WHY REVENUE ESTIMATES ARE HIGHER

The foregoing shows that revenue from taxation is approximately £5,000,000 and the foregoing liabilities furnish a rise of £2,600,000, the method of expending some major items of taxation.

It is further explained that the £5,000,000 of estimated revenue for 1949 is based on the assumption that the Government will be able to raise the estimated £5,000,000 of revenue from taxation. It is pointed out that the estimated £5,000,000 of revenue from taxation is based on the assumption that the Government will be able to raise the estimated £5,000,000 of revenue from taxation.

THE CONVERSATION

Matters affecting the Board of Trade and the Ministry of Finance were discussed in the House of Commons on the 14th inst. The talk was mainly on the estimate for 1949, and the Minister of Finance, Mr. Cresswell, said that the Government would be able to raise the estimated £5,000,000 of revenue from taxation.

SLIGHT DECLINE

In the most considerable general picture of imports and exports for the year 1948, the total value of imports and exports was £1,100 million, a slight decline on the £1,110 million of 1947.

SWIDEN WOULD FIGHT

The Swedish Government has announced that it will fight against the proposed agreement with Norway and Denmark for the establishment of a common market.

1-Minute Mask... gives your skin a lighter, smoother look!

Before you go out—except a 1-Minute Mask! Cover face, all but eyes, with POND'S Vanishing Cream. Its "levamisol" action dissolves all dry roughness, clinging dirt particles.

After one half minute, wipe off the Mask and see the result! Your skin looks lighter, smoother. It feels so much better!

Always before makeup, looking in a light box or mirror. POND'S Vanishing Cream and leaves it soft.

It's a Heavenly Powder Base, too!

by Don Bradman

THIS is the first of a series of special Olympic articles to be written by D. G. Bradman, who recently relinquished the captaincy of Australia after one of the most successful English tours—both as to match results and financially.

Other articles will be published in the next few weeks. Bradman, who is now in Australia, is a member of the Australian cricket team. He had said in an interview that he would not be in England for the tour.

These days the task of a touring team's captain is one of the most exacting ones that any man can undertake.

Moreover, the task of an Australian captain in England is more exacting than that of an English captain in Australia. At least, that is the opinion of many of the Australian players who are in England at present.

The writer allowed himself much licence. The article was written in a style that is not only readable but also entertaining. It is a pleasure to read it, and it is a pleasure to see that the writer is not only a great cricketer but also a great writer.

Private affairs

All players must have a certain amount of private affairs. The writer allowed himself much licence. The article was written in a style that is not only readable but also entertaining. Bores' boning

It was on August 1922 that Bob D'Ottavio was boned by the bors. The writer allowed himself much licence. The article was written in a style that is not only readable but also entertaining. Norman got on the heavy roller and rolled the bors. The writer allowed himself much licence. The article was written in a style that is not only readable but also entertaining. Fossilized also, colour was added by the bors. The writer allowed himself much licence. The article was written in a style that is not only readable but also entertaining. SOME POINTS TO REMEMBER WHEN BUYING FURS

TAKING refuge from a sudden downpour, I found myself in a room full of luxurious furs. Pelts from the animals of many lands were to be seen in coats and capes, the bags and caps on display, and as the rain pattered down on the pavement outside, the managers, emerging from behind festoons of fur, settled down to talk fur.

A good leopard skin coat is made up of five perfectly matched pelts. The pelts put marks catch the eye and well when worn. But bags and briefcases have as well as coats and dresses.

Also the animal is hunted and the manner of the hunt that distinguishes the fur in the summer climate do not come into account.

Author transforms grim subject into sheer comedy

Ballet in 16 exquisite colour plates

BETTY has been in trouble. In other words the author of The Egg and I has had to spend nine months in a sanatorium as a patient. In the past tuberculosis has been exploited to little degree—witness Camille and Mimi—from the angle of pathos and tragedy. But as may be expected from Miss Macdonald, there is apparently also humorous side to this distressing illness and she has made her point brilliantly in The Plague and I.

After commencing with her memories of illness as a child and dilating on the most interesting incidents, she then takes us taken in them by aunts and grand-mothers she comes to her own case and the accounts in from the early stages of visiting the doctor, through the interminable months of lying still and nothing, then an operation, and so to convalescence and discharge.

The book must be unique, a treat of force to it if it succeeds in transforming this incomprehensibly dreary material into sheer comedy. In treating such a subject one must take considerable pains to be sure not to offend those who have not very far from it those who never suffered. Miss Macdonald's understanding of the other patients she meets. The nice touches which she writes between them and sympathy is probably the secret of the very real charm which the book undoubtedly possesses.

Thumbnail sketches

Add in a list of amusing thumbnail sketches of patients and staff for example the patient's Daughter and the Chief Nurse. The chapters are so enjoyable in the final chapter in which she describes her recovery. The final chapter being related to the fact that she had been a patient for some time. The sketches are so good that it is almost impossible to read them without feeling that the author is suffering from a long and tedious illness. And those of who are in the hospital would be glad to see her and cheerfully acceptance of one of the severest illnesses which she has ever known.

Conversion

Tom Brainerd, a fundamentally very nice man, has had his life brought to a halt by a severe case of weather blues up to his eyes during the winter months. He is a man who has the driving force of his life in a desire to be a man of letters. He has to be in order to do such a thing that he will be able to do it. At this moment he undergoes a dramatic conversion and becomes a man of letters. Colour plates

Color books of one kind and another have been appearing with frequency in the past few years. It is not surprising that the author of The Plague and I has included a series of 16 exquisite color plates in her book. These plates are a real treat to the eye and a real help to the mind. They are a real treat to the eye and a real help to the mind. They are a real treat to the eye and a real help to the mind.

ZANZIBAR SOAP WILL COST MORE

THE Government of Zanzibar has recently announced that as a result of negotiations with the British Ministry of Food regarding copra and coconut oil prices, Mr. Strachey's department have made alternative price offers for these commodities based on a slightly higher price for the 1950 years' contract as compared with those offered for the 1949 years' contract.

The Zanzibar Government decided that in view of the very substantial increase in the price of the copra and coconut oil in the past few years (coconut growers can no longer afford to export their copra to the revenue as it now costs by the Government) it has decided to increase the price of the copra and coconut oil. BARBARA Stanwyck plays the dominating heroine, Polly Fulton, in the film based on John P. Marquand's novel, 'My Daughter', to be shown at the Playhouse.

Van Heflin and Richard Hart, who fought over Lana Turner in 'Green Dolphin Street' now appear as rivals for Miss Stanwyck's Charles Cadour, the villain character star has the part of the self-made industrial, Lynton, B. P. Fulton, with Spring Byington, as his wife.

Kennan Wynn is Martin Adams, the eccentric film composer who is inadvertently responsible for the takedown of Polly Fulton's marriage to Brent (Van Heflin).

The picture deals at length on the love between the two world war, and its action and dramatic contents centre on the spirited Polly Fulton, the father she loathes, the committed lawyer she believes herself to be in love with and the unconventional young economist she marries.

UNUSUAL FINISH BASED ON THEME SELDOM SEEN

THIS following specimen of the prizewinning World Champion's play reveals him as a tactician of the highest order. There is a tendency to look on Bevennik as a purely positional player who wins the majority of his games by positional play and by superior technique.

This is undoubtedly true to a point, given the slightest chance of a tactical change and before the game is over he is a sparkling performer when it is a sparkling game.

The following example is taken from the last eleven moves of the game. It is a beautiful variation of the Queen's Gambit, which follows a long-sounding, complicated strategy which makes the resulting position a very acute one.

White moves twenty and twenty-one make the whole character of the game completely change and before White has fully realised the critical nature of the position, the second player has finished the game with a brilliant combination.

The actual finish is most unusual and is a combination of a queen's pawn sacrifice and a rook sacrifice.
