BY THE WARDER

OWING to the lateness of the long rains the river is again dry and dusty. The water-holes have dried up and much of the game has migrated to the south into the Londolozi country of the Masai reserves.

The lion is now becoming all the more scarce. Many of the lion prides have been killed off, and the lionesses are now being driven out of the park by the Masai. All this will be sure to result in the lion being driven out of the park.

Girls need more teaching

A GIRL'S education is a government responsibility that will require more and more attention in the future, according to Dame Harriette Tanser, former headmistress of the South African National Council of Women recently.

She says that the girl of the future must be able to support herself and her family, and that she must be able to do so in a way that is not only profitable but also enjoyable.

BOOKS: Is modern fiction worthless?

A British philosopher divides the reading public into three classes

The author's new volume, entitled "Democracy, a Philosophical Inquiry", says "Comparatively few people read anything worth reading."

The author divides the reading public into three classes: the first class, the "intellectuals", who read for the sake of knowledge; the second class, the "entertainers", who read for the sake of amusement; and the third class, the "idle", who read for the sake of nothing.

The author argues that the first class is the most important, but that the second class is the most numerous. He claims that the third class is the most dangerous, as they are the most susceptible to propaganda.

The author also discusses the role of the press and the influence of advertising. He claims that the press is largely controlled by a few powerful interests, and that advertising is a major force in shaping public opinion.

He concludes that the only way to improve the quality of the reading public is to encourage the first class to read more and to educate the second and third classes.

Kenya forests—public estate

The Kenya Forest Department has announced that the forests in Kenya are now a public estate. This means that the forests are now owned by the Government and are to be managed for the benefit of the people of Kenya.

The department has also announced that it is planning to plant 100,000 trees in the next year. This is part of a larger program to reforestation and to improve the environment in Kenya.

Unauthorized

The report of a disarming raid by the Kenya Constabulary on a private property in Nairobi has been described as unauthorized.

The raid was carried out by a group of police officers who were acting without the authority of their superiors. The officers claimed that they were looking for a suspect, but they did not have a warrant.

Neglect—

A book of considerable interest has been published by the Kenya Book Company. The book is entitled "Neglect" and is written by a well-known author.

The book discusses the importance of education and the role of the Government in providing it. It also discusses the importance of the private sector in the economy and the role of the individual in society.

LEADS TO EYE TROUBLES

Neglect has been reported as the main cause of 90% of serious eye troubles. This is a warning to the public to take care of their eyes and to seek medical attention if they experience any eye problems.

The author of the book "Neglect" explains that many eye troubles are caused by a lack of proper eye care and by neglecting to see an eye doctor when needed.

Optrex

Optrex is a new eye lotion that has been developed by the Kenya Book Company. It is designed to relieve eye irritation and to improve eye health.

The lotion is made from natural ingredients and is gentle on the eyes. It is available in several different sizes and is easy to use.

THE FILMS NEXT WEEK

SMASH UP
T is not always easy to see her own way in everything in the film in which Susan Hayward plays the lead. Apparently it is usually correct to follow a husband who, however well-meaning the motive, is wrong. There is, however, a beautiful "other woman" who is not so easily won over by a smiling husband. Her name is Susan Hayward, and she is playing the role of a woman who is not so easily won over by a smiling husband.

measure the well-being of man

The vitality of man depends entirely upon the health essential life-giving process of raising food. And the products of International Harvester-machines and equipment increase the volume of food production—serve agriculture throughout the world. Wherever the soil is broken for planting, these machines help men produce more... with less physical labor... with greater efficiency and economy.

WEDDING GIFT FROM TANGANYIKA

MUCH DEPENDS ON FERTILISERS

Uganda farmers need development

IN THE LAST section of its interim report, the Colonial Development Committee which has been studying the development of the primary producer in the Colonies, suggests that a major impetus could be obtained in Colonial crop production by the wider use of organic and inorganic fertilisers in crop cultivation areas.

Little inorganic fertiliser seems to be applied in most European crops, practically all the imported artificial fertilisers being employed exclusively by estate producers.

The report points out that although fertilisers are in short supply and subject to extreme world-wide fluctuations in cost, the use of such fertilisers will, with care, result in an increase in the output of the Colonies crop which is the subject of the report. It is suggested that the use of fertilisers should be encouraged in the Colonies, and that the Government should be asked to consider the possibility of subsidising the use of fertilisers in the Colonies.

Information has been received from the Colonial Office that the Government of Kenya is considering the possibility of subsidising the use of fertilisers in the Colonies.

Ruling factor

The world supply and demand position for primary producer crops, and their use is likely to be particularly important for the development of the Colonies. The Committee has suggested that the use of fertilisers should be encouraged in the Colonies, and that the Government should be asked to consider the possibility of subsidising the use of fertilisers in the Colonies.

Free flow of knowledge must await the end of the political deadlock

THE PART of the newspaper Press of the world is capable of playing a vital part in the development of the Colonies, and it is suggested that the use of fertilisers should be encouraged in the Colonies, and that the Government should be asked to consider the possibility of subsidising the use of fertilisers in the Colonies.

Town waste

The Committee has suggested that the use of fertilisers should be encouraged in the Colonies, and that the Government should be asked to consider the possibility of subsidising the use of fertilisers in the Colonies.

More important

It is more important that the use of fertilisers should be encouraged in the Colonies, and that the Government should be asked to consider the possibility of subsidising the use of fertilisers in the Colonies.

Britain's plan

The British Government has announced a plan for the development of the Colonies, and it is suggested that the use of fertilisers should be encouraged in the Colonies, and that the Government should be asked to consider the possibility of subsidising the use of fertilisers in the Colonies.

Dipping into the 'well of English undefiled'

It is a tribute that we only begin to appreciate the normal everyday things of life when they are no longer with us. This is particularly true with regard to books, especially those great old libraries, the bookshops and the reading clubs, that congregation of literature, well kept together as 'Classics'.

One of the things that we have lost is the habit of dipping into the 'well of English undefiled' for a volume of some kind. This is a habit that we have lost, and it is a habit that we should try to revive.

There are many fine reprints available, and it is a pity that we do not take advantage of them. Some of the best are those published by the Cambridge University Press, and those published by the Oxford University Press.

Ten year plan for development of African education

THEY MUST ACCEPT PRINCIPLE OF SELF-HELP

Full primary schooling for children of school age

THE Government of Kenya has published a 10-year plan for the development of African education. The main objective is to provide within three years a full primary system on a full-time basis for approximately one-half of the children of school age, to ensure that there will be an adequate number of trained teachers and that a satisfactory standard of education will be maintained up to and including school certificate level.

The Minister for Education, Mr. C. H. Thorpey, recently issued a statement which was published in the East African Standard, setting out the principles of the plan. He explained that the principle of self-help must be accepted by the African people in contributing to the cost of their education.

The plan itself has been based on a study by the Secretary of State for Education, Mr. R. A. Butler, in 1944. It is designed to give the African people a full primary education, to ensure that there will be an adequate number of trained teachers and that a satisfactory standard of education will be maintained up to and including school certificate level.

It is in the primary classes of 1957 that the Government will be primarily concerned. The plan is to provide a full primary system on a full-time basis for approximately one-half of the children of school age, to ensure that there will be an adequate number of trained teachers and that a satisfactory standard of education will be maintained up to and including school certificate level.

Junior secondary

Next comes the junior secondary stage. This stage is to be provided for approximately one-third of the children of school age, to ensure that there will be an adequate number of trained teachers and that a satisfactory standard of education will be maintained up to and including school certificate level.

Boarding schools

For a number of years to come the Government will be primarily concerned with the provision of boarding schools for the children of school age, to ensure that there will be an adequate number of trained teachers and that a satisfactory standard of education will be maintained up to and including school certificate level.

Girls' schools

The Government is also concerned with the provision of girls' schools for the children of school age, to ensure that there will be an adequate number of trained teachers and that a satisfactory standard of education will be maintained up to and including school certificate level.

Costs

The Government estimates that the total cost of the plan for the first five years will be approximately £10 million.

The defeat of the Communists will be taken as a sign that the tide of Communism in Europe has turned, says Anthony Diwan, of the Movement in the article on the recent Italian elections. He says that the League of Workers Unions has moved more quickly towards realization in Italy.

Western solidarity proof against subversion

THE fateful elections in Italy are over, and from the point of view of western Europe the results are satisfactory. The Communists, who have never yet won a majority, decisively lost in Italy. They were more than decisively beaten in a free election. Though they have a lead locally in some towns and provinces, their strength and prestige, their hold on the masses, are broken.

Moreover, even their victory may be regarded as a temporary reprieve. They may not be able to organize in the near future. The progress of the Italian Revolution is being watched with interest by the masses of Europe. The Italian Communist Party is being watched with interest by the masses of Europe.
