BRITAIN WILL RESIST ECONOMIC ENCROACHMENT MOVE

Against extension of its control over Colonies

BRITAIN'S Colonial Secretary, Mr. Arthur Creech Jones, addressing the conference of African Legislative Councils in London yesterday warned against Eastern European influences in the Colonies and the world.

Capital development is main aim of Colonial economic policy

A SPOKESMAN of the British Colonial Office has defined the economic policy of the Government as an increased supply of capital equipment, the raising of consumer standards and the promotion of health and commercial relations between the Colonies and the rest of the world.

It is of advantage to the Colonies and to the world that our ways of life and the values of our civilised Europe should be preserved so that Western Europe does not fall back into chaos and thereby open the door in the values Eastern Europe attempts to enforce," he said.

London comment Increased production is vital

THE British Government, he said, desired capital development in the Colonies and the rest of the world. It was speaking to the conference of African Legislative Councils in London yesterday which was opened by the Deputy Prime Minister, Mr. Herbert Morrison.

The railways

Improvements are essential to making the railway system more efficient and to increasing the production of goods and services. The railways are the backbone of the economy and their efficiency is vital to the well-being of the country.

It is essential that the railways should be able to handle the increased traffic which is expected in the future. This requires a programme of investment in new rolling stock and infrastructure.

Future programme

The future programme now before the House of Commons will be a programme of investment in the railways. It will include the purchase of new locomotives and the improvement of the railway network.

The Colonial Secretary stressed the need for African leaders to take the initiative in their own development and to work towards the economic and social progress of their countries.

WE HAD YOU IN MIND

When we established our business, most of us are experienced travellers.

One day, many people host of the number of times they have had the pleasure of negotiating the Canal.

To the traveller of today who has in his luggage case, the assurance of his journey's end, the magnificent view of the Red Sea and the prosperity of the Canal don't exist.

To the traveller who is as a good sailor, to the traveller who hates the Canal - Air travel is the only answer.

And when it's a question of Air Travel - Beers have all the answers.

THE "BENTINCK" KETTLE
 This new H.M.V. De Luxe Kettle marks a complete departure from conventional practice, with its modern stream-line design, and is fitted with a new type of steam-shield handle. The body is pressed from good quality copper; double plated, first with nickel and then with chromium. Moulded and treated in the bottom give protection against scalding by hot water, and a safety device ejects the main section if the kettle boils dry.

PRaise FROM CRIPPS IS PRAISE INDEED

WHEN Sir Stafford Cripps gives us a pat on the back and tells us that we have done much better than it really does look as though we have indeed done something decidedly creditable (writes Richard Draxman).

Catching up

Very broadly we have made up the ground since 1946; that we are running into the red no longer has to be stated. Indeed, we are 150 millions a year more solvent, we are 100 million more solvent than we were in 1947, with that fact and having made up the ground in respect of our foreign trade and convertibility and the after-effects of the war, we are doing less well than in 1947, but it is less than half a dollar deficit, but it is less than half a dollar deficit, but it is less than half a dollar deficit...

The outlook

One can hardly go any further in the direction of optimism without incurring protest. Friction, it is said, has been used. Exports can and must be increased. Not too noisy, but it is a different matter when Mr. Cripps says that...

Uphill pull

The earnings of our ships, our banking and insurance houses, our transport and other services, are far better than expected in the first half of 1948. It is an important item in our 'invisible' balance, the return on investments. We are not too long in encountering with those meeting the £100 million mark in Burma, and Ceylon from its second half of the long uphill pull to solve in the first half of the year. It is a good sign that we are doing very well to go so far. 32 companies with other European nations (with a small of our own) have done very well. We have earned every word of Sir Stafford Cripps' congratulations but there is still plenty to do.

Probably not — because private aircraft ownership has arrived at the crossroads as car ownership in 1914. Although to some of us "new-fangled contraptions" the aircraft presents maintenance and repair problems beyond the capacity of the man in the street. Cut out the worst problem of maintenance and repair and consider again the advantages of owning your own aircraft. AIRWORK will look after your plane.

BEVIN HAS 'JOE'S' ABOUT IT U.S. is of one mind on Berlin

COMPLETE Republican Party support of American policy on Berlin has been announced by Senator Arthur Vandenberg, who has criticized as a "tragic failure" the fact that the United States did not obtain a clear written agreement giving the Western Allies access to the German capital.

Senator Vandenberg is chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and leading advocate of the United States position on Berlin.

Democratic Republicans and Conservatives rallied to Vandenberg's position, declaring "regardless of differences of opinion on other matters, we are in complete agreement on this one question."

A PARIS conference of the Foreign Ministers of Britain, the United States and France, which opened over the Russian request for a meeting of the Foreign Ministers' Council to discuss the Berlin problem, which the three Western Governments have submitted to the Security Council as "a threat to international peace and security."

After their meeting, Mr. Ernest Bevin was asked whether another meeting of the Foreign Ministers' Council was likely. He replied "I haven't the slightest idea when I shall have the next meeting."

Wrangling over translation procedure that preceded the Security Council's opening of its debate on the Berlin situation was not limited to the British and American delegations.

Even before it started Mr. Andrei Vishinsky, the Soviet delegate, had jostled with Sir Alexander Cadogan, British Ambassador in Paris, and before the Council agreed to simultaneous translation of its discussion over the matter which requires a delegate not to speak if he is not present, Mr. Bevin said it should be done "because the Council is a solemnity of one voice."

Yishinsky says 'time will show' Russia's reaction to UNO discussion of Berlin

Western defence leaders chosen

FIELD-MARSHAL Viscount Montgomery, Chief of the Imperial General Staff, will be permanent military chairman of the Committee on the Chief of Staff of the Western Union Defence Council in new set-up.

The other members are: General Sir John Hackett, Chief of Staff of the British Army; General Sir John Hackett, Chief of Staff of the British Army; General Sir John Hackett, Chief of Staff of the British Army.

The name of General Sir John Hackett, Chief of Staff of the British Army, was announced by the War Office yesterday.

Yishinsky ASKED IF RUSSIA IS SINCERE

GENERAL G. L. McNaughton, Canadian delegate to the United Nations Political Committee, yesterday asked Mr. Yishinsky, the Soviet delegate, whether the latest proposal for two annual sessions was sincere for the control of atomic energy was sincere.

Mr. Yishinsky had proposed that the committee should be set up and some other operation should be set up to investigate the control of atomic energy.

Mr. McNaughton said "If the Soviet Government is sincere, it will accept the proposal for two annual sessions and will accept the proposal for the control of atomic energy."

Australia puts S.S. men on M.P.'s trail

AUSTRALIA'S Premier, Mr. J. B. Chifley, and Parliament yesterday said that the Government had been forced to direct the Australian Security Service to supervise the activities of Members of Parliament.

The State Department in Moscow yesterday announced that the Soviet Government had placed new restrictions on travel in Russia by state or private citizens abroad.

Four points

The Senator's statement was made in a Presidential election campaign session in which he laid down three points of American policy on Berlin.

One: "Belief in collective security, and support for the United States position on Berlin as the world's best hope for peace."

Two: "Pursuit of the European program for universal peace and security, and support for the United States position on Berlin as the world's best hope for peace."

Three: "Efforts to restore stability as rapidly as possible in the European area, and support for the United States position on Berlin as the world's best hope for peace."

West recalls spirit of Article 107

One of the chief arguments used by Mr. Yishinsky against the Security Council discussing the matter was that it would be a violation of Article 107 of the Charter, which says "Nothing in the present Charter shall invalidate or preclude action in relation to any State which, during the Second World War, has been the enemy of any signatory to the present Charter, taking any action which it deems appropriate, and which it has the right to take in accordance with the settlement of disputes that the systematic reproduction of its promises by the Soviet Union."

Mr. Yishinsky said that the United States delegate, Mr. Philip C. Jessup, argued that Article 107 was put in the Charter to govern relations between the United States and Germany, France and the British Commonwealth in Paris last week. But the announcement of the Security Council was delayed at the request of France.

Plain sailing

If the Russians really meant to discuss the matter, it would be plain sailing for the United States, said Mr. Yishinsky.

Mr. Yishinsky said that the United States should not be afraid to discuss the matter with the Soviet Government.

Thorough sifting

This matter is being thoroughly sifted and already some interesting information has been obtained.
