Kenya United Party states policy

ANOTHER poll into the political party scene yesterday.

Called the United Party in its constitution, the Progressive League Party and the Kenya United Party.

It is expected that the party will be led by Mr. J. K. Nyamwaya, who is a member of the Kenya United Party.

The United Party is the only party to have a clear-cut policy on the issue of independence.

It is not possible for the party to have a policy on the issue of independence without the backing of an organization and without funds.

Election needed

A covering note to the new party was published in the party's first issue that it intended to contest in elections in 1962.

It is not possible for the party to have a policy on the issue of independence without the backing of an organization and without funds.

Rhinos, lions and cheetahs becoming rare COLLECTOR OF TANGANYIKA GAME

Need for more rigorous protection

Standard Correspondent Dar es Salaam.

GAME is decreasing almost everywhere in Tanganyika except in reserves and controlled areas, according to the annual report of the Game Department.

Cheetahs are now 'very rare', despite immunity from hunting since 1955, and may become extinct in the next ten years. The status of rhinos and lions also 'gives cause for concern'.

The Game Warden, Mr. G. H. Swinerton, reports that even in the Serengeti National Park, which is normally seen unharmed for 30 years, it is now rarely seen. One cheetah in the National Park's staff saw only seven cheetahs in four months.

Hunting ban imposed

Rhinos were also decreasing and would need more rigorous protection if they were to survive. Of these, the rhino was least capable of adapting itself to intensive hunting as it lacks sheltering habits.

The lion was a popular target for sportsmen and extremely vulnerable to the common method of hunting by beating. As a result lions have been becoming progressively less common and more in need of protection in hunting areas. Field surveys are being carried out into the status of each of these rare species by the Game Department.

KENYA'S UNITED PARTY SEEKS GRADUAL ADVANCE

ULTIMATE control of Kenya must remain in the hands of the Government for a considerable period, the new United Party says in its statement of policy.

Thereafter control must be in the hands of responsible people, if the rights and heritage of the different races are to be protected.

It was "hanging" to see that the dominant power could be placed in the hands of an African majority, states the leading African to expect such power without winning through a long process of political evolution and advance government as represented by the United Party as a condition to cause available betterment.

The party accepts that opportunities must be made available to all races to participate in the governing of the country.

Council's role
The diversity of peoples made it necessary to have a Council whereby they were allowed to develop along the lines they chose and were not all forced to be achieved by the development and extension of the role of the local government.

Block grant
The party suggests that it be to finance local government and that a block grant be made on an agreed formula.

Volting superfluous
The first essential was to ensure that no group or category of groups would be able to dominate the country.

Freedom of action
The present form of the Legislative Council was superfluous because the Government could do the same thing in their own right.

Wider markets
If pledge on land, whether made to Europeans or Africans, were broken confidence could never be restored.

to about some system to give wide social government for the far future, possibly requiring it to be possible to alter the system as circumstances change.

The need for local control did not mean that expected by the Government, it had said. It was in the process of developing power from central to local government, while taking great care to retain financial control in its own hands.

While not opposed to the principle that wealthier areas should bear more of the cost of services in different parts of the country, the party considered that the Government, if it probably would be able to show that the funds wanted in paying for the maintenance of a service of the population.

Social diversity
Cultural integration as a primary objective of social development was stressed and would have to be done so.

Local government
The party suggested that it be to finance local government and that a block grant be made on an agreed formula.

Wider markets
If pledge on land, whether made to Europeans or Africans, were broken confidence could never be restored.

and far deeper ahead. The political changes envisaged would be the result of a process of a perpetual economic development.

Public health
The Ministry of Education should remain its principal function, but that of an advisory institution.

Ignorance barrier
The failure of race relations in the Colony would depend very largely on education services. It was important that certain sections of the population had little or no access to the kind of education which would be necessary to provide inter-racial understanding.

PRINCESS, NINE TOMORROW, ADDS POISE TO IMPISH CHARM

By Duncan Naish

NINE years ago tomorrow, workers in the heart of the City of London swarmed to read a notice posted outside the historic Mansion House, official residence of the Lord Mayor.

A Court Circular had been issued giving the news that at 11.50 that morning "Her Royal Highness the Princess Elizabeth of Edinburgh"—as she then was—had been "suddenly delivered of a Princess at Clarence House" (at that time occupied by Prince Philip and his young wife, and now the London home of the Queen Mother and Princess Margaret).

Outside Clarence House on that day "crowds" became so dense that squads of extra police had to be sent for while lanes through the excited throng had to be treated for Post Office messenger boys who had arrived with batches of congratulatory telegrams and cables from all parts of Britain and from countries overseas.

The little Princess was christened in the white and gold Music Room of Buckingham Palace in the presence of

for the young women of today, and what she did for teenagers a few years ago, Princess Anne has done for the very young girls of today. At least, nearly a whole dress is concerned, and she is the only daughter in the above approval by Royalty.

LEADS FASHION

In fact, Princess Anne appears to have been a leader in juvenile fashion for a long time. There was a Vogue for a miniature version of the "beehive" which she first wore in her case, was edged with fair-haired four-year-olds with their under the direction of their mothers, included.

Her hats and coats, too, have invariably "caught on". Coats of delectable hue, as worn by Princess Anne, were the vogue for the young in smart circles in Britain last winter—deep reds and blues. So were the kind of hats chosen for hat small, round-shaped, brimless, often trimmed with bow or piping, and worn well back from the forehead.

REAL INTEREST

For informal leisure-wear and playing the trend has been towards courtly trousers as favoured by the Queen for her daughter.

Princess Anne, like most of her age, is completely unselfish in her interest in dressing. She is not interested in her own looks, and she is not interested in the looks of others. She is interested in the looks of the people who are interested in her.

PRINCESS ANNE WILL BE AN IMPROVER.
This article describes how her character is developing—without any loss of her childlike charm.

FOUR NAMES

She was given the names of Anne Elizabeth Alice Lydia. For those interested in the origin of names, Anne was the much-favoured son in the time, meaning "gracious". Elizabeth is derived from the Hebrew, meaning "wealthier of God". Alice, from the Old Saxon tongue, means "noblesse". Lydia, from the Greek, means "purple".

Now people are averse of Princess Anne that she is her Aunt Margaret—in one of the "resembling" royal names. It is a coincidence, however, that she is named after the Queen's daughter.

Welsh subjects wait to greet Prince

THE formal presentation of the Prince of Wales to the Welsh people at Carnarvon Castle is expected to take place when the Prince is 18. He is now ten.

The title of Prince of Wales was originally conferred by Edward I on his son, and subsequently the main allegiance to the English throne was almost invariably owed to the Prince of Wales. The title was then bestowed on Edward but their separate Kingdom of Great Britain.

PEOPLE in the KENYA'S REPLY TO CHRISTINE TRUMAN

FOUR of Britain's outstanding young women tennis players, Miss Christine Truman, Miss Ann Haydon, Miss Angela Meadmore and Mrs. Shirley Brasher, have gone to the U.S. to defend the Wimbledon Cup, and it is believed they have a good chance of achieving the first British victory of American soil since 1924.

Miss Adams was the Kenya junior champion in March and went on to become a finalist.

Miss Wendy Barnes is the number one player, defeating two seeded players, Mrs. Barnes and Miss K. Serje.

Miss Adams' family is headed by her father, Mr. A. Adams, who is a well-known tennis player.

Occupational hazard for explorers LOST IN THE UNKNOWN...

ONE of the occupational hazards of being an explorer is that you might get lost. To most of us this is a sufficient deterrent in itself but to the intrepid adventurer it is not a consideration to which any great weight is attached.

Never to return Of course, if you do go exploring and get lost, you may enjoy the Sublime Snow which afflicts in such cases. Though it may be comfort to the explorer and he may achieve fame of a sort which does little to help his pocket.

GREAT ENGLISH CRICKETERS OF THE PAST 30 YEARS

IAN PEEBLES, the former Middlesex and England player, writes of a bright period in English cricket in the third of his articles in this series.

PROBABLY every cricketer regards his own age as the 'thirties' certainly do. It was an extremely attractive time in the cricket world, and one of the financial disasters of 1929 and the first years of the 'thirties' had very little impact on the young cricketer, whose normal state was rather apt to be of variety to the average. There were smarmers to give a bit of variety to the scene. There were the five post-First-World-War school was in full bloom.

In 1930 Australia had succeeded one of the most powerful batting sides in her cricket history and the Indian quality. He did what was expected without fuss or feign. In 1928 he was a struggling bowler, but in 1930 he had become a great one. It was a wonderful thing to see a bowler do what he was expected to do. It was a wonderful thing to see a bowler do what he was expected to do. It was a wonderful thing to see a bowler do what he was expected to do.

ZEST FOR LIFE

It was my good luck to play with and against 'the Master' a number of times, and I once even got him out on the only occasion I missed his ball. It was the very young players regarded him with awe, but was on account of his position; his batting was as brilliant as his bowling. He was a thoughtful and kind enough to give at least one young bowler a special word of encouragement or a word of advice.

MOIST PICTUREQUE

In the same year, Wilfred Rhodes retired from county cricket and he was broken one of the longest links in the game. It was in 1929 that I met him at the club of the time. He was a man of secondary league, but he had established a position and reputation unchallenged in the minds of those who saw and played with him.

DOMINATING QUALITY

There may have been more spectacular players and more colorful characters, but I never saw another batsman so quick to get into the groove every type of bowling and on every type of pitch. In 1929, when he was in his prime, he was a dominant force in the game. He was a dominant force in the game. He was a dominant force in the game.

FEATURING SPORT

With England stayed to and from with neither side establishing any lasting supremacy. In the greatest circumstances the four must, for reasons of space be on the leading seven, which in itself is a very large score and the merest of judgment continued to fairly brief glimpse.

The first year of the 'thirties' saw the retirement of Jack Hobbs from Test-match cricket when, as in every other sphere of the game, he had established a position and reputation unchallenged in the minds of those who saw and played with him.

There may have been more spectacular players and more colorful characters, but I never saw another batsman so quick to get into the groove every type of bowling and on every type of pitch. In 1929, when he was in his prime, he was a dominant force in the game. He was a dominant force in the game. He was a dominant force in the game.

A golden epoch of picturesque characters

Cricket. Taylor recalled that once at Lancaster, when it seemed that the time had been heavy the great man's hands, he said to me: 'I have loved the suggestions as to what sort of a bowler he should be. I would like to see him bowl. He was a good bowler. He was a good bowler. He was a good bowler.' He was a good bowler. He was a good bowler. He was a good bowler.

GOLDEN TOUCH

The 'twenties, after much toil and travail, had produced a splendid school of both batsmen and bowlers, who were either in their prime or all still going strong. Perhaps the eyes of the 'thirties' saw this breed of power and experience at its best under Percy Chapman in Australia, when it overhauled a home side in a somewhat uncertain and transitional state. Chapman may not have been the greatest of England's captains, judged as a tactician or player, but he was certainly the most popular. His eye caught the public imagination of his day. He was a great captain. He was a great captain. He was a great captain.

Road safety chief urges courses for schoolchildren

7200 accidents in Kenya in 1952 caused the deaths of 350 people and injured 4,500. The total casualty list (3,135) was 300 more than in 1951 and there were 10 more fatalities.

Of those killed, 106 were passengers in vehicles, 50 pedestrians, 46 pedal-cyclists, 27 drivers and 15 on foot.

Of those injured, 1,163 were pedestrians, 1,053 were on foot, 463 were passengers in vehicles, 106 were drivers and 15 were on foot.

The president of the Road Safety Society of Kenya, Mr. J. A. King, yesterday expressed concern and disappointment at the increased road toll.

He said that while it was gratifying to see that the number of accidents had decreased by 468, to 7,256, the rise in the number of deaths and injured undermined the progress made for more road safety schemes and measures, including accident-prevention education for children.

ROAD SENSE TRAINING

Pointing out that in 3,621 cases Africans had been responsible for accidents, Mr. King said he felt the society must make every effort to provide road safety courses in African schools. Responsibility for 2,006 accidents caused with Africans and another 1,600 with Europeans.

Of pedal-cyclists, 658 of whom were primarily responsible for accidents (116 more than last year), 440 were drivers of tomorrow and only 218 were on foot.

While he could not precisely account for the higher casualty rate in view of the fewer accidents, Mr. King said that the fact that more accidents were reported than in 1951 but that there was a decrease in the number of non-injured capital cases was a gratifying result.

The Insurance Department's figures for 1952 showed that more people arrived at their own homes last year than in 1951 but that there was a decrease in the number of non-injured capital cases was a gratifying result.

what makes a specialised service cheaper
Auto electrical service sounds an expensive operation. Oddly enough, it needn't be. It applies particularly to Lucas and CAY equipment. The former as you probably know, is the electrical equipment which is fitted to every British car. The latter is its commercial vehicle counterpart.
Diagnosis and repair of electrical faults can stump many of the technically minded and even cause much head scratching to the average mechanic. K.R. & T. Auto electrical service is operated by technicians expressly trained for this work, aided by modern precision test machinery.
It is a pleasure to use K.R. & T. Auto electrical service because fault-diagnosis is more rapid and more quickly, accurately corrected.

Big cut in coal production target

JOB'S SHOCK TO U.K. MINERS

Board plans to close 200 pits by 1965

SOME 60,000 British miners may lose their jobs or be transferred to other employment in the coal industry as a result of plans for reorganization announced by the National Coal Board.

Between 205 and 240 mines will close during the next five years, out of 783 pits now in operation. The board stressed that it was essential to raise productivity to meet competition from other fields.

The announcement, which is expected to have considerable political repercussions with a General Election in the offing, followed a meeting of the Coal Industry Consultative Council at which the National Coal Board's plans were discussed.

Estimated demand down

A spokesman said the revised plan for the industry was based on an estimate of demand in 1965 of between 30,000,000 and 35,000,000 tons. Total output this year would be about 45,000,000 tons, so in that sense there would be no contraction.

There was, however, contraction of the original target of 50,000,000 tons which would mean a reduction in the number of pits and the number of men working in them. It was estimated that the present manpower figure of 680,000 would drop to about 600,000 by 1965. Most of the men displaced would, it was expected, be found alternative jobs in the industry.

The spokesman stressed that the plan was not to close 200 pits, but to close 200 pits by 1965. The plan was to close 200 pits by 1965.

NO LANDING RIGHTS

As one whose fate is to travel the world by air, I am sure that I shall be able to earn a living and travel British whenever, in any part of the world, I may wish to come to the mind of one not conversant with all the details of the various international treaties covering allocations of landing rights.

G. DE ANDRE,

With reference to the publicity which you have already given to the appointment of the Committee to examine the organization of agriculture, I should be grateful if I might remind all non-statutory boards and all associations, organizations, groups of persons and individuals interested in submitting written evidence on any matter within the terms of reference of the Committee, to do so by Aug. 30 or, if that is quite impracticable, by Sept. 15, 1932, at the latest.

The members and terms of reference of the Committee were published in Gazette Notice No. 2115, and an announcement in the East African Standard regarding the submission of evidence was published in Notice No. 2116. Copies of these notices can be supplied on request, but, before the terms of reference are to be accepted, it is necessary to ascertain whether existing agricultural statutory boards and committees are effectively serving the purposes for which they were established, and whether other organizations fulfilling the functions, whether improvements could be made, and whether the present rates of expenditure of public funds are justified.

The Committee will also examine the system adopted by the Ministry in connection with the various agricultural products, and the various interests each year regarding the fixing of rates of agricultural crops.

It may also be of interest to note that since the publication of the Committee's terms of reference, the Minister for Agriculture has specified that the operations of the African Agricultural Marketing Organisation, the Central African Horticultural Products Marketing Commission and the Agricultural Marketing Board, shall be examined by the Committee in addition to the major task of examining the various agricultural statutory boards.

Memoranda should be typed where possible and, together with four spare copies, addressed to Mr. W. R. London, Ministry of Agriculture, P.O. Box 2020, Nairobi. The word "Committee" should be written on the front of the envelope.

W. R. LONDON,
Secretary to the Committee, Nairobi, Kenya.

RECENTLY you published a picture of a new road sign at Limuru. After the British Colonial Conference, I am most indignant that you should show two "badly" painted signs.

Especially as this is on a main road, it is a disgrace that you should not have had the signs made by the British Road Sign Co. Ltd., which is the only firm in the world that makes road signs.

One child in five likely to die in first year

"Standard" Correspondent, Kampala.

In some parts of Uganda it was highly likely that a fifth of the children born would not reach their first birthday.

This was told by the first secretary of the Society for Children Fund (operated by the Uganda government) at a health conference at Mombasa last week.

The country's child mortality and welfare programme will be more important, he said, for the Uganda population is the youngest in the world and the young are very vulnerable to disease.

Some of the factors mentioned were lack of knowledge and ignorance of the mother.

Four-point plan

One way to improve the health of the young is to ensure that the mother has the necessary knowledge and skills to ensure the child's health, the first secretary said.

The four-point plan is: (1) to ensure that the mother has the necessary knowledge and skills to ensure the child's health; (2) to ensure that the mother has the necessary knowledge and skills to ensure the child's health; (3) to ensure that the mother has the necessary knowledge and skills to ensure the child's health; (4) to ensure that the mother has the necessary knowledge and skills to ensure the child's health.

Members to lead deputation on roads in Kericho

TWO Members of Kenya Legislative Council Mr. A. Shauri (Nyanza Province) and Mr. Taitu Towner (Southern Area), are to lead a deputation from Kericho (District Council) to the Minister for Local Government, Health and Town Planning, Mr. Havikanda, and the Minister for Education, Labour and Lands, Mr. Madhokari, to explain problems which are hindering development in Kericho.

TITLE LAND SURVEY ECONOMY IN KENYA

Kenya's Survey Department had evolved an economical method and a general line of approach to answer the problem of African land survey for the issue of individual title. This was said by the Superintendent of Surveys, Survey Officer, Mr. F. H. Robinson, at a Commonwealth survey officers' conference in Cambridge, where he presented a paper on the subject. He added that the Kenya system was flexible enough to be applied with modification throughout the Colony. The Director of Land and Survey, Mr. A. P. M. Smith, presented a paper entitled "Title Land Survey in Africa" and described the survey work being undertaken to meet the needs of the land register.

Supernatural at first
He explained that Africans, who had at first "wanted to be surprised" at the East African Royal Commission's recommendations for the introduction of legal title to land occupied under customary tenure, were now "rapidly learning to appreciate the value of land ownership with legal title."
Because of this "radical change of attitude," he added, "where it had previously been sufficient to claim in terms of national law the right to land, it is now necessary to stipulate precise rights competing thereby millions of acres with small peasant-type holdings predominantly."

COMMISSIONER AT COAST
The Commissioner of Fisheries, Mr. E. E. Robinson, presided yesterday at the 11th day celebration at the Tusker Club, Nairobi, which is being held to celebrate the birthday of the late Sir Robert Buxton.

PLEA FOR COMMON ROLL Policy stated by Kenya Party

CONTINUANCE of racial discrimination can only exacerbate racial feelings and the next and subsequent elections must be on the basis of some form of common roll, the Kenya Party says in a statement issued yesterday.

The new one of two basic factors that had to be borne in mind in the development of constitutional proposals, the statement said, was that there would be no political stability until the vast African population had a majority in the voting strength of the country.

The party welcomes the formation of inter-racial political parties in Kenya and has already stated its support for the creation of such parties in the selection of candidates for office.

Political wing
If believed the working out of a constitution for Kenya for the future will only come from the union of all moderate and liberal-minded people.

The statement is signed by Mr. S. T. Thakur, the chairman of the Kenya Party, and Mr. S. T. Thakur, the chairman of the Kenyan African Party.

"The party does not support candidates for office who are not always believed that the interests of individuals of all races who are in the working partnership with one another so that each may make his contribution."

Broader outlook
The rights of individuals, and the interests of the whole real political progress will be the result of a democratic attainment of a democratic constitution.

"Nationalist and racialist ideas are not sound. The narrow beliefs have caused the world to be a poorer place, and all thinking people should be free to look for a broader outlook to questions of race and nationality in both Kenya and in the world as a whole."

60 YEARS WITH GOVERNMENT

Mr. Hovest Manning, who has been in the Government since 1901 and spent 60 years in the service of the Government, was honored at a dinner in Nairobi.

He had been employed for 60 years in the Government, and had held various positions, including Secretary of the Kenya Association of Chiefs, and Secretary of the Kenya Association of Chiefs.

He was honored at a dinner in Nairobi, which was attended by the Governor, the Chief Justice, and other members of the Government.

WOMAN DRIVER WHO PREFERS RALLIES

When the French champion racing driver, Jean Behra, was killed two weeks ago, his pupil, Signorina Maria Verina de Filippo, the only woman racing motorist who has taken part in Formula 1 races, announced that she intended to give up racing. Signorina de Filippo, who is 36, was to have competed in the British Sports Car Grand Prix at Avon, driving the Porsche sports car in which Behra was killed.

Although Kenya has yet to see Formula 1 racing, we have a number of women who contract to be professional drivers.

There is Mrs. Mary Wright, who has driven regularly at Heston since 1954. She has a small but she was supporting her husband's business, but her husband died last year. She has since taken up driving and she has driven for the first time at the last Victoria Road race, on August 10, when Mrs. A. Heather-Hayes and Mrs. Lucille Crawford.

Mrs. Crawford drove a Rover, the other's favour Austin-Healey.

Mrs. Crawford, who has been racing for five years, has driven for five years, but she has not driven for the last two years, as she has been unable to find time to do so.

The perfect pilot and the best driver in the world, she has driven for three years, but she has not driven for the last two years, as she has been unable to find time to do so.

More than 200 dances will be taking part in the Scottish Country Dance Festival to be held at the City Hall, on September 13. It is one of the most popular of the Scottish dancing events in Kenya.

Indeed, the headquarters of the Royal Scottish Country Dance Society in Edinburgh has announced that it will be sending Mrs. Margaret Matheson, who arrived in Nairobi last week, to take part in the festival.

First, however, she will hold a teachers' certificate. This is the first time that a dance teacher has taken the exception to the rule that only those with the exception of Mrs. Jean Matheson, founder of the Scottish dance in Kenya.

Now, however, the work that Mrs. Matheson will be doing is to act as a go-between between the White Paper Office and the various departments of the Government.

Chaggaland to Cote d'Azur for armchair travellers

THIS selection of what may be loosely called travel books begins almost on our doorstep, that is to say, at Mombasa. She Lovers on Kilimanjaro is the work of a Swedish photographer, Anna Ritwik-Heick, with text by Astrid Lindgren.

Another book, one which runs through very distant regions, but in which the beauty of the scenery is fresh and vivid, is Kenya Land's The Changing Sky. Mr. Lewis is an old hand at that sort of thing and already has several brilliant works to his credit.

The book, however, is a collection of short pieces, ranging from Malacca, the West Indies and America to Goa and Burma. It has a preface by the author, Mr. Lewis, who is a well-known travel writer.

18 years since the principle of the United Nations was embodied in an Act by the Atlantic Charter of August 14, 1941. The United Nations Declaration of 1941 was followed by the 26 States. Since that time much has happened in the international scene.

PERPETUAL MOTION

By ALEX BANNISTER

THE swift and sure hands of Godfrey Evans recently seized upon their 1,000th wicket in first-class cricket. They have also taken part in 91 Test matches, a record for all-comers. It would be poor recognition, however, of the Kent and England wicketkeeper to accept him only for the records he has achieved.

For Evans is one of the most remarkable cricketers of this or any other generation. This is not just my opinion, based upon seeing Evans in action in all parts of the world. It is the opinion of cricketers who have played with and against him in international cricket. The game has never known him.

From 18 in an over at Headingley, to 100 in a Test match at Lord's, Evans has shown in his 11 years of international cricket that he is a batsman of the highest quality. He has scored 1,000 runs in 11 years of international cricket. He has scored 1,000 runs in 11 years of international cricket. He has scored 1,000 runs in 11 years of international cricket.

TEST START Hundred up at tea

INDIA made a moderate start in the fifth and final Test match which began against England at The Oval yesterday and by the tea interval had reached exactly three figures for the loss of seven wickets. But there was nothing about their batting to give hope that the result, against a first-class England can turn out, would be different.

Their run down to 100 was a series, won the loss to gain first-class status. Under the leadership of P. V. Narasimha Reddy, who introduced a more aggressive Test match.

Greenough comes into play

England were unable to try out David Allen, the Gloucestershire opener, by the tea interval with an injured hand, but he will play for Greenough, the Lancashire wicket-keeper.

In spite of the splendid run for letting the Indian opposition, Ray and Contractor were dismissed before the tea interval. In that time Scotland bowled four wickets. All five from the same bowler.

England's run had been seen in 20 minutes when they were 100 for two. They were 100 for two when they were 100 for two. They were 100 for two when they were 100 for two.

Triumphal welcome for Eisenhower in Bonn

Leaders talk all day on Nato affairs

UNITY among the Western allies was strong during a break in his private talks with yesterday German Chancellor, Dr. Adenauer, in Bonn.

The President declined to go into details of his conversation with the Chancellor, beyond saying that Nato problems and France had been discussed, but said that because of the importance of their talks he intended to delay his departure for Britain until the last minute.

He thought his forthcoming meeting with Mr. Khrushchev would help to melt the ice in the cold war, but said a "friendly and open" meeting would be held in Bonn.

Big locust swarm destroyed

SUCCESS OF AIR ATTACK

THREE airmen of the Desert Locust Survey based in Harare, British Somaliland, have destroyed a swarm of locusts covering a hundred square miles. They flew right through the locusts at an altitude of 50 ft. above the ground, spraying thousands of gallons of insecticide in the 250ft. swarms.

The Desert Locust Survey is administered by the East African High Commission, and has been coordinated by the East African territories, British Somaliland and Kenya. It established the "five brigades" of locusts, and has been spraying some swarms up to present locusts covering Kenya, Tanganyika and Uganda.

Before dawn

Three Bessie aircraft, piloted by Mr. J. Marlow, former Station Officer, British Somaliland, and Mr. R. Knight, former Station Officer, British Somaliland, recently flew Yambura jets with the B.E.A. started daily reconnaissance and spotted the swarms of locusts.

They began their attack next morning before dawn and sprayed their operations for some days, often being landed only after dark in the light of searchlights.

Reconnaissance teams of Somali-speaking pilots, who had turned the aircraft round in five minutes, when the operations were at its height, moved with the aircraft in formation from Harare, where they started from, to the locusts in the desert.

Millions killed

Counts of dead locusts later seen lying in great numbers in the wadis and on the ground indicated successful operations, with millions of locusts killed and the swarms largely destroyed.

This was the first major air-spray operation mounted against the desert locusts which swept into Somaliland from the east in 1948. It was led by the highly organized British air force, Mr. J. Marlow, who was in charge of the operations, and Mr. R. Knight, who was in charge of the operations. They were supported by the Somali air force, which was also in charge of the operations.

NEW TWIST TO OLD PLOT IN NYERI COMEDY

WINIFRED FERGUSON waited a long time to get the right cast for her Mount Kenya Players' production of André Roussin's The Little Hut, adapted from the French by Nancy Milford. The play, staged at Nyeri Club, was extremely well produced and the set, that of a desert island, was the best I have yet seen in Nyeri.

The cast kept up its bit of laughter throughout the play. For the part of Susan, Winifred Ferguson made a wise choice in Juliette Nyamathi, who trained with the B.A.B.A. in London.

Edward Scott used his wartime experience to good effect in the role of Philip, her husband, and a newcomer to the Nyeri stage, Philip Noble, did well in the part of Henry. His manner was easy and convincing, and the good too was Ronald Bateson as the stranger.

Kisumu plays in tense drama

IN 27 previous productions the Kisumu Amateur Dramatic Society has presented a wide range of fare from pantomime and farce to tragic drama.

The latest play, 'Sovereignty', by Gordon Fraser, is presented at the Victoria Theatre, contains all the elements of a good play, but seems to lack the touch of reality which would heighten the tense drama with which the play should be concerned.

The play concerns the transfer of a province to the East African States which led to tragedy, the province of which the main emotion are laid here.

'Credit must go to the play, as written by Miss Mary Horne, who was assisted by the society, gave a performance which was a success in spite of the fact that the play was somewhat lacking in the matter of pace, dialogue and incident, and was not presented in the most successful manner.

Good outdoors

At East Gate, Wm. Watson gave a similar performance, but although at times his vocal performance was of a high standard, he did not believe in his speech, and his vocal performance was somewhat flat.

After her first entrance, she took a more active part, and her performance was outstanding, and she was well supported by the other members of the society.

The play was well received, and the audience was very much interested in the plot.

KENYA'S NEW GOVERNOR

In a month's time - on Sept. 29 - the Governor of Kenya and Lady Mary Baring are due to leave Nairobi by train and to try their farewell at Nakuru and Eldoret to reach for Kampala and holiday before returning to England.

Mr Evelyn will have completed 61 years, twice extended, as Governor of Kenya since the momentous year in 1952 when he was appointed to the post.

The Colonial Secretary this time is appreciative. Kenya's constitutional affairs will be subject of a conference in London early in the New Year.

The sooner the better

Another Minister returning from holiday is Mr. Lennox-Boyd, who is expected back at his desk in the Colonial Office early in the New Year.

Mr Evelyn must be starting to feel the decision inevitable as one of the most important of his responsibilities, especially as his services are required to be located in the Office of the Governor.

The Section relating to the Government's lay-off date during any period when the Government is not in office.

FIRST SANTA GERTRUDIS STOCK IMPORTED

New breed should have great future on Kenya ranches

The Santa Gertrudis, which derives its name from the Santa Gertrudis Land Grant of the Spanish Crown, situated near Kingville in Texas, is no stranger to Africa as herds have already been established in Angola, Southern Rhodesia and South Africa.

The cattle that have come to Kenya were imported by two prominent stock raisers - Mr. J. W. J. Payne, of the Animal Husbandry Division of East Africa, and Maj. the Hon. G. H. Penrose-Fowkes of Marsh Estates Ltd., from the Ames and Armstrong ranches in Texas.

They have every hope that this new breed will successfully establish itself in East Africa and be the most valuable of the world.

The establishment of the Santa Gertrudis breed is one of the most important of the great American stock-breeding schemes.

There is a demand for quality beef in the East African market, and the Santa Gertrudis breed is one of the most valuable of the world.

W. J. A. Payne, of the Animal Husbandry Division of East Africa, writes about the ten bulls and six heifers of a new North American breed that were imported into Kenya earlier this week.

derived from Great Britain, Kildare Valley, Gilt and Speckled Red, and other breeds.

The Santa Gertrudis is bred in Texas and is one of the most valuable of the world.

At these various meetings have advocated the use of the Santa Gertrudis breed.

As a consequence, the local stock raisers are beginning to take an interest in the Santa Gertrudis breed.

CELEBRATE 80 GLORIOUS YEARS

His Highness Seyyid Sir Khalifa bin Harub, G.C.B., G.C.M.G., G.S.E., Sultan of Zanzibar, was born 80 years ago this week. This illustrated biography, by JOAN PASCOE, has been officially approved by His Highness.

THE Sultan of Zanzibar was born in Muscat on August 26, 1859, the great-grandson of Seyyid Said bin Sulaiman al Busaid, ruler of Oman and Zanzibar, who in 1828 made Zanzibar his second capital and became the first of his dynasty to live and reign in the island.

Seyyid Khalifa's father, Seyyid Harub, died in 1888 and his paternal uncle, Seyyid Turki bin Said, Sultan of Muscat, took care of the young boy, who grew up in an atmosphere of conspiracy and intrigue at the Court of Oman. He became an expert horseman and developed a love of the sea and skill as a yachtsman.

In 1891 another uncle, Seyyid Hamud bin Thuwain, who had previously been married to Seyyid Khalifa's mother, became Sultan of Zanzibar and immediately sent for his nephew. Until that date Seyyid Khalifa had never been out of Oman, so the voyage to Zanzibar in itself was a great adventure, the beginning of a very different kind of life after the idleness of Muscat.

Seyyid Khalifa, however, soon adapted himself to the changed conditions. He made a few friends, had acquired himself with a taste of the life by attending all the public dances at the sultan's court. By so doing, he acquired a knowledge of people and things in Zanzibar which in later years were to stand him in good stead.

VISITED MECCA

His uncle's death in 1896 was followed by an attempt to seize the throne by Seyyid Khalid bin Harub, one of his previous Sultans, and during the naval bombardment of Pate (which ended Seyyid Khalifa bin Harub's reign) he sent in considerable personal danger at the moment of his house which was almost in a direct line of fire from the British naval guns, was used as a cover story by the Sultan. Happily, Seyyid Khalifa was able to make the same place.

Seyyid Khalifa was proclaimed Sultan in 1896, and in 1900

Seyyid Khalifa bin Harub married his daughter, Seyyida Matia, a successful and happy with the Sultan's death in 1901. There were four boys, one of whom has survived the war. Appointed Sultan, the Al-Sayid bin Khalifa, R.I.C.

On his return to Zanzibar, the abdication was officially announced, and on Seyyid Khalid bin Muhammad declining the throne, owing to his illness, Seyyid Khalifa bin Harub appeared and on December 1, 1911, was formally installed as Sultan of Zanzibar.

It showed well to the joy of his Highness to travel on alone to re-visit Zanzibar as the Coronation and to take part in the numerous official ceremonies, strange though he was to the Western world. To all who have been privileged to meet His Highness it is of no surprise that he still

CHICKENS TAKE TO 'SPIRITS'

BY A FARMING CORRESPONDENT

CHICKENS in Britain are thriving on Scotch whisky — or to be more exact, on the liquid which remains when malt whisky is first distilled from wort or fermented barley. The alcohol-free waste beer, containing yeast and the soluble remains of the latter, is evaporated down to a syrup and then dried.

The farm experiments were followed up by laboratory tests with broiler chicks. The birds were fed on all known nutrients in tested proportions. The good was this diet that chicks fed on it grew 10 per cent faster than chicks fed on a commercial broiler ration.

Even as early as 5 to 3 per cent in the diet caused a 10 per cent increase in average weight of 2 to 300 cc. Present experiments in Britain at British Agricultural Universities, at the National Institute for Research in Dairying, in the Distillers Company, and at developing a quick way of measuring the powers of growth promotion micro-organisms.

Never a dull moment. What could be less boring than the swimming pool, when it is used as a scene of swimming pool games?

They, lashed by splashing sea, take to complete relaxation in the shade of the covered deck, listening to your favorite music rendered by the disc machine.

Have a drink or two on the bar while waiting for drinks—and this applies as often as at the dining room in a special way when the deck lounge is being used as a dining room.

'Film of the year' comes to Nairobi

AFTER what seems an interminable time—it is nearly 18 months since it swept awards presentation in the boards of the annual Motion Picture Academy in Hollywood—the film that conquering cinematographers in Kenya have been waiting for, The Bridge on the River Kwai, opens at the Kenya Theatre, Nairobi, tonight.

The British on the River Kwai, opens at the Kenya Theatre, Nairobi, tonight. It is generally considered to be one of the finest war pictures of the Second World War. It is the story of a group of British prisoners of war who are forced to build a railway bridge over the River Kwai in Burma. The film is based on Pierre Boulle's novel of the same name and follows its fairly faithfully, except for one of the characters becoming an American, presumably as a concession to the U.S. market.

It is superbly presented in CinemaScope and Technicolor. The film opens on the prisoners-of-war camp in the British Borneo, and it mainly concerns the men who remain who in the end, build the bridge. The film is a masterpiece of the genre, and it is a masterpiece of the genre, and it is a masterpiece of the genre.

How Britain's stars would react to a salary cut
WHEN I heard the Film Finance Corporation had suggested that cinema should take salary cuts in the interests of economy I naturally thought of several British stars.

When I rang Laurence Harvey, "Jack Jones," I said frankly, "I want you to know that I am a couple of odd years old."

Harvey replied: "I've always been a few-odd-year-old man, and if they cut my present salary, I'm sure I'll be able to afford one."

I then rang my good friend, the actor, Robert Robinson. "When I ring Laurence Harvey, 'Jack Jones,'" I said frankly, "I want you to know that I am a couple of odd years old."

Harvey replied: "I've always been a few-odd-year-old man, and if they cut my present salary, I'm sure I'll be able to afford one."

The award comes on the River Kwai bill for the end of the same name. On the right, the Indian commandant, with its small ears, which helped its prisoners.

FEATURING SUCCESSORS TO THE GIANTS OF CRICKET

SPORT

What do you know about sport?

A WEBSLEY test of sports knowledge

1. When Peter May, English captain, had withdrawn from the Fourth Test against India at Old Trafford he was deprived of the chance of hitting the world record of 521 appearances in consecutive Test matches. Who set the record last time?

2. She pulled a muscle during the 1958 cricket tour of the West Indies in St. John's, Barbados. Who was she?

3. In the 1958-59 season, who was the leading batsman in the world?

4. Who was the leading bowler in the world?

5. Who was the leading batsman in the world?

By the turn of the mid-thirties Jack Hobbs had retired and the pre-war village cricket had disappeared from the scene. The power of a proportion of the earlier post-war players had waned, and for a brief period there was a lull in English cricketing affairs.

This when G. O. Allen sailed for Australia in 1936 and he was not accorded much chance against a still-powerful Australia. By courage and good fortune, he and his team came within an ace of upsetting all calculations.

But when the luck deserted them Bradman counter-attacked with massive force and it was apparent that England was in need of replacements and reinforcements in certain quarters. These were soon forthcoming in abundance.

TWO UNKNOWN

My first class of Test cricket was in 1941 when, in the field of absence of the first-class players, the first-class players of the Yorkshire county had to make do with a team of second-class players. It was during a day of two hours in which he scored 21. Many of them were named in some form of cricket news paper as having been in the first-class team of the day.

W. H. HAMMOND showed square with the square.

Barrett and Washbrook had been playing longer on the field of the day but were generally established by the late arrival. Varty was still at the top and Farnes had the most runs in the match. Wright, however, was a whirlwind, hitting 118 runs in 100 minutes.

AGONY-MINDED

Cricket was the antithesis of football when it came to England. In 1941, when the war was in its second year, the English cricket team was a serious matter to be played with cricket. AROUND AND ABOUT EAST AFRICA'S WEALTH OF WILD LIFE

EAST AFRICA'S wealth of wild life is illustrated in this page ranging from the monkey and ostrich to the lion and rhino.

All are in a peaceful mood — reflecting the quieter side to a Nature all too often violent and bloody.

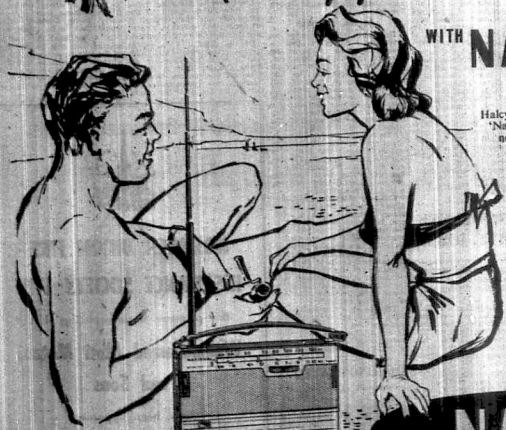

The little monkey (right) displays a knowing look while mother ostrich (below) leads her brood across the plain like any domestic hen with her chicks.

This proud male lion (above) was caught in action as he strode majestically across the plain in the Nairobi Game Park. The wildbeest and her baby (centre) — and photographed in the park — were not so conspicuous of the cameraman. The elephants (top right) and the zebra (bottom left) drink quietly in their streams. Even the fearsome rhino (above, centre) seems to be peacefully taking a "constitutional" about Ndabeni, as requested to send in any particularly good samples of wild life to the "Week-end Standard".

Title: 'what makes a specialised service cheaper'
Text: 'Auto electrical service sounds an expensive operation. Oddly enough, it needn't be. It applies particularly to Lucas and C.A.V. equipment. The former, as you probably know, is the electrical equipment which is fitted to every British car. The latter is its commercial vehicle counterpart. Diagnosis and repair of electrical faults can stump many of the technically minded and even cause much head scratching to the average mechanic. K.R.G.T. Auto electrical service is operated by technicians expressly trained for this work, aided by modern precision test machinery. It is cheaper to use K.R.G.T. Auto electrical service because fault-diagnosis is more rapid and more quickly, accurately corrected.'

SOCCER NOW HAS THE STAGE TO ITSELF

WITH Rugby having staid its own name last weekend the Association took the stage to itself for the first time in many seasons. The African game, of course, continues to provide good entertainment for its thousands of followers, but it is not the main attraction. This is the first time in many seasons that African Soccer has had its own stage. It is a good sign.
