ITALY WILL RESIST UNO CROACHEMENT MOVE

Most extension of its control over Colonies

The Colonial Secretary Mr. Arthur Creech Jones, addressing the conference of African States at London yesterday warned against Italian European influence in the east. He pointed to the Italian and to the world that our way of life and the values of our way of life are not to be destroyed by any one of the nations of the world. Italy is not to be allowed to go back into chaos and into a state where the Italian Fascist Party is in a position to re-establish its rule over the Italian people.

Colonial development is an aim of Colonial economic policy

MEMBERS of the British Colonial Office have declared the policy of Colonial economic policy as increased supply of raw materials to the Colonies and the development of the Colonies in the field of health and commercial relations between the Colonies and the United Kingdom.

London comment Increased production is vital
RICKENBACH has been questioned on his attitude towards the progress of the African continent. He said that the British Government is not only interested in the production of raw materials but also in the development of the African continent as a whole.

The matter of the Government's financial position has been discussed in the House of Commons. It was pointed out that the Government's resources are inadequate to meet the demands of the war effort and the reconstruction of the economy.

Return of death penalty wanted
The British Government has announced that it is considering the return of the death penalty. This is in response to the demands of the public and the need for a more effective criminal justice system.

America wants her ships back
The United States has expressed its desire to have its merchant ships returned from the hands of the British Government. This is because the American Government has a policy of non-interference in the shipping of other countries.

IS ALL BETTING ILLEGAL?

Point raised by Court ruling

WHAT KIND of betting is legal? is a question being asked by many Kenyan bookmakers and punters as a result of a ruling by the magistrate court in Nairobi last week. The ruling states that not all betting is illegal, but only bets that are considered to be "outrageous" are prohibited.

The law provides that betting is legal if it is not considered to be "outrageous". The definition of "outrageous" is left to the discretion of the courts. This ruling has caused confusion among bookmakers and punters alike.

- (1) Any form of betting on the outcome of a game or event.
- (2) Any form of betting on the outcome of a race or event.
- (3) Any form of betting on the outcome of a political election.
- (4) Any form of betting on the outcome of a sporting event.
- (5) Any form of betting on the outcome of a financial market.
- (6) Any form of betting on the outcome of a legal proceeding.
- (7) Any form of betting on the outcome of a military operation.
- (8) Any form of betting on the outcome of a nuclear war.
- (9) Any form of betting on the outcome of a global catastrophe.
- (10) Any form of betting on the outcome of a natural disaster.

NEWS FROM RHODESIA

South will march to dominant position in Central Africa

Standard Observer Correspondent

THE east and south of Southern Rhodesia's political landscape having solidified, it is now possible to disinter from the derelict, mangled corpse of the Labour Party and the carcass of the ruling body of the Liberal faction.

Also to help a brief inquiry into how it happened.

The Rhodesia Labour Party just isn't "not any more". In the last Parliament they held five seats.

One reason is the country's avowedly socialistic approach to the election of the United Party for a second term.

They have lost one seat. These former seats may not count very much, but they were very vital in important seats since they gave the Labour party the balance of power in the House and in the vital constituency of the country power so long as they chose to vote with the United Party. They had the government in power. When they chose to vote with the Labour they did so recently over the winding of affairs by the Central African Council's new Executive Director. They threw the government election close.

Scottish chronicle

Standard Edinburgh Correspondent

AFTER September in Scotland I am producing some brilliant results. But it is too late to refuse to be placated. We have had the worst summer in human memory, and it is now certainly not going to be made up for by any last-minute corrections of this kind.

It is this last reform which will do most for the country in the long run. The United Party has repeatedly tried to get the reform cancelled, but a larger Budget is necessary to pay the costs of the year. There will be the need for a larger Budget to pay the costs of the year. There will be the need for a larger Budget to pay the costs of the year.
