HOW THE VALUE OF EUROPE BEGAN

Immense Armada of Ships: Thousands of Planes Take Part

EVERYTHING GOING ACCORDING TO PLAN, SAYS PREMIER

Twenty five words comprising General Eisenhower's communique gave the first official news of the war's most dramatic moment—the landing of Allied troops in France for the liberation of Europe from the west.

Communique No. 1 from the Supreme Allied Headquarters

The Allied Expeditionary Force is as follows.

Under the command of General Eisenhower naval forces supported by strong air forces, began landing Allied armies this morning on the northern coast of France.

The military situation is as follows: The Supreme Allied Headquarters is in London. The British Expeditionary Force is in the United Kingdom. The United States Army is in the United States. The Canadian Army is in Canada. The French Army is in France. The Belgian Army is in Belgium. The Dutch Army is in the Netherlands. The Polish Army is in Poland. #### The Supreme Commander

The Supreme Commander said that the Allies are attacking the Cherbourg peninsula and that they have developed a heavy presence on the coast between La Havre and Cherbourg.

About The Invasion Coast

In normal times, normally, it is the duty of the producer and the consumer to be in the same place. In the case of the invasion, the producer and the consumer are separated by the sea.

General Eisenhower

General Eisenhower said that the Allies are attacking the Cherbourg peninsula and that they have developed a heavy presence on the coast between La Havre and Cherbourg.

General Montgomery

General Montgomery said that the Allies are attacking the Cherbourg peninsula and that they have developed a heavy presence on the coast between La Havre and Cherbourg.

General De Gaulle

General De Gaulle said that the Allies are attacking the Cherbourg peninsula and that they have developed a heavy presence on the coast between La Havre and Cherbourg.

LATE NEWS

In a further statement today, General Eisenhower said that the Allies are attacking the Cherbourg peninsula and that they have developed a heavy presence on the coast between La Havre and Cherbourg.

King Calls His People to Prayer and Dedication

The first day of the invasion was marked by a message from the King broadcast throughout the world. His Majesty said: "Five years ago our nation and Empire stood alone against an overwhelming enemy with our backs to the wall, tested on never before in history. Under God's Providence we survived that trial. The spirit of the people, resolute and dedicated, hurled us to a bright fate, it surely from those unseen fires which nothing can quench."

Once more a supreme test has to be faced. This time the challenge is not to fight to survive, but to fight to win. We will win a revival of spirit—a new unconquerable resolve. After nearly five years of toil and suffering we must meet that same foe and our Allies are sure that our fight is against evil and for a world in which goodness and honour may be the foundation of the life of man in every land.

A NOTE OF CAUTION
 In an editorial comment the Manchester Guardian introduces a note of caution. It says: "It is not to be able to judge for several days whether the German forces are really the enemy we have met. The enemy will not be so easily to be deceived by his own propaganda. He will try to make us believe that he is a more powerful force than he really is. He will try to make us believe that he is a more powerful force than he really is."

Japs Hurry From Kohima Area
 The correct illumination of docks and harbours is an electrification fact in the Empire. The largest British electrical manufacturing organization in the Empire, the General Electric Co. (G.E.C.), in the days of the war "G.E.C." was a name which was always in the minds of engineers when complete electrification schemes were being considered. A G.E.C. installation is always a name of British engineering and thoroughness.

A NOTE OF CAUTION
 In an editorial comment the Manchester Guardian introduces a note of caution. It says: "It is not to be able to judge for several days whether the German forces are really the enemy we have met. The enemy will not be so easily to be deceived by his own propaganda. He will try to make us believe that he is a more powerful force than he really is. He will try to make us believe that he is a more powerful force than he really is."

Allied Progress Regarded With Sober Satisfaction

GERMANS ADMIT THE LOSS OF CARENTAN

BRUSSELS (AP)—June 12.—The Allies have captured the town of Carentan today, a commander said that the last 24 hours in Normandy were crucial for the Allies.

Overseer in a trailer—no small aircraft which can take off from a runway. The British 6th Airborne Division is successfully holding the bridgehead across a canal leading to the town.

Correspondents at Allied Headquarters last night described the general state of a possible breakthrough.

On the beaches the position has improved since the Allies landed in the night.

The fourth sector is the one between the Cotentin and the Brest peninsula.

With the Allies' drive toward the Cotentin, the Brest peninsula is now in a perilous position.

General Spaatz

General Spaatz, chief of the United States Strategic Air Command, said that the American air crews have more than 2000 sorties.

More Bomb-Weapons

We issued last night about two secret air weapons which went into the hands of our Air Force.

IN ITALY NOW

Time was when the fall of Rome was the greatest event of which men could conceive. In our days the fall of Rome has immediately been succeeded by events of far greater importance which have already done so to speak into the background.

Our Allies continued their operations in the mountains, while their enemy army was pushed back. The forces under the command of General "Berti" Martelli continued their grip around two Japanese strongholds in the north of Burma.

On the 10th inst. the command of General Martelli continued their grip around two Japanese strongholds in the north of Burma. These are the important air bases of Mawlaikhe and the airfield at Kamaung.
