The Bank Manager's report had been used to help devise the plan of the explosion.

Detectives believe that the attackers used a small van to take their explosive material to the bank to remove it afterwards.

Once again CHIBBI Anti-Burglary Equipment has protected the bank.

Although there have been many attempts in various parts of the world, there has not been a successful burglary using CHIBBI Anti-Burglary Equipment.

Uganda report on 1952

"Senior" has become a word which is used in the Uganda Police but, as the result of the increase in European technical staff, it has become possible to train them in operating duties and to widen the scope of their activities with considerable advantage to the country. It is the 1952 annual report of the Uganda Police Force that sets out the technical staff and the increase in the number of African police officers in the force. The report states that during 1952 the Force had been working under the difficulty of being 13 per cent under strength in all ranks.

Under strength

Industrial and other developments in the Protectorate had resulted in increased demands on the Police. At the same time it was necessary to reduce the rate of recruitment of African police officers to the shortage of housing. The report continues: "The number of African police officers in the force at the end of the year (1952) is 1,181, 72.60 in 1952."

It will be appreciated that the increase in the number of African police officers is not a result of any increase in the number of African police officers recruited to the force, but is the result of the reduction of the number of African police officers who have left the force.

Review by executive officer of the 'Voice of Kenya'

PRESENTING an interim report on the activities of the 'Voice of Kenya' Mr. R. E. Kendall Ward, the organization's executive officer in London, told Nairobi delegates at a meeting on Monday. "It is my firm belief that public opinion in the United Kingdom is really anxious to help us overcome our troubles," he said.

Mr. Ward said, "The 'Voice of Kenya' was established in 1952 as a typical British organization with a British staff and office."

He added: "They want to be as active in every possible way, and we have not so far had them in Kenya."

A Step Forward
That the Deputy Governor of Kenya should be taking over the chairmanship of the Central Finance Board is welcome evidence that the urgency of the housing situation, and the priority character of social planning, is being realised.

These pictures illustrate the different types of country that the Mau Mau campaign is touching. Here a patrol comes through the Mau Mau forest.

It is only by being there, on the spot, that one fully realises the difficulties of this campaign against the Mau Mau, and sees the vast area that has to be combated by the forces of law and order.

Just now, the Kenya Government is playing a very large part in the operations on the Nyeri side of the Aberdare. Their company has been situated on prominent knolls on spurs running down from the forest into the Kiwonyi Reserve.

These bands of Mau Mau are in a large degree made up of very different types of people from the deserted chamber which were left when the area was vacated.

It is no doubt that the Mau Mau are in a large degree made up of very different types of people from the deserted chamber which were left when the area was vacated.

Attempted Burglaries
Last weekend three occurred the most determined attack of recent times by burglars on a London Branch Bank. The robbers spent the weekend in the Bank and it is believed that 11 men from London took part in the raid. They left behind them traces of drink and various articles of clothing.
They entered the Bank by first getting into a garage close to hand in a specially 24-hour wall at the rear of the Bank. One of the great steel safes in the wall was broken through. The robbers then used a sledge to get into the wall to the rear of a wall. Entrance to the vault was made through a straight and the doors of the vault were opened by the gang and this gave entry into a vault at the back of the Bank.
The robbers then wheeled in heavy oxygen-acetylene equipment and forced a basement window at the rear of the bank. Having got through an iron bar across the window they threw a bomb of steel, lowered their equipment on to the floor and dragged it into the bank.
The Bank Manager's door was a CHUBB 'J' Anti-Burglar type and cut through the door. CHUBB Anti-Burglar Alloy penetrated but as soon as the Alloy was reached all penetration means of the door was made, but the Alloy completely prevented the robbers from getting into the vault.
The burglar then inserted explosives into the hole to try and gain entrance that way, but when the charges were exploded completely following the burglar.
Although it was then given by the robbers to the CHUBB Anti-Burglar Alloy door, but one case of CHUBB Alloy stopped any penetration by the robbers.
The Bank Manager's carpet had been used to help defend the side of the explosion.
Detective believes that the six robbers used a small van to take their oxygen-acetylene equipment to the Bank and to remove it afterwards, as it did not fit the van.
Once again CHUBB Anti-Burglar Equipment has protected clients' property intact, and in this most determined attack the burglar left empty-handed.

The Mainly-For-Women Page (for a change) discusses

NEW FASHIONS IN CLOTHES FOR HUSBANDS

This article comes from the pen of J. E. FAIRBAIRN, London textiles correspondent and well-known writer on men's fashions.

Chalk-stripes
SIDE-STRIPES

Inverted plaid took the place of side silk or a center vent in the jacket skirt. They are worn, give all the expansion required for a wringing garment, and also almost out of sight, the fallow sides of a Norfolk-type sports jacket. Back in the fabric picture in the jacket skirt. It is a wide-spaced black-and-white striped fabric, and the new garment shown is a dinner-jacket made of black, although man silk—a break from the stationary, baronial-woolen cloth.

to the jacket, but did make a concession to the prevailing mode of narrower trousers. The material chosen was a quiet wool—a blue-grey, streaked of interesting, woven in a coarse reverse diagonal and shoddy herringbone.

Roll (otherwise known as "bush") collars are now established as the style for both jackets and trousers. These collars are made of the ordinary cloth lining, the material chosen was a quiet wool—a blue-grey, streaked of interesting, woven in a coarse reverse diagonal and shoddy herringbone.

Jacket in silk

MOIRE silk was also used as a fabric and fabric to the double-breasted jacket, the material chosen was a quiet wool—a blue-grey, streaked of interesting, woven in a coarse reverse diagonal and shoddy herringbone.

New shade

PLEATED back and front was the jacket of the Council's Norfolk jacket fabric. The Norfolk jacket fabric was made with side buttons, an all-over pleated back, and a pleated front. The jacket was made with a center vent, and the fallow sides of a Norfolk-type sports jacket.

Other features were the full-breasted jacket, the cuffs and the large welt pockets, all pockets, with overlapping flaps. The large welt pockets were in both hands and width. There is a large welt pocket in the front shoulder, to form a pocket for the back. The jacket was made with a center vent, and the fallow sides of a Norfolk-type sports jacket.

On the way in LONG seems to be a speculation. In London we saw the features of one of the double-breasted jackets, although in this instance there was no center vent, and the fallow sides of a Norfolk-type sports jacket.

THEY'RE THE SMALLEST FOR 15 YEARS
The smallest hats women have worn for 15 years dominate the current Paris millinery collections. The latest—the Flying Saucer—is barely six inches across the top and wide enough to hang half-an-ounce. The largest, a man's bandana in which are no more than tiny cut-outs in fantastic forms—stars, leaves, and top shells, piloted cones and panache balloons.

THIS clever use of vertical stripes allows all kinds of fancy cut-outs as that the designer has not been able to find a way to do it. The result is a hat that is so small that it is almost architectural.

FINAL TEST OVER SIX DAYS?

Sussex are in lead again

SUSSEX regained the lead in the County Cricket Championship table by gaining first innings points over Kent at Hastings on Tuesday. Middlesex, who were leaders, failed to salvage a point from their run-innings match against Gloucestershire at Cardiff.

Games with West points are new in a good position, having brought back 100 runs in their first innings at Cardiff.

Gloucestershire gained in their innings through their superior batting on the second day of the match, but Middlesex, who were 180 for two at the close, overhauled the visitors on the third day.

Sussex are in a good position, having brought back 100 runs in their first innings at Cardiff.

The fifth and last of the Oval on Saturday, August 13, may now be spread over six days instead of five in an effort to decide the final result in the first Test. Mr. Ronald A. C. Secretary of the M.C.C., stated on Tuesday, after the Board of Control had met for the first time to consider suggesting to the Australian Board that the final Test be spread over six days instead of five.

Germany main problem for Big Four

TO Sir Winston Churchill, still under Moscov's orders, it must be largely disconcerting to Britain the chances of a Big Four meeting ever re-opening.

The Prime Minister has been the first to visit the world, after the war, in his own capacity as secretary of the Commonwealth.

But last May, according to reliable sources in the United Kingdom, he was to have been the first to visit the world, after the war, in his own capacity as secretary of the Commonwealth.

Just wrapped—the most elegant package of greens for all occasions in 14 sizes

Where we lead—prosperity follows

Agricultural lands and mineral deposits of considerable promise await development in the Southern Province of Tanganyika. To open up this potentially valuable country new lines of communication are being built.

Already taking shape at Mtwara are new deep water berths which will permit ships of the largest size to serve a new railway line into the interior.

The new line will run from Mtwara Port to Lumumba Junction, a distance of 235 miles. Eventually it may be extended still further inland to provide an outlet for the newly discovered coalfields at Songea or even on to the shores of Lake Nyasa.

Over this line and out from the port will flow, in due course, a mounting volume of exports; for where the East African Railways and Harbours leads the way, prosperity will surely follow.

They would do so, Price was assessed £1,000, very cheap these days.

WEATHER MAY NOT BE SO CLOUDY

There is likely to be a slight weakening of the Mau Mau situation of recent weeks, followed by a depression probably in the latter half. This may lead to less cloudy days and less frequent showers. The weather conditions over Kenya are likely to be similar to those over Uganda and Tanganyika. Increased windiness may cause the weather locally to move across western Uganda and reduce the frequent showers and thunderstorms that are expected.

Kenya Students Make Their Home On 'Old Father Thames'

LIFE on the oceanic river may have its attractions, but for the hundreds of Old Father Thames' students, it is a challenge all for one, young adults, straggling in from all over the world, to make their mark on the river.

The story of four students—two of them from Kenya—who live in a house-front on the River Thames is told by the mother of one of the Kenya youth, MRS. J. E. LANGMEAD.

cluster round a fireplace, while a small table with a white and chair, furnishes a pleasant dining corner.

Kenya-born

It is all begun when Charles, Kenneth and I, the father, are in London. I am after a house, but after some weeks, I am not successful. I am a great admirer of the river, and I am sure that if I could only find a house on the river, I would be a happy man.

Young students could work in the restaurant. I do have one lay-out, the house, and the other for four. And the pride was for the Master.

'The Master'

Glynis is the Master of the river. She is the one who is in charge of the house. She is a very good cook, and she is a very good manager. She is the one who is in charge of the house.

There is the "drawing room" in front of the house. It is a very nice room, and it is very comfortable. It is the one who is in charge of the house.

And now towards the end of the day, out come the drawing boards and silence falls as all four get down to work. Nothing is heard until the bell is broken, much later, by a shout of laughter, perhaps at an intended piece of mischief on the board of one of them.

Quills of the river Master are all right according to the Master. He is the one who is in charge of the house.

To this they owe or another of the students' duty at odd intervals during the evening to help good forgotten earlier in the day.

A great good up in the house. "Can we afford another today?"—is the question that is asked.

It has been a good day. The day, out come the drawing

Daily routine

These young men start their day at 6.40 in the morning when the alarm clock brings a rude awakening. Glynis and Peter, from the forward cabin, first for the bathroom—the four slaves in the galley—and when they are dressed they get about, making breakfast while the other two take their turn for the morning ablutions.

"After that there is washing up to be done, beds to be made, the ship to clean and they up. And then they dash off to catch the bus to work.

Greatest Spectacle Ever Filmed

NEVER in the history of motion pictures have been brought to the screen like the story in "Quo Vadis" the birth of Christianity in a world with Robert Taylor and Deborah Kerr leading a cast of thousands who open at the Playhouse on Sunday.

Such spectacles in the film business are not often seen in this country, where the history of the Roman Empire has become a legend. The production, which takes place in the long history of the film industry, is one of the most important to have been made in this country. It is a masterpiece of the art of the cinema, and it is a masterpiece of the art of the cinema.

Careful drawing and elaborate jewelry are featured in "Quo Vadis". The modern young ladies go to Africa with the most traditions of their kind. And they have plenty of money to spend. The African movie industry is growing so fast that it is expected to reach a million dollars a year by 1960.

THE MEN WHO HAVE COME FROM KOREA

TODAY will see the start of one of the biggest "military" movements in the history of the port of Mombasa. That is, provided the weather has not intervened.

But all being well, two troops will sail into Mombasa Harbour laden with men - from Korea and Malaya. For some it will be the start of another, a homecoming.

Home again

In the Empire Forces the 1st Battalion of the Black Watch came to Mombasa to fight the Mau Mau in place of the 2nd Battalion of the King's African Rifles, back from there in Malaya.

When the British Forces in Malaya were sent to the East, the 1st Battalion of the Black Watch was sent to Malaya to fight the Mau Mau in place of the 2nd Battalion of the King's African Rifles, back from there in Malaya.

Forty-eight of them will be in the company of a force of 100 men.

The Regiment is bringing with it the famous Black Watch Pipes and Drums, and their marching through the streets of Cape Town in 1945. But it may be some time before there is a ceremonial parade in Nairobi. One day, however, will see the Emergency Forces march in the streets of Nairobi.

THE THINGS THEY SAY...

"The British are about 100,000 bottles are sent out by daylight every day; and about five per cent of them never come back at all. The value of these bottles last night is about £10,000." - A Dairy Manager.

"I have always felt that the proper way to live is to have your cake and eat it. In my case to have a camera, a motor and a dog. The motor is a 200 cc. and the dog is a pointer. The camera is a Leica and the dog is a pointer. The motor is a 200 cc. and the dog is a pointer. The camera is a Leica and the dog is a pointer.
