Permanent Agriculture

THE IMPORTANCE OF ANIMAL HUSBANDRY

It is obvious that any design for the future of farming in the Highlands must pay heed to the social and economic objectives of which animal husbandry is a necessary part. In other words it must pay heed to the consideration that farm income must be adequate for a standard of living which is commensurate with the ideals of the great enterprise of which settlement.

It must also pay heed to the fact that an arable husbandry system, which is the basis of the Highlands, is a greater source of profit than any other system. It is the only system which covers for arable land in order to produce the greatest amount of profit per acre. It is the only system which is self-sufficient in its maintenance of the soil and which, by providing the land with a constant supply of manure, maintains its fertility for a longer period than any other system.

It is in the direction where animal husbandry is a permanent feature of the settlement that the greatest progress is to be made. It is the only system which provides a steady and reliable source of income, and which is capable of being expanded to meet the needs of a growing population. It is the only system which is capable of providing a steady and reliable source of food, and which is capable of being expanded to meet the needs of a growing population.

PASTURE IMPROVEMENT

Rough Grazing Can Become Arazing Land

By J. F. LIPSCOMB

THIS is not a scientific paper because I have no scientific qualifications. It is a record of my personal opinion and impressions after working on the subject for nearly twenty years. It is written for the benefit of those who have been grazing on similar lands, and from those who can give scientific opinions.

Over the past six years of the Wilson River area, I have observed that the rough grazing has become a very serious problem. The land is now so overgrazed that it is almost impossible to get any crops out of it. The soil is now so eroded that it is almost impossible to get any crops out of it. The soil is now so eroded that it is almost impossible to get any crops out of it.

Another great cause of pasture deterioration is the overgrazing of the land. This is a very serious problem, and it is one that must be dealt with immediately. The overgrazing of the land has led to the erosion of the soil, and this has led to the loss of the topsoil. The loss of the topsoil has led to the loss of the fertility of the soil, and this has led to the loss of the ability of the soil to support a large number of animals.

The overgrazing of the land has also led to the loss of the ability of the soil to support a large number of animals. This is because the overgrazing of the land has led to the loss of the topsoil, and this has led to the loss of the fertility of the soil. The loss of the fertility of the soil has led to the loss of the ability of the soil to support a large number of animals.

BEHIND SCHEDULE

It is a fact that in a country where the population is increasing so rapidly, it is essential that the land should be used to the best advantage. This is because the land is the source of our food, and it is essential that we should be able to produce enough food to feed our growing population.

The results I have so far obtained are very encouraging. I have been able to increase the yield of my crops, and I have been able to reduce the amount of fertilizer I need to use. This is because I have been able to improve the fertility of the soil, and this has led to the increase in the yield of my crops.

Both the children, Johnson and Johnson, are very happy and healthy. This is because they have been able to get the best of the best, and this has led to their happiness and health.
