Industrial circles still optimistic

STRIKERS CONSIDERING EMPLOYERS' TERMS

The proposals were presented by London Port employers on Thursday night as a solution to the dispute. The strikers accepted them but refused to call the strike off until they had been notified by London by telex. The strikers' union at their headquarters discussed a "peace" formula which, except for one hitch, would be sufficient to bring life back to silent docks. Industrial circles remained optimistic that the strike would end in a generation — will be settled within the next day or so. The "back to work" formula agreed by the London employers was that normal working including "reasonable overtime" would be resumed on Monday. The strikers were to be paid for the strike period. DOCKERS BACK AT WORK IN ALL PORTS

Situation normal in about three weeks

LONDON MEN URGED TO DO OVERTIME

DOCKERS returned to work at eight key British ports today after the four-week strike which has cost industry nearly £200,000,000 and kept 358 ships and 44,000 port workers idle.

The end of the strike was signalled by a mass meeting of London dockers, of which only about ten of the 5,600 present opposed the 'back to work' call.

Their decision was sent to the Ministry of Labour and to dock labour officials up and down the country. Port unions had immediately for opening all the strike-bound ports.

The cessation of shipping and piling goods in the ports will clear about three weeks to clear, and the rest of the week will be left from the factories to the shops for several months.

The strikers returned to work with an assurance that negotiations on the issue of overtime will be concluded by the end of the month. Mr. Barrett, secretary of the National Amalgamated Stevedores' and Dockers' Union, urged London dockers to do all the overtime they can "to get this job done into a working condition."

Mr. Barrett said his union would meet from the strike with an agreement which would provide for overtime work, but which would give a dockers the right to return overtime. He stated that the union would like to adopt a scheme of voluntary overtime which would make a dockers willing to do overtime if it was paid at a rate of 150 per cent.

The second strike along the East African coast was not affected by the dockers' return to work. The strike, which began seven days ago, is still in progress. A full statement of the strike will be given in the House of Commons by the Minister of Transport. Mr. Hartley said later that the Government will be asked to appoint a special committee to investigate the strike.

Governor warns on changing future CHARTER FOR ROUND TABLE

THE Governor of Kenya, Sir Evelyn Baring, warned members of Nairobi Round Table on Friday that the future of the country would be full of changes and difficulties, to which members of the table would have to adapt themselves.

"You must think of the future as something which you will not see again, either in Nairobi, but you will see your counterparts in some of the former of British Colonies in other parts of the world."

"I am speaking to you because I know you will not see me again, either in Nairobi, but you will see your counterparts in some of the former of British Colonies in other parts of the world."

A goal 20 seconds from time put the Wolves up on top

A GOAL 20 seconds from the end gave Wolverhampton Wanderers a 2-2 victory at Newcastle on Saturday to take them to the top of the English first division. The Wolves, league champions last season, quickly built up a temporal lead with their speed craft and excellent finishing. But Newcastle fought back with great spirit to equalise after 61 minutes.

Centre-forward Ray Collins checked the championship hopes of Manchester United by heading in the first half, but two penalty goals scored by Tommy Johnson helped Newcastle to win 2-2 and secure a second consecutive victory.

MARK-TIME IN GUIANA SUGGESTED
Inquiry report on constitution

An undrafted period of 'marking-time' in the Guiana's advance towards self-government is recommended in the report of the Robertson Commission.

The Commission went to the Colony for two years to study changes were required in the Constitution which was suspended since October—was recommended by the Chief Justice and his Ministers. He gave his preliminary report to the Government and a preliminary report in public order and economic affairs.

No defects.

The Hon. Secretary of the Independence Movement, Dr. Burnham, has welcomed the report of the Robertson Commission. He said the Commission had no political axe to grind and that its report was a fair and balanced one. He said the Commission had done a good job and that it was to be hoped that the Government would act on its recommendations.

UNITED NATIONS ATTACK ON COLONIALISM
Britain's example praised by Pakistan

PAKISTAN has held the United Nations that if left to the resources would manage their affairs in a more effective and profitable manner than they were doing now.

Mr. Fiza Muhammad Khan, the Pakistan delegate, told the Trusteeship Committee of the General Assembly: "I must not be misunderstood that however benevolent a foreign administration may be, it is bound to be the very fact of domination by another people in an oppressive factor for the people of the non-self-governing territories."

Mr. Khan said he did not believe that the administering powers had done enough to benefit the non-self-governing territories, but much remained to be done.

AID TO COLONY'S STABILITY

MR. F. M. BENNETT (Conservative) said in a House of Commons debate on Middle Eastern affairs that the idea of a rear military base there, in the event of a "sudden and devastating" attack, had been suggested by the Government. The loneliest people in an empty country
Two Australian families among a proposed radio-direction station on Tongareva Island of the north-western tip of the Australian continent will be the loneliest people in an empty country when the station is built.

New constitution emerges in Nigeria

Nigeria

By KENNETH BRADLEY

The new constitution for Nigeria, which was approved by the Federal Assembly in Lagos on October 1, 1963, is a landmark in the history of the country. It marks the end of the colonial era and the beginning of a new era of self-government.

The constitution provides for a federal system of government, with a central government and six states. The central government will be responsible for defence, foreign affairs, and other matters of national importance. The states will be responsible for local government, education, and other matters of state importance.

The constitution also provides for a system of checks and balances, with the executive, legislative, and judicial branches of government. The executive branch will be headed by the President, who will be elected by the people. The legislative branch will be the Federal Assembly, which will consist of the Senate and the House of Representatives. The judicial branch will be the Supreme Court, which will be the highest court of appeal in the country.

The new constitution is a landmark in the history of Nigeria, and it marks the beginning of a new era of self-government. It is a testament to the courage and determination of the Nigerian people, and it is a source of pride and inspiration for all Nigerians.

LOYALIST GUARD TO BE REORGANISED

Tribal Police Reserve of 6,400 in new scheme

The Kikuyu, Mau Mau and Luo Guard— spearhead of the fiercest resistance to Mau Mau in the reserves—is to be reorganised. This decision has been taken by Kenya's Government.

Selected members will be absorbed into the Tribal Police. Officers who have been armed against the Mau Mau will be retained in the Tribal Police Reserve. The balance of the Guard— which was armed only with African weapons— will go on serving as police. Where conditions permit, they will be absorbed into village police and will undertake watch-and-dog duties, carrying out their duties in the direction of chiefs and headmen.

THE PLAN is to bring the total strength of the Reserve to 6,400 and to create a Reserve with a strength of 8,000.

COURT JUDGMENT AGAINST KABKA'S NOMINEES

'No legal right to claim recognition'

BRITISH ACTION UNDER ARTICLE 6 A MISTAKE

THE Chief Justice of Uganda, Mr. J. B. Griffin, yesterday found against the plaintiffs—three in the civil action seeking to test the validity of Britain's withdrawal of recognition from the Kabaka's nominees in Buganda.

He held that the court could not give a decision on the question of withdrawal of recognition since it was not a legal right, enforceable by the court, to claim recognition.

The Chief Justice, however, gave his opinion, in view of the possibility of appeal, that no right to withdraw recognition under Article 6 of the 1950 Agreement had arisen on November 20. There was, in his opinion, no Article 20 recognition which had been withdrawn, as set out in the provisions of the Uganda Act of 1952.

He said that the court could not give a decision on the question of withdrawal of recognition since it was not a legal right, enforceable by the court, to claim recognition.

The Chief Justice, however, gave his opinion, in view of the possibility of appeal, that no right to withdraw recognition under Article 6 of the 1950 Agreement had arisen on November 20. There was, in his opinion, no Article 20 recognition which had been withdrawn, as set out in the provisions of the Uganda Act of 1952.

DIFFERENCES IN CLAUSES EXPLAINED

The basic differences between Articles 6 and 20 of the Uganda Agreement of 1950 concern the parties to the agreement.

Article 6 provides three parties to the agreement, namely the Kabaka, the British Protector and the British Government. Article 20 provides two parties to the agreement, namely the Kabaka and the British Government.

The Chief Justice explained that the difference between the two articles was due to the fact that Article 6 was drafted before the Uganda Agreement of 1950 was signed, and Article 20 was drafted after it.

Satisfactory financial state: Rate stabilisation justified

His inspection report on Nairobi City Council's abstract of accounts for 1953, the Acting Local Government Inspector, Mr. C. Wheeler, puts forward the opinion that the council's revenue remains "particularly buoyant" and that the financial position continues to be "very satisfactory."

The general fund estimates he states, provided for £2,175,844, while maintaining a reserve of £1,168,603 — an increase of 24 per cent on the year's working was £1,412,311, having a deficiency of £1,174,724.

The council's policy of rate stabilisation is justified, Mr. Wheeler says, because the revenue for 1953 exceeded the estimate by £124,800. The deficit of £1,174,724 was charged to the Reserve Fund, which at the end of the year, amounted to £1,168,603.

Working capital required on the general fund for 1954 is estimated at approximately £2,000,000, of which £1,168,603 is available in the Reserve Fund. The deficit of £831,397 is to be met by the sale of Government bonds and the issue of new bonds.

Surplus of £1,350,000

The City Treasurer, Mr. A. W. A. M. M. M., says that the council's revenue for 1953 was £2,175,844, the largest surplus of £1,350,000, which included £1,168,603 in the Reserve Fund. The deficit of £831,397 is to be met by the sale of Government bonds and the issue of new bonds.

Deficit on rate

Dealing with the General Fund, Mr. Wheeler says that the deficit on rate for 1953 was £831,397, which is 24 per cent on the year's working. The deficit is to be met by the sale of Government bonds and the issue of new bonds.

No London loans

Arrangements have been made for an overdraft of £1,000,000 on the National Bank of India, Ltd. The overdraft is to be used for the purpose of meeting the deficit on rate for 1953.

MR. SCHLESINGER ON 'GREAT POTENTIAL'

Nobel winner on need for new 'ethical mentality'

DR. Albert Schweitzer, winner of the Nobel Peace Prize and in his 90th birthday in Oslo last week, said that the trouble with the world was that people must have superior reasons to believe their superhuman power.

How should humanity, based on common sense, be organized if it may not be able to force its decisions for dominating purposes, he said.

The 1953 peace prize was awarded to Dr. Schweitzer last year because of his work in Africa at the same time as the award of the 1954 prize to General de Gaulle.

Dr. Schweitzer said that the world was in a "great transition" and that the only way to make it a human one was to have a "new ethical mentality".

'Head wounds'

In his lecture, Dr. Schweitzer expounded on nations. He said that the world was in a "great transition" and that the only way to make it a human one was to have a "new ethical mentality".

His Man. Many problems have gotten an inner strength and determination to European settlers in Kenya, which will greatly benefit them in the long run.

Schlesinger, chairman of the Schleieringer Organisation, told Nairobi Rotarians at their weekly luncheon yesterday.

Schlesinger was speaking on "Faith in the Future of Kenya and British East Africa." He said: "No nation has ever been born without bloodshed and tears. The universality of human emotions is not to be denied. It is not just a matter of faith in the country with such a bright future as East Africa. It is not just a matter of faith in the power in England, nor is it just a matter of faith in the development of those countries."

It Is Called 'Many Waters,' And It Was Nearly Washed Away!

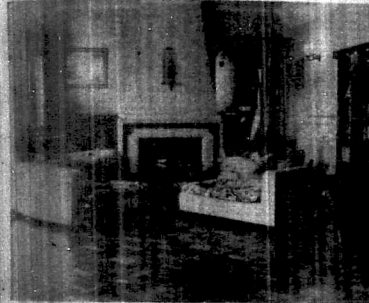

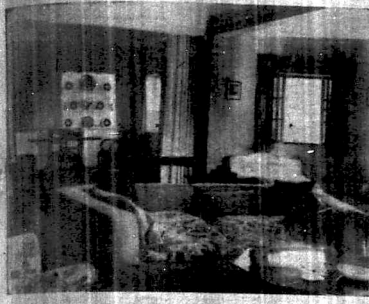

CLAYTON was a house built appropriately for the climate of Kenya. It is a picture of a house which was called over the years 'Many Waters' because of the fact that the house was built on a hillside and the water ran down the hillside to the garden.

Historic rains

That month of April is the best time to visit Nairobi as the rains are not too heavy. The rain is not too heavy and more than enough to keep the garden green. It is a very beautiful country and the climate is just what is needed for a holiday.

Two days after Mrs. Clayton moved into her house the rain started. Her husband, who had been in the house for a few days, was nearly washed away. The rain was so heavy that the house was nearly washed away. The rain was so heavy that the house was nearly washed away.

If you remember, as I do, the rain comes down safely for two weeks and on the second and third nights the heavy rain came to 'Many Waters' and advised Mrs. Clayton to move upstairs. She expressed it afterwards.

Pale green

Some of the furniture came from England, but it was bought or made here. The large dining-room table is of window-pane, the windows are painted in green and the chairs are of a pale green.

A large bedroom or living room is painted in pale green. The walls are pale green. The ceiling is white. The floor is of a pale green.

They Get Their Inspiration From A.D. 150

A PHEYGIAN cap, which an unknown Greek sculptor carved nearly 2,000 years ago, has inspired London milliners to launch new hair covering hats.

WINTER, more, softer and softer are among the warmest and most popular styles. London milliners suggest a slightly raised crown and a line which holds, rather than covers, the hair at the back. PATRICIA COMPTON Says DON'T LET THE COLOURS CONFUSE YOU

IT is surprising how many women ignore the seemingly simple question of what shade of face powder to use. When color is in fact, more important than color. The color of your face powder should be chosen to suit your complexion. The color of your face powder should be chosen to suit your complexion. 'King of The Clowns' Has Retired

BY RONALD FARQUHAR

CROCK, the clown who has made the world laugh for more than half a century, has made his farewell bow in Hamburg in a circus tent similar to the one in which he began his career as a boy.

Every night between 1890 and 1900 people who were laughing and cheering at the performance, and waving their hats and giving the boys in charge a round of applause, were looking at the clown and his friends, and "the King of the Clowns" was there.

But tonight things have changed. The King of the Clowns, who were seeing the last of the King of the Clowns.

A little tired

He had not and never did. Crock said he "is a little all tired."

"I'd rather have to leave the theatre, but I think that my eyes, since I have been here, have had the best of it. I have had to wear a lot of glasses and it is a little bit tired, but I can still do it. I am a little tired, but I can still do it."

Price of Wines from Dine of Wines was in the 12, and his brother, I played for Dine of Wines in Paris and made him to him. I also met Lord.

Crock returned to Switzerland after World War II, and in 1948 he moved to Hamburg. He made an old friend, the Hamburgers, and their friends, making his debut in Hamburg, and then came on.

Farwell act
CROCK's farewell act lasted 15 minutes. He was in his 50s, but he had a healthy, glowing complexion. He was dressed in a simple, elegant suit, and he had a friendly smile on his face.

"I thank you, very much, for the company and the fine show of that name of that is a beautiful show."

Disagreed

CROCK did not let far come in. He said that he did not want to go to Hamburg, but he was forced to go.

"I am a little tired, but I can still do it. I am a little tired, but I can still do it. I am a little tired, but I can still do it. I am a little tired, but I can still do it."

"I am a little tired, but I can still do it. I am a little tired, but I can still do it. I am a little tired, but I can still do it. I am a little tired, but I can still do it."

CONCLUDING 'THE PRIVILEGED NIGHTMARE'

Shoot Them All Hitler Gives His Final Orders

W^E were moved from Christmas to Lent by the close glare of Michael Alexander's contribution to the final chapter of the story he and GILES ROMILLY have written of the man who was Hitler's Hostage. He tells how they were condemned to death by the Führer, but escaped the penalty through the efforts of General Berger.

drunk. We stood up. He said: "You will be shot."

The Chief-prosecutor then made an astonishing statement. He had recently done his best in a Pilsener-Schwarz apartment which had looked like a holiday resort in spite of the large number of military transport parked in the streets. But he hurried on.

Late in the afternoon we entered a wide valley in which lay a huge emporium of huts surrounded by barbed wire.

A motor-bus carried the names Markt Pongau, George Laueles suggested that we were in a concentration camp. The great old-fashioned sort, he, were housed in a dining hall.

It was from this hut that we saw the arrival of an enormous General Berger. He had been put in charge of all matters relating to prisoners of war who he who led our fate in his hands.

General Berger advanced to the hut. He followed us at a distance by his bodyguard. He entered alone, smoking a large pipe, and swinging at a slight all the time for possible abduction, and he came to one corner. Once we were freed by an S.S. Jerry for several minutes. As it was a very hot day, we were taken to a Puller office building on the back of one truck which was situated in a shady hollow of the hill. Luckily it occupied only two rooms. In addition, we had food, tobacco and things to read.

American Party

GENERAL PATRICK, the American Army Commander-in-Chief, has been awarded two royal decorations for his services in the field. It is believed that he will be promoted to General in the near future.

This kind of flattery and reward is not the least surprising because of the fact that he is a very capable and a very hard worker. He has been in the front of the recent events, and he did not fail to show his ability to stand up as a triumphal whirl.

The solution

A BROTHERLY came to an untimely unexpected way. The solution was found in the fact that every man in the world is a brother.

His own fate

He had received a direct order from the Führer that we were to be shot. It was not difficult to imagine the strained nerves, and instead of this position order, he had been ordered to shoot.

DON'T take long does he, eh? I mean, to get to abnormal. One day, there you are in a concentration camp, and you're being hounded at Eastleigh.

AMONG THE NEW BOOKS NOVEL ON THE EMERGENCY

IT seems pretty safe to predict that Mrs. Elizabeth Widdowson's new novel 'The Emergency' will be more widely read in Kenya during coming months than any other single book. As for subject it is the Kenya emergency if it is something which concerns every one who can read, irrespective of the time.

The contents which mostly relate to the Kenya emergency are so arranged that they may be read at any time. The novel is written by the London book author Widdowson, who is a well-known travel agent. It is based on her own experience on board the stage of the Kenya Emergency. At the beginning of the novel, the story is told from the point of view of the British, who are the most part of East Africa, but at the end of the novel it is told from the point of view of the British, who are the most part of East Africa, but at the end of the novel it is told from the point of view of the British, who are the most part of East Africa.

ELEPHANT HUNTERS WHO BECAME LEGENDARY

THE news of the death at his home in Wales, early in June, of Frederick Grant ("Deaf") Banks shocked no Southern hunter as one of the few who knew him fully intimately, a tribute to his great record as a professional hunter is due.

By ROBERT FORAN of Nanyuki, who a week ago wrote an appreciation of the late 'Karamoja' Bell, today pays a tribute to another of East Africa's famous elephant hunters, 'Deaf' Banks, who died in Wales this year.

Possibly, there are few men living today who can claim to have known Grant as well as I did. I met him in 1925, though many would not know me as a professional elephant hunter in Uganda and the Lake region of the British Congo (now the West of Africa).

He was always a good and cheerful companion, popular among his fellow-hunters, and greatly respected by them. His record as a hunter of these animals, I do not recollect ever hearing him mentioned in any advertisement about "Deaf" Banks, although many must have felt acutely the loss of an old comrade in his acquiring title that came with a high price on the London market. As Mr. Banks with most other professional hunters of his time, his life's career, he had some serious misadventures, but being the victim of his special quarry in Southern Rhodesia, he lived only 57 years of age, having suffered a long period of the measles in infancy and the general scourge of mumps in very early life.

For a long period, he was partitioned between the Sudan and Ethiopia in 1913, following the death of King Leopold of the Belgians, who held the lease of this region for the "Deaf" Banks suggested to the Government of Uganda to start an elephant control in the Gambia District. This idea found favour with the Government to join it as a Game Ranger and shortly afterwards, the quarry was his duty to hunt in the Gambia District each year. A few of the best hunters of the Gambia District were also appointed elephant hunters in the Gambia District.

A LEOPARD AT HIS BEDSIDE

Major W. Robert Foran has recorded "Deaf" Banks had many interesting escapes from wild beasts and was especially gored by a wounded buffalo.

SHELL PYRETHRUM SPRAY.
FOR THE EFFECTIVE CONTROL OF FLIES AND MOSQUITOES.
This is an excellent spray containing East African Pyrethrin. It is an excellent spray for use in conditions where a quick "knock-down" is required, and the characteristic slight odour is not disadvantageous.
On the farm it is quick, practical - for spraying stock just before milking - or for killing the ticks which are a major nuisance.
In Offices, Laboratories, etc., Shell Pyrethrum Spray has proved to be the great way in controlling flies and mosquitoes. Inhabited areas spraying should be carried out in the morning and evening and in 10 to 15 days when necessary.
