

FLOW OF IMMIGRANTS KEPT IN CHECK

Federation fears inflation

THE Central African Federation could probably have had 50,000 immigrants instead of the 25,000 it had agreed on for this year, but it would not be wise to allow more if services could not be provided for them by the Minister of Home Affairs, Mr. F. S. Owen, said, if the Federal Government had not decided to limit immigration and a sharp rise in the cost of living.

For this reason the Government has decided to limit immigration at its present rate for the time being.

Mr. Owen, speaking on immigration at a public meeting at Gulu, said that expansion over the next few years had not been world-wide. The Government would be foolish if it attempted at this stage to go ahead at a much faster rate.

"We are not development set back and not only would we see the obvious and immediate benefits, but we would also have commercial benefits in the form of new machinery, over-developed roads, and better housing, but we would see effects which are of a much greater importance."

Likely effect

"We would see inflation accompanied by a sharp rise in the cost of living and that commercial benefits in the form of new machinery, over-developed roads, and better housing, but we would see effects which are of a much greater importance."

Priority jobs

There were no hard and fast rules about the selection of immigrants. The Immigration Commission now has limited the number of immigrants to 25,000 per year. The top priority class of immigrants will be those who are engaged in agriculture, horticulture, mining, power and water industries producing capital goods including building and industries producing for export.

CROCODILE AN ACROSS TO FISHERIES

Hunting deplored

THE crocodile may be regarded as a "natural asset" to Northern Rhodesia if its investigations into its habits confirm the findings of Dr. Hugh H. Cott of the University of Missouri of Zoology, Cambridge.

Dr. Cott recently made a field survey in the northern province and a statement of his preliminary findings said that from his studies on Lake Bangweulu, there is no evidence that, apart from damage to nets, crocodiles are directly injurious to fisheries.

Water from turbines

Way to drive the turbines of the "dwarfing" power-house will not be laid through a dozen deep shafts, but through a single large shaft, which will be used to pump water to the turbines.

Let it be recalled it is only a matter of time, say a short time, before the dam will be completed and the water will be turned on to the turbines.

Electrical analysis

FEDERAL inspectors appear to be in the process of making a detailed electrical analysis of the main circuit of the dam.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

It is most unfortunate that the excellent exhibit of the Royal National College of Artistic Design at the recent R.A.S.K. show was destroyed by the back of Mitchell, Dyer, for I am sure that those who did find it well have been profoundly shocked at the disastorous "practical" reported to you in the Standard.

CASE FOR COLLECTOR'S ROLLS IN K

THE Collector of Revenue has been sentenced to a term of imprisonment for receiving stolen goods.

It has long been my reasonable conviction that the normal price system is better than the system of rationing, which has been applied to the people to have been profited by the disastorous "practical" reported to you in the Standard.

Report by Colonial Office

MAU MAU threat to law and order and to progress in Kenya for the year 1955, according to the Colonial Office report on Kenya for the year released in London. The report added that the Mau Mau movement had been virtually extinguished and involved great suffering, hardship and inconvenience but the main energy was now directed towards constructive tasks.

'BASED ON HEARSAY'

Minister answers critics

THE Colonial Secretary, Mr. Lennox-Boyd, told the House of Commons he was satisfied the charges made by Miss Eileen Fritcher about the condition of women and children in Kenya prisons and detention camps were based in the main on hearsay, partisan opinion and personal prejudice.

Mr. Lennox-Boyd added that the majority amount of the women who are in the prisons and detention camps are in the custody of the Mau Mau fighters.

Mr. Finner Brockway (Labour) had asked if the Kenya Government had yet completed investigations into Miss Fritcher's charges.

Mr. Lennox-Boyd explained that copies of the report were being sent to the Commission for Enquiry into the Mau Mau.

Mr. Brockway then suggested that the results of the investigation together with the names of the Mau Mau fighters who were not covered in the final memorandum, be sent to Miss Fritcher's charges.

Mr. Lennox-Boyd said he must certainly get something of the sort.

He asked all "fair minded" members to read the document.

Changes in Council criticised

PROPOSED changes in the constitution of the Kenya Legislative Council were criticised in the House of Commons by Mrs. Barbara Castle (Labour).

She had asked the Colonial Secretary, Mr. Lennox-Boyd, what changes and Mr. Lennox-Boyd had said that the Council had requested changes. Immediate changes would increase the number of Unaffiliated Members in the Council of Ministers from six to eight by adding one African Member and one European Member and also increase the number of Council seats by four.

Special arrangements would be made for Arab representation in the Council.

Balance mattered
"I have agreed to take steps to implement the proposed changes," Mr. Lennox-Boyd said. "I am sure that these changes will be of great benefit to the people of Kenya."

Mrs. Castle pointed out that the balance of representation between European and non-European remained unchanged. There was no representation for Africans.

Mr. Lennox-Boyd replied that the best course it really to leave the balance of representation as it was in the future of Kenya.

Mr. Finner Brockway (Labour) asked the Colonial Secretary, Mr. Lennox-Boyd, if he intended to withdraw the proposals for Kenya.

Mr. Lennox-Boyd replied that the Kenya Government was reviewing the Emergency powers which were in force in Kenya.

Mr. Brockway said there were new areas in Kenya which had not been under British rule for many months.

He asked if it was possible to withdraw Emergency laws in those areas.

Mr. Lennox-Boyd said that the Government of Kenya did not wish to see the Emergency laws in force for a day longer than necessary.

Mr. Brockway said that he would like to see the Emergency laws in force for a day longer than necessary.

Cuthbert Learns That Pride Comes Before A Fall

By ANN PERRY

Cuthbert was a truly magnificent cockerel, with beautiful plumage that shone like gold. He had a loud clear voice which echoed round the farm on the five-acre farm. He had a very fine morning day to show off his feathers. Cuthbert the cockerel was very confident that had he been a farmer he would have been the champion of the animals and of the farm. He was so confident because he was so beautiful.

One day, however, Cuthbert was in his pride. He had a very fine morning day to show off his feathers. He had a very fine morning day to show off his feathers. He had a very fine morning day to show off his feathers. He had a very fine morning day to show off his feathers.

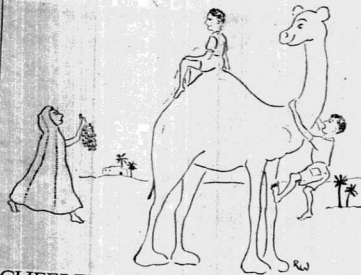

The animals were so used to the cockerel's pride that they were used to his pride. They were used to his pride. They were used to his pride. They were used to his pride. They were used to his pride.

Cuthbert thoroughly enjoyed his morning. He was so confident that had he been a farmer he would have been the champion of the animals and of the farm. He was so confident because he was so beautiful.

CHEERFUL CLEMENTINE FOUND THE WORK SHE LIKED

By Robert Wright

CLEMENTINE was a most unusual camel. She was cheerful and friendly, and most camels are very bad-tempered and don't like anyone. Clementine belonged to a little boy called Donaldson. Donaldson's father had a great many camels which he used for carrying things across the desert.

The little boy was rather frightened of the big awkward camel. "I don't like you," he said to Donaldson. "I don't like you," he said to Donaldson. "I don't like you," he said to Donaldson.

Very sadly, Donaldson picked the best of the camels. He was very sad. He was very sad. He was very sad. He was very sad. He was very sad.

FROM THE WEEK'S LEADER

Facing facts

SATURDAY OCTOBER 7, 1956
COMING on top of the announcement that Kenya is to forgo a further £1,200,000 from Britain, Mr. Vasey's speech at Malindi was very much on the traditional "Cyprian austerity" model. He was saying that some projects of a desirable and essential though they may be, will have to be postponed. The message is really this—save now to spend later on development.

The Government has stated that during the last three months of the 1955-56 financial year revenue was 10 per cent below the target and that the deficit was £1,200,000 compared with the £1,000,000 budgeted. The amount of the surplus at the end of the year was £2,200,000 compared with the £2,000,000 target. Mr. Vasey has been able to refer to the full £4,000,000 grant although Mr. Macmillan no doubt cast an envious and revisionary eye over the £2,000,000 item, although free of interest and having a maturity of five years would have resulted in a further reduction of 20 per cent from 1961. Both a Treasury statement and Mr. Vasey, at Malindi, warned that the further reduction will mean keeping a very close watch on expenditure. Mr. Vasey forecast that Kenya will look to Britain for some years, yet until the economy has been built up, and the surplus is financially independent.

Emergency aid was offered by Britain not for capital recurrent and direct emergency expenditure, or to assist in maintaining social services as near the present levels as possible. A notable achievement of this period has been the avoidance of London control over spending that usually falls to the Government. The Government has stated that during the last three months of the 1955-56 financial year revenue was 10 per cent below the target and that the deficit was £1,200,000 compared with the £1,000,000 budgeted. of a grant-aided territory. The lessons are two-fold. First, Kenya must look increasingly to the internal resource of savings in finance development and a more favourable financial position at the end of the year. Second, the Government should be more vigilant in its financial management. The amount of the surplus at the end of the year was £2,200,000 compared with the £2,000,000 target. Poaching

A PHOENIX and a reading was contained in a report from the Kenya Wild Life Society published in this page recently. Abhorrent because of the cruel methods used by poachers in the past, it has been so common since the war and because the official conscience seems to remain blantly unshaken, a one-shocking revelation follows.

The report has just issued in a report to Princess Margaret, who spent a month in the country last year, and watching the game doubt she remembered her father's immortal words about the preservation of Kenya's natural heritage. Everybody lopes she will return to Kenya with a similar reflection that if the life for ever a couple of years there may be little or nothing worth left to see.

SECURITY about a job was the main theme of the terms of cash value in bygone years. For that reason the salary scales for established officers of the Civil Service and among local government officers, were generally below the rates that could be expected for posts of corresponding merit and responsibility in commerce and industry. The result was that the public had to come over the labour market.

Kenya Could Be The Market Garden Of The World

PINEAPPLE PRODUCTION TO BE INCREASED

By John Cotton

ABOUT 7 years ago Mr. Theodore West, of a famous firm of British canners visited Kenya looking for pineapples. After years of wartime rationing the British public hungered for something different from white meat and dried eggs and a tin pineapple was at the top of the list.

But the desirable fruit was scarce as then in the Sabaras. Despite a favourable soil and climate in many parts of the country, very few people were growing pineapples. There were, however, a few. One, Thika, who had about 500 trees, had a very good crop, but these, like those of other growers, were sold on the small local market.

Mr. West and Mr. Harries, a British horticultural expert, were invited to see the crop. They were struck by the quality of the fruit and the variety of plants in the country. They were struck by the quality of the fruit and the variety of plants in the country.

In this article, Mr. West and Mr. Harries discuss the possibilities of pineapple production in Kenya. They discuss the possibilities of pineapple production in Kenya.

Kenya is also flooded with fruit, grapes, in particular, at a time when local crops are ripening, and the local produce is being marketed.

Many people believe that pineapples do not grow in this Colony. I used to hold the same view until a Maricopa farmer gave me some wonderful fruit from his trees.

FRIENDLY SWEDEN—LAND OF CLEANLINESS, HOSPITALITY AND NEW IDEAS

BY LADY SHEPPARD

A YEAR or two ago, when I was travelling in Sweden, I was offered and gratefully accepted the loan of a car for a few weeks. Long ago I had learned that to drive a foreign car intimately. I then decided to enjoy life in that charming, hospitable country.

Stockholm has been compared to Venice, but the comparison does not really hold. Venice, with her soaring, crumbling palaces and dramatic waterways, has a savor on the waters of the Adriatic, while Stockholm, with four squares and half on the slopes of the Baltic surrounded by islands like a Venetian lagoon, has her own special charm.

Not Informal

This was not an informal gathering, but one of the most important in the city. It was held in the city hall, and was attended by a large number of the city's leading figures. The speaker, who was a well-known authority on the subject, gave a most interesting and informative talk. The audience was very attentive and the atmosphere was most pleasant.

Top Speed

Before there was any talk of the new road, the authorities had already decided on the speed limit. It was decided that the speed limit should be 40 miles per hour. This was a most reasonable and sensible decision, and it was well received by the public.

The picture of Stockholm, the Swedish capital, is taken from the water. The picture shows the city's unique architecture and its location on the water. The water is calm, and the city is reflected in its surface.

of course the head of the matter was the Swedish Government. It was a most interesting and informative program, and it is well received by the public. The program shows the life and customs of the Swedish people, and it is a most valuable contribution to our knowledge of this interesting country.

BAN ON CATCHING POLAR BEARS

THE Norwegian Minister of Fisheries, Mr. Nils Lov, has announced that the Government is to submit a bill to Parliament giving the authorities powers to forbid or restrict the catching of live polar bears.

Year has been almost entirely devoted to the trade of sport. A ban on live bears has been in force since 1933. The practice has aroused criticism from Norwegian animal-lovers.

THE MAN THEY COULDN'T HANG

For Cheating Death The Number Is Three

BY RALPH MIDDLETON

THE time was eight o'clock in the morning. John Lee's arms were pinned, his leg bound and the white mask was slipped over his face. The prison chaplain, the old man Peck, and then the hangman, Bernwood, the lover that would drop the life-line, stood by his death.

Lee had cheated death for the second time. He had been hanged once before, but he had been brought back to life. He had been hanged again, but he had been brought back to life again. He had been hanged a third time, but he had been brought back to life again.

DRAMA ROLE FOR LESLIE

THE love story of a young French dancer and an American playwright who meet in wartime London, is the theme behind "Gaby" the M.G.M. picture in colour at the Capitol, Nairobi. The stars are Leslie Caron and John Kerr.

Although Miss Caron has some dancing scenes in the story, her role is primarily a dramatic one, in contrast to her musical hit "Destiny" Lumpykin.

John Kerr, as the playwright, makes his second film appearance, following on his initial hit in "The Cobweb". Previous to that he scored an outstanding success on the Broadway stage in "Tad and Susannah".

Backgrounds of Gaby include London's theatrical district, Covent Garden, Drury Lane and Piccadilly Lane. The city is shown in its wartime tabling place in air-raid shelters and in American and French costumes.

EMPIRE

Reprint of the Hills is an adventure of Connecticut, who "reel the wool from a stolen sheep".

Rhonda Fleming plays Hollywood's most seductive diva and William Lundquist, the young Roman soldier, who one of Raymond's three plays Mark Anthony.

In a telling dramatic story, Reprint of the Hills recreates the fabulous days of the great empire.

ROYAL

Those who have not seen Tom Braver's "Robbiolac" will have the opportunity of doing so in the coming week. The film is realistic and captures well the atmosphere of the famous story.

It was largely made at Bluff Point, where the late Sir Harry Davies and Robert Newton, who first tackled the story in "Tad and Susannah", Tom Braver's childhood home is a film for all ages.

PLAYHOUSE

The most interesting play Much runs into its second week. It is an intriguing and exciting story with great comic relief, a versatile cast and a sparkling climax.

Rhonda Fleming as an opera singer in "The Hills". The star plays Gaby.

The Versatility Of Peter Ustinov

FEW English actors or playwrights have so a praised and honored by the critics as Peter Ustinov. Perhaps success in all of these directions is too much for some people to endure. This astonishing young man is not only a star of stage and screen, but the author of some ten plays and a couple of striking novels.

At the age of 42 he was directing an important film. He speaks seven languages and delivers lectures in English. He is a brilliant conversationalist and a marvellous mimic.

Dramatic reviews are somewhat torn in versatility, dipped into the comic vein, but always, always witty, replied: "I am amazed that you can do so consistently in bad grammar. It is imperative for me to go on writing up to the public and not down to the critics."

On the Stage

According to Ustinov, his autobiography proved that he was a theatre man in his blood. His mother is Nadia Brown, once an artist, then a Russian Ballet fame, and herself an artist, then a dancer. After thus studying under Michael, Denis the change of scene was made his debut in London in revue sketches and musicals established himself as a mimic and comedian of the highest order.

Those who will be seen in the House of Regent hailed as a great achievement and show the future. The "Robbiolac" is a new production of the play "Tad and Susannah" which he wrote.

... I find it interesting to listen to for the reason that

Owes Success To Damon Runyon

MARTIN HACKER, writer and producer of the new comedy "The Family" is said to be starting production on the picture. He has secured the rights to the late Damon Runyon's kind of love tale.

As a journalist, he worked a fortnight in the office of the late Damon Runyon, who he met on Saturday, that he was advised to write a novel. He was to be paid $10,000 for each week when he had a book to Runyon's agent. Today when Hacker has had in respect to the picture, he has been looking for a publisher.

Strange Payment

RECENTLY JACK CARROLL, in the theatre district, was told by a friend of his that when he was touring the States in a summer stock company, the audience consisted mostly of farmers who would rather see a picture than a play.

Only Appearance

THE "Hills" as advertised in the paper, the only appearance of Rhonda Fleming in the picture.

Criticised Himself

SEAMUS KELLY, the Irish comedian, critic when he was in the States. He reviewed the spectacular "The Hills" in the paper. He was lavishing praise on the picture, but he was not so complimentary to a certain actress who he was in the picture.

The Mother

JESSE BOYCE LANDIS, now playing "Tad" in the picture, is the mother of the picture. He is the mother of the picture.

FETE TO BE HELD IN GROUNDS OF KAREN HOUSE

NOTHING could be more fitting than that the grounds of one of Kenya's oldest houses, and the centre of part in the effort to raise the Colony's aging pioneer when, on the afternoon of November 17, the Karen and Hill branches of the E.A.W.U. hold a fete, in aid of the "Wool House" project in the grounds of Karen House.

Karen House, built before the First World War, was owned by Miss Karen, now Mrs. Helen, and her husband, Mr. John, who died in 1917, and left her a large estate. One of the principal items in her will was that the house, with the grounds, should be given to the E.A.W.U. for the purpose of raising money for the "Wool House" project.

Today there is a host of people in the district, and Mrs. G. M. Karen has given her name to the fete. Due to the fact that the beef production policy has not yet been fully implemented, there is a likelihood of a significant expansion in beef sales in the coming years.

TALKING RADIO By Henry

THE crisis in the Middle East seems to have had a remarkable effect on the habits of the Kenya public. Programmes on listening to news broadcasts, which were at work late after dark, are now common over 2.0 p.m. and many have begun to be starting up before the late afternoon. The Cairo Radio broadcasts, which used to be heard in the evening, are now heard in the afternoon. All these things are being done by the public, and it is not surprising that the Kenya public are to be seen at their desks in the afternoon.

A FORTNIGHT hence the title will be inaugurated for the 27th Modern Olympiad which has become associated with the Olympic Games since their arrival in Athens in 1896. The Olympic Games are over will be the thousands of athletes will parade and salute in the Olympic oath. And then what?

The question arises when one thinks of the 27th Modern Olympiad in London in the modern sense. The fact that the city states of Greece in the Olympic Games are over again with the Olympic Games in London in 1932. The fact that the Olympic Games are over again with the Olympic Games in London in 1932. The fact that the Olympic Games are over again with the Olympic Games in London in 1932.

Raised doubts
Do not know if the words "modern" and "olympic" are not a little out of place in the title of the 27th Modern Olympiad. But if the latter is a Frenchman, there is a better chance of his being a good winner and a better loser. The fact that the Olympic Games are over again with the Olympic Games in London in 1932. The fact that the Olympic Games are over again with the Olympic Games in London in 1932.

Motor racing
The 1000 cc. motor race at the Silverstone track was a very interesting one. The fact that the Olympic Games are over again with the Olympic Games in London in 1932. The fact that the Olympic Games are over again with the Olympic Games in London in 1932.

Withdrawals
A number of official withdrawals from the 27th Modern Olympiad. The fact that the Olympic Games are over again with the Olympic Games in London in 1932. The fact that the Olympic Games are over again with the Olympic Games in London in 1932.

Short and snappy
The fact that the Olympic Games are over again with the Olympic Games in London in 1932. The fact that the Olympic Games are over again with the Olympic Games in London in 1932.

Here and there
The fact that the Olympic Games are over again with the Olympic Games in London in 1932. The fact that the Olympic Games are over again with the Olympic Games in London in 1932.

The Kodak Cup
The fact that the Olympic Games are over again with the Olympic Games in London in 1932. The fact that the Olympic Games are over again with the Olympic Games in London in 1932.

THE PIED PIPER

"At Milnerton, in Bavaria on the 26th June, 1882, the Devil, in the shape of a cat and pig, carried away 15 children. It was a terrible tragedy."

There were a great number of children of the first 17th century, and it was a tragedy of a tragedy that the Devil carried away a half-dozen of them. It was a tragedy of a tragedy that the Devil carried away a half-dozen of them. It was a tragedy of a tragedy that the Devil carried away a half-dozen of them.
