MOVES TOWARDS KENYA SELF-RULE

Mr. Blundell tables group statement

SELF-GOVERNMENT for Kenya within the Commonwealth is the objective of the New Kenya Group, Mr. Michael Blundell emphasized at the Group's conference in Nairobi yesterday.

To achieve that purpose and practical workable self-government there must first be created the necessary conditions for it in the Colony, he added.

In a statement of policy tabled by Mr. Blundell, the group warns that Kenya's growth, which depends on the continued help and support of Britain, through the out-of-the-capital help and support of Britain, through the out-of-the-capital help and support of Britain...

'Reason will prevail'

After members had spoken on the statement, the conference went into committee to discuss among other matters, agenda and executive details of the conference, which the Colonial Secretary has decided to hold soon.

Regret that African-Elected Members of the Kenya Legislative Council, Mr. Blundell had turned down invitations to attend the Nairobi conference was expressed by many of the speakers.

The C.M.S.O. reply that it expects to issue a policy statement soon and that its members would start working on holding a conference was described by the chairman, Mr. Blundell, as a "political maneuver to get a good start for the year."

The New Kenya Group has made a number of suggestions to be made by other Members appearing to be by the Government.

It is suggested that the attitude of the Government towards the interests of people in Kenya should be more open.

'Friendly' talk on peace

MR. KOZLOV, a First Soviet Deputy Premier, emerged beaming from his White House after over an hour with President Eisenhower and said it was "friendly."

He had a wonderful, relaxed, cordial conversation with the President, who had been so kind as to meet with me in the White House.

He said he would be back in the White House in a few days and would be glad to see the President again.

'Betrayal' to sacrifice partnership

ATTACHE WARNS OF POLITICAL PASSIONS IN CENTRAL AFRICA

From a Special Correspondent

It would be a criminal error and a betrayal of civilization in Africa if the policy of partnership in the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland was sacrificed at the altar of political passions.

The assistant information attache at Rhodesia House, Mr. E. C. Vanho, said this in London yesterday at a joint meeting of the Royal African Society and the Royal Commonwealth Society. The subject of his address was 'An African Looks at the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland'.

Mr. Vanho is the first African to be recognized as a 'Special Correspondent' of this newspaper.

He mentioned his subject as a 'difficult and a challenging one' for the sake of the continent.

Not prepared

On the future of the Federation he said: "I feel that it is not politically expedient to recommend the Dominion status in 1950, because the Dominion status for Africa implies a real sense of African political opinion in the Federation."

Mr. Prime Minister has not stated that he wanted Dominion status in 1950, but he has indicated that he would like to see the Federation in 1950. He said that he would like to see the Federation in 1950, but he has indicated that he would like to see the Federation in 1950.

"Recently, I believe that a certain degree of the misapprehension of the nature of the partnership in the Federation has been caused by the indifference to the fact that the Federation is not a political union, but a partnership of equals."

PLAN TO DISPERSE SURPLUS OF DAIRY GOODS

World agency needed

An Australian delegate to the international dairy congress in London has put forward a suggestion that a world organisation to act as a clearing house for surplus dairy products should be set up. Mr. G. J. Mansfield, Queensland, said the present method for the orderly disposal of surplus products is unsatisfactory. The proposed organisation would be established with the aid of the Federal Government, and incorporated in the existing International Dairy Federation. A commission for Cattle and Sheep would be set up to study the problem and report in July. The plan would also be maintained by Cattle and Sheep, and the Zanzibar Government has received the plan.

Production down

The suggestion was that without this world clearing house, the surplus of dairy products would be sold at a loss. The International Dairy Federation, which is a non-profit-making body, would be asked to set up a commission to study the problem and report in July. The plan would also be maintained by Cattle and Sheep, and the Zanzibar Government has received the plan.

WEEK-END STANDARD GLOBETROTTERS MAKE FOR A WELCOME GOAL IN LONDON

MY plane got into London at 8.15 a.m. Soon after nine the coach drove into the Air Terminal. "Well, at least you've got the day to try to find accommodation," my neighbour remarked, "though I can't think why you didn't book up in advance." I had not booked because I did not know until the last minute when I should be ready to leave Paris. But I wasn't worried...

As a member of the Overseas Visitors' Club at Earl's Court I knew I could be sure of a room, not because the place is empty—on the contrary, it houses almost 1,000 people—but because that is what it guarantees. And the same goes if you arrive unannounced in the middle of the night. This club, a gem in a square who pay to go out at London in the after of the continent, is well known in South Africa, Canada and Australia, but less known in East Africa.

Founded in 1925 by two South Africans, Miss and Mrs. Williams, who found London both lovely and expensive, the club has maintained into what would be one of the largest pleasure centres of the city. The means, of course, is that it is a hotel and a club. Accommodation in London is usually hard to get and the club is a good place for the increasing number of people who are flocking to London, especially in the summer months.

ROOM RATES

They cannot afford hotels, but living in the inevitable better off it is to show London making friends. A club in the suburbs.

The Overseas Visitors' Club, which has no connection with the Overseas League, caters mostly for young Commonwealth people, though no age limit is enforced. There is no time limit as regards accommodation, you can book in and stay for years. At first you are put on bed-and-breakfast terms, costing from 12/6 for 14 days. Then, if you want to stay longer, you start looking for a permanent room. Permanent rates in London are 2/6 a night, very cheap for 2/6, allowing to 50/ a week's stay. Single rooms in the club buildings are rare and self-catering, but you can get one, by from one of the 50 landlords who are on the club's books to take it over. (This is the secret of the success of a room at a student's home.)

20,000 MEMBERS

If you don't want that, you can get all meals in the club for 1/6 a day. In 1958, a 100,000 member club in 4,500 clubs in 100 countries and such has a telephone. There is a hot water tap in the kitchen. There is a safety check on the door. A washing machine is in the room. When I joined the club in 1958, I found it very nice.

Now there are nearly 20,000 members. At the main building at No. 2 Tottenham Place, Earl's Court, some of the facilities are always ready at the reception desk answering questions, writing letters, etc. There are also a bar, a dining room and a dance room. There is a bar, a dining room and a dance room. There is a bar, a dining room and a dance room. There is a bar, a dining room and a dance room.

LITTLE RAGGED BOY GOES TO RESCUE OF KING

By ROHINA WRIGHT

LONG ago there were two sisters, one very sweet and the other very sour. The king of the country married the sweet one.

This upset the sour sister very much, for she would have liked to be queen herself. Being such a nasty sort of person, she had some nasty tricks up her sleeve. One of them was a wicked witch who knew a great many things that anybody else in the world.

"I want you to make a spell against the king," the sour sister said to the witch. "The ordinary — don't turn him into anything of the kind. The king, I know — make him as fat as the elephant. I don't want any other's husband hogging the throne. The palace staff for the rest of his life."

The witch, when she began, All kinds of funny things went into the spell which had to be collected from all over the world. So she had to go into many strange lands to get some things to put into her spell. She had to go into a big, big mountain to get some of the stones that she had to use for her spell.

She had to go into a forest where the king was hiding. She had to go into a cave where the king was hiding. She had to go into a cave where the king was hiding. She had to go into a cave where the king was hiding.

Pixie dances at Frog's wedding

By MAX TRELL

"Well," said Pixie McHenry to Knurd and Hansel, the Shadow with the Turned-About Names, "I don't suppose you can help me any but maybe you can."

Knurd and Hansel had come to Pixie McHenry sitting on the log that served as a seat by the door of O'Cher Hall where the Prince lived.

"Of course," Hansel said, "we'll be glad to help you. Pixie McHenry, that frog," suggested Knurd. "But first," said Hansel, "you'd better tell us what the trouble is."

"I don't suppose," answered Pixie McHenry, "that you'd be able to help me."

"Frog is marrying Hansel," said Knurd. "The wedding is going to take place at O'Cher Hall. And here it is half past four of the afternoon."

"I don't know," said Pixie McHenry, "but I'll go to the wedding and see what I can do."

"You're not going to go to the wedding?" asked Knurd.

"No, I'm not," said Pixie McHenry. "I'm going to go to the wedding and see what I can do."

IMPRESSIONS BY LONDON IMPRESARIO

AT the end of his four-week visit to East Africa he returns to London to put on his plays. But for that he might be tempted to stay on, his first impressions of Kenya are so favourable.

The most civilized country in the world — much better than England, was his reaction after a few days' acquaintance with the Nairobi district.

Although this Mr. Sherah's wife has been in Kenya several times, starting with the late Sir Evelyn Baring.

Mr. Sherah is a well-known impresario, who has produced many plays in London and on the continent.

After graduating from the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art he became an acting teacher at the Kenya High School.

YOUTH IN THEATRE CHANGES DIRECTION

By HAROLD HOBSON

Dore, a Trade of Home, Film Festival Director, have, mostly by accident, run into an even larger number of them, including a professor of drama, an impresario, an actor, a dramatic critic, a philosopher.

The upshot of the conversation I have had with them is that we have had something which I think we have all been feeling for some time: that in the last six or seven years the character of the London theatre has almost entirely changed.

This change can be summed up in a short sentence: Whereas a decade ago the name to our theatre to look for our actors, writers, directors, and in general, and in general, they come to look at our scene.

John Osborne took a walk with The World of Theatre and I do not think that anyone can deny that the rebirth of English playwrighting began with his book Look Back in Anger.

SHOW PAGE

PERSONAL VOICES

It is not that Mr. Osborne is a better writer than T. S. Eliot, Graham Greene, or Terence Rattigan, all of whom were good enough to write the play that was written and before Mr. Osborne. It is that he has done at a step that is clearly that these three men.

and speak for themselves and their work is based on the fact that it is a more original and more powerful in its own right. It is a more original and more powerful in its own right. It is a more original and more powerful in its own right.

FINAL EXIT

PLEA FOR MORE DEVELOPMENT UP-COUNTRY

JUDGING FROM THE amount of development going on around Nairobi, and the fact that most representatives on various boards and committees come from the city, there seemed to be justification for the suggestion that "Mombasa in Kenya" Members of Kenya Chamber of Agriculture, during a session at the Molo farm, Molo, on Saturday, July 18, 1953, urged that more attention should be given to the development of the up-country areas.

PEOPLE in the EAST AMERICAN AUTHOR TAKES HOLIDAY IN EAST AFRICA

It is refreshing to meet an author who, after a short visit to Kenya, does not intend to write a book about it. He is the Pulitzer prize-winning John P. Marquand, who is at present on holiday in East Africa. When asked if he was collecting material for a new book, he replied: "You can write about a place only after you have lived in it and become a part of it."

Yet with his gift for character drawing he is probably more likely than most modern authors to do justice to a Kenya theme.

His first novel, The Unpleasant Gentleman, appeared in 1922 and in the next 20 years he published more than 120 short stories and novels. During this period he created his most popular character—Mr. Morrell.

The Late George Apley, which appeared in 1937 and won a Pulitzer prize, firmly established Mr. Marquand in the front rank of modern American novelists.

He has just completed a new book, a biography with the somewhat title of Lawrence Sanders and is now working on Mr. Morrell.

On his East African holiday Mr. Marquand will have a chance to write about Kenya, which he has worked on for some years.

Mr. Marquand was born in the U.S.A. and now lives in London, New Carolina.

Family portraits on loan

IN an age when mostly family collections of paintings have been broken up and sold to galleries or American collectors, one would expect to find young country like Kenya to have few examples of 'Old Masters'.

However, the organizers of the Grand Mardis Gras festival, who are to be held in Nairobi next month, have arranged to loan a number of family portraits to the festival.

The portraits are to be exhibited in Nairobi next month. They are a collection of family portraits.

Stars desert films for political limelight

By PETER WALD

A SMARTLY dressed man of about 30 is walking briskly down the road. In his hand he carries a leather case similar to those commonly used by officers to carry their helmets. This good-looking young man's name is Dany— and no one suspects that he is a dangerous murderer carrying the head of his latest victim in the case. This is the opening scene of one of Hollywood's best-known thrillers produced shortly before the start of the Second World War. It was called "Night Must Fall" and Robert Montgomery played the part of Dany—the murderer. It was one of the best parts he ever had.

Then the Second World War broke out. Montgomery became an officer of command and with great distinction, serving in the Middle East. The war toward the character he had so ably embodied in "Night Must Fall" was over. He was now a sergeant-major in the Royal Air Force. But one day the war ended. Montgomery's

Viennese elegance revived

VIENNA, which used to rival Paris as the center of fashion for Central Europe and the Balkan states, has been displaying the latest fashions for the coming autumn and winter.

Leading fashion houses modify Paris fashion to suit the more modest tastes of Austrian women, who prefer plain elegance and simple beauty.

Twice a year they give a series of shows parades during which slim and elegant transparent shows off before a large and enthusiastic audience the "Vienna line," emphasizing the famous Vienna, chest and elegance.

The parades are held in the grand old halls of the Austrian Government, where white and gold walls provide an ideal backdrop.

BRILLIANT SHADES

Style was shown in a synthesis of colors which included mahogany, turquoise, lake green, midnight blue, coffee brown and brilliant white—they being preferred for soft-faded shades of cream, ivory and light white fabrics for late summer and autumn wearing.

The main vogue was the return to the best legs and waists.

Ornate, bold, and crisp were the styles which showed the soft side of the fashion. The new line of dress, which showed a wide range of colors and rich textures, was the feature of the show.

The fabrics were mainly of the finest quality, including silk, wool, and cotton. The designs were simple and elegant, with a focus on clean lines and subtle details.

MAN-MADE

The dress, which was shown at a recent Night Trade Fair, is modeled here by Shevach Lynch against the machinery of a large British nylon factory.

Another man-made fabric, Terrycloth, was used for two very elegant afternoon gowns. The fabric has been especially treated to give the dress and suit of same cloth.

Both in natural fibers and in man-made fibers, the trend is toward light, cool, and simple styles.

RIVAL CAREFREE WARDROBES

By MARGARET O'HARA

IF you are a woman who is a little bit of a perfectionist, you will find it difficult to choose a wardrobe. You want the best of everything, and you want it to last. You want a wardrobe that is simple, practical, and easy to wear. You want a wardrobe that is in fashion, but not too flashy. You want a wardrobe that is comfortable, and that makes you feel confident and beautiful.

These are the qualities that you should look for in a wardrobe. They are the qualities that make a wardrobe a "carefree" wardrobe. They are the qualities that make a wardrobe a wardrobe that you can rely on, and that you can be proud of.

There are many ways to achieve these qualities. You can choose a wardrobe that is made of high-quality materials, and that is well-made. You can choose a wardrobe that is simple and practical, and that is easy to wear. You can choose a wardrobe that is in fashion, but not too flashy. You can choose a wardrobe that is comfortable, and that makes you feel confident and beautiful.

SWORDSMEN MEET TO FIGHT EVERY WEEK

By Lesley Clay

FENCING is a sport little known in Great Britain. To discover something of the art, and the fascination of it, attended a display given in the gymnasium of the Duke of York's School, where each week a band of enthusiastic fencers do the foil, epee and sabre.

The club was started in 1910 and has since then been the centre of a very active fencing society. It is now open to all who wish to learn the art. The club is now in the process of being re-organised and will be ready to receive new members in the autumn.

Mr. Morgan has been in the forefront of the club's progress and has done much to make it what it is today.

KENYA NEEDS ACTIONS NOT WORDS

Evidence of intent to face Colony's problems urged

Two Members of Kenya Legislative Council have called for a meeting to discuss the way in which the Government should face the Colony's problems.

Mr. E. D. Hughes (Uasin Gishu) urged Nairobi farmers to make themselves heard about the evidence of apathy, fear and complacency, and those lacking in faith which he said would be a death knell to the Colony.

Mr. J. S. Alexander (Machakos West) told a meeting of the Kabete and Kiambu District Association that tangible evidence of Kenya's intention to tackle its problems was now needed, rather than any more words.

BETTER CONDITIONS

Any Constitution for Kenya would fall unless the needs of the people were always taken into account. There would be no improvement in their conditions, he continued, if the present political attitudes continued, the result of next year's Constitutional conference would be another failure.

GUIDE FOR EXPLORERS OF THE NIGHT SKY IN NEXT FEW WEEKS

WE continue our simple study of the heavens with another map, this one giving us a guide to the sky for the next six to eight weeks. The actual aspect of the stars which it shows will appear at 10 p.m. on July 22, 7 p.m. on August 5, and 8 p.m. on August 22. The rotation of the earth will, of course, be remembered, as was explained previously as the cause of the zodiac curved line (ZC) with its continued star appearing to approach the horizon and "set" by 10 p.m. on July 22 or 9 p.m. on August 5. Similarly, by allowing two hours for each subsequent curve to move to the skyline, it is easy to determine what stars will be showing or setting at any time throughout the night during this two-month period.

As you gaze upon this, the reader is not asked to see the stars in the sky, but to see the positions of the stars in the sky as they appear to the unaided eye at the time indicated in the caption. As you shall see, many of the stars are in the same position as they were in the sky at the same time last year.

CLOUDS contribute the usual article in this monthly series on the night sky. With the aid of the chart on the right, the reader should be able to identify the stars now on view.

predict the positions of these heavenly bodies, and their local magnitudes, but that is another story. The stars which we observe are those which are visible from our latitude. The stars which are visible from our latitude are those which are visible from our latitude. The stars which are visible from our latitude are those which are visible from our latitude.

BRIGHT BAND
The bright band of glowing nebulae will be readily recognized in the sky. It is a band of glowing nebulae which is visible from our latitude. It is a band of glowing nebulae which is visible from our latitude.

MARINE EXPLOSIONS
The stars which are visible from our latitude are those which are visible from our latitude. The stars which are visible from our latitude are those which are visible from our latitude.

CHECKING METHOD
Which brings us to the method of checking the stars. The stars which are visible from our latitude are those which are visible from our latitude.

'Astronomical figures'—really apt definition

As we look at the star chart, we are struck by the fact that the stars are in the same positions as they were in the sky at the same time last year. This is because the stars are so far away that their motion is negligible. The stars which are visible from our latitude are those which are visible from our latitude.

CHECKING METHOD
Which brings us to the method of checking the stars. The stars which are visible from our latitude are those which are visible from our latitude.

M.P.s told of 'revolutionary development' in Africa INQUIRY INTO KENYA TELEVISION

Commission of five to give advice

KENYA was giving urgent consideration to the prospect of television in the Colony and a commission was to be set up to investigate the starting of a television service.

Announcing this in the House of Commons, the Colonial Under-Secretary, Mr. Amery, said three members of the commission would be from Kenya and two, including the chairman, from outside the Colony.

The introduction of television would be "a revolutionary development" if it proved, there was no television in Africa south of the Sahara. The Kenya Government was wise to arm itself with the best advice it could get before deciding on the method, structure and organisation of its own service.

Problems to overcome

Mr. Amery, who was replying to an adjournment debate, said television could be a powerful medium not only for entertainment but for education. There were, however, difficulties to overcome. A television service in Kenya would not have Kenya-wide coverage and television sets were very expensive in terms of Africans' incomes.

Colonial Governments had been advised that in some exceptional circumstances might make necessary for their television service to be commercially. British programme companies had been encouraged to take an interest in the development of television in colonial territories.

At present, the Government was not prepared to set up an independent organisation set up with a view to providing a television service in Kenya. It was necessary to have some commercial organisation to provide the programme material and to finance the transmission of the programme.

A Kenya television service would have to be financed by the Government. There would be no commercial television in Kenya. The Government would have to provide the programme material and to finance the transmission of the programme.

The Government would have to provide the programme material and to finance the transmission of the programme.

THIS IS KENYA... The following white clouds of day are hidden; gone are the layers of burning gold and red that marked the setting sun. Now moonlight points the skies, the hills and the sea with magic. At Malindi, where this photograph was taken, the palm trees sigh in the cooler breeze, seriously, in the silent night.

PARTY IN UGANDA BANNED

Similar aims to predecessors

UGANDA'S first Congress Council has declared the Uganda Freedom Convention to be an unlawful society. It now falls in the same category as the proscribed Uganda National Movement and the Uganda Freedom Federation.

The declaration makes it an offence for any person to assist in the management of any of these organisations or to remain a member of them or to attend a meeting of any of these organisations or to assist in the management of any of these organisations or to remain a member of them or to attend a meeting of any of these organisations.

SELF-HELP IDEA TAKES HOLD IN NYANZA

Groups work to improve crop yields

ENCOURAGING reports of the growth of self-help movements are being received from the Nyanza Province, a Government statement announces. The statement says this form of movement has until recently been slow to develop.

In Central Nyanza alone, there are a total of 200 self-help groups, and the Government is prepared to supply small amounts of a marked increase in the yields of crops in Nyanza. It is noted that there has been an even more remarkable development, the statement says. In one location, population of about 30,000 people, as many as 150 groups have been formed, and they work in a co-operative manner. Last year farmers in this area were twice able to produce more than their usual crops, and this year they have exceeded that of last year.

A REMOTE CORNER OF AFRICA THE CENTURIES HAVE NOT CHANGED

By Errol Whittall

"Ex Africa semper aliquid novi," said the Roman proverb, and thus has it remained true which lies at the point where the Nera Land Unit meets the Northern Frontier Province of Kenya.

Always something new, if you know where to look for it, and to a mind which is attuned to Africa there is as much excitement in discovering an extension of a bird's habitat or the unexpected flower in a new environment as may be felt by the traveller in a new land.

We who know the African scene may look with accustomed eyes at the great mountains and the plains.

We feel the same awe, the same nostalgia in cities, but we look beyond and through with a mind which seeks out the minutiae with which to enrich an experience.

The scene in the Nera lands here and is gone there as we halt and wait and breathe the mists of the air which in Africa always seems with peculiar aptness.

The morning mist is forever present in a remote area and one can still benefit from the atmosphere of this land.

FASHION FORECAST

Flared for youth and dancing feet

FROM PARIS

By PEGGY MASSIN

THE "Normal Silhouette", with its emphasis on classic simplicity, will continue into the coming winter, if French ready-to-wear collectors are an indication of future trends.

While there is always the danger that the basic creative designers' reluctance to be changed will keep the fashion show people from really changing the fashion show people's minds, it is in the ready-to-wear collections in Paris to watch for the most radical changes. This will be published and interpreted.

NATURAL LOOK

All experiments in manner of dress seem to be gradually returning to the simple, clean, and unadorned lines, and this trend will continue through the winter.

There are many and various styles of hats, but the most popular are the simple, clean, and unadorned lines, and this trend will continue through the winter.

Farmer Hans demands new trousers and ends the rain

By ROBINA WRIGHT

THE Weather Witch threw a tantrum on the first and put her feet up comfortably on a stool. "I can rest at last," she said to herself. "The rain is coming down well, the winds are blowing about the world, and there's to be no change in the weather until the day after tomorrow."

The rain was coming down well and Farmer Hans the Dutchman was working hard. First he was struggling with his friends to mend the river bank, then he was making some flannel bags to drive the weeds to a safer place. He was cold and wet and his baggy blue trousers were badly torn.

"We shall lose everything in the bank," said his friends. "If this weather goes on, you'll be ruined." "But my trousers! My trousers! They are so old and so torn. I must have a new pair. I must have a new pair."

Children's Corner

"What do you think of it?" said the other farmers. "We want the best trousers for our boys." "The Weather Witch is so wicked," said the boys. "She is so wicked that she will ruin us if we do not get new trousers."

"What is so bad about it?" said the other farmers. "We want the best trousers for our boys." "The Weather Witch is so wicked," said the boys. "She is so wicked that she will ruin us if we do not get new trousers."

First step in the wine taster's task is to pour a sample from the bottle into a special glass (above left). It will be noticed that at this stage the bottle does not bear a label. The glass (above right) is used to test the wine for the amount in the wine (above right) valuable information on the matter. A pungent smell denotes maturity.

How to estimate the quantities required are in the generous side, but these the table has been proved. In practice it may be wise to start with a small quantity. It will be noticed that one does not do the minimum amount, since it is better to desert at the last minute than to waste wine by decanting too early.

AVERAGE GUIDE

It is always difficult to know how long to decant wine before it is to be drunk. Different authorities have different views, but the average guide for the various types of wine is as follows: 10-15 minutes for red wine, 10-15 minutes for white wine, and 10-15 minutes for sparkling wine.

BASIC PRINCIPLES
 Sherry: 12 glasses per bottle. White Wine: 7 glasses per bottle. Claret or Burgundy: 5 glasses per bottle. Port: 3 glasses per bottle. Sherry requires no decanting, but in hot weather it can be cooled. White wine is always served from its own bottle — it only needs a little time to 'breathe' — after cooling. In this case, open it immediately after the sherry has been decanted.

For the host or hostess who is planning a dinner party at home the following will serve as a useful guide. The amount of wine to be served should be selected first, and then the amount of food to be served on both sides. Let us assume, however, that the host has been decided upon first. The host should be well advised to consult his wine merchant for the choice of wine, but full details of the food and the method of

HINTS ON TASTING

THE expert when tasting uses first his eyes, then his nose and lastly his palate. The colour should tell you a great deal, if bright and clear it is in good condition and has been well stored and bottled. The darker a red wine, the stronger it is and the more the darker, more mature. A white wine, the color is a pale yellow, it is best taken on a terrace. There is a lot of old wine and a lot of new wine.

COOK TROUBLE

The 'nose' should tell you much about the wine's health. It will also warn you of advances about the wine unfortunately, but it is not always a 'warning' or 'warning'. For instance, you should not drink a glass of a burgundy with a 'flavour' or 'aroma' or 'taste' or 'character' or 'nature' should you try to combine your wine with a strong. Sauterise as an accompaniment to a 'Chateaubriand'. If you do not believe this, just try it. In your own 'taste book' will give you the answer.

NOT ENOUGH REINVESTMENT IN TOURISM

Mr. L. R. M. Welwood may fight seat at election

East Africa lagging in efforts to attract visitors from U.S.

To benefit from the transoceanic tourists potential in the United States, the East African Governments should reinvest at least one per cent of their annual income from tourism in the industry.

This advice was given in Nairobi yesterday by Mr. Desmond Stattery, New York representative of the East African Tourist Travel Association, who is on a tour to East Africa.

At present, Kenya puts back into tourism about 4 per cent of the tourist income of about £7,500,000 a year.

Mr. Stattery, who has been "selling" East Africa as a tourist paradise to North Americans for the past ten years, said that after travelling extensively in other parts of the world, no country he had visited had so much to offer the tourist as East Africa.

HIGH STANDARD HOTELS

What was needed, however, was far more money which could be spent on publicizing East Africa's attractions on the North American continent.

Mr. Stattery said he felt that at the present the American tourist potential had hardly been tapped and this was because of lack of funds to publicize the area adequately. He said he had not been to Kenya long enough to know whether there was a shortage of suitable hotel accommodation in the Colony.

From his experience, he thought that hotel accommodation was of a high standard—higher than he had expected. He suggested that, if there was a shortage of hotels the solution might be to build modern hotels on the American pattern, on the edge of national parks.

EVASDED TAX Butcher fined £1,000 and jailed

"Blooded" taxpayer
A George Frederick, butcher of 1565 Victoria Road, was fined £1,000 and jailed for 12 months for evading a profit of £212 whereas the true profit was £2,102.

He was fined £300 for evading income tax for 1952 and £1,000 for evading income tax for 1953. He was also fined £1,000 for evading income tax for 1954. He was also fined £1,000 for evading income tax for 1955.

In the next General Election, the chairman of the Kenya Road Authority, Mr. L. R. M. Welwood, may stand for election to the Legislative Council as Member for Uasin Gishu.

It is said probably meaning that the present Government will be replaced by Mr. Welwood's Government.

HENRY HALL TO STAR IN OWN STORY

HENRY HALL, who has presented so many stars to the public in his famous B.B.C. "Guest Night" shows, will be the star of the evening himself when "The Henry Hall Story" is broadcast in the B.B.C. General Overseas Service in the east of a series of radio biographies.

It will be a fitting conclusion for Henry Hall has been one of the most popular figures in the dance-band world ever since he gave his first broadcast just over 35 years ago, from the old London "Mildred and Scottish Railway" "show-pieces" hotel, Greenwich.

The years have brought silver hair to Henry, as well as fame and popularity, but his shy effervescence and his solid knowledge of his profession have not changed.

One of those who have known him almost from the start of his career is the composer and musical journalist, Spike Hughes, and in his progress he will give the framework of Henry Hall's story, who will be heard talking in the studio with Victor Cohen, the kitchen concert pianist; Cyril Dawkins, the "Show Band" one of the first members of Henry Hall's original B.B.C. Dance Band; Elsie and Doris Wilton; Gordon and his daughter-in-law, Milla Hall and Anne Rogers, and naturally, Henry Hall himself.
