From Our Special Correspondent, General Kinross, with the East Africa Force.

ADDIS ABABA, Sunday, April 14. (SPECIAL GIBO SANTI, one of the Italian desert and most elusive divisional commanders, whose forces have been trying to overtake the British and the Italian army, was brought in to Addis Ababa today after surrendering to a small group of South African officers.)

After retreating over a thousand miles from the Juba River, General Santini passed through Harar and decided the Awash River as the route of his retreat.

He was followed up by the South African infantry who for several days pursued him and his force. The most spectacular moment of the chase was on the night of the 13th when the British and their units were in the vicinity of the Awash River.

HAPPENINGS IN FRENCH
SOMALILAND
Economic Relations
With Italians

(From Our Special Correspondent, Genoa, January, with the East Africa Force)

VERY LITTLE has been heard of the middle world since the war began and equally little about what has been going on in the adjoining French territory of Somaliland, where the Abyssinian railway terminates at Djibouti. I am able to raise the curtain to some extent on that story for I have heard it discussed by people who know the country as well as its people. In Abyssinia, however, had exceptional opportunities during the past months of war, but what is happening—and why?

The two territories, Abyssinia and French Somaliland, are very close to each other, whether they are at war. When France was at war with Germany and Italy, the ally of the French was not too happy a fact for the Italian. When France collapsed the Italians thought that they had a chance of the armistice all they had to do was to go to Djibouti and take possession of the land of the spoils. But that was not so easy either. The French, though not so well equipped as the Italians, had a better knowledge of the land and were more like handling over their houses and interests and so France still has French Somaliland and the Italians are being driven steadily further from it by a private party.

To begin with, the General Officer Commanding in the French Colony, General Le Gall, was appointed to the post of Governor and was looking forward to a meeting in Addis Ababa with the General Commanding the British Forces in East Africa. He and General Dickinson exchanged some very cordial letters and the General in Djibouti is in the opinion of the Government and in this case the Government are not so sure as the General is. He is confident that the British Forces are not so well equipped as the French and that the British Forces are not so well equipped as the French and that the British Forces are not so well equipped as the French.

Dependent on Abyssinia

This whatever political opinions may be in Djibouti and what are held by the Government or the man in the street are not so clear cut as in the French Somaliland Colony. It is mainly not altogether dependent on Abyssinia for its existence so long as the British Navy is important in the Red Sea. This is the position. I am told however in Harar too, that there is already a shortage of foodstuffs in French Somaliland. I do not say it is a plenty and it is not in Abyssinia, there is at least some and in the future something must be done about the railway from Addis Ababa to Djibouti with all its British content and its equipment. I suspect that in time, political opinions in French Somaliland will become fused with the colour of the present reality of life and there will be a complete to gether to see what we can do about the needs of the French people there and about the railway we have captured this week. For, after all, the railway runs in part through the French Territory and British is the only port, pending the capture of Ertra.

So it interested me to hear that in

Eire Faces Reality

April 14.

It is broadcast here by the Vickers declared that although Eire had not been granted neutrality in a way no one could maintain for a long time, it crossed with every day that the war was not a matter of time.

Should we be raised upon it as a man suffering and death for many of the most acute to observe to these thoughts and ways to look at the war all that might befall.

Children for evacuating women and children from the cities and large country estates, the country without delay. Above all, they must improve their discipline and their nerves and set as a united people.

"If we do not do this," he concluded, "we shall know that we are failing for all that is so near to us and we shall know that we are in a last." (Reuter.)

DANISH MINISTER DEFIES NAZIS

April 14.

Five hours after he had received the appointment of the Danish Minister in Washington, to obey the demands of the German Government to return immediately. The Free Danish Government in London congratulating him on his courage and his refusal to return to Germany and expressing the hope that he will still continue to represent Denmark in America.

Russian Views On Greenland

April 14.

The Soviet war correspondent, Red Star, today discusses the United States decision to set up bases in Greenland and President Roosevelt's announcement that the Red Sea is free to United States shipping.

After referring to the increasing number of longships the Atlantic route since the war, adds: "Although shipping conditions in the region of Greenland are now more difficult than ever, the normal route is quite possible in summer time to use the route Canada-Greenland-Iceland-Britain. Even the northern route," says "is becoming more and more significant."

The writer declares that the decision to allow United States merchant ships to use the Red Sea, whether under the flag of support or otherwise, is a step of support. He also suggests that the United States should replace British in an expeditionary force in the Pacific. Britain has a new source of tonnage to fill the gap caused by her losses. (Reuter.)

Mr. Wainwright, who of the United States Ambassador, arrived in London last night with his husband, who had met her at a South of England Hotel. Mr. and Mrs. Wainwright were seen in London by officials of the United States Embassy.

(Reuter.)

Gen. Sir John Dill

The Commission of Enquiry into the British Expeditionary Force in France, which was set up in 1930, has today issued its report. It is a long and detailed document, which is being published in several parts. The report is a criticism of the British Expeditionary Force in France, which was set up in 1930, and is a criticism of the British Expeditionary Force in France, which was set up in 1930.

ACCUSED COMMITTED FOR TRIAL

Sir Delvee Broughton was yesterday committed for trial by the Supreme Court at Nairobi on the charge of murdering the Earl of Erroll.

Over a hundred exhibits were produced at the resumed proceedings before the resident Magistrate. These exhibits were photographs - most of them taken with a microscope and camera - prepared by Mr. M. H. Fox, the Government's expert, and a chemist, illustrating his expert's views and conclusions from microscopic comparisons of bullet markings.

When he returned the witness saw "M" produce several boxes of photographs, all of which he carefully and elaborately examined as exhibits. He found that all the bullets he had examined in the afternoon were grooved, and five ridges, corresponding to a work on a revolution of the kind he has seen in the photographs.

When he returned the witness saw "M" produce several boxes of photographs, all of which he carefully and elaborately examined as exhibits. He found that all the bullets he had examined in the afternoon were grooved, and five ridges, corresponding to a work on a revolution of the kind he has seen in the photographs.

RAILWAYMEN'S TOWN BOMBED AND NEGLECTED

(From Our Special Correspondent, George Kivessy, with the East Africa Force.)

Diredda, March 31.

IN my despatch yesterday from Diredda I mentioned that on a typical railway town, as Diredda was not so much as an unshaded, one day job, and that the majority of railwaymen are not paid very large salaries and accordingly their houses are modest and the shops are stocked and built for the trade that is likely to be done by the workers.

By comparison Harar suggested a measure of affluence and comfort which I cannot find here. Like Harar, this is an unshaded town. Every thing in Abyssinia is in the making. There are no unshaded streets and half-erected buildings, new streets, new public institutions, and so on, in the making, all very new and all covered with artistic camouflage in pastel shades. The buildings are in the process of construction, but the colors are concerned, but here in Harar it is as if the town were being made from the ground up, and the streets are wide and the buildings are tall and the shops are numerous and the houses are comfortable.

But whereas Harar stands high among dominating mountains, and pours down in a tumbling fashion from one ledge to another, with great vistas of magnificent hills, the setting of Diredda two thousand feet lower, is far less striking. It is true there are hills, but they are not very high and the town is not at that time of the year and the gardens are very few and far between. The buildings are tall, the streets are wide and the houses are comfortable. The houses are tall and the streets are wide and the houses are comfortable.

I went to the Railway Station today. It is an imposing building, built by the East Africa Force. The station building stands in the Square called the "Market of the East." The station building is a double storey building, with a double staircase, and a double staircase. The station building is a double storey building, with a double staircase, and a double staircase.

What the station commissioner told me is that the station was bombed last night. The station buildings were not hit, but the shops were. The station buildings were not hit, but the shops were. The station buildings were not hit, but the shops were.

EVENTS OF THE WEEK

THE SESSION pursued its plied way, disturbed only by minor quarrels across the floor of the House. That these quarrels were recently become more than usually heated, however, is shown by the fact that the speaker has had to appeal to members to moderate their language.

Before the final adjournment the normal business of the day was completed. There has been a tendency on the part of honourable members on both sides to use as many words as possible in their speeches, which would only be regarded as parliamentary procedure if it were not for the fact that it is so often used as a political device not to reach their points in a logical sense but to create the impression of a lengthy and important speech. It should be obvious to sensible members that this is not a desirable method of strengthening their arguments and only leads to the weariness of the debate.

The speaker's little kindly dose of words was to have much effect on the members because not long after the speaker had finished his speech, the members were to be regarded as parliamentary procedure if it were not for the fact that it is so often used as a political device not to reach their points in a logical sense but to create the impression of a lengthy and important speech. It should be obvious to sensible members that this is not a desirable method of strengthening their arguments and only leads to the weariness of the debate.

It is only interesting to note that recently has been a number of speeches in the House. A feature of this is that the speaker has been a speaker in the House. ITALIAN DISCONTENT

THE training of the men from the coast to the Transvaal is a big task. It is expected that about thirty special trials will be needed. Elaborate plans have been made so that the survey should pass off without any hitch and it is probable that most of the special trials will be done at night and that during daylight the carrying out of the trials will be done at night.

Personally Speaking

WELL, we have just passed Easter week-end, and as the holiday was recognised and many businesses closed on Friday and Monday, large numbers of people left Nairobi to spend the few days in the country—travelling as far as their pocket situations would permit them.

The Easter show, moving at intervals as it is a great thing, was very well attended. As the show was very well attended, it was very well attended. As the show was very well attended, it was very well attended.

As the weather was not all that hot, many people were surprised to find that their stay at the Easter show was very well attended.

On Saturday night, I found things going on at the Easter show. As the show was very well attended, it was very well attended.

On Monday night, five minutes before the start of the show, the Easter show was very well attended.

One of these is the value of contrast in colour. If you have a green room, then there should be a blue or a red colour such as red, peach or coral in the room.

Excess profits tax to be raised in Kenya

His Excellency's Address To Legislative Council

Did you MACLEAN your teeth to-day?

What was our position here in Kenya at this critical period? Thanks to the assistance we had received from the British and American Governments, from the Rhodesians, from our own troops in the East African campaign, from India, any serious fear of invasion from the East was passed, but her assistance value was considerable, because she retained her very large body of troops. The problem, therefore, which confronted General Cunningham was whether or not to take any long distance to be covered over land roads, many of which were little better than jungle tracks. It would be to advance into the heart of Italian East Africa and maintain the communications there in the event of the long runs.

How mightfully he has solved that problem you all know. For we give you a few lines. After a period of tactical activity the advance was to be made to start with the capture of Italian bases on February 11. By February 11 Addis Ababa had fallen, troops were in Kisumu, and Mogadishu was in our hands. In the Abyssinia it was the same story. More falling on the 18th and 19th on the advance, and the month of March was spent in the capture of the enemy's strategic points, March 11 by Aden forces on the far left, final Addis Ababa was entered on the 12th, and the 14th on the 14th. Members will wish to join me in congratulating General Cunningham and all the troops under his command at this final stage of the campaign (applause).

Excess profits tax to be raised in Kenya

An important announcement in His Excellency's address to the Kenya Legislative Council on Wednesday concerning the pending introduction in Kenya of an Excess Profits Tax which, it was stated, would be a rate of not less than 50 per cent.

After making reference to the 'signal feat of arms' by General Cunningham in East Africa, Sir Henry Moore dealt with several other local topics, including the employment of prisoners of war, coffee control, reforestation and soil conservation.

The session of Legislative Council began in the Memorial Hall, Nairobi, on Wednesday morning. After the Commemoration from the Chair and a certain amount of formal business, including the first reading of eleven Bills, the Council adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning.

Following the Prayer and the reading of the Proclamation, the Oath was administered to new Members of Council—Mrs. O. F. Watkins (Kisumu) (electoral) and Sheriff Abdulla bin Ismail (Arab electoral area).

HIS EXCELLENCY'S ADDRESS

His Excellency the Governor then delivered the Commemoration from the Chair, in the course of which he said:

I do not propose to take up the time of the House with any long address, but I must mention a few events has been as bewildering in its speed and completely timely. The Council adjourned at the end of last December, but perhaps it may be said that the Government has not taken any advantage to come back to the House since then, with that in mind, I have been glad to have the House convened on this day.

The invasion of Greece by Italy in October had introduced a new and important factor into the Italian campaign, and it was still impossible to foresee how far the struggle there would be localised or lead to developments on a much wider scale. It was not until the stubborn resistance of the Greeks in Albania, combined with the lightning success of General Sir Archibald Wavell in North Africa, that the German plan to invade Greece and Italy was abandoned. It was clear that Germany has not been able to present her fighting in the Balkans as a diversionary move to keep our troops there, but that she has determined to keep our troops there, but that she has determined to keep our troops there, but that she has determined to keep our troops there.

Up to date it is true to say that, despite difficulties of overseas markets and some cases of individual hardship, the war has brought about some increasingly acute, since the diversion of space for materials and munitions required by the United Kingdom for the prosecution of the war. How far our internal markets will be affected by local military expenditure is likely to be maintained at its present level by military needs or the demands of military expenditure during the last year was considerable profit, desirable attributable to the war has been made here by certain lines of business.

Excess Profit Tax

The case for the introduction of an excess profits tax is one of the lines of thought which has been in my mind, and would I feel sure, have received your approval at an earlier date. But until quite recently I was advised that the statistical data necessary for the effective operation of the tax was lacking. That is no longer available, and the information which fully justifies the introduction of the measure in Kenya. I have, therefore, decided on the introduction of the measure in Kenya on similar terms as present in the United Kingdom. The measure in Africa and Southern Rhodesia. The rate of the tax will be 50 per cent on whatever date it ultimately comes into force. The measure in Kenya has been taken in Tanganyika and that an announcement to territory today. The desirability of introducing similar taxation in Tanganyika and Southern Rhodesia is under consideration by the Government. The measure in Kenya is intended, in fact, to be introduced in Tanganyika and Southern Rhodesia on the same date as its introduction on the East African territories. It is intended to be introduced in Kenya on the same date as its introduction on the East African territories. It is intended to be introduced in Kenya on the same date as its introduction on the East African territories.
