South-East Asia
The Colombo Conference of Ministers of the Commonwealth—the East gathering in its kind—has opened in the last day of a good job in its five days of discussion.

The British Commonwealth has the advantage of joint cooperation on a broad of international. There is a powerful factor in the form of South-East Asia and in the power of the Commonwealth.

The Colombo gathering was a manifestation of the new spirit of the Commonwealth. It may be more the result of a new partnership. Third Party and Commonwealth relations have been maintained through to maintain human freedom in the face of the Atlantic in protecting and preserving liberty in peace.

What emerged, too, was that there has been a new awareness of the problems which have arisen in the present form of the Commonwealth. It is a problem which is shared by all the members of the Commonwealth and it is a problem which will be strengthened by the collaboration which Commonwealth members can bring.

There is in the Commonwealth a new spirit of understanding and of collaboration. It is a spirit which is shared by all the members of the Commonwealth and it is a spirit which will be strengthened by the collaboration which Commonwealth members can bring.

The Commonwealth is a new partnership. It is a partnership which is shared by all the members of the Commonwealth and it is a partnership which will be strengthened by the collaboration which Commonwealth members can bring.

UGANDA ASKED TO SUBSIDISE LOCAL TRAINS

BECAUSE the Railway Administration is under statutory obligation not to provide services at less than cost and because it is a corporation identified to the Transport Advisory Council it was thought that the suburban services required in Uganda could not be self-sustaining. It was considered by members of the T.A.C. that the Government of Uganda should be asked to pay whether it be willing to state in the estimates for the service that these were not covered by revenue.

The Commissioner for Transport, Sir Reginald Hodge, gave this information at the East Africa Central Executive Committee, Kampala, on January 22. He said that the Transport Advisory Council had asked why it was not possible to run a service between the Uganda Commercial Bank and the Government Railway Station with a view to subsidising the service with the Government.

Considered in 1937. At the time of the 1937-38 financial year the Government was asked to subsidise the service. It was decided that the service should be run on a cost basis and that the Government should subsidise the service.

With the introduction of the new railway between Kampala and Jinja, the Government was asked to subsidise the service. It was decided that the service should be run on a cost basis and that the Government should subsidise the service.

The reasons for the Government's decision to subsidise the service were: (a) the service was not self-sustaining; (b) the service was a public service; (c) the service was a social service.

Population. The Commissioner said that the population of Uganda was increasing rapidly. This was due to a number of factors, including a high birth rate and a low death rate.

MR FRANK MORGAN General manager of the Presidential Assurance Company, explains why in view of the British Labour Party's intention to nationalise industrial insurance companies, insurance and politics do not go hand in hand.

It is inevitable that insurance companies should be nationalised. It is inevitable that the British Labour Party should be elected to office. It is inevitable that the British Labour Party should be elected to office. It is inevitable that the British Labour Party should be elected to office.

The British Labour Party's intention to nationalise industrial insurance companies is a political move that does not go hand in hand with the interests of the insurance industry. The insurance industry is a business that is essential to the economy, and it should be run in the interests of the policyholders, not the political agenda of a particular party.
