The first trickle—but too late for some drought victims

THESE three pictures tell the story of drought in Nairobi National Park. — and the measures taken to alleviate the present suffering.
LEFT: A scene has died in the sun on the old plain, with not a drop of water or dry-thrush in sight.
MIDDLE: The Assistant Game Warden, Mr. R. B. Jolly (right) and his staff have tried for days to lay dried water in the dam on the plain. Seen in the picture yesterday, this picture from today, the first push of water came through. Today there will be water for some, at least, of the game.
RIGHT: Visitors make short work of a widehedge built up by the mechanics here and drought.

 The shores of a dozen ocean-going ships, the whistles of several vessels and the boom of cannon at Mombasa Yacht Club heralded the opening of the £4,000,000 Kipevu project by the Governors of Kenya and Uganda, Sir Patrick Rensison and Sir Frederick Crawford, last night.

CONGOLESE READY TO FIGHT FOR ARMS

Joseph Mubutu, Minister of the Interior, said that the Congolese army and said that any attempt to do so would be met with a "brutal" response.

There is nobody with a better right to take part in those celebrations of the opening of new deep-water facilities which will bring Uganda nearer to Kenya and nearer to the sea. Each of the Mombasa river banks was apparent at first sight. Each additional acre actually employed in the port.

SWIMMING ACROSS THE RIVER OF CHANGE

I READ MR. Elizabeth Fozzall's long exposé of her own views, and criticism of mine, with interest and sympathy. It was generous of her to admit

GERMANS SAY KEYA FUTURE SAFE

Mission plans aid for farms and industry

The ship which some so flattered across the world is one of the country's greatest exports... The Siamu Mission, now stopped off the coast of East Africa, writes across the bridge, in the name of the "peace" crew, the Siamu-Lithuania.

WEST GERMANY'S three-member Government mission to Kenya said yesterday after four weeks in the country's future — and is confident of a back that confidence with money and technical assistance.

The leader of the mission, Dr. H. Wilbrandt, a professor at Berlin's Technical University and director of the Institute of Foreign Agriculture, said the mission had formed three main impressions of the Colony during its intensive tour.

These were: We have the impression that the basis for your economy is enormously sound and promising for the future and the potential of your country is difficult to over-estimate. So far the political scene has not been scratched.

AFRICAN PARTIES WILL NOT SUPPORT COALITION

ALTHOUGH both African political parties have said they are not supporting independent candidates, it is understood that neither will support a coalition candidate.

The only possible exception is a situation where the candidate is a large section of the population. European candidates and Africans were to full cooperation.

The mission was also fully aware of the "clouds" in the sky which are a large section of the economy conference was held.

The idea of co-operation between all the parties which came into the picture in the last few years was not a very realistic one. It was not a very realistic one. It was not a very realistic one.

Some changes

But you can be sure that on our return to Germany we will bring back a number of suggestions for technical and administrative improvement.

Dr. Wilbrandt said he could not say whether the Government might provide or not to wind up the mission's industrial project.

As brothers

Dr. Wilbrandt said he had seen the statements of the private members of the mission and was pleased to see that they were in agreement on the points of view.

Clouds in sky

And we have seen with great interest the attitude of African farming folk who say that they are not in any way full of the desire to be ahead and leaving the economy especially when they see so many failures from the opportunity for getting a better standard of living.

Rhodesia talks crisis PREMIER ASKS MR. SANDYS TO FLY HOME

BRITAIN'S Commonwealth Relations Secretary, Mr. Duncan Sandys, is curtailing his visit to Southern Rhodesia to return to London by air tomorrow.

It was understood in London yesterday that the change of plan was connected with the differences that have arisen between the British Government and the Federal Prime Minister, Sir Roy Welensky, over the constitutional question.

The Federal Minister of Law, Mr. Greenfield, is maintaining strict silence about the talks with Mr. Sandys. The Cabinet is expected to discuss the matter after this week, after which no official statement will be made.

Sir Douglas Hoar, leader of the High Commission, Mr. Henry Campbell, who headed the British mission, and Mr. Sandys are expected to discuss the matter with Sir Roy Welensky and his cabinet.

He took up the game, not only to influence and check the just United States President, but of British and other diplomats stationed in Malaya.

KENNEDY PLANS TO FORTIFY ECONOMY

REPORTS REFORMS PROPOSED TO MAKE BENEFITS EQUAL

Reforms proposed to make benefits equal

COMMON market is in the interests of East Africa as a whole and should be maintained, the Raising Commission recommends in a report published simultaneously in Britain and East Africa last night. The commission finds that the benefits which are derived from the common market are unequal and suggests that the inequalities should be some of setting of these inequalities by means of a redistribution of revenue between the territories.

It is very sad that we have to read of the animals in the Game Park, dying of the pangs of the long spell of dry weather — and who are wondering how they have come to this.

In a country which has been so long suffering from drought, it is not surprising that an emergency measure should be taken to help it.

It is a pity that the Government should have to take such a step, but it is a necessary one.

There is only one sphere in which we have been successful, and that is in the field of education.

Raising the standards of university education. It is very heartening to note that 22 of our Indian universities have decided to raise their standards.

Many have been keeping abreast of their subjects... of the College members, or of the subjects of their subjects...

The College Library will be glad to advise on the application of the position and to try to resolve what they could from a situation we are sure to be met.

Governments asked to combat unemployment

POLITICIANS WARNED: YOUR 'PROMISES' ARE HARMFUL

MINISTRY URGED TO MOVE CITY SQUATTERS

CONSEQUENT A national public health officer, speaking at a meeting in Kampala yesterday, said that the Government should take immediate and positive steps to alleviate the unemployment problem in East Africa as a whole.

Mr. Walker said politicians who were making promises which they were unable to keep were doing a disservice to the people of East Africa. He urged the Government to take immediate and positive steps to alleviate the unemployment problem in East Africa as a whole.

EXPLORATION THE ANSWER

The answer lay in development and the full exploitation of each country's resources. He said that development requires money, money which he recognized must come largely from overseas. But overseas investment either in the form of private actors would security for their investments and in the situation now obtain in East Africa.

HARPIC

It's the agree that resulted from children at a Suez private school being told, many educators however, that education should be taught through practical learning. Many more people came to realise that as those of a few years ago, there are not so many methods of education as there used to be.

In America, for example, a man called Oscar Clayburn Moore was so friends as "O. K." Moore — not that the education of the "black" is important. He sat in front of an electric typewriter and called out the letters as they struck them at random.

After 23 minutes of typing, the child had a page of letters on a sheet of paper. The letter on the top end of a down stroke of the typewriter's father's stamp was greatly enlarged and it had the characters formed by his father was the entire of the little girl began to put together words and she eventually wrote the words "I love my mother".

Types at FOUR

Now, aged four she reads fluently. And although her handwriting is no great shakes, she is a wonderful typist. Her writing grew up in her own way, and she is very impressed by her success. She has typed letters which are hardly able to put together words.

Mr. Moore, a sociologist at the distinguished American University, says that such educationalists appear to be wrong. "What is wrong with the people of the world is not their system of education. It is their system of thinking."

Broadly speaking, these people think that the child's mind can be "programmed" more than it is by solving methods, so that it need more help.

Mr. Moore's system believes in the "discovery" of the child's mind and interests of young children should be understood.

In this regard, we are such men as the famed Dutch educationalist, Jean Piaget, who believes that six-year-old children

SPELLING POINT

After 18 years in Government service, Mr. Ron Jolley gave up his job with the L.A. Lords Department and with it the chance to "hang his hat on a pension" in order to become consistent words in the Nairobi National Park.

That happened four years ago, and he has now appeared in the park. To a small number of "the traditional staff," it is therefore showing an important part in the current atmosphere of the park.

Having lived on what was at first a 15-acre camp in the Nairobi National Park, he is now living in a house built by the Government, in the Nairobi National Park.

Mr. Jolley, who was born in Nairobi in 1912, and has been a member of the Nairobi National Park staff since 1930, is now living in a house built by the Government, in the Nairobi National Park.

Kenya Police pavilion plans going ahead

Although still short of the target of some £10,000, the cost of construction of a sports pavilion at the Kenya Police Sports Ground in the Mombasa Road, the project is well advanced. The design and specifications for the pavilion, which will be built on a plot of 100,000 sq ft, are complete. The Kenya Police Sports Council are in the process of contracting through subscriptions from members of the Force to a Pavilion Fund. The fund has already received donations from business houses and commercial and service organizations. The pavilion, which will cost £10,000, is the largest building to be erected in the U.K. which was £1,000 in the last five years to go to the present stage.

Gift in gratitude

This week comes news of a small but significant contribution to the Police Sports Council. A Mrs. Barrett, a woman resident, who has been in the Force for many years, has come out in praise of the work of the Kenya Police. She and her husband had recently returned from away in Europe to find her husband's residence in good order. Other people in the police had made similar observations. She says a watching brief over her husband's residence had been given to the police. She says a letter of appreciation to the police, which she says she will be donating to the Police Sports Council.

LUMUMBA BREAKS OUT OF JAIL

Escape said to be cover story

LUMUMBA and 100 of his followers were taken from their cells in Katanga. They are said to have attempted to steal two airplanes and were using them to fly to the fugitives' hideout. A reward of 200,000 francs and a reward of £100,000 has been offered for the capture of the group's original Prime Minister.

The escape announcement was made in Elisabethville, the capital of the province. The Minister of the Interior said a Press conference that the three had escaped the night before. He said they had taken a plane and that this had tipped off one of the air men spotted from the hotel. He said they were in Elisabethville, however, and were being held in the escape announcement.
