LOCAL OFFICE REORGANISATION

London Newspaper Discussions Continue

It is suggested made recently by re-organization of "The Times" for the reorganization of the Colonial Office system continues to excite interest. The original correspondent, who suggested that the heads of Departments in the Colonial Office should have had permanent residences, that there should be a Colonial Training Institute, and that there should be a Colonial Training Institute, has replied to Sir John Mailey's defense of the existing system, and further letters for and against have followed.

The critic of the original writer contends that the qualities desirable in a Colonial Governor are different from those wanted in Downing Street, and he considers as "admirable" to any Secretary of State the prospect of receiving explicit, out-of-date advice from a Colonial Council composed largely of ex-officio administrators as an occupation for their declining years. To this another writer responds by referring to the established practice that, in Colonial affairs, the decision of yesterday is of no account from the day he gives up office."

AIR TRAGEDY NEAR KISUMU BRITISH PLAN FOR APPROVED

THE "AMALTHEA"

Liner's Crash Into Hillside CREW OF FOUR KILLED

SMOKING WRECKAGE AND FOUR PITIFULY CHARRED BODIES WERE ALL THAT WAS FOUND BY WOULD-BE RESCUERS WHEN, AFTER A DEBRATE RYR OVER NATIVE PATHS NEAR KISUMU, THEY REACHED THE SPOT WHERE A NATIVE HAS SAID THAT HE HAS SEEN AN AIRPLANE SUDDENLY DIVE AND CRASH INTO THE HILLSIDE.

The craft was Imperial Airways liner Amalthea, and the victims were the four members of the crew who were taking the liner, which was being withdrawn from passenger service, to Alessandria. The crash, as announced by an "East African Standard" special edition yesterday, took place early yesterday morning.

It was the first fatal crash of an Imperial Airways liner in East Africa. The four members of the crew were the sole occupants, and neither mail nor freight was being carried.

Four men were killed yesterday morning near Kisumu in the first fatal crash of an Imperial Airways liner in East Africa. The men were Mr. J. G. M. M. M., the pilot, Mr. M. M. M., the first officer, Mr. M. M. M., the second officer, and Mr. M. M. M., the engineer. The craft was the Amalthea, a four-engine type aircraft which was being withdrawn from passenger service. The crash occurred on the night of July 27, when the liner was en route to Alessandria. The craft was seen to dive and crash into a hillside near Kisumu. The wreckage was found by a native who had seen the aircraft in the sky. The bodies of the four crew members were recovered from the wreckage. They were found in a state of charred remains. The cause of the crash is still under investigation.

General Support For Premier's Speech

BRITISH FOREIGN POLICY WAS ONCE AGAIN REVIEWED BY LORDS BY THE PRIME MINISTER, MR. BEVILLE

CHAMBERLAIN, IN THE COURSE OF A DEBATE ON A MOTION ON BERLIN DEALY WITH ALL FOREIGN AFFAIRS OF INTEREST TO BRITAIN, BUT PARTICULARLY WITH CZECHOSLOVAKIA AND THE PROPOSAL THAT LORDS BEVILLE SHOULD ACT AS "MEDIATOR AND INVESTIGATOR" INDEPENDENT OF ANY GOVERNMENT.

The speech was received in most countries with approval, and both parties in Czechoslovakia have expressed their sympathy. One Czech newspaper has expressed its approval of the British plan for a mediator to investigate the political evolution of Central Europe.

In Prague some of the details of the proposed Nationalities Statute, which has been passed by the inner council of the Cabinet, have now been published, but the vital problem of autonomy is still being considered.

London, July 27. In a speech in the House of Commons, Mr. Beville, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, reviewed the British foreign policy in the past few years. He stated that the Government's policy was to maintain peace and stability in Europe. He also mentioned the proposed Nationalities Statute and the role of the mediator.

to carry out an investigation into the British ship which was bombed. The British ship was always ready to mediate with a view to bringing about an end of the Spanish war, but it was felt that "mediation" would have no chance of succeeding at present. The Spanish Government, it is understood, is prepared to accept the proposal to send a British Commission to investigate the bombing of open towns.

JAPANESE EXPECTING TROUBLE

Shanghai, July 27. Although the Chinese assert that their forces are still holding on in parts of Kiangsu, the Japanese believe that they will be pushed back to the sea in two directions, and southeast towards Hankow and southwest towards Nanking.

Air Tragedy

The sympathy of everyone in East Africa will be extended to the relatives of the four men who lost their lives in the tragedy of the accident to an Imperial Airways Far East Kilmoryn yesterday and the companies in whose service they worked.

It is probably impossible to present to any one cause the tragedy—air accidents are often necessarily subject to a certain amount of conjecture, but the companies which require which will be conducted in due course may reveal the reason for the sudden crash which has been attended by such unhappy results.

The air mail throughout Africa has been singularly free from serious accidents and the fact of the first fatal accident to an Imperial Airways machine south of Alexandria in the seven years during which the air mail has been operating.

During that time many millions of miles have been flown by the company's machines over Africa and the present main route necessitate flights aggregating nearly 20,000 miles a week. Even comparatively minor mishaps have been rare and the worst personal injury resulting from Africa hitherto has been a sprained ankle.

This is an extraordinary record when it is recalled that civil aviation is still in its infancy compared with surface transport and that it is only a few years since air journeys from England to any part of Africa were regarded as daring pioneering feats. Actually so far as the passenger and mails service is concerned, no record remains unbroken because the flight "Amalthea" which had for its last destination with the Imperial Airways service in East Africa and participation on the ocean between the two continents.

It would be wrong to assume that because there is an occasional accident of this nature, air travel is therefore dangerous. As we have shown statistics prove far otherwise and it would be just as unwise to conclude from one accident that undue risk is attached to flying as it would be to decide that travelling by train is not safe because there have been train accidents of that nature.

The Imperial Airways has a deservedly high reputation for thoroughness and efficiency. It is a company which has much more than a phrase, it is an essential part of their organization. It is a company which is not slow in taking risks and the well-being and comfort of passengers are always regarded as of more importance than speed, a point which has frequently been made in reply to criticisms arising from the difference in time taken by the air liners and machines which have concentrated on breaking records.

Each machine carried a pilot, a navigator, and a radio operator. The latter being located in the cockpit and able to take turns at the controls.

Leaving Croydon at 4:15 a.m. and crossing the North Sea and passing through the English Channel, the formation of the visit was the "Vie de l'Air" of the Parisian region.

It is the comfort which surprises so many passengers in the four-engined Empire flying-boats. They find themselves lounging in the promenade deck, smoking, enjoying meals or having their afternoon nap.

The Record Formation Flight

Demonstrates Striking Power Of British Planes

BRITAIN'S record non-stop formation flight of 4,000 miles, completed by her bombers specially equipped for long range experiments in the pursuit to greater performance in the next few months a carefully planned series of flights will demonstrate, once again, the mobility and the striking power of our bombers.

The route followed by the British aeroplanes—Vickers Wellington "Gladstone" motorplane—followed approximately the "great circle" course from Croydon (London) to the headquarters of the Luftwaffe in Berlin.

Months of preparation followed for the formation flight. The formation was to consist of 4,000 miles, completed by her bombers specially equipped for long range experiments in the pursuit to greater performance in the next few months.

It is indeed an experience for most motorists to see how good roads can be, and there is no doubt that even these roads, good as they are, are far removed from the conditions which obtain in the best roads in the world.
