THE LAD OF KINSHOHO

To the Editor: "E.A. Shearer" Sir—I shall be grateful if you would send me a copy of the following letter of appreciation on the Van Ardenneberg Congo's article on the above subject which appeared in your issue of June 12, 16 and 22, respectively.

The progress which the Luo have attained within the 40 years of their contact with the modern civilization and the rapidly with which it is being assimilated is already being reflected in the Luo who are now serving the Luo have rendered valuable services to the Government.

Ardenneberg Congo said that the Luo are not a primitive race but a people who have been brought into contact with the modern world.

Immigrant Arrives

Problems and Life of People in Britain to-day

By Our Special Correspondent in London.

They make a handsome profit. All their customers are glad that they are good for them. Many of my countrymen in Britain to-day are men of this kind. They have plenty of money and are well to do. They are the result of the immigration of 1900-1910, a period when I was a poor and penniless young man with only a few shillings to my name. They are the result of the immigration of 1900-1910, a period when I was a poor and penniless young man with only a few shillings to my name.

Immigration is a subject which has long since become a political issue of the first importance in Britain. The Government has to take account of it in its foreign policy and in its domestic policy. It has to take account of it in its foreign policy and in its domestic policy. It has to take account of it in its foreign policy and in its domestic policy.

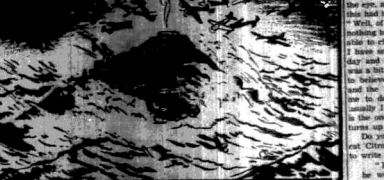

When you take your work or shop to the streets, the Nation and other papers will have to take account of it in their foreign policy and in their domestic policy. It has to take account of it in its foreign policy and in its domestic policy.

The C.P.S. estimates were quite accurate. The various papers which are in circulation in Britain to-day are all very accurate. They are the result of the immigration of 1900-1910, a period when I was a poor and penniless young man with only a few shillings to my name.

The Chief A. A. and the H.A.C. have been very successful in their work. They have made a great deal of money and are well to do. They are the result of the immigration of 1900-1910, a period when I was a poor and penniless young man with only a few shillings to my name.

He is not the only one to find the conditions appear to be made easier for everybody if someone is authorized to buy in and regulate supplies and control meeting purchases. And traders can help by giving the small man his change and leaving the wealthy customer to struggle for a share. After all, there is a Price Control Regulation which is an effective device for any trader to refer to, available for sale on demand, goods that are in short supply should be ordered by the Price Control Commission to sell them at a price as low as the individual is concerned—especially those who have and will take the hint and share themselves with the rest of the community. There is nothing more revealing than selfishness on the well side.

front does the enemy make his usual claim to have taken fantastic numbers of prisoners. It may be permissible to infer that Marshal Timoshenko, though faced with the necessity to yield much ground, has withdrawn deliberately with a view to playing battle again in positions chosen by himself. This is not the first time in the struggle with Germany that the Red Army leader has extricated his troops from seemingly desperate positions and his previous successes will lead to the hope that notwithstanding the gravity of the outlook at present, he may yet be able to bring the scales at least to a draw.

Kenya. Sir Henry Moore, will visit London as soon as possible for a general discussion of problems arising out of the war in East Africa. The East African Governors usually made at least one such journey during their term of office. It is to be expected that a general agreement on the value of contact in the middle of the war will be reached. The absence entailed is not too long in this emergency only expects to be away for a few weeks. The Secretary of State for the Colonies has recently introduced a Bill which will be introduced to facilitate the solution of the wartime problems of the Colonial Territories. Sir Harold Macmillan, Governor of East Africa, visited London. It is not an unremarkable fact that the complications which have arisen from the world-wide spread of the war. Governors of Colonial Territories can still confer in person with the Secretary of State.

There is no question of course, about the usefulness of Kenya at this time for we have reached a stage in the organization and conduct of the war effort when we require a large number of and indeed simplification of the machinery which has been erected in the past three years. Essentially of course the people of Kenya, Malaya and other territories are not in desperate positions and his previous successes will lead to the hope that notwithstanding the gravity of the outlook at present, he may yet be able to bring the scales at least to a draw.
