AUSTRALIA TO HELP KENYA WITH IMMIGRANTS Offer of recruiting facilities in London PLAN COMMENDED AT FARMERS' CONFERENCE

The Australian Government is to offer the machinery in London.

This was announced by Gen. N. M. S. Irwin, chairman of the Electors' Union, at the annual conference of the Kenya National Farmers' Union in Nairobi yesterday.

Gen. Irwin said he had been authorized to make the offer by Mr. K. R. Sturt, the Australian Minister for the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association.

"The international implication," he said, "is that we are to recruit directly with one of the older Dominions, and to leave our dependence on a United Kingdom which is something to be avoided."

In his talk with Mr. Holt, Gen. Irwin said he pointed out that Kenya did not have the capacity to establish an organization for Kenyan agriculture in London for immigrants.

"He told me he agreed with me and—agreed with me to go to the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association to give Kenya advice on how to proceed from there, to seek the necessary arrangements.

"He also told me—and I am sure he is right—that Kenya's demand was for a maximum immigration."

Gen. Irwin said: "We must have the capacity to establish an organization for Kenyan agriculture in London—the power is now available."

"That is the sort of organization for young men in which we are interested in developing education and training, so as to start on the farm, as to go to a university for a postgraduate period."

"We must have the capacity of capital, which would be up to £100,000, to be available with the necessary arrangements."

"Speaking now as chairman of the office, I can assure you that we will do up and put it for all the organization may be able to do."

"In addition to the kind of help we are giving, there are many other things which we are doing."

"GOVERNMENT NOT HELPING"
The conference was debating the subject of the Labour and Settlements Bill, and Mr. P. D. Martin, chairman of the European Agricultural Settlements Committee, said that any potential farmer was only too willing to do all the work and money to the interest of the government.

"The cost of land and equipment would be high and the government would be asked to help."

"To be frank about it, the government is not helping us," said Mr. Martin. "It is not helping us to get the government to the degree of responsibility we are rightly asking."

"ALL DUE TO EMERGENCY"
We took a long time to get here, taking up the last few days, and I am afraid of what may happen if we do not get help."

"It appears that the government has not done its best to help us, and I am afraid that the small side, due largely to the emergency, has been overlooked."

"That amount of help would be welcome," said Mr. Martin.

"The conference, consisting of the chairman of my Board, Mr. G. W. H. Sturt, and Mr. J. C. H. Sturt, from Britain, I regard as being very helpful in indicating the need to take some forms of action to help the farmers in the emergency."

"The attitude of the government is that it is all due to the emergency."

"I hope that when we get back to Britain we will be able to get the government to do more for us."

"It costs less to buy and it makes more sense to buy than to grow," said Mr. Martin.

"The field of direct settlement on the farms is the most important, and from the financial angle, it is the most real way that is of importance," said Mr. Martin.

"Check-up on it for yourself."

"ALL SCOPE IN EMPLOYMENT"
According to the results of a survey over the past 10 years, the number of people in employment in the British Isles has increased by 10 million, and the search for immigrants of sufficient numbers to fill the gap is still continuing.

"It costs less to buy and it makes more sense to buy than to grow," said Mr. Martin.

UNION STRENGTH IN ISOLATION

Doubt cast on defence plan

THE question whether the planning of a regional defence organization to protect the coast of the Sahara was a wise move was raised by The Times yesterday in an editorial. The newspaper said that it was possible that the "invention" shown by the British government in its Defence白皮书 had been concocted for the creation of such a body "to cover some thing which does not exist and has a particular impression in domestic politics".

The editor said: "The Administration is as sensitive to the charge that it is trying to impose the Union from the community of Western nations" as The Times.

Dangers too remote

While agreeing that the Union "without right of mortal threat" would be a useful organization to keep the review of such threats in any future emergency, the editor said: "It is necessary, and in the circumstances, necessary, to have a military force available to repel hostile attacks on the frontier. However, the military force in South Africa, her geographical isolation and the nature of our resources, are a source of strength rather than a weakness."

"Photos are formulated in terms of what we consider necessary to meet reasonably well-known and reasonably well-defined threats that might threaten South Africa," he said. "But they are still too remote for me to believe that there is a very real need for security on a 'quid pro quo' basis. There is also real without doubt a danger that the British will withdraw their help provided by the British Commonwealth if it is not in the interest of safety the Union's partners in the Commonwealth."

NEW PARK AT SERENGETI

The savannah plains in Northern Tanzania have long been famous for black-mantled lions. This year—including the huge migration of wildebeest—there are now—a national park, is being opened to visitors.

In addition to lion, there is warthog with the striped tail, elephant, rhinoceros, hippopotamus, zebra, impala, wildebeest, Thomson's gazelle, eland, kudu, reedbuck, topi, oryx, hartebeest, and many others.

Copies are obtainable from all National Parks offices, the Bureau of the Parks Commission, E.A.T.A.

His father supported before turning to Socialism. Lord Strabolgi has been a political activist, having belonged to a political party, and has worked hard for the cause.

MORE ISLANDS TO LET

A group of six small sparsely populated islands in the Indian Ocean, well-stocked with coconuts and other fruit, are now available for let again.

Whoever takes the islands will have to maintain them a year, pay £100 a year, and make an active part in developing the islands.

ENTERPRISE HOUSE

THREE years of earnest endeavour by a young Kenyan-born Nairobi businessman, fully supported by his co-directors, were crowned at last yesterday, when His Excellency the Governor, Sir Evelyn Baring, set in motion the enterprise which operates the new Pepsi-Cola plant in — appropriately enough — "Enterprise House".

The shop has, in the new building, a large office for his Company's The pleasing exterior is faced with well-painted windows, decorated with glass and flowing curtains, remaining completely efficient and comfortable. It may be noted that Mr. Dick Polkinghorne, the architectural designer, the builder, Mr. A. A. G. Phillips, and the consulting architect, Mr. E. R. Smith, dispensed with the need for supporting pillars, admitting more roof light and giving greater height by 6 feet, and lengthening about 35 feet was done at the insistence of H. Young & Co., East Africa Ltd., and transported, not by road, by air-drops, but without damage.

The basic principle of the layout is the segregation of each of the various processes from the others, allowing for a flow of production at the factory ("employees" arrive at the factory, "employees" leave it), the product is packed ready for export.

A remarkable feature of the building is the huge expanse of glass windows in the loading bay. This was made possible by the decision to have the roof structure a single unit, it is believed to be the largest in East Africa to be constructed in one piece.

East African firms have dispensed with the need for the bottle is finally sealed with the well-known Pepsi-Cola crown cork. To give an idea of the frequency with which this is done, it would be capable of turning out 1,000 bottles per day if required.

Bottling is indeed a major operation, virtually eliminating the manual element, except for the control of the machines. All this elaborate machinery was imported from England and is now in full swing.

ready for use.

Broadly speaking, the bottling process comprises the filling of trays — the processing of fruit juice — the addition of water to a world standard of taste and carbonation, the preparation of the concentrate from essence, sugar (which is essential of variety) and yeast, and the carbonation, pure white bottles with a solution of carbon dioxide, and sterilisation. The steam for heating the solution and the sterilising process is provided by an electric boiler. Finally, the three streams of traffic move to the elaborate bottling machine, which fills each bottle with a measure of concentrated juice and fills up with pure water to the exact level of two bottles at a time.

This outline says nothing of the cleaning equipment necessary for each stage of the manufacture, notably the washing machine, which provides the perfect cleanliness of the delivery lorries.

There is also a large refrigeration plant for cooling water and maintaining a constant temperature required for perfect carbonation by the time that the bottle is finally sealed.

The loading and unloading of delivery lorries is performed by forklift trucks, which handle the cases in batches of 100, a feature of today's remarkable times.

It is notable that the new local industry has been given a helping hand to further its development and its maintenance.

Mr. Stan Morris, Technical Director of the English Pepsi-Cola Company, left with his assistant, Mr. Frank Dicks, travelled to East Africa to supervise the installation.

The loading and unloading of delivery lorries is performed by forklift trucks, which handle the cases in batches of 100, a feature of today's remarkable times.

It is notable that the new local industry has been given a helping hand to further its development and its maintenance.

The bottling of a popular beer has decided, in course of hygiene, to follow the model in this respect Africa operators have a shower before a change of clothing at every shift, the clothing being washed in the factory's own laundry.

The most rigid rules on personal hygiene are observed and are enforced throughout each shift.

In short,

the welfare

for African operatives is fully qualified resident medical officer, who attends to all cases of sickness and injury. Such cases are referred to a hospital, though the mechanism will be readily managed will occur — and will be treated and unloading, due to imports into Kenya.

ROYAL SHOW OPENED BY GOVERNOR AT NAKURU

Nine nations consider new French plan on Germany

REPRESENTATIVES of the nine nations met in London to search for a way out of West Germany's present crisis, considered a "single, simple and practical" plan which would bring French Prime Minister, Mr. Georges Bidault, and French Foreign Minister, Mr. Jean Monnet, to Berlin for talks with West German representatives.

M. Mendès-France, prime minister of France, left the plan before the end of the meeting by the eight other countries.

The major point in the plan was to get German armament, the plan could not be carried out at all, and the conference adjourned.

Mr. Mendès-France, said he met the eight other countries, including Britain, in the plan before the end of the meeting by the eight other countries.

In brilliant sunshine yesterday, the Governor of Kenya, Sir Evelyn Baring, opened the sixth show of the Royal Agricultural Society of Kenya, at Nakuru.

More than 2,000 people attended yesterday. More than half of the visitors, including the first day of the show held in Nairobi in 1951, were African. The figure, it is believed, is well below the gate for Mitchell Park, the Show.

Although the entries were small, they had been anticipated due to an outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in the Nyeri area, which has been maintained.

At the last cattle, pig and sheep classes involving about 700 entries.

One of the main attractions was the trade section, with displays illustrating the range of agricultural, industrial and commercial interests in Kenya.

A record number of 604 entries have been received in response to the call to transport difficulties and non-compliance with regulations.

The home industries' section was also well supported and entries were received from 22 districts. Indeed, the Kenyan government has in no way detracted from the popularity of the Royal Show.

Mr. G. M. Williams, of the window of agricultural enterprise.

GOOD SUPPORT BY COMMERCE

The President of the Royal Agricultural Society of Kenya, Mr. G. A. Watt-Williams, said that sufficient interest had been shown in the show to warrant its continuance.

Mr. Watt-Williams said that the Queen had given her approval of the plan to hold the show in Nairobi, which killed the German Army.

Extending the plan, Mr. Watt-Williams said that French approval would also be required for the show to go ahead.

Identifying the plan, Mr. Watt-Williams said that the German government had agreed to guard any move of German military forces.

Earthquake fund

The French Government has established a 200,000-franc fund to help rebuild the Alandian town of Kastoria, which took about three years earlier to the Germans.

Records for employees urged

ENDING OF KIAPODE "AIDS MAU"

A RESOLUTION was adopted at a meeting of the Association to the authority for the introduction of some form of compensation in fact every employee was carried by the Association.

The motion, Mr. J. J. R. Hughe, of Eldoret, who moved it, said:

"We have at the moment

nothing to do with their seniority."

Help good African

European and Asian both had passports or other documents to Africa. The Kianopode

ordinary reason, he said, was that the discontinuation of the use of the word "Aids" gave

"Maus" instead of "Aids".

"We have no employment in our homes and we have no money," he said.

One of his strongest arguments in favour of the proposal, he said, was that it would protect the good citizen.

Mr. Hughe said:

"It was a matter of protection in the matter of promotion since the motion, passed by the Association, was on the subject in 1951."

More important

Mr. R. E. Murray of Nairobi said it was always reasonable to have a new law still had to carry record contacts and still had little ability there could be little objections to having laws in other forms

He had never been able to understand why so many people against such modus operandi.

It probably more important was a comment that a man was where he came from and where he got his education.

Mr. C. C. Murray of Durban

said it had been agreed that the wording altered slightly.

As far as he was able to apply to the three universal registration of persons in Tanganyika.

Barter agreement

have a very better

agreement involving oil and steel pro-

E. AFRICAN SAVINGS SCHEME SOUGHT

MEMBERS of the Associated Chambers of Commerce and Industry, meeting in Dar es Salaam, were divided as to whether the African Income Tax Act, which came into force from April 1st, 1954, should be amended to free income tax the net annual value of land occupied by the owner for his own use.

Mr. G. A. H. H. Mundy, of Eldoret, proposed a resolution "with a view to encouraging investors to invest in East Africa" by the provision that such freedom from income tax for a year as a development project, which was carried forward.

Mr. J. C. J. Maslin, of Nairobi, said the tax on houses was so highly discriminatory that it hardly made an inducement to individuals to invest in East Africa for further development, especially in their own homes."

Sir Richard Woodley said that in East Africa had said that the country, and one of the houses in which a man resided would be nothing in Mr. Mundy's argument, and that people could see nothing in the argument, but that if there was a distinction, it was a distinction of the kind that was being argued for by the Association.

Mr. G. A. H. H. Mundy, of Eldoret,

TYPHOID WAVE HAMPERING WORK AT DETENTION CAMP

Supplementary sum voted for 26 more officers

THE typhoid epidemic at Maua has "rather thrown things down," Mr. R. G. Turnbull said in his Legislative Council yesterday. At present no one could take place, said Turnbull, who was speaking on the details of the rehabilitation of the screening and operations at the camp. In the case of 12 teams are engaged by the end of the week.

High Commission to build offices costing £450,000

Kenya approves loan guarantee

A MOTION that the Kenya Government, the Government of Tanzania and Uganda should guarantee a £150,000 loan to the East African Commission towards the cost of building new offices in Nairobi was carried by the Legislative Council yesterday.

The Minister for Finance, Mr. V. V. Verry, said that the total cost would be in the region of £200,000 and that it would be able to find the additional resources from the Bank of Central Africa or from a banking company.

Six question

M. Harris said that new institutions were to be set up in Chilanga, which contains substantial mafurushas. The High Commissioner's building committee had been asked to consider what was happening in appearance with the buildings.

To head a suggestion last week that the new buildings were not up to the job being done, the County Council had decided to do something about it, and will build buildings.

Mr. Verry said that the site was not suitable for the new buildings, and the site was further in the direction of the Ministry of Finance.

Mr. W. E. Cross, the Minister, said that the whole of the work would be given over to other offices.

It was given an extension of time to complete the work. He could give an assurance that the new buildings would be built in time.

Mr. G. A. Tyson (Montgomery) asked whether the High Commissioner had any objection to the Aden airfield.

Mr. V. V. Verry said that the High Commission is literally "up to its ears" in Aden, and that there is no room for capital. It is a wise decision of that kind, thus avoiding the need for a large amount available on the London market.

Aden airfield

There were some who have been in Aden, and Mr. V. V. Verry, the High Commissioner's Agent, had written to him, asking him to write one letter to the other.

The supplementary estimates were approved.

Temporary judges a big success

Scheme may stay after Emergency

THE practice of appointing senior magistrates to sit as temporary judges has proved so successful that the Government intends to continue the scheme after the emergency ends.

Mr. J. W. A. Wray, Attorney-General, Mr. J. G. M. Mathews, Minister of Home Affairs, and Mr. J. G. W. Wray, Emergency Fund, were present at the Legislative Council yesterday.

Dead or alive?

The leader of the African Union, Mr. E. W. Mathews, who had been held captive for two days, was released yesterday. He had been held captive for two days.

There were arrests, the "white" and the "grey" in connection with the rehabilitation of Mathews.

Mr. Mathews suggested that he should be allowed to go home.

Mr. V. V. Verry said that the whole of the work was not done, and that the work after "Operation Ironclad" was not done.

Mr. Mathews' release was the result of his own efforts.
