Changed pattern in production of locomotives

STEAM TO DIESEL

THE rapid change from steam to diesel traction on railroads in Great Britain is producing a new pattern of work in British locomotive production. Steam-turbine work continues, but it is being done more and more in the production of spare parts or repairs for the many steam locomotives which are still in use. Diesel production, on the other hand, is largely in diesel.

One of Britain's great builders of locomotives produced its first diesel engine in 1936. This conventional model was for service on the L.N.W.R. gauge railway of a large steel works at Leeds in West Yorkshire.

Orders for 800 engines were placed with the company in 1936, followed by 1,000 in 1937, and 1,500 in 1938. The first order was for 100 engines for the Indian Railway, which is now being built by British firms.

Mr. H. Wilkinson, president of the Institution of Mechanical Engineers, has expressed his belief that the diesel locomotive will remain a permanent feature of the railway industry.

Mr. J. W. Wilkins, managing director of the Shell Petroleum Co. Ltd., has expressed his belief that the diesel locomotive will be used for a number of years to come. He said that the diesel locomotive is now being built in the United States and is being exported to the United States and to other countries.

FIRM TONE IN WOOL EXPECTED

JAPANESE buying is considered the most important single factor in estimating future wool prices.

The Financial Times said: "This week, the most important London wool sales begin, which will provide the main test of wool value this year.

"A large quantity of wool is being offered in London and in all the Commonwealth centres, but it is unlikely that this will depress the market for strong wool consumption and the comparatively low level of stocks in the hands of consumers will most probably operate in competition.

U.S. buying

"Perhaps the most important factor to be taken into account in estimating future wool prices is the volume of American buying expected in the coming months.

"Recently the Japanese announced that they would purchase an amount of wool for the first time in the annual year ending next June.

"This, together with the American buying, should ensure a firm tone in world markets.

"And underlying the good demand for wool is the high level of activity in the United States, which will result in a large volume of wool being purchased."

SEIZ AFER AT TAI TAI RUSH TO LEAVE TAI TAI
Many emigration inquiries from East Africa

WHAT one national newspaper has called the "Sugar Blues" are resulting in requests at emigration offices in Britain. A steady flow of people from London, about four-fifths of whom are from East Africa, are flocking to Kenya to visit their families and to see the country which has been promised to them.

Longer queues since petrol rationing. The queues have since petrol rationing was introduced. But rarely does the prospective emigrant give rationing as his reason for wanting to get away from home. He admits he is dissatisfied with the way things are going in Britain with high taxes, with lack of employment opportunities, and with the "tax had thought of only the beginning of the rationing."

Manufacturers and traders who are in the important sort of good will by looking at the situation. And that is where Mr. Binney's surprise came in. For years, the stamp "Made in Kenya" has carried the hallmark and guarantee of high quality materials and workmanship.

Standard of attainment to be the best of the world. The standards of attainment to be the best of the world. The standards of attainment to be the best of the world.

CONTROL OF FORCES

More responsibility for expenditure

CUTS IN BRITAIN

TWO important decisions affecting British forces were disclosed yesterday. One is that military forces in East Africa are to be controlled and administered by the territorial Governments and not by the War Office. The other concerns cuts in Britain's auxiliary defence forces.

The reversion to a system which was in operation before the Second World War will take effect in East Africa from July 1. The decision is a result of recent discussions between the British Government and the three East African Governments.

An official statement issued last night, said the C-in-C's responsibilities would not be affected, but he would be responsible to the War Office but to the three Governments.

The statement went on: "Each of the three Governments will continue to control the use and movement of its territorial forces in his territory. The new arrangement will enable the territorial Governments to assume greater responsibility for expenditure on the forces, and will permit of a closer control by each Government of the permit of arms and ammunition stores, rationing, and administrative organisation needed for the forces. On grounds of economy and efficiency, it was proposed that certain administrative functions should be transferred to the territorial Governments to be undertaken on behalf of the three Governments and the Administration Office of the East African High Commission.

"This will require the approval of the three Legislatures, to which appropriate resolutions will be submitted," the statement added.

Rights not affected

The Minister of Finance, Dr. Massey, has also decided that the concentration should remain temporary until the Government has decided on the long-term arrangements for the forces.

Dr. Massey said that the nationalisation measure would not affect the right of depositors to the bank or people insured by the insurance companies. The measure aims at work in the banking industry in the interest of the public, and not in the interest of any particular class.

Detention of people without trial 'unfair and unjust'

INQUIRY DEMANDED

DEMANDS for an impartial inquiry into the whole question of the detention of people without trial in Kenya, and the relationship of the police and Administration were made by Tom Mboya, general secretary of the Federation of Labour in an election address on Sunday.

Mr. Mboya, who is speaking at the Kenyan National Convention for the Nairobi seat at the African election on the 21st, said that the detention of people without trial was unfair and unjust.

He believed that recent disturbances on Mageta Island should be examined carefully, and that the conditions in certain camps should be the subject of some form of impartial inquiry.

No solution
Rehabilitation does not help to solve the problem of people who are detained, and who may not be returned to their normal life.

"There are some people who were still arrested by the police and who are now in the camps for an examination of the cases of individuals who are detained and I hope that all the African leaders concerned will keep this in mind."

Mr. Mboya said that he had some form of judicial inquiry into the whole question of the detention of people without trial in Kenya, and the justice in the Government's Administration.

The situation demands an immediate separation of the Administration and the police force, he said.

"I believe the most urgent issue is the one of Constitutional reform. So long as we retain a system in this country dominated and out of the problem, So long as we have the High Commission, which is there without any real power, there will be no solution to the detentions, and the detentions in Kenya.

Mr. Mboya said that the High Commission will be opened to the African people, and that the African people will be able to elect their own representatives.

Land consolidation

Abolition of term 'leper' sought by society

WRONG IDEAS ON DISEASE

A BOLTION of the word 'leper' because it is widely associated with ideas about leprosy which bear little relation to the facts, is being sought by the Church Missionary Society.

The society in a statement issued in London, endorsed the view of its medical superintendent that the use of the word should be avoided wherever possible.

Dr. Harold Anderson, the society's medical superintendent, said that the word 'leper' was a term used by the society's medical superintendent.

Guard Africa, Jan. 1957. MAHMOUD TEL: 2191. SATURDAY, JANUARY 12, 1957. Alchemy. ON one of his alchemical visits to Britain, Kenya is expected to say that Kenya can achieve self independence in five years. His condition for this is that the Government get reasonable assistance.

Large contribution to Allied victory. The Belgian Congo's contribution to the Allied victory during the war was not only in the form of raw materials, but also in the form of human resources. But to revert to Mr. Yaeger's objective of self-sufficiency in five years. In the final reckoning, Kenya can afford only as much as the rest of the world. Borrowing is a form of development so that those who benefit in future generations will also contribute to the cost. Alongside this, there will be a large amount of capital available to the Government and the private sector.

One is to economize on Government expenditure; another that begins in the Government's own administration which many critics regard as wasteful and extravagantly expensive. The second is to increase the national yield by raising production. The first of these is to increase the national yield by raising production.

BRITAIN PROPOSES ECONOMIC UNION WITH EUROPE

'Opportunity State' of free trade

O.E.E.C. TALKS SOON

A PROPOSAL for closer links between Britain and Europe in a free trade area was announced in speeches at the weekend by the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Peter Thorneycroft, and the Foreign Secretary, Mr. Selwyn Lloyd.

Mr. Thorneycroft, speaking at Barnstaple, Devon, said the Government was pushing ahead with plans for economic integration. He said such an "Opportunity State" would have to be competitive, offer incentives and provide heavy investment.

"If we and our friends on the Continent can get it, we will have a market of 250,000,000 people—a market as big as Russia and as free as the United States," he said.

Mr. Selwyn Lloyd, who was speaking in Rome before returning to London after a three-day official visit, said Britain was firmly resolved to play her part in the European co-operation in the economic, political and military fields.

"We believe that the time for it is now and the existing opportunities may never recur. I can tell you categorically that, in our view, Europe must work together. We in Britain are firmly resolved to do what we can to bring this about in our view."

Mr. Lloyd said Britain intended to put the proposals to the Organisation for European Economic Co-operation's Ministerial Council meeting in mid-February and joint British-Italian Ministers said the British proposal for trade area offered the best opportunity for a major expansion of European trade.

Concessions retained by Commonwealth

TARIFF PLAN DETAILS

THE British plan for economic integration with Europe, which proposes that the 17 member O.E.E.C. should form a free trade area in Europe in which they would reduce and eventually abolish all tariff and other trade restrictions between each other. Each nation would be free to trade with other countries, without eventually so prohibitive duties handicapping their exports.

Some agricultural products would be included in the free trade area for the first time in that a European country is not allowed to discriminate against any other country in the Commonwealth system.

The free trade area would not include the already existing free common market among the six countries—Belgium, France, Germany, Italy, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

U.K. DESIGNING HIGH-SPEED ATOMIC TANKER

Operation on Cape route envisaged
PROBLEM OF COST
BRITISH scientists are working on nuclear reactors capable of propelling a large, high-speed oil tanker designed for the Cape route. This was disclosed by the director of the British atomic energy research establishment at Harwell, Sir John Cockcroft.

He said the advantages of oil tankers as big as the Queen Mary and capable of speeds of 55-60 knots were obvious at present. But they were still far from discovering whether atomic propulsion of tankers was a paying proposition.

Sir John, who was addressing a group of industrialists in Paris, said the cost of running the oil tankers was about six times that of an ordinary commercial vessel. America was now building an atomic-powered 12,000-ton combined passenger and cargo ship which would cost £15,000,000. This he said, was not intended to be economical.

He said that in Britain the commercial propulsion of ships was under active study by a combined team of the Atomic Energy Research Association and the Atomic Energy Authority. Britain was working on a reactor for electricity production which, if technically feasible, would be cheaper than the Nautilus type.

Turning to electricity production, Sir John predicted that by 1953 there would be a chain of giant steam-powered stations stretching across Europe and feeding a bulked electricity grid. Britain's experience in operating Calder Hall, the world's first nuclear power station, had been very favourable, but nuclear power stations said three other stations were to be completed by 1960.

The output of these stations, compared to today's coal, had been raised four times. But the important factor for Britain was that the increasing amount of power was far outstripping coal supplies.

He said that in the United States, where the Atomic Energy Commission was conducting a series of experiments, it was expected that a statement would be issued soon.

FOR KEY'S SESSION UNDER THE GOVERNMENT Parliament reopens today

Parliament reopens today after the Christmas holidays with the Prime Minister and his new Conservative Government facing the certainty of a stormy session.

The Opposition will attack the Government's policy on the new House of Commons rose in December of three months ago.

The Opposition's latest proposal is to have a referendum on the selection of a new Prime Minister.

Mr. Macmillan has already been accused of a "policy of appeasement" in the eyes of the Conservative Party.

Higher taxation in the past and growing unemployment have caused a Bill which will increase income tax and reduce the amount of money available for the Government's social services.

...AND THE FAMILY VERDICT IS...

ATLAS

Because of its low price, economy in running, no rotating parts to go wrong, no wasted space, thermostat control and 1 YEAR'S GUARANTEE

Because it looks so smart, keeps food fresh for so long, is so silent and so clean because of its stainless steel and plastic construction and the automatic light is handy, too.

Because Mum's always a good housewife

Because it makes a smashing addition

LAST week two former Prime Ministers, British left for a holiday abroad. On the left is Sir Anthony Eden, who is on his way to New Zealand with Lady Eden on board the liner Rangitiki. He is seen facing a battery of microphones at the Royal Albert Docks before boarding the ship, and in a brief message he said: "The difference between the West and Egypt has not been colonialism! It is the difference between democracy and dictatorship."

UNFINISHED BUSINESS, MANAGED BY DIFFERENT INTERESTS?

ONCE upon a time (circa 1946) there was a young assistant engineer by the name of Perrin in the employ of the Public Works Department. During the war he had been called up and posted to the Works Directorate of the Royal Air Force. When he was demobilized he kept quite a job about airport construction. Arising out of what seems to have been a casual conversation about airports in general, and particularly about the Embakasi Airport, he was introduced to the Public Works Department. Public Works expressed his interest in the project and he was put in touch with the Chief Engineer and suggested to some of his young staff that they take a look at the area called Embakasi. He then went to see the then Chief Engineer, Mr. J. M. Kelly, who was then in charge of the project and was given a job as project engineer. He was given a job as project engineer and was given a job as project engineer.

Project shelved

There was little justification, in the opinion of the Public Works Department, for the shelving of the Embakasi Airport project.

Among its type in world

On grounds of overall cost, the Embakasi Airport project was shelved as a first step towards the construction of a new airport at Embakasi.

SANDY SADDLER RETIRES TO SAVE FAILING SIGHT

Lightweight aspirant overtopped

CYBRIA France's lightweight, outspitted London's McCarthy of the British lightweight title over her rounds at the Royal Albert Hall, London, on Tuesday.

McCarthy did well to stay the distance, but he was not too well served by his eyes. He took a mouth of water during the second round. He was then thrown out by a knock-out in the fifth round. He was then sent to hospital in the morning. He is now recovering from his wounds. He has been advised by his doctors to rest. He is expected to be able to return to the ring in a few weeks.

Hamia-Costa bout winner will take vacant title

SANDY SADDLER, recognised in New York as world champion, had reported that he was going to retire from boxing after a fight with the Russian, Kostya Hamia. However, he was surprised for three weeks to find that he was a passenger had been in a motor accident in New York. Dr. Thomas Matthew, who has treated the boxer, recommended an retirement from boxing. The boxer had a slight eye injury and was not fit to fight. He may be able to return to the ring in a few weeks.

Stripped of title

John McArthur, champion of the New York State Athletic Commission, has been stripped of his title for failing to appear for a fight.

The National Boxing Commission's ruling that McArthur's title should be vacant until he has fought a fight within a set time is a blow to his career.

Chief Hamia of France won the European title in Paris on Monday. He is now a world champion in the bantamweight division.

The boxer, who has been in the ring since 1941, is now 35 years old. He is still in good shape and is expected to continue to fight.

Brasher is leading spokesman of Kitale singles

CHRIS BRASHER, Olympic 3,000 metres steeplechase gold medalist, has been voted leading British sportsman of the year by the British Sports Writers' Association. The 28-year-old athlete won the 3,000 metres steeplechase at the London Olympic Games in 1948.

Speed in squash international

South Africa beat Scotland 2-0 in their squash international in Edinburgh on Tuesday.

The match was a closely fought one, but the South Africans were faster and more accurate.

The British team, led by their captain, were defeated in both matches.

The match was a closely fought one, but the South Africans were faster and more accurate.

Fast and exciting

The match produced some of the fastest and most exciting tennis ever seen at Kitale and was appreciated by the many spectators who had gathered for the match.

Mayers beats Kenya champion in final of Kitale singles

"Shielded" Special Correspondent

NAROOBI competitors almost completed a grand slam in the 1955 tennis championships, played over the Christmas 19-20 weekend at the Kitale Club. Three finals were all Nairobi affairs, four titles in whole or in part came the way of the capital and a Nairobi player was runner-up in the women's singles. The young Nairobi, however, was rather unfortunate not to gain the men's doubles championship. R. E. Mayers dominated so that he is still the best of the Kenya European players. Details of the match of the Kenya championship are given in our special report on page 2.

All four players were in great form throughout. That was the stealer of the winners but Cooper played some superb stuff at vital moments, hitting both his first and second services to a few lengths. He also held his delivery more easily than his partner.

Champions' downfall

Thatcher, however, always seems to have the ability to "rain-bow" his way out of any apparently hopeless situation. To wind up a most successful tournament the last final saw the downfall of the Kenya mixed doubles champions. Thatcher and Miss Mackenzie, who were beaten by the Kenya-born Billie Mayer and Mrs. Russell Mayer, who combined to defeat the Kenyan pair in the 3-6, 6-3, 6-3, 6-2 championship final.

Mayers and Mackenzie were always on the losing side. They were beaten in the first round by the Kenyan pair in the 6-3, 6-3, 6-2, 6-2 championship final.
