SERIOUS RIOTS IN PARIS.

Fierce Fighting in Centre of the City.

POLICE AND TROOPS FORCED TO FIRE.

Mob Storms Chamber-Building.

HEAVY CASUALTIES AND DAMAGE TO PROPERTY.

The new Government, formed last week by M. Daladier following the defeat of the Chamber Ministry, has already been overthrown as a result of the Premier's return to his post as Minister for the Interior.

It is stated that the removal of the Chief of the Paris Police, as a result of his actions during the recent outbreak of disorder in Paris caused by the Stavisky affair, was the price demanded by the Socialists in return for their support to the new Ministry. The Socialists, it is further stated, have long desired M. Chiappe's removal.

The effect of the Premier's bargain, however, has been to alienate his Right supporters, and two Ministers resigned following later by the resignation of the whole Ministry.

The French Government's fears of an outbreak of disorder among the troops of the Paris Garrison, were justified, as very serious rioting broke out in the city during the sitting of the Chamber. Disorder even spread to the Chamber itself as the debate has to be adjourned owing to a free fight on the floor of the House.

During the evening the mob became completely out of hand and the troops and police were forced to fire. For a period the rioters were victorious and swept through the corridors and reached the Chamber buildings. The disturbances occurred in other parts of the city where acts of incendiarism were committed.

Premier Resigns.

Paris, February 5. (Special Service.) M. Paul Boncour, Minister for the Interior, resigned following the decision of the government to transfer M. Chiappe to the post of Chief of the Paris Police. M. Daladier is at present engaged in discussing the resubmission of the Cabinet, and has offered the War Ministry to M. Paul Boncour.

DISARMAMENT DEBATE

Sir John Simon Explains the Memorandum.

BRITAIN'S DUTY TO GIVE A FURTHER LEAD.

Nearing Common Ground.

GERMANY'S EQUALITY OF RIGHTS NEVITABLE.

In a crowded House of Commons on Tuesday, Sir John Simon, the Foreign Secretary, gave a lengthy explanation of the British Memorandum on Disarmament during the course of which he stated that the situation had developed sufficiently to justify this new effort for reconciliation.

He said that it was Britain's duty to give a further lead in the matter, as she had already given the most striking proof of her good faith by translating words into deeds.

The key of the situation, he continued, was the accommodation of France and Germany, and he pointed out that Germany's claim to equal rights in armaments could not and should not be resisted.

Sir John Simon definitely stated, however, that if prompt agreement was not reached, Britain would have to consider her armaments position, if she was to live in a world of war.

Most of the subsequent speakers dealt with the German subject of Common Ground, while Sir Austin Chamberlain, the subject of armaments, while Sir Austin Chamberlain was loudly cheered when he stated that there could be no question of Germany's equality with Britain on the sea.

No Delay.

(SIR JOHN SIMON'S ADDRESS.)

The speeches given by the British Disarmament Memorandum as a welcome contribution to the discussion and worthy of consideration.

It is regarded as an effort to solve a controversy by getting the procedure to Germany on the subject of armaments, and agreement on divergent points.

Reception by Italy.

(MRS. FOLIO'S ADDRESS.)

It is understood that Italy is probably prepared to accept any proposal that would give the British proposals that would lead to a solution of the Italian system of pre-military treaty.

As the British proposals go down, that the Italian, it is declared, they are so likely to receive general satisfactory response.

French Outlook.

PARIS RISING IN FRANCE.

Barricades Erected in the Streets.

CAVALRY CHARGE RELIEVES BELEAGUERED POLICE.

Unions have decided to join the general strike on February 12. Valuable Support.

M. Doumergue ASSURED OF SWEEPING MAJORITY IN PARLIAMENT.

There was a further outbreak of disorder in Paris on Friday night, resulting in a number of casualties. The riot, however, was not of such a serious nature as that of the previous Tuesday, owing chiefly to the fact that the authorities had taken special precautions.

It is stated that M. Chiappe, the Prefect of the Paris Police, whose dismissal from his post, brought about the downfall of the Daladier Cabinet, is likely to be appointed French Ambassador to Brussels.

M. Doumergue has succeeded in forming a Cabinet, chiefly of ex-Ministers. The War and Air portfolios have, however, been accepted by two distinguished soldiers, entirely unconnected with politics.

The new Ministry which embraces all parties, except the Socialists and Communists, is expected to command a sweeping majority both in the Chamber and Senate.

Agricultural Research in East Africa

VALUABLE WORK CARRIED OUT AT AMANI.

A New Species of Sisal.

INTENSIVE STUDY OF COFFEE ROOT SYSTEMS MADE IN KENYA.

The fifth annual report of the East African Agricultural Research Station at Amani, Tanganyika, has recently been published. The Amani Institute has recently received a grant from the Government to take up the responding position to the Veterinary research station at Entebbe.

Amani has a staff of some 15 fully qualified scientists and research workers including the Director, Dr. W. Nowell. The Entomologist spent the greater part of the last year of work in Kenya Colony investigating coffee problems.

In addition to extensive and valuable research into coffee problems, most important work has been done in connection with sisal improvements. The Institute has been experimenting with a new species of Agave which in many ways is proving superior to sisal.

Streak Disease of Maize.

Attention was drawn by the Director in his report to the investigations carried out by the Plant Pathologist in connection with the outbreak of streak disease in maize in the Malindi district. The investigation was conducted under the supervision of the Principal Plantation District of Tanganyika, for comparison, of two districts in which the disease occurred. The 1007 trees were exposed in vertical rows, and in each row a certain number of trees were raised in form and raised were retained, and it appears that the majority of the trees which were planted in the rows were not attacked by the disease. The results throughout the trial are generally very promising. The seeds used to be uniformly distributed in the rows, and the rows were not widely spaced or were not widely spaced over an area of 1000 ft. long and 20 ft. wide. The seeds are generally well sown in the rows, and the rows are generally well sown in the rows.

A New Species.

The situation now changing the extension of the uses of sisal has necessitated a study of the various diversified product developed in different districts to see how the production exists between the rubber distribution and the sisal distribution. The study is being carried out by the Plant Pathologist in connection with the investigation of the disease. The results throughout the trial are generally very promising. The seeds used to be uniformly distributed in the rows, and the rows were not widely spaced or were not widely spaced over an area of 1000 ft. long and 20 ft. wide.

Offse Experimentation.

The establishment of an offse experiment station at Malindi, for which the plant is well adapted, will provide opportunities for fundamental research which are now lacking. Research on coffee is now being carried out at various points in East Africa, and it is highly desirable that the programme should be coordinated.

Sisal Investigations.

In a matter of historical record, it states the report of the Director, that the sisal industry of East Africa has been built up from the introduction of sisal to the island, which survived introduction from Florida in 1883. There is a need for uniform provisions, in which the only noticeable variation, apart from the effect of environmental factors, is in the production of sisal. It is highly desirable that the programme should be coordinated.

Entomological Research.

The Entomologist spent the greater part of the first year of work in Kenya Colony investigating coffee problems.

Levy imposed on Sisal Fibre for Export.

BILL PASSED BY LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

To Finance Research.

FUND TO BE ESTABLISHED FROM PROCEEDS.

The Kenya Legislative Council on Tuesday passed through all its stages the Bill to impose a levy on sisal fibre for export. The rate will be fixed by the Governor in Council each year, the maximum being 10 cents per hundredweight.

Under the terms of the Bill a fund will be established from the proceeds of the levy, to be devoted to expending on investigation and research in connection with the industry and the study of economics in regard to production. The Government will contribute pound for pound to the fund, up to a limited amount.

The Colonial Secretary explained that a levy on sisal had been recommended by the Agricultural Commission in 1920 and in 1920 a Bill was drafted, but owing to the depression it was not proceeded with. It was agreed that a similar Bill had been passed in Tanganyika and that the funds would be disbursed by mutual agreement.

Another Heavy Cotton Crop in Uganda.

EFFECT OF THE RECENT HOT WEATHER.

Rising Market for Lint.

BUT SEEING BEING BURNT OWING TO POOR PRICES.

Uganda has again experienced a very heavy cotton crop and it is expected that the yield can be picked, the total export will exceed last year's record figure of 265,000 bales.

In addition the general condition of the crop is reported to be of a very high standard, and is probably the best grade for some years past.

The lint market is rising and is at present showing a substantial increase on that which was obtained when the season opened last month. The seed market, however, is low and considerable quantities have been burnt as ginners cannot afford to export.

EXCELLENT QUALITY.

STANDARD CORRESPONDENCE.

The weather in Kampala, Feb. 12. The weather is undoubtedly the best that we could possibly have for the cotton crop and there is little doubt that, if the growers on the west side of the Nile can pick their heavy yields, the total crop will be in the first year would be 265,000 bales.

As far as the Eastern Province is concerned, Bungo County has already marketed between 5 and 60 per cent of its total crop. The rest of that Province has probably sold 40 per cent. Cotton came in very heavily after the first few days of opening, the bulk of it being sold at 10/- per bale. The price paid has been sold at 10/- per bale. ("We Speak for Those Who Can not Speak for Themselves.")

Last Month's Competition.

The price this month is divided between Daphn Je-Blake, aged 20 and Gavin Scott, aged 15, Kilimani Primary School, (Gavin Scott and his sister, also aged 15, both sent in beautifully made and well-thought out essays, but taking up into consideration the judge decided Gavin's was the better. Daphn's knowledge of the animals in the Bible was more comprehensive and she will readily taken a delight in remembering them but she lost marks on mistakes. John Williams aged 7, also of Kilimani sent a remarkable essay for a child so young but wandered too far from his subject.

Next Month's Competition.
This month I want you to make an animal calendar. The prize will be an animal for originality, clearness of colour and neatness. The calendar can be for a month or for the year and can be in any form you choose. Write your names and address on the back of the calendar and send your sets only on the front. Competition entries must reach the P. O. Box 317, on or before March 5th.

Next Month's Competition.
There is a question whether the competition should be discontinued as so few schools nowadays seem to find time to enter and the number of independent entries is also disappointing. This matter will be discussed at the next meeting and if it is decided to continue the competition the date for your next month will be printed later.

HOW TO TAKE CARE OF YOUR PETS.

No. 5.
THE MONKOOE AND THE MONKOOE.

Dear Children,
This month I am going to say a few words about the Monkooe. This animal keeps as pets—namely, the monkey and the monkooe. Let us start with monkeys. There are very many kinds of monkeys, and it would be too long for me to tell you about all the different species. I will just mention a few of the best known. I expect most of you know the baboon—he lives in the forest and the rocky hill country. The baboon lives in troops led by a chief who always walks in front when the troop on the move. All the others follow the leaders with their tails hanging down a very big baboon does act as the rear guard. When they stop one baboon is always posted as a sentry to keep a look out and warn the others of the approach of danger. The baboon's secret name is the leopard—and the crocodile catches them when they come near to the river to drink. Baboons are destructive creatures and do considerable damage they love a honey do. Other well known kinds of monkeys are the chimpanzee and the orang-outang. These live in the forest and build nests high up in the trees. They are often kept as pets and get very affectionate and are most amusing to watch. Perhaps some of you have seen films of the chimpanzee at the Zoo—black-drinking out of cups and ing with spoons and forks—just like human beings. Maybe some of you have seen in England little monkeys dressed up in coats and trousers sitting on top of a barrel organ, holding a hat for money. There are not so many of these little creatures nowadays which is just as well—for they must be miserable in a cold country and never able to play among the trees. Monkeys are very clever and can be taught almost anything. They are very human beings. One of my favourite animals to make and vegetables. If you have any monkeys, I don't advise you to get a pet monkey I don't advise you to get a pet monkey unless they are rather dangerous ones. They have very fierce natures and cannot bear to see their master or mistress getting chattering and screaming with rage until notice is taken of them and the creature will turn on its owner—and a monkey bite is a very nasty thing. To be careful to avoid teasing a monkey or making pet noises. They sometimes become very friendly with dogs and will rub their noses on their faces like big puppies. Your monkeys should have houses made for them and set on top of a pole with the entrance turned away from the direction your wind and rain usually comes from. Monkeys fed the cold occasionally and I'm sure you'll not let your monkey to get a chill. He should be furnished with a chain—as he will probably bite through anything else—but it should be the lightest possible to buy. Your monkey is small and should be attached to a strong round iron nail. The other end should be fixed to a wire ring that will slip round the post. This will enable him to go round and round without getting tired up. So that there is always a bowl of water handy so that he can drink when he feels thirsty—don't do so if he will certainly do so. Now let us think of the other pet—the dwarf monkooe—when you have a dwarf "kinko." He is a fascinating little fellow and lives in the coast or in dry sandy places such as the north or frontier. He lives in mounds of earth or diatom soil and is very fond of eating white ants and beetles—kinks is a treat for him—also birds' eggs.

After inspecting the house they had a ramp in the garden. The monkooe likes the sun and will sit for hours sun basking. A raw egg will almost cause a week will give you great enjoyment if you watch the way they break eggs. They have very long ears and roll the egg with them. Once in a while they will take the egg firmly between their front feet and fluff it between their back legs against the wall.

You should not give your eggs more than once or twice a week but they will annoy themselves and you with a thing pong ball—rolling about and trying to smash it. They should be fed on bread and milk and will sometimes eat some pigeons with milk. White ants, beetles, and most sorts of insects are part of their diet. They love to be petted and stroked—just as a little.

Besides the little "kinko" there is the common monkooe—the blue fowl—and the white tailed monkooe. Both of these are much bigger and neither of them make good pet animals.

I wonder how many of you will be successful in getting a picture of a dwarf monkooe for your booklets.

A Saturday Sermon.

VISION.

THIS BIBLE story very emphatically, "I saw the vision." What thoughts are conjured up by that one word "vision." We think of it as a picture, a scene, a scene seen and to foresee, to plan in knowledge, to see the future, to see the end of things, to see the end of the world, to see the end of the vision of God to us, and what we would have us to be.

Mrs. Cuyler, Obit. In one of our correspondence columns we have had a number of letters from Mrs. Cuyler, who has been suffering from a long illness, and who has now passed away.

I have some more surprises for dogs this week. Mr. J. Mathers, of the "Dog World," writes that he has just received a letter from a man who has been suffering from a long illness, and who has now passed away.

Let us take "home" news first. I have had a number of letters from Mrs. Cuyler, who has been suffering from a long illness, and who has now passed away.

What a wonderful career was his! He has lived a life of service to his country, and has been a great help to his people.

Think of the vision of John the Baptist. He himself was but a voice in the wilderness, yet he was the forerunner of the Christ.

It recalls the apostles' reply in London in 1881 over the lantern slide of the "The Good Shepherd." It was a picture of a shepherd with his sheep.

The greatest incident in cricket history occurred at Lord's in 1889. It was a match between the "Pals" and the "Gentlemen."
