chief Commissioner, Mr. R. Wainwright told the East African Standard last night that the Government had agreed to supply the maize to the Masai but not in direct quantities.

He said that the Government had agreed to supply the maize to the Masai but not in direct quantities. He said that the Government had agreed to supply the maize to the Masai but not in direct quantities.

REPORT DISCUSSES KENYA AFTER THE POLLS

What appears for gambol diplomacy and such technicalities relating to the special, as also do critics of the report prepared by Africans in a light for independence, the Committee for Technical Co-operation in a report published in London yesterday.

Five needed extra cars to carry fraud loot

A party of men in a Uganda motor car were arrested on the road near Nairobi and held for a week. The car was found to be carrying a large quantity of stolen goods, including a large sum of money and various valuables. The men were charged with theft and possession of stolen goods.

Independence has been promised — how and when it will take place depends on how quickly the right conditions for it can be achieved. And support for "anti-colonialism" and "struggles for independence" is no longer needed, the report states.

The members of the committee are Mr. C. Hobson, a former Labour M.P.; Mrs. Elizabeth Huxley, the author and the Hon. Peter Remnant, a former Conservative M.P. with business interests in Africa.

The pattern of events after the Elections would be of the greatest importance, they say. Kenya needed to develop its economic resources if it was to prosper, and overseas help was required for this. However, aid, particularly in terms of money, could be misapplied, often with the best intentions, and it was important that sponsors of aid for Kenya, in whatever shape, should be absolutely clear about the colonial policy of the British Government.

ELECTION FEVER

The election campaign was now reaching its peak and African leaders were being accused of extremism and inflammatory statements. It was worth remembering, however, that election speeches containing rather wild, irresponsible and often improbable statements were made in the United Kingdom in efforts to secure votes.

The same is probably true in Kenya, and it may well be equally true that after the Elections are over responsible leaders will tend to prevail again, where it was not recently, the report states. Some Europeans were missing no opportunities of drawing attention to their own views.

General speaking in African statements was construed as threatening to disrupt the African community and had not reacted to statements by some Europeans. Lack of co-operation, promote racial co-operation.

The report continues: "It probably fair to say that Africans are, now very largely, not wholly content with securing African votes. Europeans have concerned themselves with candidates of their own race who dominated the primary elections, but now have to appeal to African voters and Africans to secure an easy majority."

Mr. Amalamba backed by meeting

All the people of the region are backing Mr. Amalamba. A meeting was held to discuss the situation and the people expressed their support for him.

EMERGENCY SERVICE IS EXTENDED

There will be some scattered showers in the north and southern areas of Kenya, says the Meteorological Department. The emergency service will be extended to cover these areas.

Dr. Waiyaki faces hostile Mr. Mboya and Mr. Gichuru UNRUHY CROWD BROKEN UP BY ROT SQUAD

RIOT SQUAD police and a General Service Unit intervened to clear Dr. Waiyaki's election meeting at Babati location, Nairobi, last night.

They moved in after Dr. Waiyaki and three other speakers had been shouted down by the crowd and just as Mr. C. O. Oduho was starting to speak. Hundreds of women and children were among the crowd of several thousand which dispersed as the police officers "to remove disruptive elements from the crowd".

From the beginning, when Mr. H. Githinji, secretary of the Part II law branch, began to speak, it was apparent that part of the crowd was hostile.

Rival's name and symbol shouted

There were cries of "sedge, sedge" (Mr. Mboya's ballot symbol is an anemone) and "Mboya" and "Mboya" as the crowd waved their sticks and flags. As he changed, the "dum-dum" drum was beaten loudly.

Further than an appeal to the crowd to listen to him.

At this point the police riot squad moved into position at the back of the field. Mr. Gideon Mutiso, the suspended assistant general secretary of the K.F.L., next tried to speak but was unable to make himself heard.

As Dr. Waiyaki himself rose to speak there was the scuffle in front of the platform. Mr. Gichuru, who had been shouting, was seen to be shouting in which they undertook to vacate their seat for Dr. Waiyaki.

"I want you to go and tell Mboya that you have received yourselves in a way that befits a political party. You should be taking the initiative in this regard."

"I received trouble like this when I was in the field and I am not going to be treated in this manner. I am not going to be treated in this manner."

At this point the riot squad moved in and the crowd dispersed. The riot squad moved in and the crowd dispersed. The riot squad moved in and the crowd dispersed.

Two police officers mounted the platform and announced that the meeting could not continue. The riot police galloped the field and the crowd dispersed.

A table, packed with the Press men, was seen to be shouting at the speaker's platform. The crowd roared with indignation.

The G.W.L. came into the platform and the crowd dispersed. The riot police galloped the field and the crowd dispersed.

COLOURED household linen has introduced a new note into the traditional January "white" sales in French East Africa. It is apparent today in a gay medley of prints and rainbow hues among the household display suggests the time has come for a change. For years, January has been regarded as the time to replenish the stocks of the linen consumer. It still is.

Keeping a gleam in furniture

By Hilary Westworth

Everyone admires the gleam of well-moist furniture. But polished furniture, like the lustre of their tables and chairs is marred by stains and scratches and sticky finger marks.

MAINLY FOR WOMEN

But the "white" sales this year are no longer predominantly white. A vibrant colour spectrum has replaced white in leading department stores and shops.

According to figures issued by the French cotton industry, the demand for coloured linen has increased by almost 40 per cent in the past year.

Delicate prints and pastels are today's trend setters, followed by such novelties as plain and lined tartan mild designs and eyelet-embroidered bed linen.

Both original and modern designs are featured in new prints. Romantic patterns adapted from 19th century designs, are being replaced by many big millinery prints, damasks, damasked with leaves or flowers.

Only three prints, inspired by dress materials, with clustered bouquets, in roses, carnations, and lilies, remain constant. Prints suitable for harmonious and solid tones are being widely used.

A printed damask with solid-toned outlines and a subtle pattern, with a border design adapted from 19th century prints, is being widely used.

THE BISTO KIDS VISIT THE GAME RESERVE

There is something good in the air... BISTO for all meat dishes.

Small recipe: 1 lb. Potatoes 1 lb. Fat, 2 lbs. Meat, 2 tablespoons.

More Reserved

Unlike the traditional clothing sales which include women's fashions, French household linen is a "reserved" sale. Large numbers, resulting in large profits, are being kept back.

At the large department store, simple table linen, single sheets, bed linen, price range is set elsewhere. At a smaller store, however, linens are being sold at prices well below the market level.

White Europe is going overboard about coloured household linen. Kenya seems more reserved in its enthusiasm, and all shops report that this year's sales will be less than last year's.

The colour palette, though coloured sheets are more difficult to keep than white ones, but several producers have not yet taken the plunge. Lark, stocks "to be made" by manufacturers, and a few others are being made.

But one shop has had no more success than last year with these prints that it is buying so much.

There is coloured bed linen, and a few prints. The most popular is a print of a woman's face, and a print of a woman's face, and a print of a woman's face.

WIDE INSETS

The height of curtains which have been hanging for years, and which have become old-fashioned, can be renewed by rubbing gently with a soft cloth dipped in metal polish. If however, the article is very badly stained and marked it is better to use a strong solvent like turpentine.

FOLLOW GRAIN

To revive a polished floor, use a soft cloth dipped in turpentine.

These same principles apply to rubbing gently with a wet cloth of fine steel wool, following the grain of the wood. When all the stains have disappeared, the table or chair with a soft cloth and apply a liberal coating of furniture wax.

It takes France to teach a lesson in simple cleaning.

Leave the solution to harden for at least 15 minutes. Then wash with a little metal polish, and repeat the operation.

Brush marks on dark furniture that do not accept a complete removal of the polish can usually be removed by sanding over with a little linseed oil.

SIR WINSTON WRITING ON A ROAD OF CHANGE

SO many accusations have been bandied during this election, and bad faith, that the following passage from Sir Winston Churchill's Merborough—His Life and Times (1947 edition, vol. 1, Ch. 20, at page 266) will be of interest to your readers.

It is as true of today as it was then that the man of iron will had more of the time of four years of his own, and past is detailed very fully, and the appreciation of his political career is given in a way that is both interesting and instructive.

But all this seems now those who have through of change are moving forward of vital decisions is the result of given moment and the passage of time, and the people in this field, and quite differently without history or lesson.

DONALD GRHAM.

INVENTION OF NUMERALS

HAVING read with great interest the letter from Mr. Verma, perhaps some of your readers might like a simple explanation of the meaning of the numerals. The following may interest them.

Early man, when starting to count, used his fingers which limited him to ten units. He then used a sign which stood for five units, and a sign which stood for ten units, and so on. This was a kind of a trick to add to a 100 between his hands.

At that time, while he stood in a hole of mud and counted, he was not counting with his fingers but with his mind. He was counting with his mind, and he was counting with his mind. He was counting with his mind, and he was counting with his mind.

to be completely revised by the vote of the African. Mr. Shandil has already indicated to his friends to vote for Mr. Shandil and already indicated to his friends to vote for Mr. Shandil and already indicated to his friends to vote for Mr. Shandil.

M.P. is tied to Kenya's future and the interests of all other members of which I give a fair view.

Kissing

I WAS interested to read the article entitled 'Kissing' by Mrs. J. M. Hill. It is an instructive and interesting article, but there is a technical mistake in it which might be worth pointing out. It is the use of the word 'kiss' which is used in the article. It is the use of the word 'kiss' which is used in the article.

Mr. Shandil

Mr. Shandil is a man of many talents. He is a man of many talents. He is a man of many talents. He is a man of many talents. He is a man of many talents. He is a man of many talents.

Soothing-healing 'TRILLET'S' for sore throats
 A BANGALORE WHOLESALERS PRODUCT

Do you suffer from NIGHT STARVATION?

You may, without knowing it!

FEEL tired in the morning, even after eight hours sleep? Depressed and listless by mid-afternoon? Then here's the reason.

Even during sleep, your body is continually at work, using up energy. Breathing alone needs 20,000 muscular efforts every night! If you don't replace this energy while you sleep, you'll wake unrefreshed, listless, irritable; you'll suffer from what doctors call Night Starvation.

HORLICKS—a food as well as a drink—makes your sleep both sound and refreshing. It helps to replace energy, and build up a morning reserve. You wake feeling completely refreshed, vigorous and full of energy.

DRINK HORLICKS EVERY NIGHT

—and guard against Night Starvation
