DEFENCE PROTEST AT KAPENGURIA 'Never been treated like it before'—Mr Pruitt

PARLIAMENT—The defence, Mr. D. N. Pruitt, Q.C., made a spirited protest against the Government's Kapenguria court adjourned last night until this morning. He said that the Government had failed to take any steps to ensure that the trial would be held in the open air. He said that the Government had failed to take any steps to ensure that the trial would be held in the open air. He said that the Government had failed to take any steps to ensure that the trial would be held in the open air.

In the last picture, of the accused appearing at Kapenguria, the Government is shown to be unable to take any steps to ensure that the trial would be held in the open air. He said that the Government had failed to take any steps to ensure that the trial would be held in the open air. ALL-PARTY DELEGATION PLEA REJECTED

Commons questions on Kenya

UNGED BY Mr. James Griffiths, for the Labour delegation, to reconvene a suggestion that an all-party delegation should visit Kenya. Mr. Oliver Lyttelton, the Colonial Secretary, replied in all answers that the proposal would not be considered. He said that the Government was not in a position to consider such a proposal at the present time.

Labour motion

The Labour Party Motion Committee has decided to table a motion about the situation in Kenya. The motion will be moved by Mr. James Griffiths, the Labour Member of Parliament for the constituency of South Devon. The motion will call for the Government to take steps to ensure that the trial in Kapenguria is held in the open air.

Trawler fined

The British Revenue Commissioners have announced that a trawler has been fined for illegal fishing. The trawler was caught with a net full of fish, which it was not allowed to have. The fine is £100. The trawler's name is the 'Merrimack'.

Meru move before United Nations

NOW FOR GENERAL ASSEMBLY

The General Assembly's Trusteeship Committee has decided to refer the Meru case to the United Nations. The case concerns the proposed transfer of the Meru region from Kenya to the United Kingdom. The Committee will report on the case at its next meeting.

GANG STRANGLE SHOPKEEPER Asian victim of early morning attack

ASIAN business men were spending their sleep in a hazy haze last night when a gang of African burglars broke into a shop in the East End of London. The police investigating the murder have had a big success in an effort to capture the gang. By late afternoon yesterday there had been no arrests.

The victim, a Mr. Vinod Varma, aged about 35, who lived with his wife and two children in the premises in the East End of London. He was found dead in his shop, which was a small business. The police are still looking for the gang.

Kenya may give lead on Colonial finance

KENYA may lead the Colonial Empire with something on the result of talks just completed in London. The Colonial adviser-attorney Mr. Wilfrid Padley (Secretary to the Treasury) came to London to discuss the situation in Kenya.

Efforts to replace lost labour

THE Kenya Labour Department is doing its utmost to get a replacement for the labour force lost in the strike. The department is trying to find ways to replace the lost labour force.

Shop examined

MR. PRUITT called for a search of the shop in which the murder took place. He said that the shop was a small business and that the police should search it for any clues. The police have agreed to do this.

Extra staff

IT would seem, that the Government is planning to employ extra staff in the Kenya Labour Department. This is to help with the work of the department in dealing with the labour situation in Kenya.

FREDDIE MILLS SAYS...

World boxing has got out of hand

WHO said Australia has not got a sense of humour? Listen to her latest announcement: On December 3, Al Bourke will meet Ron Tohey for the vacant British Empire middleweight title. Dave Sande, of course, holds this title at the time of his death. Previously he had travelled to England to meet Randolph Turpin, at that time heavily outnumbered in winning the world crown from Robinson, in London. Sande had to wait, and was killed in a road accident before another opportunity of meeting Turpin came his way.

But the idea of making his own Australian premiere is lost one more indication of the world boxing and the fighting for titles is getting out of hand - a fashion that originated in the United States.

Australia, of course, is neither affiliated to the B.B.A. nor officially to the British Boxing Board of Control.

A bad thing

Nevertheless, at a time when it is getting a little better in trying to secure a world title, it is doubly help every boxer visit America and take a long vacation when it comes to meeting his opponent. It is not my business, I think it is not only an unnecessary expense but a waste of money for Australia to take his opponent at a time when they hold for the first time in their history a world title through Jimmy Carruthers' victory over Tommie Lonsdale.

Maybe this will do to their heads, or maybe they use the far away to weary. I do not know, but it will give the Americans another handle to the door they are trying to keep closed against British challengers.

Confidence

But even when we are confident, he said when Williams was shot on December 18, I shall be mourning for him.

Over to America, Britain's "next best thing" has been, since his death in America early that year when he was killed in a plane crash, a man who has made many of our best boxers. In the first point Johnny, as called by the press, has been a disappointment since his death.

Maltese make the referees cross

English referees in Malta are getting a bit fed up with the Maltese in the George Cross of the island. It is a small island but it has a national bull fight when refereeing some of the Maltese boxers, they say. One little difference - a maltese gets £100 per fight, a Maltese referee 200, per match, plus maintenance allowance.

Herman's chance

English in an international quandary

By Archie Quick

THE new English international Soccer Centre side will play Wales and outlanded Belgium at Wrexham on Friday within a fortnight. Now recalls the future with uncertainty.

What of future?

But what will be the position five months hence?

Will the same seven players be in form?

It may be that the selectors remain loyal to the side which have served them so well in the past.

But inter-league matches will be staged in January, but it is not clear whether any of the players will be in form.

Council divided

The F.A. Council are split over the selection of players for the 1953-54 season.

Scotland may get new lion

SIR THOMAS THOMAS of Leuchars, the Lord-Lion King of Argyll, who has just the Scottish Heraldic Association to reveal, has found that the Scottish Football Association is not a new creature.

The present league is not controlled by the Scottish Football Association.

It is a pity that the Scottish Football Association has had a poor record in the past.

"I have been in use since the Association was formed in 1876."

Gap in season too long for Coast cricketers

The "Warrior" Commentator writes: The Sports Club cricket team will explain the reason for next season at the annual meeting of the cricket section last Friday.

Several members complained that the gap between the close of the season at the Club and the forthcoming Nairobi Cricket Festival was too long.

Mr. P. F. Chalmers, Chairman of the Association, said the decision followed the discovery of a handful of dry rats on the coast coast.

Night guard for Davis Cup courts

South Australian Lawn Tennis Association officials, reports that the Davis Cup courts will be guarded by night.

Mr. P. F. Chalmers, Chairman of the Association, said the decision followed the discovery of a handful of dry rats on the coast coast.

Would do no harm

There was little doubt that it would suit to hold in November next year. Nevertheless it would do no harm for the reason to be given for the ground to dry out after this.

ROBINSON WILL DEFEND TITLE

Wants a third bout with Turpin

RAY ROBINSON, world middleweight boxing champion, will definitely defend his title against a third American representative for the "Sugar" Jack Solomon. Robinson's last victory, last night, "I had a successful conference with the press and the public and the possibility that he is going to be the champion of the world." New York State today gave Robinson a "license" to fight today. Robinson is expected to fight today at Madison Square Garden. Robinson is expected to fight today at Madison Square Garden. DOPING: NO CHANGE IN RULINGS

THE Jockey Club is to make no change in its rules and policy concerning disciplinary action in case of the doping of racehorses. The decision is a sequel to a detailed survey of the whole situation.

The report containing the Jockey Club findings on the day's doping incident in yesterday's racing at Newmarket, states that the rules, under which the horses of the Jockey Club were found to have been doped, were found to be satisfactory. The members of the Jockey Club who were found to have been doped, were found to have been doped.

Practical Education

The Ministry of Education has announced that it is introducing a new practical education scheme for primary schools. The scheme is designed to provide students with practical training in various subjects, such as agriculture, home science, and manual arts. This will help to develop their practical skills and prepare them for life after school.

Some Barrier

The East African Standard has received news that the Government is considering the introduction of a barrier to control the flow of goods and services between the East African states. This is a controversial issue and has attracted much public attention.

President outlines aims of Women's League

SOKIK ANNUAL MEETING

ALTHOUGH the East Africa Women's League was not in the work of the Legislative Council, the League's President, Mrs. D. P. Hughes told members of the Sokik Branch at their annual meeting. They should support all measures designed to promote the welfare of women and children.

Mrs. Hughes thought that it was also a most important thing to have such membership of women in the various branches. Referring to child population she said that the I.A.W.L. had been most represented on the committee set up by the Government to study the problem of child population. Budget debated in Tanganyika

Activities of High Commission questioned

WOULD WASH OUT LOCUST SURVEY

MR. A. R. MILLER

The activities of the East African High Commission were the target of Mr. R. W. Miller, Member for Lamuka, speaking at the Budget debate in Tanganyika Legislative Council. He said that he would like to spend £200,000 more on the locust survey, but that the High Commission would not do so. He said that the High Commission had spent £100,000 on the locust survey, but that it had not spent the money on the locust survey. He said that the High Commission had spent the money on the locust survey, but that it had not spent the money on the locust survey.

with a suggestion of maintaining the survey for a year. "We have every right to be proud of our survey," he said, "but we have every right to be disappointed if it is not a success. I think it would be a great pity if the survey were to be abandoned. We have only just started the survey, and we have only just started the survey. We have only just started the survey, and we have only just started the survey."

A DAY WITH THE HOUNDS AND HUNT AT LIMURU

By LESLEY CLAY

ON foot, on moustard, on harradish they came to Limuru the Sunday before last for the first meet of the newly formed Limuru Hunt Committee. Hounds were lent by Mr. J. W. L. Harris, of Solihull, the Master of the Tazewell Foxhounds. Although the hunt was out of season and the hounds in a hole.

Limuru was looking particularly green after the recent rain and the sun shone throughout the morning. By ten o'clock there were long lines of cars parked outside the Kiambu Clubhouse. Hounds were being led and manoeuvred before the gaze of spectators who had flocked in from far and near.

Led by Col. R. B. Barrett, Acting Master and Huntsman, and with Mr. Gilbert Chappell, of Thomson's Falls, as First Whip (both wearing the green livery of the Tazewell Hunt, the hounds moved off about 10.30 am.

They were followed by a large concourse of motorists, interest in reaching strategic points from which to view the drag laid by Mr. Hugh Ellis.

In the second of the hunting horns, blown by Col. Barrett, and to the sound of the hounds, there followed a good hour's sport.

The occasion was honoured by the presence of the Governor of Kenya, Sir Evelyn Baring, who rode in what is said to have been almost a record field for Kenya of over 80. Mado has been known to put 74 in the field on only one occasion.

Hounds went by way of the Catholic Mission Farm Mr. Graf's farm, the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Ouse-Smith, and finished on Mr. Boyd's land. There were two checks to allow the field to come up. The line ran through some nice galloping country which was visible to spectators from many points as they followed along the track road.

After the hunt Mr. "Tiny" Kingstons Field Master that day with Col. Paul (both members of the Limuru Hunt Committee) told me that he was very well satisfied with the morning's sport.

The first meet had been in the nature of a trial to see what support was forthcoming and he hoped that when the season opened next April, Limuru would have its own pack.

Three or four of the young hounds were now being walked but the Master Hunt had presented two and a half dozen of the best hounds. Soon it was hoped to have their own kennels.

In a field that was not remarkable for the great number of fat fivers, many were very smartly habited.

Probably the youngest rider that day was eight-year-old Jack Wollen who was led on a leading rein by her father.

WHAT THE PICTURES TELL

Under the umbrella eye of "TILL" the hounds (the last) will be seen to be in the field. The man has put up the first check (etc) and the hunt is now ready for the next country.

The field master (Col. Barrett) and his horse, the various ages of the hounds, and the number of spectators. Col. Barrett is seen to be in the field. The hounds are seen to be in the field. The man has put up the first check (etc) and the hunt is now ready for the next country.

NEW SECTOR PLAN FOR KIKUYUS

—but no decision before discussion

KIKUYUS is being given the idea of a new Kenyan settlement area to take evicted members of the tribe who cannot find accommodation in the Member for African Affairs, Mr. E. R. S. A. Davies, said today in the House.

It had been appreciated that the Eviction Unfairness Committee that there must be no suggestion that land is being given to those evicted. They have made themselves a nuisance elsewhere. The Member for African Affairs, Mr. E. R. S. A. Davies, said that he had been approached during the 1960/61 year for the Administration, during which the Leader of the European Elected Members, Mr. Michael Ripstein, referred to what he thought was a "disturbing policy" of removing Kikuyus back to the reserves. Although they had embarked on this policy of "disturbing" Kikuyus from the Highlands, he would not, said Mr. Davies, be a party to it.

It was the frequency of changes of administrative officers. In spite of the fact that the Chief Secretary said that he would not be a party to it, the Member for African Affairs, Mr. E. R. S. A. Davies, said that he would not be a party to it.

Nationalism
These are not racial matters, said Mr. Davies, but they are matters of nationalism. He said that he would not be a party to it.

Settlers score a record golf win

CLEAN SWEEP IN FOURSOMES

Standard Club Correspondent

In winning the Day-Montgomery Trophy for the tenth time since its inception in 1913, Settlers defeated O.C. in their annual golf match at Kileleshwa, played last Sunday, by the record margin of 10 points to one. O.C. took last all six foursomes and won only one of the 24 singles matches, two of which were halved. Settlers before has either side made a clean sweep of the tournament.

Fourteen years ago, Gordon Mackay captured the trophy for Settlers and halved the 16th. The only other halve has been a win for O.C. that year. Settlers' success was due to the mistake of playing off teams in succession. This procedure is frowned upon in foursomes.

The Kileleshwa course was in a perfect condition for the match with the fairways close-cropped and green, the grass matting that is so common for other clubs by their open greens.

The only couple consisted of W. W. Hooper and H. W. Hart who played first and second. Hooper and Hart were the only couple to score a bogey on the 18th hole.

After their rough treatment in the morning, O.C. set out determined to win in the afternoon. And early reports were so encouraging that the Official Captain, Mr. J. H. Mackay, was up on the hill to watch the play.

Mr. Mackay's first impression was that O.C. was actually one up on the Official Captain. Mr. Mackay's second impression was that O.C. was actually one up on the Official Captain.

As it pointed out earlier, the stage was set for low scoring, and the second nine was a grand old golf as good as we have seen in this country.

David Dooze played a bunker shot on the first hole when setting out to the second nine. He was the only player to score a bogey on the 18th hole.

Putting himself back in play, the first hole was a 2 to 1, but could only win by one hole. The second nine was a grand old golf as good as we have seen in this country.

Michael Young looked like when the situation arises.

Jockey Club scheme to fight 'dopers'

WHILE the Jockey Club is satisfied that their new stable security measures are checking the activities of turf dopers, next year they are in operation a large scale chemical analysis programme.

The best feature of the scheme is that it will be carried out by the Jockey Club's own staff, with the assistance of the Government's analytical chemists.

The suggestion of a scientific programme was the brain of the Jockey Club's secretary, Mr. J. H. Mackay.

Mr. Mackay's scheme is to run into the hundreds of thousands of pounds a year.

MEN OF THE MINT AND THEIR MONEY

QUEEN ELIZABETH, for whose Coronation an entirely new coinage has been designed, can look back on more than 1,600 years of coin-minting by her predecessors. The earliest English coins were made of gold, and those of the country during the first half of the fourteenth century B.C. They were unimpaired and continued in the Roman occupation Britain around 43 B.C. During the currency of the whole country and missing in Britain 237 when Roman mints were in operation. By the end of the seventh century every Anglo-Saxon bearing his inscription and later his portrait. It was with Offa, King of Mercia, whose capital was in London, that the coinage of England really began in the 8th century.

Influence of Charles II

By the mid-17th century there were many mints, but they were reduced in number by Henry II and further by successive kings in the 13th century. By the time silver coins of fine workmanship were being minted. In the middle of the 14th century a coin called a noble was issued, to be followed in the next century by the angel.

But modern coins can be said to have begun with the second coinage of Charles II in 1662, based on the West African Gold. No such coin exists today, but the term survives in the combination of its shilling and guinea gold pieces, through shillings and shillings, down to a silver penny, with copper half-pennies and farthings. Towards the end of the 18th century, in the reign of George III the scupper and penny was introduced and there was, for a short time, a copper two-penny piece. The coinage of the reign of Elizabeth II which will be issued in general circulation is of eight values. In design it will be the half-crown (2/6), florin (2/-), shilling and sixpence. There is to be a 15-sided three-pence and bronze pennies, half-pennies and farthings.

To replace silver, copper-nickel, an alloy of 75 per cent copper and 25 per cent nickel, was authorized by Act of silver applied by the United States of America under a Lend-Lease agreement during World War II to provide for use in industry.

The Royal Mint during the reign of Queen Elizabeth II is being made, stands opposite the second Tower of London, in which it had previously been always the 400 years.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer of the time is appointed by the House of Commons, but the practical management is done by a permanent Deputy Master and a Comptroller.

More than 1,100,000 coins are minted in London every day of the year. Most official medals, and many for private commemorations, are also manufactured in the Royal Mint, as well as the engraving of the official seals of the British and Colonial Governments. The Royal Mint, in addition to British coinage, also produces coins for many other countries of the Commonwealth and a number of overseas countries including Bolivia, Burma, Jamaica, Iraq, Costa Rica, Nicaragua and Guatemala.

Today, in this place of romantic tradition, where the minting new coinage of a new reign is being made, the machinery is so intricate, powerful and modern. The coins being made there are worthy to stand beside the finest products of the craftsmen of long ago.

IN THE MAKING OF A COIN...

The design for the Sovereign's head is one of the most important of the Royal Mint (bottom left). This machine grinds the master die to be used in the preparation of the coinage. Waste metal is being returned to the smelter in the gas-tight dustbin (right) for the start of the process. The overprint press carries the crevasses to the printing die. The blank coins have been sent. They have been passed through acid and are being washed by water in a swirling bath (middle left). Imperfectly cut blanks are eliminated on perforated tables (centre right). The rejects fall through. Coin blanks are collected in a container (top right) after being dried in a special revolving drum. "Overlooking" (top left) is an experienced task involving careful scrutiny of the finished coins as they pass along a moving belt. Bags of coins are double-checked (centre left) before dispatch. They are counted by an automatic counter and then each bagful is weighed on a balance.

Background to Britain's business in the air

BRIAN BROMWICH outlines the structure of Britain's Government-controlled civil air transport, pinpointing the responsibilities and duties of the Minister of Civil Aviation and his staffs.

MORE than in any other country in the world, the development of civil air transport in Britain since the end of the war has been a major concern and responsibility of the Government. Political dependence on air services is so great that the Ministry of Civil Aviation and the Civil Aviation Authority have been set up to coordinate the development of civil air transport. The Ministry of Civil Aviation is responsible for the general policy and the Civil Aviation Authority for the day-to-day running of the air transport system. In all the facilities necessary for air transport, the Government is responsible for the development of air services, for the regulation of air services, for the safety of air services, and for the promotion of air services. The Ministry of Civil Aviation is responsible for the general policy and the Civil Aviation Authority for the day-to-day running of the air transport system.

Directs policy

THE MINISTER OF CIVIL AVIATION is the authority which directs the general policy of the air transport system. He is responsible for the development of air services, for the regulation of air services, for the safety of air services, and for the promotion of air services. The Ministry of Civil Aviation is responsible for the general policy and the Civil Aviation Authority for the day-to-day running of the air transport system.

Civil airports

MORE AND MORE THE ODDS ARE AGAINST THE WHALE

By O. M. GREEN

NEXT month sees the opening of the 1951 Antarctic whaling season. But this year only 13 expedition-three less than last year—are at sea. It is a grim omen, making their way to southern waters.

Norway is sending only eight expeditions instead of the 20 which it sent in 1949. Argentina, Italy had planned to send one, but has been discouraged. Other countries that are expected to send expeditions are Britain, the Netherlands, France, South Africa, and the U.S.S.R. one each.

Electric harpoon

THE BRITISH WHALE is the only one in the world which is still hunted with the electric harpoon. It is a relic of a bygone era, but it is still used. The harpoon is a long, thin, metal rod with a sharp point. It is attached to a cable which is connected to a battery. The harpoon is thrown into the water and the cable is pulled in. The harpoon then strikes the whale and the whale is killed.

End of a 16-year trek to safety

A 16-year trek for a handful of men and women against almost unendurable hardships has ended with the arrival in Turkey of 300 Kazaks from Outer Mongolia's Hovudgovi Province.

A tired and dispirited 1,000 men, but the remaining 3,000 preferred to join the Chinese. The Kazaks divided into two groups. The first group, 1,000 men, went to the North. The second group, 2,000 men, went to the South.

Found no peace

THE efforts expended for many years by the United Nations to bring about peace in the Korean Peninsula have failed. The Chinese Communists invaded Tibet in 1950. The Chinese Communists invaded Tibet in 1950.
