

BORDER POSTS TO BE SET UP TO CHECK ON MOVEMENT OF FOREIGNERS

Arrangement has been reached between Kenya, Uganda, Tanzania and Zambia to prevent unrestricted travel of foreigners or those who are tourists plus, plus, from one territory to another.

HUMAN KIND'S WELFARE

AIM: IMPROVE

Minister of External Security and Defence, Dr. Mungai, said it had been agreed to establish immigration border control posts on the road between Kampala and Nairobi, and on the route from Moshi through Namanga to Nairobi.

Foil methods of escape

Dr. Mungai stressed that the control posts would not be aimed at restricting the level of indigenous people but mostly to deal with foreigners who might, for instance, be in Uganda and move into Kenya.

CATERPILLAR

Caterpillar and Cat are Registered Trademarks of Caterpillar Tractor Co.

COMPARE

the D6c against any other tractor ... even a D7

Granted, you can still do a lot of work with an older D7. But in an on-the-job comparison, a new D6c would win, hands down. Take horsepower and weight, for example. The D6c is rated at 120 HP and 22,900 lb. An older 3T D7 came in at 108 HP and 25,900 lb. Thus, in the D6c, you not only have a tractor that will match or exceed an older D7 in productivity, but you have a tractor dependability and less upkeep. Sealed "Track", for example, knocks abrasives out of the pin and bushing joint to prolong undercarriage life. Lifetime Lubricated Rollers need no attention until rebuilding. The dry-type air cleaner is 99.8% effective and can be serviced in less than 5 minutes. If these features and improvements sound good to you, ask for a demonstration.

My Fair Lady - the one that has just about everything - arrives

If you don't know by now, you never will, as they say. MY FAIR LADY is almost certainly the best-loved film of recent years. My Fair Lady is based on the Broadway play by Alan Jay Lerner and Bertie Voyle.

Good acting, superb musical score and some of the best acting of the decade are also included in this film. It is a beautiful film, a film that is a joy to watch and a joy to watch with.

On Monday a Golden Award is awarded to the LONG-DISTANCE SWIMMER. This film is a comedy which is a gem of a film.

It has been another quiet week on Kenya radio and television but the little achievement of V.O.K. this week probably was to get 43 entertainers for our money.

There was a good deal of entertainment in this programme. After all the efforts the society has made to get more African members, it is good to see that the society has made it.

On Her and There, Gerry Murray introduced the president of the International Amey Theatre and elicited some interesting information.

Children's clothes— new designs are both tough and chic

CHILDREN'S clothes have never been more fashionable. There is now something made for every specific age group, and a National specialist has clothes for the tots, teens and in-betweens.

There are fashions from Korea—beautifully embroidered in mid-century motifs and with a very "finished" appearance.

Colorful prints for boys and girls are useful, hearty and for school holidays there are bold checked coats for businessmen and school with matching shirts, and masses of cotton slacks from knee to 12, with shirts that have been the latest runway from 18.

Accessories complete the look of a room

GOOD quality furniture makes a big difference to a room, but those with a budget for tired out make many improvements to the look of a room by the use of a few ingenious accessories.

Instead of accessories which give a room its personality, they make the difference between two homes which may have been built on an identical design, with the same basic furnishings, but which have been lived in by two entirely different people.

I have seen most attractive effects obtained by using blemish-free curtains. The tone of the curtains can be introduced in a design, or attractive finishing detail by draw-threads work.

There is no end to the amount of fabric which can be used for making cushions. But can be used and cushions made up in a minute. The latest fad in London for girls who like the Victorian look in furnishing is to make plain black jute cushions and one border strip in alternate flower design in solid color.

Another London fashion, this time for the kitchen, is to have cabinets of ceramic, real or fake, hanging from the ceiling and attaching to the legs for shelves.

A cushion to match on a plain table is a simple idea. The kitchen is a good idea for East Africa. The small size of second hand sets a cheap and ideal way of refurbishing kitchen or garden chairs and wickerwork chairs.

Most African people make good ornaments and wooden table legs and metal covers are most attractive. With a little ingenuity they can be made use of in all sorts of other ways which the current had not thought of.

be glued directly on to the door, or a piece of wood glued on to the back of the mirror, and the whole piece pulled through from the other side of the door.

Flowers perhaps express personality more than any other item, particularly in the case of the door.

I do not feel that there should be "set" ideas in flower arrangement. Every group is something new, evolved through the personal interpretation of the decorator.

It may be a good idea to attend classes in floral arrangement in order to gain knowledge of balance and design, particularly if the knowledge will later be put to use in the home.

Today, new lightness for your make-up—lasting beauty for your skin!

Endocil presents Day-care

NEW UNDER MAKE-UP MOISTURISING TREATMENT

New Day-care adds a reasonable and natural glow to your skin. It's your ordinary make-up the very first day you use it.

Even everyday make-up looks better. Endocil's new Day-care is a silky-smooth, non-greasy lotion, delicately scented and suitable for all types of skin. Smooth it into your face and throat before you make-up, and in a few minutes it vanishes, leaving a flawless, healthy protective film.

Now when you put on your make-up—what a difference! Make-up goes on more smoothly, looks more even and lasts longer. And here's a wonderful new feature: the very first day you use Day-care, that day is only the beginning!

Shininess, young, healthy-looking skin, more than just improve your make-up. It's a moisturising treatment which improves your skin naturally. The vital Endocil ingredient in Day-care penetrates deep into your skin, works day by day, gently stimulating your skin cells, causing them to go on producing the natural moisture that compensates of every age and type skin. Beauty experts know that it is this natural moisture, and the skin, that can keep your skin young, soft and smooth.

These can be the wonderful beauty benefits that new Day-care can give you every day! You'll find new Day-care only at chemists. Bottle 18/50 s. Tube 16/50 s.

New Day-care helps the skin shed dryness naturally, so your skin is softer and smoother all day long.

Graves—midwife to Muse

MURDER AND THE 'GENTLE SEX'

by LESLIE ALLAN

THE most important transition in every man's life is being born. (Though one, like dying, which offers small scope for reminiscence). Next for the budding writer reader is being born into the world which reads poems and into the specific electric way which writes them.

Knowing the person who introduced Graves to the world of letters was a woman—a girl who was a midwife to the poet, as it were, in the sense that she was the one who brought him into the world of letters.

Lucky he, who in the present day means more than ever before to the world of letters. In the 1920's, when the world was in a state of confusion and the poets were in a state of confusion, it was the woman who brought him into the world of letters.

There is a certain amount of truth in the saying that a woman is the midwife to the poet. In the 1920's, when the world was in a state of confusion and the poets were in a state of confusion, it was the woman who brought him into the world of letters.

Graves is a poet who has been called the "gentle sex" because of his delicate and sensitive nature. He is a poet who has been called the "gentle sex" because of his delicate and sensitive nature.

Graves is a poet who has been called the "gentle sex" because of his delicate and sensitive nature. He is a poet who has been called the "gentle sex" because of his delicate and sensitive nature.

LITERATURE NEED NOT BE FEARED

By JOHN ROBERTS

UNDERSTANDING LITERATURE THE EASIER OF WINNER by King Turner (Cassidy) University Press, 6/3

STUDENTS for whom English is a second language—and more especially non-European students—often approach English literature feeling that a subject which is so important to them they can cope with it.

One of the main reasons for this feeling is that the subject is so vast and so varied that it is difficult to know where to begin. The subject is so vast and so varied that it is difficult to know where to begin.

The passage chosen from "The Waste Land" is a good example of the kind of poetry which is so important to students. It is a good example of the kind of poetry which is so important to students.

Industrial jurisdiction over E.A.C.S.O. queried

THE PRESIDENT of the Kenya Industrial Court, Mr. E. H. B. Omond, has given a ruling this morning on whether or not the court has jurisdiction to adjudicate in the dispute between the East African Confederation of S.O. and the Kenyan Federation of Labour Unions.

MINISTRY TO STUDY HOUSING OFFER

THE MINISTRY OF Housing is to study an offer from the American Council on Africa to build low-cost housing in the Kenya capital, Nairobi.

Mr. M. M. Kariuki, Minister for Housing, said that the offer, which is for a period of 10 years, would be considered by the Government.

He said that the offer was made by the American Council on Africa, which is a non-profit-making organization.

The offer is for the construction of 10,000 units of housing, which would be built at a cost of $10 million.

Body sailed over car, says witness

A MOTORIST discovered a body in the road after an object had "sailed over" his car, a Nairobi court was told yesterday when the case opened against the Director of the East African Conservancy.

When it started, he heard a thud and saw a body flying through the air and landing on his car.

He said that the body was found in the road and was identified as that of a man in his 40s, who had been killed by a motor-cycle.

Thoughts on evolution

A RECENT Kenya religious meeting got very good in tracking the discovery of "evolution" in the Bible.

Under a page-long, decorated headline, and a splash story announcing the news: "The Theory of Evolution . . . Scientists were right, there is a scientific and sound basis for evolution, but a lot about other problems."

If scientists thought the earth was flat, or the universe earth centred, or the Bible not reliable, it is only because they are stupid, or ignorant, or both.

The article also contains a black-type announcement which has very little but some value. In fact, it is a very good one. It is a very good one. It is a very good one.

INDIAN TENNIS PLAY

New Zealand seed beaten by Bhaupati

ALTHOUGH most of the four Indian players were seeded in the first round of the Men's Lawn Tennis Championships they were eliminated in the proper manner by the New Zealand players.

The fate of the fourth seeder, eighth seeded Bhaupati, will be decided this afternoon, for his match against Uganda's Chibwe stood at 1-1 when he had stopped play.

The general atmosphere right up to a quarter of 10 last night was one of a terrific interest in the match. The crowd of about 100 spectators who had gathered in the grounds of the M. S. S. Club, had been waiting for the match to start for some time. The match was held at 10.15 p.m. and lasted for about an hour.

Bhaupati, the No. 4 seed, yesterday had a terrific time in the match. He was the only Indian player to reach the quarter-finals. He was the only Indian player to reach the quarter-finals. He was the only Indian player to reach the quarter-finals.

SUPPORT FOR SUDAN AND KENYA confirm allegiance

KENYA and the Sudan, in a joint statement yesterday, reaffirmed their allegiance to the Organisation for African Unity, pledged support for the African liberation movement and laid emphasis on respect for the sovereignty and territorial integrity of all African States as a step towards African unity.

REBELS UNITED TO FACE CRISIS

The denunciations which followed talks between President Kenyatta and the Prime Minister of the Sudan, Mr. Malaboch, with their advisers, also referred to the need to control trade between the two countries and disclosed that a joint Consultative Ministerial Committee is to be set up.

Mr. Malaboch and his Ministerial colleagues have spent three days in Kenya and previously visited the Prime Minister in Nairobi. The two leaders reaffirmed their adherence to the Charter of the O.A.U. and their determination to support the unopposed support to the African liberation movement dedicated to the eradication of colonialism and the wiping out of racial discrimination.

Expansion of trade

The two leaders emphasized respect for the sovereignty and territorial integrity of all African States as a step towards eventual African unity.

SURRENDER DEADLINE IGNORED

SEPARATIST Negro rebels in South Sudan have largely ignored a fortnight ultimatum to surrender and hand in their arms and have had a deadline of their own — the end of August — for Arabs to quit the south.

Arms passage

EVERY CITIZEN CAN HELP
SAYS MR.
KINOWWA

The Minister for Labour and Social Services, Mr. Kinowwa, said that every citizen can help in the development of the country.

United front fights social problems

By ENID de SILVA

LIKE other newly independent countries, Kenya has many social problems. Recognising this, the Government has wasted no time in setting up a National Council of Social Service under the Ministry of Labour and Social Services. For one of its objectives is to plan and develop a better society for all Kenyans.

For years there have been numerous institutions like the Kenya Red Cross, the Society Against the Blind, the National Service League and many others that have worked without much support from Kenyan citizens in raising money and doing the work.

But with independent social organisations are beginning to take the lead in this task, the need for more co-ordination is felt. Hence the National Council of Social Service was set up.

National President from Mungoo to the late Dr. J. M. Njiru, Secretary of the National Council represent those with Social Services.

What the Council desires to do is to act as a co-ordinating body and to encourage voluntary social service organisations in Kenya.

This entails holding conferences, exhibitions and seminars, and some grant-giving and awarding of prizes to encourage and stimulate social service activities.

For this wide range of responsibilities the Council has set up four Standing Committees to deal with children, youth, women and the disabled respectively.

Four other standing committees are being set up to deal with people, community organisations, culture, social training and education.

It is the task of these standing committees generally to get to grips with the work involved in their specific field.

There are already 42 voluntary organisations represented on the Council.

Some mentioned earlier, there is a Women's Union, the Kenya Red Cross, the Society Against the Blind, the National Service League and many others that have worked without much support from Kenyan citizens in raising money and doing the work.

There are also community organisations such as the M. H. Aga Khan Social Centre, the Kenya Red Cross, the Society Against the Blind, the National Service League and many others that have worked without much support from Kenyan citizens in raising money and doing the work.

One of the four standing committees of the council is the committee for the disabled, of which the Society for Deaf and Dumb Children is a member. In the picture above a test is being carried out on a deaf boy. Left: The President, Mr. Kinowwa, meets some of the children of Dr. Barwell's Home in Nairobi. Emperor of Ethiopia pays brief private visit to Kenya

STANDARD STAFF REPORTER

A LITTLE more than a year after he was given a personal tour of Kenya, the Emperor of Ethiopia returned to Nairobi on Wednesday, accompanied by his wife, Empress Taye, and members of the Cabinet. The Emperor was on a private visit.

The new Ethiopian Embassy was inaugurated by Ambassador Basil Makoni, who inspected yesterday by the Emperor.

On the night of his arrival, he was greeted with his party at a State House reception given by President Kenyatta.

In the House of Representatives, the Emperor was accompanied by the Emperor's personal physician, Dr. T. S. Nanyana, and a number of other members of the Ethiopian delegation.

The Emperor's visit to Kenya was the first time he had visited the country since he was crowned Emperor of Ethiopia in 1930.

Election fever grows in Tanzania

STANDARD STAFF REPORTER Dar es Salaam

ELECTION fever is growing in Tanzania now that the preliminary balloting of the district Tatu has taken place. Delegates at these conferences have voted their preference among the would-be candidates and the Tatu National Executive, meeting in its next week, will choose two as candidates for each constituency.

An otherwise quiet week was stirred by the arrival of the Tanzanian Prime Minister, Mr. Mwakilima, who had a 12-hour mission here after which he landed a joint press conference with President Nyerere after which they issued a joint statement regarding their adherence to the Charter of the O.A.S. calling for denunciation, eradication of racial discrimination and condemnation of interference in the internal affairs of member States.

They reached agreement on the need for African unity and strongly condemned external forces which sought to divide Africa and to foster division among unity.

For-sighted

A statement from the Government called the House of Manji's action "a far-sighted attitude" and said it was considering imposition of protective tariffs to safeguard the new industry.

Mr. N. K. Cayuli, an advocate who is chairman of the committee and the bill will be introduced in the House of Manji, said that he had been able to come to an agreement with representatives of the Tanzania Textile Corporation with a complete lack of red tape.

This was "far-sighted" in Tanzania, for, he added, was the benefit factory announced the plan to build a textile mill was disclosed by the Tanzania Textile Corporation.

Overnight suitcase case is a plane-size hold-all. They do it inside each other when they stay abroad. They then give away their luggage on arrival to the local shops. As a result of this, they are not able to take any more luggage on their return trip.

Jet-set girls keep their bags packed either by using hand-carried luggage, or by leaving one of those ready-made suitcases that look like hats. These are particularly handy to iron into a suitcase.

Girls who prefer to use their own hand-carried luggage are buying more and more light-colored, synthetic fabrics that give them the appearance of expensive silks.

Another "new" trend in the jet-set world is the use of synthetic fabrics. These are being used for their durability and ease of care.

Jet-set girls are going to the store and buying the latest in synthetic fabrics. They are buying them in large quantities. They are buying them in large quantities.

Girl athlete makes Kenya sports history

WESTERN Provincial Sports Association they appointed a woman as they are in charge of the Kenya National Athletics Championships at Mombasa at the end of June.

Miss Mary Mahoney, a 21-year-old school teacher who has been a member of the Kenya national team since 1955, was named as her successor.

Her appointment is a landmark in the history of women's sports in Kenya. She is the first woman to hold this position.

Miss Mahoney is a highly accomplished athlete. She has won numerous titles in the 100, 200, and 400 yard sprints. She is also a member of the Kenya national team.

...but didn't make a coaching course here in Kenya. Miss Mahoney, who represented Kenya at last year's Kenya Championships at East Africa, is due to leave in April and did not expect to take part in this year's time trials. She has not said what her career has come to an end.

FOOLISH END OF FASHION

More expensive and impractical are gimmicky clothes, they continue to have a tremendous following among those who follow the fashion of the day. The spectacles or the left with their own eyes, which clip on one side or the other, are still worn with impunity. Many people still buy and wear it, and it is a sad sight to see a woman in a hat like this.

Africa is ready for high-pay policy new law wage policies proposed by the East African Government are based on the fact that their economies could not pay the high wage policy, the Industrial Court was held in Malindi yesterday by the East African Commission Organisations' Secretary for Administration, Mr. Alexander Mwangi.

The present demand by the Common Services African Civil Servants' Union for a minimum wage of E17 1/2 would cost the Organisation an estimated £178,000 extra and this was at present not easy to raise, he said.

The new African officers in E.A.C.S.O. who have taken over recently from expatriates are fully alive to the problems facing the lowest paid employees.

They subscribe to the policy of Africanisation, which is designed to close the gap between those at high scales and those on the bottom of the ladder.

WAY TO A TAX RISE

That unlike the territorial governments which have their own sources of revenue, the Central Fund Services of E.A.C.S.O. depend on the Central Legislative Assembly to sanction any expenditure that may arise as a result of union demands for a wage rise.

The General Fund Services stand on the Distributable Pool Fund at a percentage of all Customs and Excise duties and a percentage of certain company taxes. This means that we might have to ask the permission of the House of Commons to raise income tax.

Planning a new office

UNIVERSITY POLYTECHNIC TRAINS SECRETARIES

LAYOUT SHOULD BE BOTH PLEASANT AND PRACTICAL

By E. G. HARLUM, a Swedish Organization and Methods expert attached to E.L.C.O.

PLANNING of an office is, in fact, the creation of an environment in which many people will spend about a third of their working lives, in terms of daily time. For them the office must be a sort of "second home". A great deal of care should therefore be taken in the planning of a new office or the revision of a current set-up.

Naturally, the ultimate goal is higher efficiency—to provide quicker and more accurate data. With regard to office premises this objective can be achieved through a more practical office layout, and pleasant surroundings may be directly associated with higher productivity, since sociologists as well as our own experience tell us that we work better if we like the place where it is done.

Money well spent

It usually pays to invest a great deal in the premises, even if this would only produce a small increase in efficiency, since the costs for premises constitute a major part of the total office expenditures. The people who work in the office make up the greatest part.

The first thing to consider when planning an office layout is the space needs for different employees. Such needs should be relative to the type of work they do, the same of material they handle, the stock and other equipment they use and filing facilities. In fact, all the requirements should be established and noted down on a particular form for each employee or type of work.

It is necessary to have charts showing the location of the office furniture with particular emphasis on desks and seating arrangement. Many people do not feel at home in such big offices. A sense of their people to be reached by introducing glass walls or opening partitions to split up big offices.

Another important aspect is the use of office furniture with particular emphasis on desks, chairs and equipment.

When preparing an office layout, it is necessary to have charts showing the location of the office furniture with particular emphasis on desks and seating arrangement. Many people do not feel at home in such big offices.

Natural flow

It should be remembered in this connection that it is not only a question of movement through the office but of papers to be handled. The most important thing to remember is how to use the office space in order to save traveling time.

The number of private files and folders should be kept to the minimum possible. Staff dealing with enquiries and members of the public should be able to find what they need without interfering with other work.

When possible, all office work should be concentrated in one place. This provides a bill book, a central place for all the work. To have an office of your own is a great advantage registered as a central system.

Station and transport devices, etc.

2. The area is more compact and more useful.

3. Easier to find people.

4. Easier for supervision.

5. A feeling of team-work is easier to create.

Disadvantages you will find in a modern office are:

1. More disturbances with particular emphasis on desks.

2. Many people do not feel at home in such big offices.

3. A sense of their people to be reached by introducing glass walls or opening partitions to split up big offices.

4. Another important aspect is the use of office furniture with particular emphasis on desks, chairs and equipment.

AVOIDING PITFALLS WHEN BUYING OFFICE EQUIPMENT

PURCHASE of office machinery and equipment for the small business or for a business which has previously not used mechanization can be a far more complex matter than is usually expected.

One of two major advantages of office equipment is that the machine is relatively easy to operate and consequently need not be wasted in either buying or operating.

Telephonics extremists

FOR reasons never yet adequately explained, Canadians are not within range of a telephone.

International statistics recently released show that for the 1954 consecutive year, Canadians used their telephones more frequently than any other people. They made an average 307 telephone calls per person during the year.

The fact that Ireland came second, with an average 274 calls, suggests that perhaps Britain is a factor. The United States came third, with an average 270 calls.

This is done by placing the original document in a special holder and then shining a light through it onto a piece of photographic paper. The light passes through the paper and is captured by the photographic paper, creating a negative. This negative is then used to produce a positive copy of the original document.

The microscope is a powerful tool for scientific research. It allows us to see things that are too small to be seen with the naked eye. There are many different types of microscopes, each designed for different purposes. Some are used to study living organisms, while others are used to study inorganic materials. The microscope has revolutionized our understanding of the natural world.

100 Years of Events of 1861

...of the American Civil War... The American Civil War was a pivotal moment in our nation's history. It was a struggle for freedom, equality, and the preservation of the Union. The war lasted from 1861 to 1865 and resulted in the abolition of slavery and the establishment of the 14th and 15th Amendments to the Constitution. The war also had a profound impact on the social and economic development of the United States.

Historic accounts
The 18th century was a time of great discovery and exploration. Many of the world's most important scientific and cultural achievements were made during this period. The 18th century was also a time of great social and political change. The American Revolution and the French Revolution were two of the most significant events of the century. These revolutions led to the establishment of new forms of government and the spread of democratic ideals.

Space saved
Each roll of microfilm... is a space-saving device. It allows us to store large amounts of information in a very compact form. This is particularly useful for libraries, archives, and businesses that need to store large amounts of data. Microfilm is also a long-lasting medium, capable of storing information for decades or even centuries. This makes it an ideal choice for the preservation of important documents and records.

FAST AND ACCURATE RECORDS HELP MEAT INDUSTRY

By R. A. FRAZER, General Manager, East Africa, of the National Cash Register Co.

Meat is one of the many by-products of death. Behind the scenes we find a tremendous industry which is considered to be one of the most important in the maintenance of records for accounting purposes and management decisions which are an integral part of any business.

This is where efficient use of modern office machinery pays its part. On the killing floor just before the conveyor belt carries the carcasses to the cool rooms, it is a record-keeping machine which is recording the weight of each carcass on a punched paper tape recorder. The operator enters the number and then, by each side of the following information is recorded on the tape: sex, breed, date of birth, weight, etc.

This information is stored as a single line and is recorded automatically into the tape as a by-product of the killing machine operation. Various electronic and electro-magnetic checks ensure that the information printed on the detail of each carcass is correctly registered on the punch paper tape.

The added machine generates a grand total of weights of the day's kill, for control purposes when the punched tape is processed.

Punched paper tape can be fed direct to a computer or stored in a filing cabinet and equipment. Since N.C.R. has a wide range of equipment, they wish to emphasize the tape can be used for many other purposes.

N.C.R. have outlined the method of preparing punched media for several reasons. The main one being that it is fast and accurate. The information is coded initially by a keyboard on the full keyboard before the machine is started and subsequently by the printed line of entry on the tape card.

Advantages: A modern address which uses address cards. On the right is a punch-up of the address card containing the selected cards which can be printed or shipped according to the programming of the machine.

Management reports: For comparison of sales against previous months, to produce their indicators to the Sales Department of the available stock for a particular period. Stock control purposes. Records for profit and loss accounts and other financial reports.

This is an excellent alternative example of producing records from punched tape or cards as a result of a simple basic machine operation. Other programs are available and the scope of this method is increased by the fact that the present machine could be an adding machine, accounting machine or a cash register.

WE'RE ON SPEAKING TERMS WITH EVERY COMPUTER

Computer equipment speaks every type of computer language—punched tape or cards, magnetic characters or optical characters.

Computer is only as good as the information it processes. So to make sure it works at peak efficiency it must be fed with completely accurate information prepared at the lowest possible cost.

NCR achieves this through its wide and unique range of preparation equipment. Facts recorded on punched tape, magnetic characters or optical characters are automatically converted to paper tape (for NCR equipment) in one fast, automatic, self-checking operation.

NCR breaks the language barrier between recording machines and computer.

Automation starts the moment the first essential printed record is made — the benefits of electronic data processing are no longer denied by errors and high hidden costs.

And because NCR input preparation requires neither special skill nor extra effort it gives even small businesses a "direct line" to a computing centre.

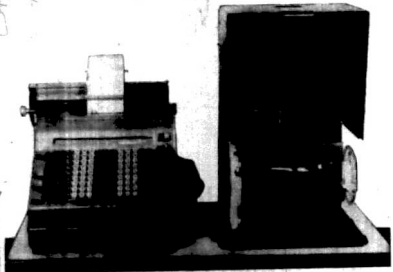

Thousands of firms throughout the world are now proving the remarkable speed and economy of "input by NCR".

NCR speaks the language of computers. You should speak to NCR — today.

'O and M' POINTS WAY TO EFFICIENT BUSINESS

INCREASING number of the "O and M" men have been appointed to the posts of directors of companies and owners of businesses who have never given the subject much thought, to wonder whether they are missing something, whether they are choosing not to follow something which is merely a cult of the moment, or whether they appear in a few years when some other business method will be published, a similar manner.

When is O & M to be applied? Organization and method is the average business man's business. It is not an optional extra. It is a necessary part of the business. It is a part of the business which is not to be neglected. It is a part of the business which is not to be neglected. It is a part of the business which is not to be neglected.

Advice given
Ideally, O & M is the product of an owner or a group of directors, business men, in the field of their own business. It is not an optional extra. It is a necessary part of the business. It is a part of the business which is not to be neglected. It is a part of the business which is not to be neglected.

The study and application of Organization and Methods is the backbone of any efficient operation. In this article a Kenyan Government expert explains just what the phrase means and its application to even the smallest business unit.

...the key to a successful office is to be a good secretary.

...the most important thing is to be a good secretary.

FIRMS PROVE THAT SILENCE IS GOLDEN

NOWADAYS people in commercial houses who have to make official telephone calls often complain of the difficulty of getting through. Not only do managing directors' receptionists suffer from "telephoneitis", but the average office clerk, too, spends a considerable amount of Monday morning telling his friends the details of his team's week-end victory.

Letters old sitting uncomforably the poor shortland secretary (above) balances her tilting pad on one leg as she feverishly scribbles down the appropriate entries. In contrast, the dictaphone typist below wears a serene look, as she listens and types in the voice of her employer issuing from the attractive machine on her desk.

SECURITY AN ART—AND AN ATTITUDE OF MIND

This article on the many aspects of security has been prepared by K. WALLER, the manager of B.E.M. in Nairobi. From original material and from a paper prepared by P. A. S. HANCOCK under the generalship of J. Chubb and Sons' Lock and Safe Co.

There are many members of the general public who are not aware of the fact that security is a science which is constantly being improved. It is not a static thing, but a dynamic one which is constantly being improved. It is not a static thing, but a dynamic one which is constantly being improved. It is not a static thing, but a dynamic one which is constantly being improved.

Risks increase

Almost all those things which are considered to be safe are now being attacked by the most sophisticated methods. The risks are increasing. The risks are increasing. The risks are increasing.

Main weakness

The inherent weakness of the present system is that the owner of a safe is not aware of its actual strength. The owner of a safe is not aware of its actual strength. The owner of a safe is not aware of its actual strength.

Strength vital

DOORS These which must be strong and properly fitted with hinges inaccessible from the outside, should have a security lock, preferably of the electric type. There should be no external fittings which facilitate forcing.

Post quicker by franking machine

Illustrated on the right are some of the postal franking machines available in East Africa today. First approved by the International Postal Union Convention in 1952, they are becoming more and more popular in East Africa.

They are available in models ranging from a very small machine that tucks away into a desk to machines of only 9in. by 9in. to large machines which are designed for the organisation with a heavy volume of mail traffic enabling it to take envelopes up to 10 in. thick.

The larger models are equipped with a built-in label device for parcel franking.

The installation by firms of postal franking machines of the laboratory process, involving the fixing of ordinary envelopes to stamps, and today this franking has become the accepted method of dispatching business letters. A high percentage of the mail handled by post offices throughout the world is pre-franked by postal franking machines installed in which are the most advanced and the most flexible. Attached and the franking machine is a book which stores a predetermined quantity of stamps.

The machine is placed in operation. It is engaged and stamps are fed in line upwards and across sideways by long projections of a useful facility offered by an interchangeable advertisement.

All postal franking machines are approved by the postal authorities. This is made possible by the fact that the machine is electrically controlled and the amount of revenue expended is controlled by the meter.

The machine is very simple to use. It is controlled by a single button which is pushed down to operate the stamping mechanism. The machine is controlled by a single button which is pushed down to operate the stamping mechanism.

Department notes of postal franking machines are available in the form of a booklet.

An extremely comprehensive range of machines is available throughout the world. These machines are operated by hand or electrically.

Also available are power-operated machines of a much more advanced type which carry out the combined operation of franking and mailing correspondence. These machines are available at a rate of 15,000 an hour.

ENGINEERS SAY GIANT ROBOTS MAY BE NEXT STAGE IN AUTOMATION

From JOHN MULBECK in New York

MAN has triumphed over machines in at least one area in the age of automation: the giant robots of science fiction will not work without man inside them.

The self-organised monsters which sweep, follow, portage, or search in automated factories will never come according to engineers waiting on their development.

Such robots are just too slow and too clumsy as well as impractical.

But within five years, the world may witness a self-organised robot on a production line. It will be a machine that can think.

Marry the robot's legs and arms to the man's feet and hands and brain.

Man will be able to do the work that is too difficult for the machine to do.

The development of such robots has been going on already in the form of "industrial managers" that can think.

These are the "robots" that are under development in the form of "industrial managers" that can think.

This section, actually the legs and torso, is called the "roboticist". Standing 18 feet high, it has legs 12 feet long and a cable in which a man stands, his feet on a special set of treadle.

This preliminary model will never be stepped on the robot "roboticist" legs do the "roboticist" legs do the same. But the robot will only be used in a limited way.

The key to the success of the "roboticist" lies in special sensors on its limbs and the human brain to make lightning fast responses.

By handling down and making a grasping movement, the operator can move the robot to a position.

The man inside the "roboticist" could be replaced by a computer.

If the United States Army or industry has a contract for the "roboticist" engineers are convinced that they could have an operational working model within five years and they see a wide variety of uses for it.

The Army is interested in the robot for logistic support in field operations — and as a means of gathering up supplies.

By handling down and making a grasping movement, the operator can move the robot to a position.

THE IMPORANCE OF A HUMAN TOUCH

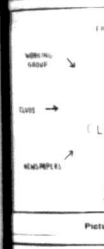

With the development and the growth of the modern world, the importance of the human touch in the management of an organization has become increasingly apparent. The human touch is the key to the success of any organization, and it is the responsibility of the manager to ensure that it is maintained and strengthened.

By PAUL HASLAM

It is always interesting to see how many people give instructions for a job that complete because the precise details of the job are missing.

The human touch is the key to the success of any organization, and it is the responsibility of the manager to ensure that it is maintained and strengthened. The officer and, consequently, the efficiency of a company increases — and so does the personal tendency — the greater the risk becomes of not identifying himself with it without an attempt to do so. An increase in the quality of work may be a result of the fact that the officer who has to perform a task which has to be done in a certain way, and the officer who has to perform a task which has to be done in a certain way, and the officer who has to perform a task which has to be done in a certain way.

From the top

Another reason for a negative attitude towards management might be a result of losing their positions or their future prospects with the organization.

From this we can draw the conclusion that the organization is not a highly essential if people only know what it is going to happen to them and that work, they will be much happier. Withholding information from the staff is the best method of giving way to resentment which, in turn, leads to lost feelings with detrimental effects on overall staff efficiency.

Most people are reluctant to accept changes in their work, particularly if the change is a result of their own initiative. Therefore, management must be sensitive to the needs of the staff and must be willing to accept changes in their work, particularly if the change is a result of their own initiative.

For this reason, it is important that management should be sensitive to the needs of the staff and must be willing to accept changes in their work, particularly if the change is a result of their own initiative.

If the goal is reached of this sort, it is quite acceptable. Do not be afraid of giving something to the people for their improvement. The main point is that it comes off at all.

Some firms have introduced a system of suggestion from the staff as to improvements of work and general services and it has been suggested during a certain period of time. Although this system has not always worked well, it has been suggested during a certain period of time.

When trying to introduce new ideas, we have — as mentioned before — to take into account that although people have general social needs, they are very much different and have to be treated with this in mind.

All influenced

People are different and react to different influences. upbringing, education, life style, and several other factors which are taken into account when we talk of character and work.

Every person has his own reaction to a situation (Picture No. 1).

Each group has its own reaction to a situation, whether it be a family or firm (see e.g. the family) or firm (see e.g. the family) or firm (see e.g. the family).

We like to regard ourselves as free individuals and we are very much influenced by the opinions of all the groups to which we are variously bound.

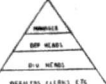

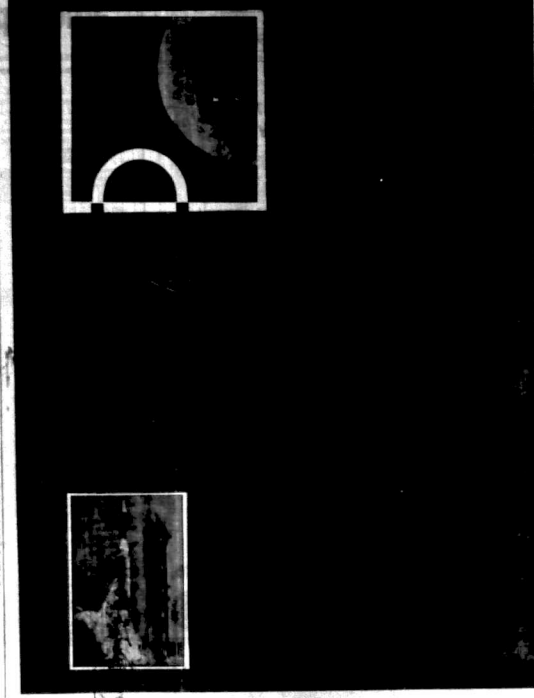

To understand an employee you have to see your own imagination and try to put yourself in his place and consider how the groups in his particular case affect him.

The stronger the ties of the working group are, the better it will be for the individual. It is, however, possible that a group will produce good results. It is, however, possible that a group will produce good results.

If, however, some individuals in the group are not working well, this will not only affect the group as a whole, but also the individual. It is, however, possible that a group will produce good results.

The man who plays a managerial role has to pay attention to such matters and try to solve them. It is, however, possible that a group will produce good results.

How scientific adventure shapes the tools of everyday management

You cannot expect, for instance, a young clerk to show the same enthusiasm towards the organization which he works as a departmental head. No manager expects the same level of responsibility.

But an office manager can and a great deal to the clerk's feelings about his employer by informing him better, treating him well, organizing his work in an interesting manner, and arranging good physical working conditions.

Other interests

We must not forget, either, the essential difference between a female and a male officer. The idea of devoting her life to the company or a particular line of business is work herself up to a leading position is usually foreign to her.

A woman puts more emphasis on such factors as pleasant work, an understanding work boss and an attractive work place. It is a common mistake to think that many of the female staff will take into account the chances of promotion and the possibility of a high salary.

From this, we can draw the conclusion that a manager's consideration should be given to the individual's personal interests and needs.

Here is a summary of some of the ideas elaborated above:

• Man is the factor of the organization which is the most valuable, expensive and difficult one to manage. All people, although created alike and equal, are not equal in every respect. Every man can never be a manager.

• Particular consideration should be given to each employee. He should be treated according to his character, and to the groups to which he belongs. His work must be satisfactory to him, and he must be put on the right man in the right place.

• The man who plays a managerial role has to pay attention to such matters and try to solve them. It is, however, possible that a group will produce good results.

More than 20 countries send Kenya paper and products

G. S. S. S. S. S., Manager for East Africa of Spicers (Kenya) Ltd., writes on "Paper and paper machinery."

At the moment a child is born, he or she immediately becomes a consumer, directly or indirectly, of paper. The news of the event comes by telephone, cable and the names of their family become a record of their life.

However, apart from the quantity and quality of raw materials being readily available, paper pulp requires about six times the volume of water as a certain type of manufacture, and consequently paper mills are usually built in mountainous regions where abundant sources of high purity of water can be established.

At the same time the high cost of electricity in the various parts of the world makes the marketing of the finished product in a profitable venture. In Kenya, for example, the cost of electricity is very high.

When paper was first made in China, it was made from the bark of the mulberry tree. It was a crude material and had a low tensile strength.

The paper-maker's job is to take the crude material and turn it into a high quality product. This involves a complex process of chemical and mechanical treatment.

The long machine is a complex piece of machinery which produces paper in continuous rolls. It consists of several stages, including pulping, sheeting, and finishing.

As far as the Southern Hemisphere is concerned, the first paper was made in the United States. It was made in 1792 by Samuel Slater.

Proper training is essential for the paper industry. Workers must be trained in the operation and maintenance of the machinery.

When the increase of paper imported is studied it is easily understood why so much attention is given to the paper and pulp mills in Kenya.

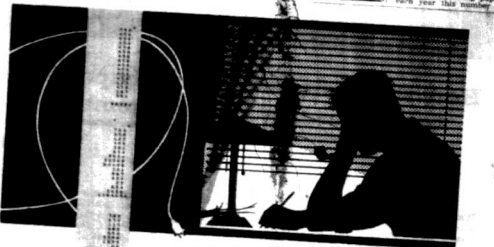

Kenya's present requirements are met by a few large paper mills. However, the demand is increasing, and new mills are being planned.

However, the main reason for the increase in paper consumption is the growth of the printing industry. Newspapers and magazines require large quantities of paper.

More reliable paper is needed for the various industries and offices. The quality of the paper is crucial for the success of many businesses.

The paper industry is a vital part of the economy. It provides the raw materials for many other industries.

The demand for paper is growing rapidly. This is due to the increasing population and the need for more services.

WHERE HAVE ALL THE THREE-LEGGED STOOLS GONE?

Desk docking with business stool in an "L" arrangement.

A neat and attractive secretarial desk.

Revolution in office furniture

By PETER SHAW

John Maynor, R. and G. Supplies

WHEREVER happened to the three-legged stool? In fact what happened to all the Victorian offices that most of us have had to suffer at one time or another? Some of them are still with us, but by far the majority have gone through a remarkable revolution within the last few years.

Gone are the heavy wooden desks, the dreary varnished partitioning, the large dog-eared ledgers and, of course, the three-legged stool.

This change has been caused by quite natural economic developments. The office cost per square foot is constantly rising — space techniques are therefore required to cut overheads. Labour is at a premium — one of the finest staff incentives has been found to be good working conditions.

New office sites are chosen that before, say, were too small to work in, and have proved rooms of increased productivity. This is entirely due to modern office furniture and equipment.

In addition to being functional and space-saving, modern office furniture must reflect requirements of an age where colour, styling and colour are very important considerations in the selection of furniture available on the East African market.

Modern manufacturers have managed to achieve an excellent combination of all these factors. It is today possible to purchase office equipment made in Africa. The desks available today are far more functional and produce an end product that makes the staff as happy as the staff as individual units.

For executives

A senior executive can have a large, meaningful desktop accessory — a personal secretary, which can be a personal secretary, which can be a personal secretary, which can be a personal secretary.

The same basic design can also be used for the trapping pool, but with smaller size and in a modular formation.

Other items are also designed to save time and space. Filing cabinets are now made in large sizes, but with sliding doors from the wall. Card index systems can now be built into a single card.

Most large companies have found the need to streamline their administrative methods. Anyone who has spent a busy day will appreciate the importance of efficient filing systems. The filing system is the key to Africa today, to speed the task and cut costs.

Bigger profits

Industry and commerce are looking for better systems for profit.

It is the small office that is the most interesting. The small office is the most interesting. The small office is the most interesting.

This can now be achieved by large-scale production and modern machinery mentioned in the range — uniformly in design.

THE office furniture... illustrated in this page gives an idea of what is available to the businessman — and what it is important to make it is distinguished, space-saving, lines to please the eye.

Above: Matching functional furniture for the whole office, made of wood and imported from Denmark.

Left: Gone are the dreary ledgers. The new filing units with their curtains and pull-out trays are what would save space in many offices.

Below: Furniture that shows that the lead firm can rival the overseas experts! This furniture is made from mahogany in Kenya.

WAR CLASHES IN KASHMIR

Radio claims gains against Indian forces

"Voice of Kashmir" radio said yesterday there were fresh clashes between "freedom fighters" and Indian Security Forces all over Srinagar, the Kashmir capital.

The Pakistan Foreign Office said the clandestine radio was saying a number of police stations near Srinagar had been attacked with heavy casualties to the "occupation forces". It claimed substantial gains in other parts of the State.

"The Voice of Kashmir" said the United Nations had failed to implement its pledge over Kashmir, and the people of Kashmir were determined to fight to the end.

A Revolutionary Council set up in the Indian part of Kashmir was the sole legal authority, it said.

Pakistan involvement denied

The clandestine broadcast reiterated that the revolt was not inspired from outside and "we do not look to any other country for help."

The Pakistani Foreign Minister, Mr. Zulfiqar Ali Bhutto, said in Rawalpindi: "It is India alone which has driven the brave people of Kashmir to take up arms and fight for their liberation, for their honour and self-respect."

INDONESIA AGAIN IN SPACE

INDONESIA has successfully launched a second voyage scientific research rocket.

The rocket, launched on Wednesday, weighed 1300 and carried a number of scientific instruments.

A third launching is scheduled for next week.

On August 7, Indonesia launched its first satellite research probe on the K2 rocket.

The rocket was launched on Wednesday night from the Purnia space station in the Government's satellite island of Molokai, with technical data that Japanese scientists had obtained from the K2 probe.

A further voyage is planned for next Monday night from the Purnia space station.

The Government is expected to announce the results of the first voyage in a few days.

The Government said the rocket was launched to test the military equipment and to study the atmosphere.

The King is expected to return to Athens in a few days.

The King's departure from Athens was due to a water break in the pipeline.

Mr. Bottomley again of war threat in Rhodesia

BRITAIN'S Commonwealth Secretary, Mr. Bottomley, has said in Lagos that British aid force in Rhodesia "is really a peace-keeping force."

He said in a lecture on Commonwealth and world politics that Rhodesia had powerful defence forces. Nobody should think these would collapse if Britain tried to use force to stop a unilateral declaration of independence.

Mr. Bottomley said a peace-keeping force would be an disastrous as in the Congo, Africa and other areas.

He said the Commonwealth should be the stability of commonwealth in the world.

SINGAPORE TO GUARD RIGHTS OF MINORITIES

SINGAPORE'S Prime Minister, Mr. Lee Kuan Yew, said yesterday the newly-independent island's constitution would be amended so that any party to power must honour minority rights. He also warned Commonwealth elements that if they resorted to terrorism to help Singapore's enemies they would be expelled.

TLING OLD TO IS STEEPED IN HISTORY

In the country of Mozambique more blood must have been shed in the old town of Malucos than in any other part of the country. Nothing more remains of the old town than the ruins of the fort built by the Portuguese in 1580. The fort was built on a hillside, and the ruins are still visible today. The fort was built by the Portuguese in 1580, and the ruins are still visible today.

It also harbours more smelt, albacore and haddock than any other part of the country. It is not impossible that some future planter will create it from the ruin. If that should happen a village of hundreds would wash back on the rest of the island, for the Old Town's 140 acres contain 14,000 people per square mile.

It is an unlikely possibility that these small islands will be worth taking — a whole collection of companies and territories. Each group of islands has its own government and its own laws. The islands are scattered all over the world, and each group is a separate entity. The islands are scattered all over the world, and each group is a separate entity.

Underlined by its clear and arid climate, the island is a paradise for those who wish to escape the heat and humidity of the tropics. The island is a paradise for those who wish to escape the heat and humidity of the tropics.

The history of Malucos is the history of the east coast of Africa. It is a story of conquest and discovery, of trade and commerce. The history of Malucos is the history of the east coast of Africa. It is a story of conquest and discovery, of trade and commerce.

By KULDIP SONDHI

Five months with an eye to the future, the Old Town's history is a story of conquest and discovery. The Old Town's history is a story of conquest and discovery. The Old Town's history is a story of conquest and discovery.

Heading the Malucos group, the Old Town's history is a story of conquest and discovery. The Old Town's history is a story of conquest and discovery. The Old Town's history is a story of conquest and discovery.

Landing after a direct flight, the Old Town's history is a story of conquest and discovery. The Old Town's history is a story of conquest and discovery. The Old Town's history is a story of conquest and discovery.

Above them across the harbour Malucos's Old Town has an ancient history. There is no clue here to the thriving life which blooms in its narrow streets in colourful confusion. Right: The Temple of Jesus, built in 1867 by the Jesuits, is a replica of an ancient Hindu masterpiece. Its mosaic patterns, colour schemes, spires and domes, all conform to tradition. Christians and Muslims have also built many places of worship on the island.

God and Mammun
Back was its importance that it dominated Malucos's history for the next two and a half centuries. It was the seat of the Arab sultanate, the seat of the Hindu sultanate, the seat of the Portuguese sultanate. It was the seat of the Arab sultanate, the seat of the Hindu sultanate, the seat of the Portuguese sultanate.

Da Gama came to conquer

After an exchange of presents with the ruling sultan, the Portuguese fleet sailed for Malucos where four Indian boats anchored in deep water outside Malucos. The Indian Ocean by Calicut, on the West coast of India. On his second visit, five years later in 1498, Vasco da Gama sailed around the Cape of Good Hope and reached Malucos. He found the city of Malucos in a state of decay. The city had been abandoned for many years. The city had been abandoned for many years.

Now Here! THE IDEAL CAR FOR EAST AFRICA!

The New Austin 1800

Power, performance, space, elegance plus extra clearance—you'll find them all in this new Austin front-wheel-drive car!

New Car Design: The Austin 1800 offers you something more than a car. It gives you the power, the performance, the elegance, and space that are everybody's idea of quality in a new car. Plus front-wheel drive! A sign of modernity in the way of things. That's not all. The Build side of Hydraulic Suspension. Only BMC can claim to be re-creating a change in car design; a revolution that converts your car into a passenger compartment into a mobile office.

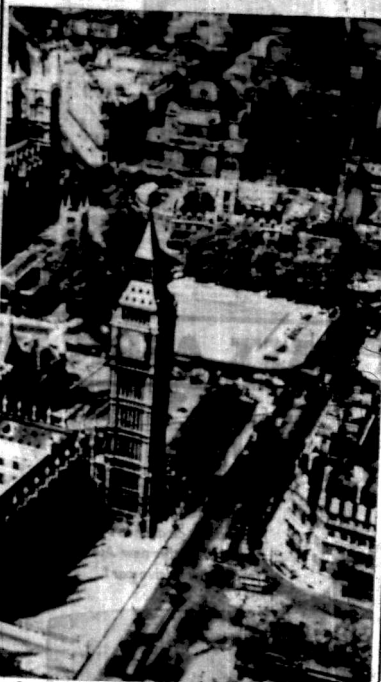

616 passenger—overhead storage room for parcels and 171-cubic-foot load—within a length of less than 14 feet! 99 m.p.h. The power unit is 1800 cc. It delivers 24 h.p. and a top speed in the neighborhood of 90 m.p.h. Synchromesh allows the way of all four gears to go in exceptionally fluid—right down to walking speed.

It's ideal for the exacting road conditions you will find in East Africa. So easy to drive. Front-wheel drive gives you the benefits of soft cushioning and outstanding power on tricky road surfaces. Front-wheel drive (down at the front, down at the rear) means effective stopping power. Fresh air ventilation. Concealed ducts supply deaerated fresh air. Windows can be kept closed at all times. New lighting features. Headlamp flasher for daylight signaling; six-glass pop-up light (flashes at night) adds extra safety in traffic.

by the British. This is a real good one from this new group and it should furnish them with the average world of success.

It is not too late to get away beautifully. If the Byrds go for a good afternoon with their British names, British names should make it with them.

Not so good as the latest for "The Byrds" Get Some Lovin' For You Baby. It is rather funny, funny, and the group seems to come up with something more original.

KENYA REPLIES TO SPEECH ON 'SEPARATION' Early reappraisal needed

Statement by the Kenyan Prime Minister, Dr. Nyerere, at the C.L.A. opening in Dar es Salaam, that the three East African countries must work out arrangements for a 'separation' of Kenya through free elections, is a positive suggestion, and will not be subject to a referendum, from Uganda and Tanzania.

A Kenya statement issued yesterday revealed that Dr. Nyerere's comments that the three East African countries should be separated into three separate states, should be considered as a positive suggestion, and will not be subject to a referendum, from Uganda and Tanzania.

...Better Business People do

Kenya Breweries Ltd. demand really efficient transport for the distribution of their high quality Tusker Beer. They've just ordered a fleet of Bedford load carriers and buses. Not so surprising. Most better business people go for Bedford.

J. A. Jones, Chairman and Managing Director of the Motor Mart Group, who supply Bedford vehicles through Black Limited, officially hands over part of the Bedford fleet to Mr. J. Storie, Transport and Traffic Manager of Kenya Breweries Ltd. 'In our business', said Mr. Storie, 'we purchase vehicles which will give us reliability coupled with economic running costs'.

Duty triumphs over insecurity in life of country teacher

SCHOOLCHILDREN who live in the towns and cities of East Africa have advantages which their country cousins hardly know exist. With transport facilities and homes which are not very far off the main bus routes, school life is pleasant. School-children are able to obtain their textbooks and other equipment without much difficulty.

But the country districts present the other side of the coin. In many states there is a grave shortage of textbooks which are not only in danger of being lost but the schools open at all, and those which are maintained by the community in such districts, but some of the intermediate schools, which are each struggling to educate about 200 pupils.

Large class
Typical of an average section is the Kakuni School in the South Uganda District, where Mrs. Odera is the only woman teacher among her five male colleagues.

These 150 teachers are valiantly trying to give their pupils a secondary education. Pupils are taught in eight classes of 40 pupils each, which is too large a number to enable individual attention to be given to each child.

The shortage of teachers results from the inability of the district councils to find the money to pay their salaries both during term and holiday time for much of the financial stability of these schools is due to regular free-paying pupils.

Here, more often than not, school fees have gone unpaid. Parents are trying to make a living from their shambles, which is even more difficult this year with the failure of the long rains.

Too little food
Some instances their children, who have walked 12 miles to school, are incapable of concentration because they are reduced at the beginning of the day and have had lunch on their feet. There are no catering facilities at the particular school.

The boys in this co-educational school arrive at their desks in khaki shorts and shirts which their parents have provided, and the girls look smart in their green dresses. Yet they receive all their school barefoot because there is no money to buy shoes.

SIMPLER KENYAN LEGAL BASIS

A DEFINITIVE appraisal of Kenya's Constitution by Attorney-General Charles Nyoro in a personal article in the last issue of the East African Law Journal (Overseas Publications). It is the first time that the Independence Commission report was analysed in detail and why it was significant.

Mr. Nyoro is satisfied that the Commission's proposals are a good basis for a new constitution. He is particularly impressed by the fact that the Commission has recommended a simple and unambiguous legal basis for the new constitution. This is a very important feature of the Commission's proposals, which are based on a simple and unambiguous legal basis for the new constitution.

Portrait of Asia and East Africa dispels many popular myths

by JOHN HENNING
PORTRAIT OF A NATION, by John Henning, Editor of East Africa, Edited by Thomas Chab (Oxford University Press, 1951).

In an area where international understanding is so badly needed, it is not surprising that the portrait of Asia and East Africa remains the most misunderstood and perhaps the most popular of the nation. This lack of understanding is due to a number of factors, which are discussed in the book.

A new approach designed to give a picture of the Asia and East Africa region in a way that is more understandable to the general public. The book is written in a simple and unambiguous style, which is designed to give a picture of the Asia and East Africa region in a way that is more understandable to the general public.

Bull in the china shop

AN AMERICAN DREAM by Norman Mailer (Doubleday, 25/-)

IT is a great pity about the spectacle of his determination to set up the Bull in the china shop. The American Dream is a book which is a masterpiece of the art of the novel.
