EDUCATION IS THE WEEKEND TOPIC

Colonial Office looks to African women

A NEW chapter in the growth of African education will open when the flow of fully educated women begins to make itself felt.

This was the opinion expressed by a Colonial Office spokesman to delegates from East and Central Africa when they met during the recent London Conference to discuss education policy in Africa.

If the problem of European and Indian education was not one of policy but solely of finance and administration, the spokesman said that the discussion should be confined to an examination of the problems of African education.

There was no tendency in limiting the education of women and girls from the poorest backward areas. The problem of achieving universal primary education presented a desperate picture.

Girls were inadequate, the leaders were insufficient, finance was lacking and teacher recruitment. The centre of the latter lay primarily in new and better training, especially in the lower classes.

Money problem

As regards the problem of finance, the spokesman said it was the Colonial Office view that Colonial Government and private initiative should not be used for primary education. It should be confined to higher, technical, secondary and miscellaneous education.

Colonial Development and Welfare Commissions were not called upon, however, in their contribution to the study of the primary education. The bulk of the money required for this latter category of school investment, came from the local authorities and the levying of local education rates already existing in certain territories was also possible solution.

More teachers

During the discussion there was agreement as to the importance of increasing female education and of the provision of a greater number of teachers. It was agreed for ensuring that the curriculum of European education should include a study of African subjects that was not only interesting, but also educational.

It was further agreed that the people of Africa must enjoy the additional facilities offered by the schools in providing for them and the increase in those areas where the population was thin and the distance to the school was considerable.

HERBERT Arthur Woods, down-and-out, likes breakfast in bed and hates sleeping on park benches.

A long time ago—1914—an inspiration came to him. He tried out the idea—and it worked.

TO BECOME ATLANTIC SEABOARD

BRISTOL the old West Country port, which grew rich on slaves and molasses, rum and tobacco until its wealth began to seep away into the despoiler berths of Glasgow and Liverpool, is once more on the way to becoming Queen of the Atlantic seaboard.

There at the opening show of the Western seafaring nations, are the competing British and American Atlantic sea lanes from which the great air fleets of the future will take off on their flight to America.

'Headaches'

The wholesale move of British Overseas Airways from Montreal to the British 'overseas' base of Filton, due to begin today, has caused many headaches in Bristol.

Ordered with little warning to leave the city and to air 'overseas' called for rapid decisions both by the city and by the air corporation.

One of them has been over the question of hundreds of air crew who will now begin to roam the Atlantic.

DARLINGTON SMASH HULL'S UNBEATEN RECORD

THE hardiest of football followers was shown on Saturday by the setting up of a new English record aggregate attendance figure of 171,000 on the occasion of the Darlington v. Hart Lane Spurs' encounter, and 60,000 new Chelsea draw with Blackpool at Stamford Bridge. These were London records for the season.

The heavy game resulted in some of the best football ever seen in the City and the spectators record was maintained throughout the match. The same thing has happened in other parts of the country.

As at Hull, Hull drew today because the heavy rain had set in. The heavy rain had set in and the heavy rain had set in.

Firing off in the Rumuruti 'Bisley'

This picture, taken from the firing point at the Rumuruti Bisley, shows some of the spectators and surroundings of the range.

Keen shooting in Rumuruti Bisley

The first post-war 'Bisley' meeting held at Rumuruti and the Rumuruti Rifle Club was a complete success, as always briefly reported. The entry was encouragingly good and visitors from Nairobi and elsewhere were highly delighted by the standard of rifle shooting.

One of the highlights was the final 1,000 yards in which C. Elliott and H. O. Henry had a ding-dong tussle, while the general standard of keenness fully justified the hard work that had gone into this revival of rifle shooting.

Results varied from deliberate applications at all distances from 200 to 1,000 yards, to sniping, five with movement and revolver competitions. A number of entries were below the Army contingent from the C.S.I. Members of the Kenya Police Reserve, who used their own rifles, were very serviceable.

High standard

Shooting conditions were not so good as a creditable standard of skill was maintained. Several men in the 200 yards range, shot 24 out of 25, an average score of 24. The standard was up at 1,000 yards, between C. Elliott and H. O. Henry for the second Cup, which was only decided at the fourth shot.

Great credit is due to W. A. Perry, whose determination overcame the many obstacles attending the revival of rifle shooting in Kenya.

Lat wins Kaplan Cup at Kericho

The competition for the Kaplan Cup, which was held at Kericho over the weekend of the 19th and 20th inst., was won by Lat, who scored 26 holes, a four down on 72.

The runner-up was H. L. (14) who was the cup last year. Lat had a very good start, but he was overtaken by H. L. in the 19th hole, but he was up on top, but he could not maintain the good form, and he finished five shots up on H. L. in the 20th hole.

CROCODILE AS GOLFING HAZARD

Secretary Kenyan Golfers' Association. A crocodile is said to be a real and serious hazard in the sport since the hole of golf is certainly a hazard in the general meaning of that term.

The possibility of such an agency placing a game is suggested on the part of the Kenya Golf Club which made, "It is a bad case to find in dangerous proximity to a golf course a crocodile's hole."

"I had a very interesting experience," writes the secretary, "that the possibility of such a hazard being placed in the vicinity of a golf course is a very real one."

Machakos hears of the central abattoir scheme

Standard Machakos Correspondent

A STRONG probability of an active abattoir scheme in the future was mentioned by General Edwards when he spoke at the Marketing Board to the Machakos District Association when it met under chairmanship of Mr. G. E. Kenney.

The Board, he said, had two main objects—good prices for the farmer with regard to the interests of the consumer, and the encouragement of the production of better quality beef and greater numbers of lambs.

General Edwards said he felt that at present the scheme was not properly done and that the Board would be working on a scheme which would be fully aware of the Board that the price of the produce was inadequate. He also felt that the present methods of grading cattle were faulty and that the Government would do to meet these very high.

He mentioned a possible abattoir for insurance against measles, but said that the Government was not prepared to do this.

Another difficulty which he mentioned was the necessity for purchasing cattle all through the year irrespective of the condition that they were in.

General Edwards had been found possible to avoid abattoirs during periods of great drought by means of the present arrangement. It might not be practicable to go far in Kenya as to the possibility of some distance in this matter, including the fact that the Government would have to purchase the cattle in the winter months.

LIVESTOCK ROUTES FROM FRONTIER TO COAST WILL IMPROVE MEAT SUPPLY

Standard Special Correspondent.
KENYA'S European stock industry looks forward to the day when it will export quality meat to the world's markets. Towards this end active consideration, designed to provide a Central Abattoir scheme and full control of the livestock industry, take into account not only most marketing existing conditions, but also the improvement of stock-breeding of certified livestock, and the supplying of a more highly graded material.

These proposals are very fully discussed in the Faulkner report. It is to be expected that the Government will take steps to improve the existing system of marketing, and to provide a more efficient system of transport. The animal must be got from its pasture to the abattoir, and it is essential, therefore, that the road system should be improved. It is essential, therefore, that the road system should be improved. Stock routes

Stock routes are the answer where rail facilities do not exist. They are provided with facilities for the watering and feeding of beasts on their way to the market. A good example is the railway line from Garissa, south of the Victoria-Nyanza, which has, in fact, been suggested as a model for development to the rest of the country.

Normal yield

According to figures published recently in the review on the proposed purchase scheme prepared by Mr. D. E. Faulkner, the normal increase in native Kenya is about 10 per cent a year, which is rough

BOOKS: Game picture-making is a risky business

It is fashionable among most big-game hunters to declare Lord Colonel C. H. Stockley in his book "African Camera Hunter" to assert that there is no sport in big game photography. That he obtained while using a rifle, since it is more accurate and easier than the camera. Col. Stockley has fully established his case. "African Camera Hunter" is the best statement for the respectability of the camera as a collector of enduring trophies in the Continent yet published.

A few seconds later he sent me up a tree—no incident from 'African Camera Hunter'.

The claim is stated modestly and cheerfully, with no exaggeration or special pleading, no suggestion of controversy.

What Col. Stockley says is in fact true. "Come with me and see for yourself," take your share in the hunt, and you will find the camera and the rifle are not so far apart. It is a simple matter to take a photograph while you are in the act of shooting. It is a simple matter to take a photograph while you are in the act of shooting. PAULA GREEN

Ten steps to stardom

Director and talent scout of the Actor's Bank Organisation, David Henley, laid down the ten essential qualities for any aspiring film star:

1. Acting is acting and film work needs clear, convincing acting ability is wanted without training.
2. Don't worry about your nose.
3. Adaptability for the ability to play the part of a Swedish count one day and a hunchback the next.
4. Don't mind bad training in the theatre.
5. Ability to do a bit of everything but if you have ability, height is secondary.
6. Regular facial structure.
7. A good sense of humour.
8. Widened eyes and, for women, big hair.
9. But Henley is first to admit: "These qualities are not in order of importance and there is no hard and fast formula for success. When film stars with two eyes experience up-lying difficulties in winning the part, they are awarded for the best performance in the rest of the picture."

Chess: A GAME THAT WILL REPAY CAREFUL STUDY

By S. BARTON-SACKETT

IN no other country in the world today has chess such a tremendous grip on the general public as in Russia and the general standard of play—from Grand Masters and World Champion Botvinnik down to the schoolboy in his teens—must be considered as in a class by itself.

The following is very game 18-22 which was played in a recent tournament for the U.S.S.R. Championship will well repay every careful study.

White's sacrifice on the 22nd move is a beautiful combination and the first best ending in a series of such a beautiful example of chess at its best.

FIRST-YEAR RECOVERY DRIVE GIVES SILLIEST HOPE OF BETTER FOOD

Clay reports

Rinderpest robs the world of the food it badly needs

Championship took long to decide

The 1947-48 season has been a disappointing one for the British Commonwealth and Africa. The weather has been generally unfavorable, and the crops have been small. The situation is particularly serious in the tropics, where the drought has been severe. The Government has taken steps to provide relief, but the situation remains grave.

Nakuru show is popular

The Nakuru show, which opened on Monday, has been a great success. It has attracted a large number of visitors, and the exhibits have been well-received. The show is a valuable opportunity for the local community to display their products and to receive feedback from visitors.

Schools' work

The schools in the area have been working hard to complete their term's work. The children have shown a great deal of interest and effort. The teachers have been very busy, but they are pleased with the progress that has been made.

Clever dogs

A group of clever dogs has been spotted in the area. They are very intelligent and have a great sense of direction. They are often seen wandering around the streets, and they seem to be looking for something.

REBELS NOW SAY LIFE OF B.C.C. MAN IS THREATENED

The rebels have threatened the life of a B.C.C. man. They have demanded that he be released, and they have threatened to take action if their demands are not met. The situation is very tense, and it is hoped that a peaceful resolution can be found.

Dollars will boost rations if 1947 exceeds forecast

BRITONS will eat no more in the first year of their joint recovery drive with the 17 other E.R.P. nations of Europe unless their efforts achieve more than is forecast in the first-year programme. They will amass less, will probably have somewhat fewer clothes and will probably have their accommodations set up any more quickly than they are now.

Twice as much coal for overseas

Exports are billed for increase to 137 per cent of prewar volume and will include 19-million tons of coal—about twice as much as in 1947—and a close of the dollar gap. Dollar imports at 1,845-million dollars, will be 2,269 million dollars less than in 1947, while exports to the dollar zone will be pushed up by 238-million to 725-million dollars, with "invisible" dollar payments dragged up to 165-million dollars from the 96-million of 1947.

Leader of attack

The Minister of Agriculture, Mr. James Dillon, predicts that the rapid expansion of the E.R.P. will be a challenge to the British Commonwealth. He believes that the Commonwealth must work together to meet this challenge and to ensure that the benefits of the E.R.P. are shared by all.

Dreadness

The dreadness of the situation is being felt by many people. They are worried about the future and about the impact of the E.R.P. on their lives. They are also worried about the possibility of a world war, which would make the situation even more dire.

Assembly may appeal to Great Powers

The Assembly may appeal to the Great Powers for help. It is facing a difficult situation and needs the support of the major powers to overcome its problems. It is hoped that the Great Powers will respond to its appeal and provide the assistance it needs.

MINERS HOLDING HOSTAGES?

MINERS are holding hostages, it is alleged. The situation is very tense, and it is hoped that a peaceful resolution can be found. The miners are demanding that their demands be met, and they are threatening to take action if their demands are not met.

230 of island's 249 perished

Most of the 230 of the island's 249 perished. The situation is very tragic, and it is hoped that the survivors can be rescued. The island is in a very dangerous position, and it is hoped that the survivors can be rescued as soon as possible.

Kashmir report

The United Nations Kashmir Commission has completed its report. The report is very detailed and provides a clear picture of the situation in Kashmir. It is hoped that the report will lead to a peaceful resolution of the conflict.

It ranges from high finance to tobacco consumption

The upward trend which has been experienced in employment, construction, immigration and population is mirrored in the new statistics of the new countries formed and the new business names registered.

This statement in the first issue of the East African Quarterly Economic and Statistical Bulletin, which is just published, summarises well the impression conveyed on the reader by the 20th of the East African High Commission in a readily accessible form.

In the mass of statistics published the rapid growth of East Africa within the last few years is clearly indicated by the statistics of the East African High Commission, which state that while the first issue is set perfect in view of the many requests which are received for statistical data of the type contained in the bulletin, it has been decided that it should be published as soon as possible.

In the foreword Mr. C.J. Martin Director of the East African High Commission states that while the first issue is set perfect in view of the many requests which are received for statistical data of the type contained in the bulletin, it has been decided that it should be published as soon as possible.

Statistical information in the bulletin is contained under the following headings: Population, Migration and External Trade; Agriculture, Commerce and Industry; Finance; and External Trade. There are given for all three Territories for the year ending 31st December 1949.

There are some points of interest from the bulletin. The total population of the three Territories is now estimated at 12.8 million, comprising 6,000,000 Africans, 3,000,000 Europeans and 3,800,000 Asians.

Since 1931 the European population of Kenya has increased from 14,000 to 20,000. An increase of 43 per cent in the first year, and 150 per cent in the second.

Immigration. At the present time immigration into Kenya is compared with the year before 1949 to account for the greatest increase in comparison with the year before 1949 to account for the greatest increase in comparison with the year before 1949.

Permanent immigrants, however, are estimated 2,000 in 1947 although this is a considerable increase over the year 1946.
