Don't warn the police

There are strenuous times... enough to let your nerves on edge. But think twice before calling the Police because your next-door neighbor has had his own private party all day. The Police are busy enough with other matters of much greater importance. Settle for the trouble itself. Suggest to your neighbor to buy an extra PHILIPPS radio so that her servants may listen in the kitchen vicinity without disturbing others. The new PHILIPPS Type BX 216 W for example. It's a good buy at a very reasonable price.

Don't forget to let your African friend in the Kijukuu and Swahili brackets.

A VISIT TO THE 'CHELTENHAM' OF EAST AFRICA

THE Kenya High School for Girls, the first building phase of which was completed during May of this year, is grouped round the slopes of a high-bank some three miles from the centre of Nairobi.

The high site has a commanding view over the city and a panoramic view of the Aberdare Mountains, Doozie Bank and Mount Kenya, and above the hills, the Athi plains, the volcanic granite of Mount Kenya and the sea can be seen on a clear morning, 100 miles to the north and south.

The major educational building programme under a budget plan in 1947, and during the following two years. The old school building, having been destroyed by the war, was replaced in the immediate aftermath of the war by a new and temporary auxiliary building.

In planning the reconstruction for the new school, the Education Authorities presented the school project to 200 teachers and 100 day-girls.

In planning the project, the authorities set themselves the task of evolving a group of buildings which would continue the present "Home school" tradition of the old school, but in the finished structure, by atmosphere and character, essential to this "Cheltenham" of East Africa.

The boarding blocks—planned in a semi-circle follow the contours of the site, each of the first four blocks contains two to four, each of 20 girls, as do the two last blocks. The main approach. The boarding blocks face upwards in a five-acre green space, a central pathway being reserved for a 100-foot school Chapel.

Each boarding block is designed as two self-contained units for 20 girls with separate dressing rooms, lock and locker rooms, dormitories for 20 girls, and separate corridors for 20 girls.

Self-heating, mid-range and weathered flats, four to each house, are placed at the end of the block, with direct access to all floors for inspection and service.

The House blocks, maintaining the school tradition, are incorporated in an arranged front above the entrance to each block, the Houses bearing the names of outstanding women scientists, including Florence Nightingale, Madame Curie and the like.

THE tuition block, located on the crown of the ridge, is planned in the elaborate manner noted. The main entrance to the block presents the dining room, library and service yard to the south and the administrative block and headmaster's suite to the north. The wide gap between these blocks, shown in the aerial photographs, will eventually be closed with the Assembly Hall Block, including the day girls' common room, library and refectory.

The main entrance, the library and canteen, is planned in the shape of a Malabar Court, the seating a bank of 200 hours and 100 day girls, plus staff, and a bank of 200 hours. The whole of the building is built on a slope down by the girls themselves, with high-angle service trolleys. An outstanding example of good, simple design can be seen where a four-story main is completed, from the playing of "grass" to the concluding school hymn in less than three minutes.

The classroom wing, situated on an east-west axis, avoid the high-noon sun, and the heating and cooling conditions are fixed with built-in louvers.

The laboratory and domestic science block close the quadrangle to the north, and are well-served, planned round its own service yard and includes, apart from the science, chemistry and biology laboratories, sports facilities, as a first-aid centre, medicine room and demonstration block.

TANGANYIKA CHURCHMEN LOOK BACK ON THE YEARS OF ACHIEVEMENT

THE Diocese of Central Tanganyika last week celebrated its 50th Jubilee and the congregation which has thrived at a special service in Dodoma Cathedral of the Holy Spirit on Saturday remembered not only the trials of the past five decades but the pioneering, hardships and even martyrdom of the previous 50.

Throughout the territory, and even further afield, there were many who came to join in the flourishing of the Church Missionary Society, the spiritual work in this field, helped by the presence of a pioneer work—including Frontier, Clerical and laymen.

At a time when the East African continent was still a vast unexplored wilderness, the Church of England was the first to set foot on the soil of Tanganyika. The first Bishop of the Diocese of Central Tanganyika, the late Mr. Hester, who, in 1897, was the first to set foot on the soil of Tanganyika, was the first to bring the message of the Gospel to the people of this land.

It was in 1921 that Bishop Heywood stepped the mission regarding the union of the Churches of England and Scotland. The Bishop of the Diocese of Central Tanganyika, the late Mr. Hester, who, in 1897, was the first to set foot on the soil of Tanganyika, was the first to bring the message of the Gospel to the people of this land.

RECORDING A PURSUIT OF KINGS

STANLEY H. BONNETT tells the romantic story of a volume that will be of world-wide interest to generations of stamp collectors as well as lovers of de-luxe publications.

The question of its entry into the United States brought about a reinterpretation of Congress's Customs Code.

The stamps have been removed from the volume, and it is necessary that they be replaced from the page—that is, the volume is a book about the stamps, not a book of stamps. The volume is a book about the stamps, not a book of stamps.

Previously the printing of such a book was prohibited by the Customs Code. The volume is a book about the stamps, not a book of stamps.

Great secrecy

The 300 volumes containing the stamps are being printed in the most secret manner. The volume is a book about the stamps, not a book of stamps.

As a result, and in the greatest secrecy, the stamps are being printed in the most secret manner. The volume is a book about the stamps, not a book of stamps.

At all, there are about 200,000 stamps in the world. The volume is a book about the stamps, not a book of stamps.

BRITAIN'S NATIONAL SERVICEMEN

The Mainstay Of A Great Overseas Army

Almost 45 per cent of The Lancashire Fusiliers, now in Kenya, are National Servicemen. Here MAJOR JOHN NORTH, a former staff officer in the British Army, writes of the great contribution that these young men are making to the Empire's defences.

The British Army of today is an overseas army. British troops—along with their old allies in Germany, in Austria, and in France. In North Africa they maintain the Libyan Federation. In the West Indies they guard the islands of the Caribbean. They patrol East and West Africa, in Cyrenaica, the Sudan, at Gibraltar, in Malaya, in Ceylon—the British soldier still stands undaunted!

UNION HIGH COURT ACT INVALID

Police Charles their today

Unanimous ruling by judges

The Appellate Division of the South African Supreme Court ruled in Bloemfontein yesterday that the Act which Parliament and a High Court is invalid. It is the Cape Division of the High Court which has held the Act to be null and void.

The High Court of Port Elizabeth, which is the South African Division of the Cape Division, was formed by Dr. Malan's Government as a new supreme body to enforce its own laws. It was formed after the ruling of the Supreme Court that the Act of Parliament which put voters of mixed races on a separate voting list was invalid.

Under this Separate Representation of Voters Act the Coloured voters could vote only for selected White representatives in Parliament. The Government had tried to get the Supreme Court to validate the Act. It argued that it was politically and constitutionally undesirable that the courts should be empowered to interfere with the will of Parliament.

TANGANYIKA'S BUDGET OF £15,000,000

Highest figure in history

THE 1962-63 budget for Tanganyika, announced by Mr. C. F. T. Nyerere, Minister for Finance, in the National Assembly on Monday, is the highest in the history of the country. It amounts to £15,000,000, an increase of 10 per cent on the 1961-62 budget of £13,600,000. The budget is divided into three main sections: the revenue account, the expenditure account, and the capital account. The revenue account shows a total of £7,500,000, an increase of 10 per cent on the 1961-62 figure of £6,800,000. This is achieved through a combination of higher taxes and increased government savings. The expenditure account totals £10,000,000, an increase of 10 per cent on the 1961-62 figure of £9,100,000. This is primarily due to increased spending on social services, health, and education. The capital account shows a total of £7,500,000, an increase of 10 per cent on the 1961-62 figure of £6,800,000. This is due to increased borrowing and government savings.

Narrow gap
The budget shows a narrow gap between revenue and expenditure. The revenue account is £7,500,000, while the expenditure account is £10,000,000. This gap is covered by the capital account, which totals £7,500,000. The budget also shows a significant increase in government savings, which are expected to reach £1,500,000 in 1962-63, compared to £1,000,000 in 1961-62. This is due to a combination of higher taxes and increased government savings.

Inadequate
The budget is considered inadequate by some critics, who argue that it does not provide enough for social services and health. They also point out that the budget is based on optimistic assumptions, such as higher taxes and increased government savings. However, the government maintains that the budget is realistic and will provide a solid foundation for the country's economic development.

NAIROBI MAKES STAGE AND SCREEN HISTORY

The past few days have made stage and screen history in Nairobi. First came the opening of Kenya's National Theatre on its island site opposite the Nairobi Hotel, Nairobi. Then the arrival in the city of four of the world's most famous film stars—Clark Gable, Ava Gardner, Frank Sinatra and Grace Kelly.

The opening of the theatre by Sir Ralph Richardson was a brilliant occasion, reminiscent of a Leicester Square occasion. The picture on this page records some of the scenes during a memorable evening. Bottom right, Lady Richardson, with Sir Ralph, is shaking hands with Mrs. Brien Piggie while immediately above, the Mayor of Nairobi, Alderman Dr. J. R. Gregory, with the Mayor, Mrs. Torvic and Mr. and Mrs. Brien Piggie is receiving Lady Mary Hastings wife of the Governor. Top left, Mr. Max Bollen greets the Hon. Mr. Bollen.

THE THINGS THEY SAY...

...being quotations from B.B.C. talks

I thought I'd seen everything when I went on a little old lady insisted on trying the weight of a handbag on my neck. She said: "I'm not a little old lady, I'm a young woman."

My father's job, he said, was to make sure that the children of the poor were fed. He said: "I'm not a father, I'm a man."

My mother's job, he said, was to make sure that the children of the poor were fed. He said: "I'm not a mother, I'm a woman."
