

NEW DEVICE FOR THE FUTURE

Airliner Designers Look Ahead

WHAT will the next generation of airliners look like? Three years ago, the mechanized world of the jet engine, Conquest and Viscount were on the stocks. The designers followed while the Vanguard is nearing completion. In the early 1950s, a U.S. American designed and started construction of large transport jet airliners. As a result, the U.S. has abandoned a decision to buy jet aircraft for many years ago.

The next aircraft will be seen. The world's all routes for the next 10 years, perhaps. The vast increase in international traffic forecast on all routes, short, medium and long range, will require more or more large aircraft. The increasing air traffic problems pose urgent need for the number of airliners on all routes.

Therefore, larger aeroplanes are being designed. The aeroplanes which are already in service are being replaced by larger, more efficient ones. The design of the next generation of airliners is being planned. The design of the next generation of airliners is being planned. The design of the next generation of airliners is being planned.

ARE YOUR TEETH OR DENTISTS ABSOLUTELY NECESSARY?

BY I. E. BERGMAN

It must have been curiosity that prompted a lecturer and also students of the Sutherland Dental School, Newcastle, to investigate the necessity of having 'tooth' larger area available to the dentist. It was also found that the teeth were not as healthy as they were supposed to be. The dentist's work is to clean the teeth and to fill the cavities. CRUSHING THE GRAPE IN HEAVY BOOTS

By A Special Correspondent

When a man pulls on a pair of hobnail boots, the chances are that he is either an agricultural labourer preparing to set out for a day's hard work in the fields or an enthusiastic devotee of football and 'the wide open spaces' making ready to enjoy a long country walk.

But in Zaire de la Frontera, the Spanish town for the history of the grape. The grape is crushed in heavy boots. The grape is crushed in heavy boots. The grape is crushed in heavy boots.

WEEKEND SPORT COMMENTARY

by Charles Disney, Sports Editor

ALTHOUGH the "withdrawals" situation is still rather involved — the Lebanon was the latest country to back out — there seems to be the slightest doubt that the XVth Olympiad will be inaugurated as planned at Melbourne on November 22. The Swiss decision to renege under their original decision to participate has been met by Holland to be urged to hold second thoughts, also.

But as it is a matter of whether "either" rather than "both" will take part, the Swiss are unable to obtain an adequate amount of international athletes, at least of those who are members of the International Olympic Committee. In fact, the Australian Olympic Committee has been disappointed in both respects. It is a matter of some regret that one of the strongest nations in the hockey world, which, on current form, looks like being very successful in India.

A 'mini' of music
It is difficult to assess how much music is being played on the Olympic Games. The Olympic Village alone represents an output of some £1,000,000 worth of music. The village will have 20,000 athletes and staff, and it is expected that the village will have a population of some 1,500,000.

Diagnose Pining with Cobalt

Cobalt is both a diagnostic agent and a remedy for Pining (Nutritional deficiency) — the symptoms of the deficiency disease — listlessness, drooping cast, listless and running gait, bloodlessness — then you can assist diagnosis by administering Cobalt. If the disease is Pining and due to a shortage of Cobalt, you should see a reaction within an hour.

Two booklets, written to assist in the diagnosis and prevention of cobalt deficiency, are now available to farmers and veterinary surgeons, and others interested in livestock.

Injuries ruin star-studded international

England beat Wales by 2-1 in a Soccer Cup final at Wembley Stadium on Wednesday after a half-time interval. The match between the two teams was robbed of thrill through injuries.

After taking the lead in eight minutes Wales suffered a cruel blow when their star player, goalkeeper Jack Kelsey, fell ill and had to leave the field shortly before the interval.

Kelsey sustained severe brain damage and died three days later. He was 34 years old and had been playing for Wales for 10 years.

England's attack was hampered by the fact that their star player, winger Alf Lambert, was injured by a fall in the first half. He was 31 years old and had been playing for England for 10 years.

Other goals were scored by Kelsey and Lambert. Kelsey was injured by a fall in the first half and Lambert was injured by a fall in the second half.

Few amateur teams in 1st round proper of F.A. Cup

EIGHTY clubs seeking fame and fortune will put their feet optimistically on the widening road to Wembley tomorrow with the first round proper of the Football Association Cup competition. GAME POACHER 'WINNING' THE DAY?

Trustees urge action

Trustees of the Royal National Parks of Kenya in their annual report for 1949-50 are warning the day. They plead for urgent remedial steps to reduce the damage to the African poacher's industry.

Mr. Philip Colburn, Orit, described as the "father of Kenya's nature industry," receives a silver tray from Mr. G. R. Sheldrick, chairman of Kiambu Club, to mark his 54 years in the industry.

Mr. Colburn comments: "Exactly why these things find it necessary to leave the safety of the park and wander into villages and centres of great human activity is quite beyond my understanding. But as long as they continue and the very park, which in some instances, have been established by the Government, are being destroyed, it is our duty to do all that is possible to protect them."

Mr. Colburn also mentions that the Government should consider the possibility of a "game law" which would give the Government the right to acquire land for the purpose of establishing a game reserve. He also suggests that the Government should consider the possibility of a "game law" which would give the Government the right to acquire land for the purpose of establishing a game reserve.

Eight proposals for preservation of Kenya's wild life

FRESH LEGISLATION URGED

The greatest single cause of game eradication is undoubtedly the indiscriminate poaching of thousands of wild animals of all species each year, the Kenya Wildlife Society states in a newsletter issued with the annual report of the Royal National Parks of Kenya.

The problem has reached alarming proportions and unless remedial steps are taken before it is too late, the number of animals will continue to decline to a point where they will be virtually extinct.

Mr. Colburn adds: "As pointed out in previous reports, and the cause is growing stronger every year—we may have to restrict motor traffic to certain portions of the park, or perhaps to the roads within the park, otherwise I can see little chance of the game having sufficient freedom to enjoy their own domain."

of Kenya and, however, it is not "happy."

Mr. Colburn has been largely instrumental with the then Director of Agriculture in forming the Game Board of Kenya in 1949. He joined the "Kenya Farmers' Co-operative Union" in 1933 and has been a member of it since.

Mr. Colburn said that 50 years in the industry had been very busy. Although he could not say that the industry had given, and always would give, him pleasure.

New parks

The Kenya Forest at Londolozi should be declared a national park, the Minister for External Affairs, Mr. John Colville, said today in the House of Commons.

Eight measures

The Society advocates eight measures by which Kenya's wild life can be effectively preserved from the depredations of poachers.

The Government it is urged should declare its full policy in all matters relating to preservation of wild life and accept responsibility for seeing that adequate measures are made applicable before this policy.

A stern view should be taken of poaching offences, existing laws strengthened by fresh legislation, and the present forest department staffs and equipment provided to enable them to enforce and assist in the enforcement of the law.

50 years in coffee trade recognised

FIFTY years of work in the improvement of the coffee industry was devoted to by Kiambu Club on Wednesday, when members and friends presented a silver tray and address to Mr. Philip Colburn.

Mr. G. R. Sheldrick, chairman of the club, said that Mr. Colburn had been largely instrumental with the then Director of Agriculture in forming the Game Board of Kenya in 1949.

Four Point Plan To Reach The Moon

BY HENRY THODY

THE world's top rocket engineers just spent a surprise-packed week with 400 of their colleagues in Washington for the first time in the history of the world's space program. The week was the 7th International Astronautical Congress, held in Rome. At times during the congress, with a microphone jammed on his head, giving simultaneous translations in three languages, I pitched myself to make a dash for the door. I was dreaming.

I met some of the world's top rocket engineers from 20 countries, including the United States, France, Germany, Italy, Japan, the Soviet Union, and the United Kingdom. They were all here to discuss the future of space travel.

Fixed Stars

As a general rule, the stars which appear to be fixed in the sky are those which are so far away that their light takes so long to reach us that they seem to be stationary. In fact, many of them are moving through space at great speeds, but their distance is so great that their motion is not noticeable to us.

The stars which are nearest to us are those which are moving through space at great speeds, but their distance is so great that their motion is not noticeable to us.

Only Problem

The only problem which is likely to arise in the course of a mission to Mars is the problem of communication. The distance between Earth and Mars is so great that it takes a long time for a message to be sent and received. This means that the crew of the spacecraft will have to be able to take care of themselves for a long time without being able to contact Earth.

HELPING TO COMBAT THE JACKAL MENACE

Reports have been imported to South Africa from Britain to help not stave the jackal menace. In the Union jackals are responsible for thousands of pounds of damage to sheep each year. The first step in the battle was to send to the Drakensberg area of Natal, where, with South African herdsmen, they take part in organized hunts across the vast mountainous terrain. Strong and energetic, they have already proved their worth.

Not Funny

For those it is very unamusing indeed. British rockets are to be used to help not stave the jackal menace. In the Union jackals are responsible for thousands of pounds of damage to sheep each year. ESKIMOS 'TAKE THE BISCUIT' AND GROW

By A. Carney

THE name Eskimo is said to be of Indian origin, and was applied by the Indians to their northern neighbors. It is a term which signifies that they were a people who lived in the Arctic region. It was a custom to name them in disgust when they first saw the white men. The Eskimos are a people who live in the Arctic region. They are a people who live in the Arctic region. They are a people who live in the Arctic region.

Among these groups there is a common feature, that of a nomadic life. The Eskimos are a people who live in the Arctic region. They are a people who live in the Arctic region. They are a people who live in the Arctic region.

Drama And Comedy This Week

HELL on Frisco Bay
A new melodrama starring Alan Ladd, Edward G. Robinson and Jeanette Brody, comes to the screen at the Capitol. The film serves as a lively backdrop for Ladd's second Jaguar Production for Warner.

It is said to chronicle the adventures of an ex-soldier framed for murder... a murder which one of a long series of waterfront killings... from the trench coat which was his trademark in earlier films... Edward G. Robinson... from the slurs who become a youth world champion and marries at last.

WORKING on the assumption that it takes professional to make an actor flourish in a boxing film, Director Hitchcock surrounded his cast with top talent to fight convincingly in Wrestle in My Backyard. The picture co-stars Genevieve and Tom.

THE TALL MAN starring Clark Gable, Jane Bryan, Robert Ryan and Charles Mitchell is based on a novel by Cliff Fisher. It chronicles the first great cattle drive over the historic Route 66 from Montana in 1867. These scenes, which include stampedes over open canyons, were directed by the Tall Man. Mitchell unfolds a story of the conflict of human emotions of three men and a girl caught in the grip of intrigue.

PLAYHOUSE
D'AN MARTIN and Jerry Lewis join forces with Shirley MaLaime and Dorothy Malone in their newest hit-rope adventure, Artists and Models. The story has Dean as a comic book illustrator and Malone as an artist of gory industrial scenes. The picture is supplied with the best plots in the business.

Alan Ladd and Edward G. Robinson in a dramatic scene from the film "Hell on Frisco Bay." Ladd plays "Jackie Murphy's" brother that as a pro-singer he is "Wanted by My Corner."

THE BUSTER KEATON STORY

JACKIE COOGAN joined the cast of Paramount's Vista Vision film of The Buster Keaton Story, which co-stars Keaton, Spivey and Ann Rith. Coogan will portray the important and exciting role because it requires a young man who is a slight acquaintance with a fair for comedy material to portray a comic in a similar situation.

Capable Actor
Coogan's previous work and Sidney Shickler exhibited that the "Coke" boy's role because it requires a young man who is a slight acquaintance with a fair for comedy material to portray a comic in a similar situation. The director for Shickler was a young man who is a slight acquaintance with a fair for comedy material to portray a comic in a similar situation.

STRIP-TEASE CRAZE HITS PARIS

By Stephen Collier

Of all places, this city of Paris is at the height of a strip-tease craze. Strip LaLa is the latest big business. Strip statistics in this matter are everything, here they are:

Each evening for the million of 15,000 entertainers who wear themselves into 21 Paris theatres and night clubs, no less than 1,200 of them of feminine clothing fall to the boards (an average of ten items per "stripper").

The craze has already saved four Paris theatres from ruin - that was formerly stated here in the fare.

And the money that a hand-dancing striptease can make from the craze is truly Guinness, who claims she is "good for you." She left a secretary-type school where she was a secretary for some years ago. Now she is a striptease artist in her own television series, and has been a screen role for four years.

Smash Hit
All the girls in the business say "we never thought it was a seasonal job." It was a four months ago the Comedie Theatre was a smash hit. The striptease artist is around 600,000 francs a night. The striptease artist is around 600,000 francs a night. The striptease artist is around 600,000 francs a night.

Mrs. W. F. Barber, of Palm Beach, was united in matrimony with Miss Marie Barrett, daughter of the late Mr. J. M. Barrett, and of Mrs. Barrett, formerly of East Africa.
The bride who was given away by her father, Mr. Harold Barrett, wore a full skirted dress, cut with a train in heavy pale gold slipper satin. Her deep cream tulle veil was held in place by a coronet of tulle and ivory lines of the valley, and she wore a crown of pearls and white roses. Her bridesmaid, Miss Marie Hill, and Miss Alison Barber, the bridegroom's youngest sister.

Artist Paints Bush Picture For Princess Margaret

BY JEAN VAUGHAN

WHEN Princess Margaret went back to England with her was an East African painting. This was painted after a competition among members of the Society, who were each asked to submit a typical East African scene.

Most of the artists sent in pictures of well-known scenes in Kilimanjaro. The picture by the Count was favored by the judges — but the winning was a simple study of nature in the twisted shapes of the forest.

Brush Study

The painter was Dr. Michael Crayven, who came to Kenya South Africa in 1944, after being sent to and who is now a member of the Medical De Aene and Crafts Society for some years, and first met Princess Margaret for exhibition six years ago.

Dr. Crayven visited several bush studies, made different times and seasons, and I asked him why he had this subject so much. His answer was simple — "For five years he was stationed at Marikoni forest, where there is nothing but bush."

Found Beauty

He has learnt to find beauty in the dry grass, which has been trampled by the hooves of the earth, and the varied shades of green and blue, while the breathed time of year it springs, better than anything I have ever seen. Evening is the best light for bush painting, and the colors appear brightest, while all sorts of light is too bright and the colors are dimmed.

Kilimanjaro is one of Dr. Crayven's favorite subjects for painting, and he has made his annual holiday a journey to the Coast, via Mombasa and Arusha, with stops to paint the mountain.

Landscape Type

Princess Margaret is not his first love. At home in London he preferred portraiture, but that was taken out of the painting altogether. It was not until he reached Kenya in 1944, that he was struck by the beauty of the bush. He has since taken up to take up his brush, and he has chosen as his first subject a famous tree, and then began painting in earnest, working at

Dr. Michael Crayven, one of several painters who was stationed at Marikoni forest.

He painted every day so that in two years he collected about 100 water colours of the Arab trees and the trees.

He preferred to work in oils, too, but at the time he began painting again materials were difficult to come by, and he turned to water colours and pastels. He prefers to use pastels for soft effects of morning and the sea, and has also painted for most of the portraits he has painted, since coming to Kenya.

In The Field

Dr. Crayven completes his painting in the field, and never paints in the studio. He has a portable box with him, and he has made his own preliminary water colours and notes, but sets his picture out directly on the canvas, but he does go out to study and choose his palette and colors. He does not start on his canvas. Then the work proceeds quickly, and he may finish his painting after about three one-and-a-half-hour sessions.

Watch Keepers

His bush painting has brought him some excitement. There are elephants, plenty of them, which are to wander even into the camp garden, and have to be driven by gangs of killing waters.

While Dr. Crayven was working on his picture for Princess Margaret an elephant was killed only 200 yards from where he was painting, and he was so absorbed in his work that he never heard the shot. Usually on his expeditions he took with him an African, or a dog to keep watch and give warning of elephant herds.

MASS INOCULATION AGAINST POLIO

A TOTAL of 50 per cent of Denmark's population in the age groups from nine months to 40 years have now been vaccinated against infantile paralysis. This is a greater percentage than in any other country.

The vaccine used is of the Salk type and is produced in the Danish State Serum Institute. Vaccination has been completely free of charge and carried out either through the schools or on application to the family doctor.

People over 40 can also be vaccinated but since the danger of poliomyelitis to these older age groups is not high, a small fee is charged.

Since the Danish vaccination campaign began in 1955, only one case has died of the disease from Denmark.

EXPERT ADISES MEAT OVERHAUL

Lack of confidence in 'arbitrary methods'

MORE confidence in the Board of the Meat Commission by consumers, retailers and producers is described as "imperative" by Mr. Neville in a report to the Government on his inquiry into the Colony's meat industry.

He says he found a widespread lack of confidence in the Board and dissatisfaction with its arbitrary methods. Public relations, he states, must be improved, and a full-time chairman with wide business experience appointed. He also advocates establishing a meat factory in Nairobi within the next four years.

Those who wish to be farmers of the English National Farmer Union, advocates an investigation by a top-level official expert into the Commission's commercial organisation, staff and capital utilisation and business activities.

After referring to frequent statements that the marketing committee are not doing their best to the detriment of the smaller producer, Mr. Neville suggests that regional representatives would be more helpful.

Further capital

He recommends that the constitution of the Board should be amended to meet the requirements of a permanent full-time chairman. A permanent full-time chairman is recommended by the Minister for Agriculture, who has representatives of a stock raiser, a farmer, a representative of the sheep industry, one of the major exporters, an African stockowner, two persons selected for their business ability, one representative of the Minister for Finance, and one representative of the Ministry for Agriculture, who should also be charged with the watching of the Commission's work.

The report comments: "It is necessary consideration has been given to the fact that the Government of Kenya has a large capital interest in the Commission and it is likely to be charged to expand the industry."

The report also states that the permanent full-time chairman is recommended to be a person of high business standing, who will be chairman of the Board and general manager.

"Regional representatives are the connecting link between producers and the marketing committee," Mr. Neville states. "It is essential that the committee should be composed of persons who are able to undertake this work."

Farmers' confidence

"The person appointed should have wide experience in the business community. He will be chairman of the Board and general manager."

"Regional representatives are the connecting link between producers and the marketing committee," Mr. Neville states. "It is essential that the committee should be composed of persons who are able to undertake this work."

Feet marking

The report criticises the fact that the Commission for the marketing of meat is not doing its best to the detriment of the smaller producer. It is recommended that the marketing committee should be composed of persons who are able to undertake this work."

More cattle

Modern, larger farming operations in the highlands of the Victoria area, and the fact that the number of cattle and sheep kept in the highlands is increasing, are mentioned in the report. It is recommended that the marketing committee should be composed of persons who are able to undertake this work."

From The Press

Unemployment

THE Government of Kenya would do well to look into the unemployment situation under constant review by the Ministers for Labour and Local Government can take a hand in time to prevent anything developing into anything alarming proportions.

A deputation from out of the Government has been received by Mr. Havlock, Minister for Labour and Local Government, who is the Minister for Local Government. The deputation includes representatives of the Kenya Chamber of Commerce and Industry, the Kenya Chamber of Agriculture, and the Kenya Chamber of Manufacturers. They are all concerned with the unemployment problem and are seeking ways to solve it.

Disease control

The Department of Veterinary Services in the African Veterinary Service is at present planning to send a deputation to the United Kingdom to study the methods of disease control in that country. The deputation will consist of a number of officials from the Department of Veterinary Services and will be led by the Director of Veterinary Services. The deputation will be in the United Kingdom for a period of six weeks, during which time they will study the methods of disease control in that country and will also attend to the business of the United Kingdom Veterinary Association.

Hard surface

It has been decided that grass roads in Nairobi should be replaced by hard surface. The roads in question are those in the areas of the Nairobi Municipal Council. The roads are in a state of disrepair and are a constant source of trouble to the motorists. It is recommended that the roads should be replaced by hard surface, which would be a more durable and more comfortable surface for the motorists.

New water supply likely for Arusha

SAMPLES TAKEN FROM SPRINGS

As a result of samples taken at three springs at Kilgerton in the Arusha district, it has been proposed for a water supply of 200,000 flow during the dry season might fall below that figure. This was stated at a meeting of Arusha District Advisory Council.

A further analysis showed that the water was safe for human consumption. It was hoped to bring the new supply into areas served by the existing pipeline by February, providing the materials were available.

County Council aim

The meeting was told that since its formation in March, 1955, the council had made 17 resolutions. Of these, 12 have been implemented and 5 are still being implemented, the remainder being either under consideration or subject to a report.

Mr. E. H. Sherriff said that although he said that the time was not yet ripe for the formation of an Arusha County Council, he felt that the matter should be given consideration so that by the way could be prepared. Mr. M. D. Patel said he thought that, at present, there was not sufficient public interest to warrant any discussion on a county council.

Plea for third Middle School at Meru

Arusha District Advisory Council has asked permission from the Director of Education for Meru area to establish a third Middle School (Government) in Meru. The Meru Middle School was established in 1954. The school was established in the new P.W. Plan.

Council members felt that the Director's decision will be influenced by the availability of Government funds. Mr. Sherriff said the utility of the Meru Middle School is being used for a 1957 opening. The school is being used for a 1957 opening. The school is being used for a 1957 opening.

ROAD SAFETY DRIVE

USE LIGHTS WISELY TO AVOID DISASTER

Driving a car without being able to see the road properly is inviting disaster. Not only must lights be in first-class order, they must also be maintained and used so that they never blind oncoming drivers or riders. Road users should never drive at such a speed or in such a manner, that they are unable to stop within a distance illuminated by their car lights.

Britannia a 'world-beater' JET MODIFICATION

The Minister for Transport and Civil Aviation, Mr. Harold Watkinson, said in the House of Commons that he hoped the special Britannia would give an service "very early next year, properly modified, perfectly safe to fly a world-beater."

But he made no promise, he told the House in a debate on aviation matters. The introduction of the Britannia on B.O.A.C. passenger services has been delayed because of a breakdown of the jet in certain climatic conditions. Mr. Watkinson says one modification for modifying the jet seemed to be proving inconclusive. It was not in any conditions, but the corporation wanted to get the highest appreciation before it search for Boyd Ferron, aged three, who disappeared from his home in Harrogate, North Yorkshire, in the past two or three months. He has been carried up to 200 passengers.

WEEKEND SPORT COMMENTARY

by Charles Disney, Sports Editor

THE cancellation of the A.B.A. of Kenya individual championship meeting in a letter-disappointment looking in the Colony. Only last year the first individual championships for several Middle East clubs and on so many Severn, London and calls—was and championed by holder—increased the club's popularity. The 1936 tournament, however, was a disappointment. The 1936 tournament, however, was a disappointment. The 1936 tournament, however, was a disappointment.

There is a bare possibility that the team will be able to play in the Kenya Cup final and, possibly, and another trophy to their credit.
