NEED SCOPE WITH TARIFFS

Industrial countries' view

THERE is general recognition among industrial countries that the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) should give the under-developed countries more flexibility in negotiating their tariffs that are beyond the present text of GATT, but when this text is put into effect it will be necessary to provide a special arrangement for under-developed countries.

It may also be necessary to view the GATT in the light of the protective quantitative restrictions for future industries. It would not appear impossible to devise a system to meet the legitimate needs of under-developed countries to adjust the export tax to the needs of industrial countries. It is to be noted that the under-developed countries have a special interest in the GATT and it is hoped that the GATT will be able to help to develop their commercial policy for the benefit of all over the world rather than leaving the development to unilateral action.

Some reluctance

One difficulty which the industrial countries have is that they are essential to the under-developed countries. The industrial countries are the definition of the under-developed countries. If Governmental control over the under-developed countries is to be maintained, it is necessary to have a low level of development. It will probably be necessary to have a low level of development. It will probably be necessary to have a low level of development. It will probably be necessary to have a low level of development.

Important landmark

Conditions were perfect for Ngong races

Conditions were perfect for racing at Ngong on Saturday, with a slight breeze blowing down the course and the going very good. Prizes were equally divided, with no runner leading more than one winner, and Arthur Lester was the only jockey to ride more than one winner.

It was disappointing that the field was so small for the 1000 yards race, but the race was well run and the winner, a colt named 'The Duke', was a very good specimen. The 1000 yards race was won by 'The Duke' in 1:10.00, with 'The Duke' being the only runner to lead more than one winner.

Outlook for tea industry still bright

The Financial Times forecast that the general outlook for the tea industry is bright. In a special article the newspaper says that the fundamental support of the "young world" is expected to show signs of being lifted.

Two factors might act as a brake on tea consumption, it says. One is the trend of coffee and other beverages in the United Kingdom, which would not be felt for some time.

SIANS DESTROY U.S. PLANE OFF JAPAN Shot down in flames by MiGs: One dead WASHINGTON PROTEST ON 'PIRATICAL ATTACK'

TWO Soviet MiG fighters destroyed a routine States Superfortress aircraft while on a routine photographic mapping mission off the coast of Hokkaido, Japan's northernmost island, according to reports from Washington. One of the crew of 11 was killed.

The State Department said that a protest had been sent to Moscow over what Gen. John Hill, the United Nations commander in the Far East, described as a "piratical attack." It is the fifth American plane since Japan to be shot down by Russian aircraft since November, 1951.

Twenty men are known to have died.

The captain of the Superfortress, Capt. Anthony Felt, said that he was 12 miles from the Japanese territorial air when he was attacked by the MiGs. An engine and a fuel tank on the port side were hit. He called for help from American fighters and then ordered his crew to abandon the blazing plane. Ten parachuted to safety; the eleventh man was rescued and found by Japanese fishermen.

Capt. Felt said: "It was the first time I had seen Communist MiGs and I did not know for certain they had hit us." The Russians were "definitely out to kill us, not just to scare us off." The Superfortress was armed but he did not return the Soviet fire as his primary mission was to take photographs.

It was stated that a Japanese police observation post that the plane flew in from the Pacific with white smoke pouring from an engine. It plunged from the sky in a steep dive over Nemuro at the eastern tip of Hokkaido. The attack took place in an area where the Americans have had several similar encounters with fighter planes from Soviet-held islands which are near by.

Joseph Neuh, State Department Press officer, said that the United States Embassy in Tokyo had been notified by the Soviet Embassy in Washington that the plane was shot down by MiGs. He said that the plane was shot down by MiGs. He said that the plane was shot down by MiGs.

SPECTRE OF WAR LOOMS LESS OMINOUSLY

Mr. Eisenhower pines hopes on U.S. plan chance of improving relations with Russia

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER, speaking at Boston, said that the spectre of war loomed less threateningly than for a long time and the prospects for an enduring and lasting peace were the brightest for some years. He was in honor of the convention of the National Council of Catholic Women.

The United States leader departed from his text to make reference to the brighter prospects for peace should he added such instances of movement as the shooting down of an American aircraft off the coast of Spain by Soviet-bell fighters on Sunday.

The struggle for lasting world peace must be waged through the United Nations and in every other possible way. He added that every American should support his proposal for an international pool of atomic energy resources with manageable limits and scope of negotiations between the United States and the Soviet Union.

"I deeply believe that, regardless of the Soviet decision, peace will be furthered as we go along with friendly nations to turn this new science to the arts of civilization."

Appealing for better international understanding, Mr. Eisenhower said: "Above all, feed the religious quality of compassion, the ability to feel the sorrows of others, though they were our own. If others in every land could teach their children to understand the sorrows and hopes of children in every other land, there would be a new peace in the Near East, in Asia, the cause of peace in the world would be readily served."

The President said that the world was in a "wonderful peace" and that the "hope that the world would be another year of peace is stronger than ever."

U.N. plea for political information in colonies

The Trusteeship Committee of the United Nations General Assembly, already well behind schedule, has completed one item of its agenda—the first of the present session. This concerns information from non-self-governing territories.

Police demonstrations

Violent clashes were South African, between the South African Police and the United States, Denmark, Norway and Sweden.

Those supporting the proposal argued that the request for political information was fully considered with the Charter. But those opposing said it was not a question of political information, but that the transmission of such information was partly excluded under the relevant paragraph of the Charter.

EXPERT BLAMES COMET SEALING FOR CRASHES

Metal fatigue discounted

MR BRINDO JABLONSKI, an aeronautical engineer and test pilot, suggested at the meeting in London that the cause of the Comet crashes of 1954 and Naples, that the weak spot in the structure was the use of adhesive instead of rivets.

Mr. Jablonski, who said he had been associated with aeronautical development for 25 years, said he had been a pupil of Sir. Neville Martin Bonar, had written a paper on the subject of the inquiry into the Comet disaster.

He said he agreed with Mr. Bonar's conclusions that the metal fatigue was not the cause of the crash, but that the use of adhesive was the cause.

The Libération Organisation for Economic Co-operation, surveying British economic conditions in mid-1954, reported yesterday that sterling was "appreciably stronger than at any time since the war."

The Organisation made this statement in its first report on the economic situation in the United Kingdom based on facts and figures compiled recently by the Government.

It said that the general conditions in the United Kingdom were "stronger than at any time since the war" and that the "strength of sterling was appreciably stronger than at any time since the war."

... "tea-tray in the sky"

That first airplane mail service by their new friend, the bomber, is one of many wonderful moments for children who travel to and from the U.K. by the Salford Service, Airwork's most recent East African enterprise. This one service is a boon to parents, too, not only because of the comfort and interest of the trip, but because low Salford fares are so kind to family finances. Although Airwork has been well-known for many years throughout East Africa, this service is only a relatively small part of the company's interests. In the United Kingdom Airwork Limited, established in 1928, has long been known as a leader in private enterprise air flying. The Airwork Organisation, apart from specializing in transport operations, includes divisions concerned with aircraft maintenance, modification, purchase and sale of aircraft, administration of flying schools and clubs, radio sales and repair and insurance. The Airwork fleet includes 4-engine and twin-engine aircraft as well as smaller types, and is headed by large fast modern four-engine transport aircraft. Airwork Limited holds long-term contracts from the United Government, Admiralty and Air Ministry. The Company's aircraft are employed in troop-carrying between the Canal Zone, Nairobi, West Africa, East Africa, Rhodesia and London, annually transporting over 20,000 troops; they are also running regular passenger services for the Sudan Government, and for the Great Q.C. Companies and other large organisations. On behalf of the Admiralty and Air Ministry the Company operates and maintains piston aircraft servicing and repair organisations in the United Kingdom, much of the work being undertaken on behalf of well-known aircraft manufacturers and airlines. The comfort, efficiency and economy of the Salford Service are the expression of this experience and of Airwork's firmly held views on the possibilities of air travel as a low-cost everyday mode of travel for everybody.

KILINDINI WHARF OPENS TODAY

Land reclaimed from the sea

The new lightening wharf at Kilindini Harbour, Mombasa, recently completed by the East African Railways and Harbours Administration at a cost of about £270,000, is to be officially opened today by Capt. C. W. Simley, who has been relieved from the position of Director-General of Ports and Lights, Kilindini. An area of 200 acres has been reclaimed from the sea behind the new wharf, involving 172,000 cubic yards of earthwork, most of which was excavated from the back of the port area.

New crates

On the reclaimed land, which is rail-served, a transit shed 400 ft by 170 ft clear span has been erected and there are, in addition, two storage sheds with a combined floor area of 22,400 sq. ft.

The wharf outside of eight ship-bulk berths, each of which carries a three-ton fixed crane. Before and after the opening ceremony, a party of about 200 persons, representing the Government, Commerce and other firms, who will be travelling from Mombasa and other ports of the Harbours Administration, will be accommodated in a new 100-bed hotel at the wharf. The hotel will be the first of a series of hotels which the Government will develop along the coast to cater for the increasing number of tourists visiting Mombasa.

£420,000 PROPOSALS TO SPEED GOODS TRAFFIC

New locomotives delayed

EXPENDITURE of £420,000 for immediate development works in East Africa has been recommended by the Transport Advisory Council. The new proposals coincide with news from London that delivery of the first of the new large 80-class locomotives—expected this month—has been further postponed by the makers until next January of February.

The expenditure of £420,000 was recorded by the committee as a net cost of £100,000 after a grant of £320,000 from Mombasa, but it is expected that the United Kingdom Government will contribute the balance of £100,000.

Procedure changes

The new plans to take the proposal to a final vote composed these months' censure, although the Transport Advisory Council has recommended that the censure motion be shelved until the arrival of the new 80-class locomotives.

The council and the harbour committee have suggested changes also to procedure and a number of resolutions to settle the matter. The committee has recommended that the censure motion be shelved until the arrival of the new 80-class locomotives.

How to stop the deep lying forwards

ONE of the biggest talking points in football today is the deep-lying centre-forward technique as practised by Hilsenrath of Hungary, Honniss Allen, Bronnwich Albion, and now adopted by Don Rivalz of Manchester City, writes Harry Johnson in "Soccer School" article No. 2.

Let me say right away that Manchester City have done a very great deal of good by laying this sophisticated style on the forwards. It is a method which has brought them the greatest success in the game. It is a method which will be the province of some of the greatest players of the future.

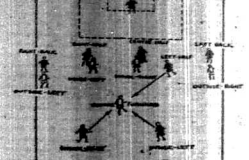

What are the reasons for this? It is a method which is a combination of the best of both worlds. It is a method which is a combination of the best of both worlds. It is a method which is a combination of the best of both worlds.

What should you do? Should your centre-half chase him in his mid-air? No, you should a wing-half be detailed to the job. O should you try to trade man out of your own forward line to shadow this man?

It is my opinion that a set of tactics to tackle the problem of all this, a defence which is not a man, and that has never been used before.

In practice. In practice the deep-lying centre-forward is a man who is a wing-half to take him. If the centre-forward does all over the field, then it should be up to the man who is nearest to him.

Must be good ball player. To a certain extent, the deep-lying centre-forward has got to be a good ball player. The defence must be able to play with him.

This is how the deep-lying centre-forward is a man who is a wing-half to take him. It is a method which is a combination of the best of both worlds.

JUST THE LUCK OF THE GAME

BLACKPOOL'S success in the League Cup has been a surprise to many. It is a method which is a combination of the best of both worlds.

It is my opinion that a set of tactics to tackle the problem of all this, a defence which is not a man, and that has never been used before.

WINSTON LOOKS AT FUTURE OF MANKIND

Choice of war or prosperity open

COMMONWEALTH UNITS BRIGHTER THAN EVER

SIR WINSTON CHURCHILL said in London that he looked forward to the time when humanity might move along a smooth channel of peace and plenty "instead of roaming and peering around on the rim of hell." He was speaking at the traditional banquet given in Guildhall by the new Lord Mayor of London, Ald. H. Seymour, yesterday.

The Prime Minister commented that he could not believe the human race would find its way through the problems that confronted it, although more are separated at present by a measureless gulf.

"If the human race wishes to have a prolonged and indefinite period of material prosperity, they have only to behave in a patient and helpful way towards one another, and accept will for all that they wish and more than they can dream."

"If of course their wish is to be quarrelsome and think it fun to hit one another, there is no doubt that every day they can kill each other in a quarrelsome manner, than ever before. The choice is theirs." Man was becoming increasingly master of his own fate and increasingly ignorant of what was going to be done for him.

Mr. Winston, after referring to Britain's alliance with the United States and European countries in an effort to create "peace through strength," remarked that they must also make sure that a man's complete understanding of the Commonwealth and its varied allied among all members of the Commonwealth was not unity and mastery show over more highly.

Advent of atomic weapons regretted

The Prime Minister, commenting a question in the House of Commons, said that he was sure it would have been a very good thing if the advent of atomic weapons had been delayed.

'Kaleba' trial opens at Nyeri

EVIDENCE ON FINDING OF 'LEAKY' ARTICLES

ARTICLES marked with the name 'Leaky' were alleged to have been found in a cove on the slopes of Mount Kenya at the time of the arrest of Kibaki, known as Kaleba, and said to have been leader of terrorist forces operating from the mountain. Evidence on the discovery of the articles was given in the Emergency Assize Court at Nyeri yesterday when Kaleba was charged with two other men and a woman on two counts — unlawful possession of a revolver and unlawful possession of a revolver and ammunition.

The charges were made by the Attorney-General, Mr. J. M. Wainwright, who said that the articles were found in a cove on the slopes of Mount Kenya at the time of the arrest of Kibaki, known as Kaleba, and said to have been leader of terrorist forces operating from the mountain.

FEARS FOR COMMITTEE ON SOUTH-WEST AFRICA U.S. withdraws support

THE United States announced in the United Nations that it was withdrawing its support for the Committee on South-West Africa. The United States had previously announced that it would not become a member of the committee, but it had not formally invited it to do so. Three other members of the committee, Brazil, Mexico and Pakistan, said they would like to see the committee's position in the future.

These three countries wanted the committee to be a permanent body, but the United States wanted it to be a temporary body. The United States also wanted the committee to be a permanent body, but it wanted it to be a temporary body.

Deadline involved

The rejection of attitude came from the Trusteeship Committee's change of a resolution referring to the International Court of Law competence for the United Nations to decide on matters relating to South-West Africa.

The recommendation of the Trusteeship Committee was that the United Nations should not decide on matters relating to South-West Africa. The Trusteeship Committee also recommended that the United Nations should not decide on matters relating to South-West Africa.

Mandate obligations

The chairman objected to the Trusteeship Committee's attention to two conditions. One, approval by Britain, France, the Netherlands, Liberia and the Philippines, referred to in the report, was not in the opinion of the Trusteeship Committee. The second condition was that the United Nations should not decide on matters relating to South-West Africa.

The chairman stated the United Nations should cooperate with the committee on South-West Africa and should not decide on matters relating to South-West Africa. The chairman also stated that the United Nations should cooperate with the committee on South-West Africa.

South Africa awaits choice of new Prime Minister

FROM ASHLEY HAWKINS, Pretoria

SOUTH AFRICA is anxiously awaiting November 30 when a new Prime Minister will be chosen to succeed Dr. Daniel Malan, retiring leader of the Nationalist Party and father of apartheid. The official Nationalist Party caucus will meet in Johannesburg on November 29 to elect a new Prime Minister, a special meeting.

It is generally believed that the issue must be settled before the party meets before it comes to a caucus vote.

When Dr. Malan announced his intention to resign on October 11 at a special meeting of the party, he was accepted that he would be succeeded by either the Minister and Minister of Finance, the Hon. Johannes Strijdom, who at 73 is a veteran politician with a reputation to be Prime Minister.

This was said to be the only way to avoid a split in the party. The Minister of the Interior, Mr. J. G. Strijdom, who at 73 is a veteran politician with a reputation to be Prime Minister.

NON-CONFORMIST VIEWS ON 'WAR IN KENYA'

A COMMENTARY

... views on the situation in Kenya ...

The situation in Kenya is a complex one, involving the interests of the British, the African people, and the United Nations. It is a situation that requires a non-conformist approach to its resolution.

The British government has a long history of involvement in Kenya, and it is this history that has led to the current situation. The African people, on the other hand, have a strong desire for independence and self-determination.

The United Nations has been called upon to mediate between the two sides, but its efforts have been largely ineffective. This is because the British government has refused to accept the principle of self-determination for the African people.

It is time for the British government to change its policy and to accept the principle of self-determination for the African people. This is the only way to achieve a lasting peace in Kenya.

The African people should be given the opportunity to elect their own representatives to the National Assembly. This will allow them to have a say in their own future.

The United Nations should also be given a greater role in the resolution of the Kenyan problem. It should be empowered to enforce its decisions and to ensure that the British government complies with its obligations.

Only through a non-conformist approach can the Kenyan problem be resolved. The British government must accept the principle of self-determination for the African people, and the United Nations must be empowered to enforce its decisions.

Nyeri assessors' unanimous finding of 'guilty'

Judgment will be given in the Emergency Amice Court at Nyeri this morning on Gideon Kibuka, alleged to be the former leader of the Mau Mau, operating from Mount Kenya. He is jointly charged with three other Africans with having unlawful possession of a 45 revolver and of 10 magazines of ammunition.

SUBSIDIES POLICIES ATTACKED

Customs, chief's view of Gatt

MR. J. P. D. JOHNSON, New Zealand Commissioner of Customs, said yesterday at the Gatt conference in Geneva that certain trade developments tended to lessen the value of Gatt and if modified could render its whole structure inoperative.

"I refer particularly to systems of preferential trade arrangements, to policies of subsidisation including export credit arrangements, to dumping, and to certain types of financial trade agreements," he said.

The liberalisation of quantitative controls New Zealand's trade policy, he said, "is the spirit in which further trade agreements should be concluded."

Recognition urged

Mr. Johnson said suitable recognition must be given to the needs of under-developed countries.

ROYAL MAID DISPLACES THE FAVOURITE

ROYAL MAID, a three-year-old filly, who has won five of her seven races, was the favourite for the 12th day of Wednesday's Victoria Club calendar via tomorrow's Manxworth Normal Handicap, expiating the fact that she was scratched in the Derby, Epsom, and 1000 Guineas, when she finished in high temperature and was under veterinary treatment.

A doctor in his telephone interview said that the filly had been very well up to the new Victoria Club track, but had to be taken to the hospital last week because of a high temperature. ## Fertilisers boost yield of sorghum in Zanibar

NITROGEN, introduced in the form of sulphuric acid ammonia, considerably increased the yield of the kinyungu sorghum which forms an important crop in Zanibar island. The Protectorate's Department of Agriculture reports that the increase in sorghum and batanyu output are given.

Experiments

For the past few years, the Department has been carrying out a series of experiments on the amount of nitrogen and potassium in the soil and the amount of manure and guano to be applied to the soil in a position to make "fairly fine" recommendations. According to the quarterly bulletin:

An average increase of 100 lbs. per acre of sorghum was recorded in the 1955-56 season. The increase is worth about £22. While the fertilizer cost 27/-.

The results also show that very often potash also causes small but significant increases in the yield of sorghum. It is concluded that the fertilizer should be applied in the following proportions: 100 lbs. of nitrogen, 100 lbs. of potassium and 100 lbs. of phosphorus per acre.

Similar results were obtained in fertilizer experiments with maize on the kinyungu soils. The Department's recommendations are a dressing with sulphate of ammonia, but state that the effect of potash is more uncertain, resulting in only small increases in yield.

THE CAMERAMAN GOES TO BRITAIN'S ZOOS

HARDLY a week passes when Britain's zoos do not provide a story and of course a picture, for the zoos are a cameraman's paradise.

Quite often they are amusing like the one on top left in which the baby Indian elephant, Lakshmi, at the London Zoo, strikes a kittenish pose with the tyre which is her favourite plaything.

Or what of the two gorillas? "That is not the way to use a chair at all," Josephine, on the left, seems to be saying to Congo, her consort.

Josephine and Congo live at the Bristol Zoo, the only zoo in Britain with a pair of male and female gorillas.

The protesting lion cubs, whose father was a lioness, are held, top right, by Christine Robson, a girl keeper at Dudley Zoo in Worcestershire. They are male and female twins who were the first to be born at the zoo since the war.

Chris, the London Zoo's baby giraffe, should have a special appeal for you. She was born at the zoo to Maud, a Baringo giraffe of the Kenya species. Chris is only the second African-born giraffe to survive in 46 years.

And what of Maud, the London Zoo polar bear? He didn't mean to fall asleep but he was thinking of this and that and along came the Sandeman to take him into this state of blissful repose.

The baby South American llama, seen below with its mother, is quite an unusual fellow for he was born at sea. And the captain of the ship named him Thorpe after the vessel in which he was born.

AN EXHIBITION OF LINGERIE

Few people realise how much the change in the type of lingerie worn by the modern woman is directly attributable to the advent of man-made fibres.

Before then, how heavy, how dull, how unattractive were the undergarments worn by the modern woman! Today, a woman may, at a moment's notice, change from a heavy, old-fashioned corset to a light, airy, and comfortable garment. This is due to the quick glance at the new styles of lingerie displayed by the British Manufacturers' Federation, which could not but enhance this impression. The inherent quality of lingerie was largely associated with the ballet in this exhibition, and some very charming accessories of jewelry, fans and caps, were also on display.

Fairy-like

On entering the display room a fairy-like scene met one's gaze. An attractive display in the shape of the left shoulder, a black nylon and rose pink ball-gown with matching set shoes, styled by a designer, complete the whole scene. The right shoulder, a black and white nylon set, with a matching set of shoes, is also available in a variety of styles.

made fibre—product and national in the United States. This type of construction has always been regarded as the most desirable for lingerie, but now due to the high quality since the early days' 'Tubey' was introduced, man-made fibres can give the impression of lace, stockings or of permanent pleating. This is due to the fact that the new limited edition was the first to bring the new styles and types, but happily combined a new material, known as 'Terylene' at first, together with a lovely accompanying fabric.

Rayon

Rayon, of course, has been the pioneer fibre in the knitted fabric field and still continues to hold a very high place. Although her part in this exhibition, since the concentration on the most widely-used, respected and popular fabric. Particularly interesting was the fine white netting used by Helen Hart, which was a beautiful hand work and a fine, soft, ribbon-trimmed slip.

Myrtle is an evergreen known, making an important contribution in the lingerie field with its quality of permanent pleating, and very soft, elastic, and were on view at the entrance to the display in a low-shouldered set, finished with a wide band, to give the same effect as the lace and nylon sets.

New process

The new process of man-made fibres has been widely used by the leading lingerie designers of London, but how do the girls still remain, lovely but in a quality of modernity in the new fashion for the short skirt which will hold the line of a dress.

The particular quality of the new fibres is so soft and so comfortable in the same way as the natural fibres, but it is more resistant to wear and tear, and it is more resistant to staining.

Colours

Colour is a most interesting feature in the lingerie field. The most recent developments in the production of synthetic dyes have made it possible to produce a wide range of colours, and it is this which has made it possible to produce a wide range of colours, and it is this which has made it possible to produce a wide range of colours.

Lace has always been a popular material in the production of lingerie, and it is this which has made it possible to produce a wide range of colours, and it is this which has made it possible to produce a wide range of colours.

It is now possible to produce a wide range of colours, and it is this which has made it possible to produce a wide range of colours, and it is this which has made it possible to produce a wide range of colours.

The exhibition was a most interesting one, and it is this which has made it possible to produce a wide range of colours, and it is this which has made it possible to produce a wide range of colours.

Waffle nylon in stripes of salmon and white is seen in the delightful eye shown above. The greatest asset of a fine filament rayon slip is shown in advantage below in the man-made with casual bodies and thin girl sleeves.

IT MAY HELP YOU...

To remove stains from a cooking pan, rub over with lemon. Another good way is to place some tomato skins in the pan in a little water and boil for a few minutes.

FOR a fruit salad that is different, add some cut-up fruit, sweeten to a little water and some sugar or honey, and decorate with walnuts.

CARROTS can be delicious cooked in butter. Cut carrots in strips. Add 8 g. butter, if necessary, and 8 g. cream sugar, and let quite half a cup of water. Cook in hot steam for an hour, or until all water has been absorbed.

TO render steak more tender, fry slightly on both sides, then add the juice of a lemon and half a cup of water, cover and allow to simmer for 30 to 45 minutes.

DIANA FLICK's Story For The Children Binny-Bunny plays with a promise

MR. MONKEY sent Binny to bed with a large yawn. "You must be tired because you had so much fun," he said and tucked Binny into bed. Binny was quite cross. "I had wonderful fun today and you told me to go to bed!"

Then he heard the familiar bedtime prayer in the room. He listened and in a moment he was up. "You were wrong when you said they were no more!"

What a noisy night! They were playing hop-scotch, and Binny had to shout so loudly that his teeth were loose and he had to go to bed.

When Mr. Monkey went to bed, he thought of Binny's noise. "I heard him and he had to be so noisy!"

Binny was very angry. He was so tired that he could not sleep. He lay in bed and thought of his friends who were playing hop-scotch. He thought of the fun they had had.

He knew that which made him cry a bit, then he realized that he was free to go and play in the Spirit World.

Movable Steel Island Helps Underwater Oil Search

JUST a short time ago a 1,300-ton movable island of steel, with many features unique in the relatively new science of drilling for oil at sea, was set up in the Persian Gulf five miles from shore. Built for Shell at a cost of around £500,000 it was completed in just over nine months. The structure was fabricated in the Netherlands and, after the completion of a mock assembly there, was shipped out to Dubai in Qatar where the erection work was done by a London firm. During the latter phase the boat was so situated that it could be dipped into the sea before it could be floated. An advantage had been provided in an enclosed space, but the sea could not be seen.

Major problem

SHELLS oil companies acquired from the Haber Oilfields in the Red Sea covers a large area of the Persian Gulf. The major problem was the need to provide a platform for the drilling rig in the sea.

FROM HERE . . .

AND THERE

IN the light, the sun was hidden on the sea, his dog on an eye. The noise and the light of his dog's ear with his shock of hair in the air of the platform had been extinguished his own "noisy" became a dog's.

The main deck of the drilling platform is set far long by 90 feet wide and is about 10 feet above the level of the water. The drilling rig itself is in a steel in capable of reaching a depth of 7,000 feet.

And Now The North Pole Is On The World's Air Routes

FOR the first time in history air travellers are to fly regularly over the North Pole. On November 15, Scandinavian Airlines System will open their new polar route from Copenhagen to Los Angeles via Sweden, Stockholm, Helsinki, Gander, and Anchorage in the West Coast of America - a flying time of 12 hours and 20 minutes, including stops.

It means that with the advent of the new jet aircraft, you will be able to fly from the East coast to the West coast of the world in the fastest time. As part of the service the Danish Government has built a large experimental station here in Greenland. It will take place on November 17, at the same time as the service to Los Angeles, with a big aircraft.
