RUSSIANS' U.K. VISIT WELCOMED IN COMMENTS BY ALL PARTIES

Statement cheered by all parties

STEP TOWARDS ENDING MUTUAL MISTRUST

(CHEERS from both sides of the House of Commons greeted the statement by the Prime Minister, Sir Anthony Eden, that Russian leaders are to visit Britain next year. He said that both the House and the country would welcome it as a step towards ending that state of mutual mistrust—the cold war.

For the Socialists, Mr. Herbert Morrison said: "We are glad they are coming. We hope they will stay some considerable time so that we may get to know each other."

Sir Anthony had made the statement during a debate on the Foreign Conference (reported below). As announced in the East African Standard yesterday, he said that briefly in the Prime Minister, Marshall Bulganin, and the Soviet Premier, Mr. Khrushchev, had agreed that they would visit Britain in the autumn of 1956 to a visit in the spring. The idea is to maintain the momentum of established channels.

It will be the third visit by the Iron Curtain of the Russian leaders since Marshal Bulganin's announced visit in February 8, when they visited in May and in June of this month. Marshal Bulganin was in London to discuss the Moscow, to study transport, housing and health schemes. His guide was Mr. Morrison, then leader of the London County Council.

CONFERENCE LIKELY WITH PREMIER

Observers in New York said that Premier Bulganin's visit to London may mean the start of a series of conferences between the two super-powers. It is expected that the two leaders will meet in London in the near future. The visit is seen as a step towards ending the cold war.

Divided Germany bar to real security in Europe

SO long as Germany was divided there could be no real security in Europe, the Prime Minister, Sir Anthony Eden, said in the House of Commons when opening a debate on the German conference. His warning that the situation in the Far East was more dangerous than that in Europe was echoed by the Foreign Secretary, Mr. Herbert Morrison.

Mr. Eden said that the position in Germany was a source of anxiety. There was a hill but it was an uneasy one.

Mr. Morrison said that the position in Germany was a source of anxiety. There was a hill but it was an uneasy one.

TRIBUTE PAID TO SIR WINSTON

Sir Anthony said of the late Prime Minister, Sir Winston Churchill, that he was a man of great courage and vision. He was a man who stood for the rights of the individual against the tyranny of the State.

NAIROBI HOLIDAY RACES BEGIN THE NEW SEASON

Selections for tomorrow's card, comprising 8 events
By 'Black Diamond'

The Nairobian holiday racing in Nairobi always provides some interesting and, usually, informative racing. With August 1 being a good date and the beginning of a new season, it becomes a case of building gradually by racing twelve months and giving a welcome to a new season. There are four companies that race on the track and with the Aga Khan, the Government and the National Jockey Club, they provide a very bright big race.

Monday's main attraction is the 1,000 yards dash, which will be run by the Aga Khan, the Government and the National Jockey Club. The 1,000 yards dash is a very fast race and is always a very good race. The 1,000 yards dash is a very fast race and is always a very good race.

APPEAL FOR MORE WATER FACILITIES

Coffee growers' concern on slowness of development

COFFEE conference delegates in Nairobi unanimously approved an appeal for the establishment of an independent department for water development in Kenya in view of the vital importance of, and increasing demands on, the available water supply in view of the expansion of the industry. This is the contention of the Coffee Board to press the Government through the appropriate channels. —

Presentation to Marketing Board chairman

Members showed their appreciation of the services of Max C. M. Taylor on his retirement from the Coffee Marketing Board by making a presentation to him by Mr. W. H. G. Green, his chairman. Mr. Taylor was made by the chairman, Mr. W. H. G. Green, his chairman. "It must be a matter of regret to all of us that Mr. Taylor has taken the decision to stand down from the Marketing Board," said Mr. Green. "The services of a man of his calibre and experience as a member of the Board have been a valuable asset to the Marketing Board and the Coffee Association and the Coffee Marketing Board had been maintained." —

THE UNIVERSITY OF OXFORD

THE University of Oxford, like its rival Cambridge, is not a tangible place of impressive buildings and concentrated learning. When you first arrive there it seems more of an atmosphere than an institution.

Like so many other things so firmly established in the life of Britain, Oxford University has grown up haphazardly through the centuries, a collection of separate colleges of no regular pattern of location that have evolved over time and in total no wooden walls or stone institution.

But there is a common link in the River Isis, and along its winding banks are the colleges which house the 7,000 students. This is Britain's oldest University and it has never lost its ancient traditions of giving its students some understanding of the art of living, besides imparting high educational standards.

The first signs of teaching in Oxford have been traced right back to the 8th century, when the number of St. Frideswide's was functioning as a small seat of learning. Other small schools grew up through the years, but King Henry II's death marked the real start of the University and the first rapid growth took place from A.D. 1170 until the 13th century.

Medieval universities took place only 18 years ago. That was when women students were first allowed to sit for Honours degrees. Now over one sixth of the total roll are women and they play a full part in the University life.

Oxford and Cambridge are the only two British Universities based on the College system. The College assigns each student to a tutor, who is responsible for putting him in his studies for the University examinations and advising his students as to which University facilities should be attended, although attendance is not compulsory.

College discipline is subject to the Dean's ruling, but outside the College discipline is maintained by the University Senate and its 'Halls' or assemblies.

The system of academic degrees awarded by the University dates from the 13th century and the ceremonial of Degree Day, which graduates receive official recognition of their attainment, is still conducted every 15 days. The fields of the faculties of medicine, music, theology and law, have been supplemented with many additional subjects including modern sciences such as chemistry, geology, biology and physics.

Seventeen acres of laboratories have been built during the 20th century, also the five women's Colleges and new University buildings.

Although much of the City of Oxford today suffers little from its overcrowding in Tudor times, when many of the Colleges such as Magdalen, Corpus Christi and Christ Church, were built, the convents and Halls were already in existence. The University of Oxford, steeped as it is in centuries of tradition, still progresses with the times, continually enlarging its scope, its facilities and its roll of students.

Students dining from the abbey over a mid-morning at Magdalen College, which has one of the most important of the Christ Schools.

Girl students in one of their hot-bitting rooms at Saint Hilda's College for Women.

University students punt on the River Cherwell, a tributary of the Isis near Magdalen Bridge.

This view of spires in the City of Oxford, taken from the roof of the new Bodleian Library, shows the dome of the Bodleian Chapter, the monument of Purcell and the tower built by James Gibbs in 1728. Opposite it rise the Gothic towers of All Saints College.

Oxford University Cricket Club plays a match against Worcester in the 70-acre Park, Brighthelm, which flows the River Cherwell. The College have their own cricket grounds in addition to those in the Park.

Tower, built by Wren in the 18th century, is a famous feature of one of Oxford's latest Colleges, Christ Church.

Down the 'High', Oxford's famous main street, students avoid the traffic, as they slyly to class between ancient colleges such as Brasenose and Queens' College.

Oxford students plan their own mazes, the '1811', which was founded in 1882.

LET'S BRING CAPRI TO OUR BEACHES!

Nowadays, says JANE FIRTH, you can surpass the Italians of the beachwear. From Capri come new ideas for you to copy.

Who would not like to see that command of the sea and sky are unbelievably blue. The grove is a world wonder. The life is happy-go-lucky, and the clothes neat and amusing. Many of the gay jumpers and sun hats, country straw shoes, and straw embroidered skirts are exported.

Perhaps many of you, just like me, will get an answer to Capri that looking at those travel posters. But there's no reason why we should not copy their colorful ideas, and make our own beaches the brighter.

Play tops will be all-important this year. You will wear all-weather, long, short, or no, smartest of all, very shorts. If you are young, modern and slim, you will always wear those outside, short skirts. If you are older, less slim, or just don't dare, you will have to tuck them in yearly. They are designed to put on after your swim, when you stroll, or why look for an excuse? They are new and frivolous.

Recently from Capri come new ideas for beachwear of modest to super lightweight hand-woven wool. Most of them would be easy to copy, or even to buy. Think of a world wonder. The life is happy-go-lucky, and the clothes neat and amusing. Many of the gay jumpers and sun hats, country straw shoes, and straw embroidered skirts are exported.

CHINESE MARRIAGE BUREAU By O.M. Green

THE notion of a Marriage Bureau to bring lonely hearts into touch with a view to matrimony would have reduced Chinese parents of 50 years ago to a state of speechless horror. Yet such a bureau has been set up in revolutionary Communist China, despite its constant desire to "serve the people" but in Taipei, capital of the Nationalist Government in Formosa.

From an immemorial marriage in the strict rules, and the bride was given by the parents. There were never any dowries, though betrothal when the principals were children were often agreed on between friendly families, and considered almost as binding a marriage tie. Very rarely were they broken.

ONCE the Revolution of 1911 the practice has changed considerably, due to new ideas from the West. After the Revolution there was the brief, feverish period when Cantonese city members of the famous "Three in One" Amoyan Corps claimed the right to marry their husbands, and even to have "betrothal" and to go for a trial period of six months or longer.

At the new Marriage Bureau in Taipei, the reason for this is that there are some twelve million Chinese living in Formosa that only a few million want wives, that very few marry foreign girls, and that the ratio, women to men, is every Chinese man, one to every Chinese woman.

This Bureau is managed by the Chinese National Government.

the girl to ensure that she was recognized by his parents. The girl seldom ever saw him before marriage, nor even after the ceremony. I have been in the city where the bureau was set up and was told by two relatives that all the companies were overfilled with the newly-weds ready for a proper look at each other.

Yet in the main Chinese marriage were happy. Dr. Sun Yat-sen divorced the wife his parents had married him to in 1916 to marry Thing Ling, one of the three young sisters. Chiang Kai-shek also divorced his early bride to marry Chang Hsueh-shan, his second wife. Sun Yat-sen's divorce was a scandal, and the wife of the late President was a second wife or a concubine.

Another astonishing model is a red and white hooded top with trim for the collar. Although it is not a bathing trunk, I think it would be suitable for those of us who cannot swim in Formosa. And on a "rain" day, they would be useful as a raincoat. They are made of a material which doesn't have to be washed and which is very easy to wear and which is very easy to pack. # SCHWEITZER IN AFRICA

BY JOHN RUSSELL

The author of this article—the first of three on the work of Dr. Albert Schweitzer and its background—has been staying with him at the hospital at Lambrene in French Equatorial Africa, which the philosopher-doctor-musician has made world-famous.

"A PERSON who hasn't seen me in Africa," Dr. Schweitzer once said, "doesn't know me at all." I had always doubted this, but the more that African life has permeated me, the more I have seen of the features of a man in his nature, of a man in his work.

Let us hear the outside of the man in the inside. The first of his work, the first of his life, the first of his being, is his music. He has been playing the piano since he was a child. He has been playing the piano since he was a child. He has been playing the piano since he was a child.

One of his habits of work, Dr. Schweitzer is a man of many talents. He is a musician, a philosopher, a doctor, a teacher, and a leader. He has been playing the piano since he was a child.

Struggle

IF HE at Lambrene is there, a struggle is going on inside him. He is a man of many talents. He is a musician, a philosopher, a doctor, a teacher, and a leader. He has been playing the piano since he was a child.

Unique

THE square is not to be found in any other part of Africa. It is a man of many talents. He is a musician, a philosopher, a doctor, a teacher, and a leader. He has been playing the piano since he was a child.

Don't get excited the H-Bomb IS the way to peace

DAVID DIVINE reports another of his Six Wise Men

VERDICT . . . by the Six Wise Men

What does Geoffrey Fisher, Archbishop of Canterbury, think about the H-bomb?

Home truth

His first statement is a blunt and simple home truth: "This is a new weapon, too much talk about averting the possibility of constant talking and constant talking can quite easily become a disguise of the H-bomb." He would disagree. But the Archbishop's bulletin is not on with other people more than he would disagree. "It is for my statement to do what they need to be doing as admirably, to work unceasingly for peace while at the same time doing what they are able to do as trustees, which is to take every power granted against the destruction of life and limb to the utmost, although never meaning from their own side and he will support them by every getting service of his own power and energy. "This is their task; the good citizens will support them to the utmost, although never meaning from their own side and he will support them by every getting service of his own power and energy. "This is their task; the good citizens will support them to the utmost, although never meaning from their own side and he will support them by every getting service of his own power and energy."

Dr. GEORFFREY FISHER, Archbishop of Canterbury

LOOKING BACK

20 YEARS

CLOSING and closer came the war in Ethiopia during this troubled week. Both sides accelerated their armaments and the bigger countries of the world were busy looking for position to justify for right or no right—how.

The first to move was Japan, who announced that she would take no sides. Meanwhile, she accepted the aid from Ethiopia for her services in fighting the Italian. During the same week Italy came to the aid of Ethiopia. There were frequent discussions between Britain and France, or the two countries tried to do a face-saving job.

It was a week of trouble in Lahore, Madras province, when the Government was taken to task for the arrest of a man named Ameer had been dropped from the Fourth Test team. In South Africa, A. G. Chamberlain was a recovered and went back to work after being almost stopped being lost had minutes during an operation. The miracle was performed by an Admiral.

In Moscow, the big contest of the week was the 100th anniversary of the Russian Revolution. The big news was that the Soviet Government had invited the Crown to visit the USSR in the years to come. The Government announced that oil training necessary.

30 YEARS

THIS week in 1925 saw the opening of Kenya's first soap factory at Butera. Also was launched the first East African tour. A very strange sickness of politics, two rival candidates for the West Kenya seat, James Kennedy and Mr. P. A. Van der Merwe, both pledged themselves to support the Reform Party. In Britain, the Government announced that considerable Labour opposition, a plan to discuss a year. There were the days of the capture, the new from the Christian. Our girl friends were advised. There is nothing to expect, as the marriage, especially, as one. Little shy glances and blushing are really possible by the gradually moving on. And if you want proof that history repeats itself, Members of the House of Commons set up a special committee to investigate the 40 years.

These, then, are the opinions, the prejudices and beliefs of the great men of the Atom Age.

LONG WARREN, a new combination of political and scientific, are the world observing the most immense benefit of mankind.

40 YEARS

You must believe this, I hope, but this time the Members of the House of Commons set up a special committee to investigate the 40 years. The big news was that the history repeats itself, Members of the House of Commons set up a special committee to investigate the 40 years. The big news was that the history repeats itself, Members of the House of Commons set up a special committee to investigate the 40 years.

Dr. GEORFFREY FISHER, Archbishop of Canterbury

As a great theologian the Archbishop says: "The Christian will lead us into the necessary direction for which we are to thank him. It is as follows: 'The best foundation for the moral life for the morrow will be laid in the most judicious way on the day of the first thread.' "While there is ground for fear and a call to Christian people to save the world from the atomic or perfectly for those who believe in God, it is not a call to a future age."

Why Phenisic is better than aspirin

Did you think your pain had to suffer? No! Phenisic has been found to be a better pain reliever than aspirin. It is more effective, does not irritate the stomach, and does not cause drowsiness. It is a new type of pain reliever, and is now available in Kenya. It is a new type of pain reliever, and is now available in Kenya. It is a new type of pain reliever, and is now available in Kenya.

MEDICAL research is always going on. For instance, doctors all over the world are studying phenisic to see how and how we can get rid of it. They can't ensure the efficacy of a pain like a headache, and how the power of different drugs to kill it.

AN INTERESTING FACT in their research, one interesting fact has emerged. Doctors say for long known that aspirin causes pain relief but also causes some other substance called phenisic to build up. But when they mixed both of these together, they found the small amount extra built, and for longer, than either substance alone.

The Phenisic formula is just this mixture of aspirin and phenisic, with the power of aspirin, with the safety of phenisic, and the ease of taking it.

COFFEE REVENUE DOWN DRAMA FESTIVAL SUMMING-UP

Chairman's disclosure at Nairobi conference

CONSUMER resistance to high prices, followed by the devaluation of currency in Brazil, reduced the value of the 1954-55 crop to £4,682,500, less than the £5,200,000 less than the revenue earned by the previous year. This was disclosed by M. Taylor, chairman of the Coffee Marketing Board, when he reviewed the year at a session of the Coffee Conference, held on Friday in the Vermont Memorial Hall, Nairobi.

The annual Coffee Conference, which has been experienced, he said, is concerned with the state of the market, but other complications were due to the fall in the price of coffee beans in the mills in January and February.

Local and transport conditions, he said, were not as good as in 1954-55. The coffee industry in Kenya is still recovering from the "Aves" - "Inexpensive labour, commonly charged, during the season" - but he said that the cost of the coffee is still being kept down to a minimum.

The total crop of 1955-56, estimated at 11,200 tons, compared with 11,200 tons for the previous year. The price of coffee beans in the market, he said, was £120 a ton, compared with £125 a ton in the previous year.

BRITISH RESERVES DROP BY £48,500,000

Measures taken to halt inflation

BANK RATE UP IN U.S., GERMANY AND BELGIUM

BRITAIN'S gold and dollar reserves dropped by more than £48,500,000 during July—the worst fall since February, 1952—according to a Treasury announcement. On July 31, the reserves stood at £290,400,000 compared with £1,076,900,000 at the same time last year.

A Treasury spokesman said that the figures reflected a fall of the exchange. They had a further effect on measures recently to curb spending, including increased freeze deposits and a tightening of bank loans.

Although the figures, therefore, could be regarded as coming after the measures taken to deal with them, they pointed to the economic difficulties being tackled in the nation's financial position.

Coinciding with the Treasury statement, the Governments of the United States, West Germany and Belgium announced that they were following Britain's lead in tightening credit and curbing inflationary tendencies by increasing their bank rates.

In the U.S., the rate has been raised from 11 per cent to two per cent for banks in Chicago, Boston and Atlanta and 2 1/2 per cent at Cleveland.

Other Federal Reserve banks are expected to announce similar action.

The West German rate has been increased from three to 3 1/2 per cent and the Belgian rate from 2 1/2 to three per cent.

WORLDWIDE PHENOMENON

The increase in the West German and Belgian rates were a worldwide phenomenon and a sign of a general move to curb inflationary tendencies.

Similarly, the present trends in the U.S. and Belgium are a sign of a general move to curb inflationary tendencies.

The British Treasury also announced a deficit of £200,000,000 in July and the Budget in July and the Budget in July and the Budget in July.

A welcome reappearance by Nyeri after long absence

'Standard' Special Correspondent

The Nairobi Polo Club staged their annual mid-year tournament over the holiday weekend when 13 teams from East Africa and South Africa were played for. Plateaux were the most successful tournament which only the Crawley Cup, an American Cup, and the Crawford Cup, a handicap competition, were played for. The tournament provided all polo enthusiasts with all the thrills they could desire.

Each of the three teams having a handicap of 17 goals, Plateaux were the favorites, and they did not disappoint. In the final, they defeated the home team, the Nyeri team, by a score of 20 goals to 17.

The Nyeri team, which had not been seen in the New Year tournament, was represented by a team of 10 players, and they were well represented. The team was captained by one of its members, Mr. J. C. ...

ever, that it was fairly new to the Corporation and it happened to depart from normal procedure by "blowing down" instead of direct to the coast. The pilot was not to be expected to have any knowledge of the possibility of colliding with the high winds which lay in wait for the crew.

The report referred to the high weather forecast given to the crew on leaving Durban. It was the report of a meteorologist who was on the ground at Durban at the time the information was given.

"The analysis of the weather, made after the accident, confirms the fact that the flight meteorologist who gave the report was correct in his forecast. The report was given to the crew on leaving Durban at the time the information was given."

The report also stated that the pilot was not to be expected to have any knowledge of the possibility of colliding with the high winds which lay in wait for the crew.

The report also stated that the pilot was not to be expected to have any knowledge of the possibility of colliding with the high winds which lay in wait for the crew.

South African meteorological service. Several possible causes of the crash were mentioned during the inquiry. They were: A deliberate act of a member of the crew or a passenger; A deliberate act of the pilot; A deliberate act of the captain, who was forced or directed into a course of action under abnormal conditions; or an error of navigation.

Fire after crash
The report suggested that there was no evidence to support the first of the above. Examination of the wreckage gave an indication of a fire which had broken out and it was unlikely the plane would have been able to land had it not been for the fire. Although the report stated that the fire had broken out after the crash, it also stated that it was most improbable that the aircraft was forced into the mountain by abnormal weather conditions, high winds near the coast, or by abnormal weather conditions, high winds near the coast, or by abnormal weather conditions, high winds near the coast.

After the report was received, it was found that the pilot had not been informed of the weather conditions at the time of the crash. It was also found that the pilot had not been informed of the weather conditions at the time of the crash.

Dry salt lakes
A further meteorological report was received from the Durban meteorological station. It was found that the pilot had not been informed of the weather conditions at the time of the crash.

Manager's wife
Sixteen passengers and a crew member were on board the aircraft at the time of the crash. The report stated that the pilot had not been informed of the weather conditions at the time of the crash.

It was also found that the pilot had not been informed of the weather conditions at the time of the crash. The report stated that the pilot had not been informed of the weather conditions at the time of the crash.

URGES

sever national miles off the coast from Durban to Natal. The report mentions the fact that there was no crew available to the crew at the time of the crash. That the aircraft was in the judgment of the crew was indicated by the lack of wreckage known, and the course not being established.

It was understood that the Durban meteorological station was to be visited by the Durban meteorological station. The report suggested that the Durban meteorological station was to be visited by the Durban meteorological station.

Recommendations
The report suggests that the Director of Civil Aviation should insist on greater compliance with the regulations regarding flight in the night information region. It also suggests that the Director of Civil Aviation should insist on greater compliance with the regulations regarding flight in the night information region.

Balloon station
Other recommendations are the establishment of additional meteorological stations between Durban and Pietermaritzburg. It also suggests that the Director of Civil Aviation should insist on greater compliance with the regulations regarding flight in the night information region.

Starvation point
The council has also been requested to consider the possibility of a starvation point in the Durban District. It also suggests that the Director of Civil Aviation should insist on greater compliance with the regulations regarding flight in the night information region.

Water supply
The council has also been requested to consider the possibility of a water supply in the Durban District. It also suggests that the Director of Civil Aviation should insist on greater compliance with the regulations regarding flight in the night information region.

The report also stated that the pilot was not to be expected to have any knowledge of the possibility of colliding with the high winds which lay in wait for the crew.

COUNCIL TO SEEK REMOVAL OF B.M.H. Drainage system inadequate

BECAUSE the drainage system at the British Military Hospital in Kabete Road, Nairobi, is considered unsatisfactory, the Nairobi Urban District Council has urged the military authorities to move the hospital, or build a new one. This course was recommended after a visit to the hospital by Trans Nzoia dairy farming prospects 'tremendous'.

Trans Nzoia's potential in Kenya was stressed by J. Phillips as a representative of the Agricultural Society of Kenya. He thought the district was one of the few without the services of a Government veterinary officer. All farmers interviewed the day after yesterday said that Trans Nzoia might be based at Kabete.

Development of these plans had been delayed by the fire which had destroyed the hospital at Kabete, which was also intended as the future site of C.R.O.

The Tana River Now Works Its Passage To The Sea

DURING the past three years the Tana has been one of the busiest rivers in Africa. And it looks like being even busier in the future.

Since 1933, the East African Power and Lighting Company has spent over £2,000,000 in capital development of the Tana and its tributaries.

Feeder dams have been made at the lower end of the Mzee Park Falls, at an estimated cost of £12 million.

And now a river which was regarded as too tame to be "very useful" is now being made to work the message to the sea.

A storage of the overtopping and transformer at the Tana Power Station near Port Hall.

of the Maragou and Malakou Rivers, tributaries of the Tana. The main dam was also built in 1933-34, at a cost of £1,500,000.

A reinforced steel carrier water in the power station from the Malakou River. This sends to a head pipe which gives a fall of 241 feet to the two 5,000-horsepower alternators.

Water from the other tributaries of the Malakou, goes through a three-stage-turbine-water-wheel into a canal, which gives a fall of 102 feet. The two 5,000-horsepower shafts of 5,000 horsepower.

One of the four sluice gates at the Maragou barrage, which can be opened or closed by hand or electrically, and which discharges water when the river has risen. The entire four sluice gates are in the lower Maragou.

No mean feat

From the technical point of view, the Tana dam project, which included a dam 1,500 feet high, was a mean feat. But the claim to fame as far as the Tana is concerned probably lies in the fact that it took shape in the heart of a Man Man tribe area — the heart of the Maragou and Malakou Rivers.

It was the Maragou and Malakou rivers which were the main source of water for the Tana. The Maragou is a tributary of the Tana, and the Malakou is a tributary of the Maragou.

Man and was busy to engage with his life. However a report that an animal was nearby, he went to the trap. He was surprised to find the animal was a lion. He was killed and the lion was taken to the power station. The lion was killed and the lion was taken to the power station.

The dam is 11 feet high and two feet wide and was built at an average depth of 150 feet below the surface. A barrage dam with four sluice gates, controls the river. The gates are designed to open automatically when the river is in flood and can be operated either by hand or electrically remote control from the power station.

Dual purpose

An interesting feature of the scheme is that the waters of the Malakou are used for a dual purpose. After they have been diverted through the tunnel and turbines of the power station they discharge into the Maragou River, giving an increased flow which made it possible to install another alternator at the existing Tana Power Station.

The Tana and the Waziri can be combined together to give a total of 11,000 horsepower of electrical power. The low turbine alone is capable of output of 8,000 horsepower from the two 5,000-horsepower alternators.

'Too heavy

From the first of the alternators arrived in Malakou, it gave the contractors something to think about. The machine was too heavy to be carried by the Tana. The machine was too heavy to be carried by the Tana. The machine was too heavy to be carried by the Tana.

Excavations

In the making of it about 100,000 tons of rock had to be excavated and more than 100,000 tons of concrete were used for blasting. Land and sea, the right side of the river was used for blasting. Land and sea, the right side of the river was used for blasting.

Three phases

The whole project was built in three phases. The first phase was the construction of the dam. The second phase was the construction of the power station. The third phase was the construction of the barrage dam.

Water from the other tributaries of the Malakou, goes through a three-stage-turbine-water-wheel into a canal, which gives a fall of 102 feet. The two 5,000-horsepower shafts of 5,000 horsepower.

New Ideas In Jewellery

By DOROTHY BARKLEY

A GLEAMING, glittering exhibition of costume jewellery put on by London's jewellers sums up the current trends.

Most trend is away from the formal look to the casual, away from the high, brassy piece towards the delicate, feminine, away from the heavy, full brooches to light brooches of marble.

One of the women behind this move is Lady Hubbard, the wife of a leading British banker. She spends her leisure jewellery and has transferred costume jewellery designers to her kitchen to have, using diamonds a few days ago, from the hat to the fittings in the home market and is building up a rough idea.

At first sight, her jewellery may appear too heavy and ready to have wide appeal. For example, design is of a rough blue and white, heavy, reminiscent of French pottery. Many of her most striking are, in fact, not quite original. They are, in fact, the work of designers with the younger generation. # WHERE WATER IS THE GREATEST PROBLEM

Achievements of the 'Dixey' Scheme

The concept of the 'Dixey' scheme is best understood if one takes the idea of it as a typical example of the project's results.

Water, which is essential for the life of the people, is the greatest problem of the people there. The Government has been successful in providing the water needed for the people there.

On the return to Nairobi from a two-week visit to Kenya's Northern Province, bordering on Ethiopia and the Government of the British Somaliland, the Governor has made the following statement:

During his tour of the Waik district the Governor has seen the results of the 'Dixey' scheme, and is convinced that the Government has done well in providing the water needed for the people there.

This project, which is the 'Dixey' scheme, is a project which is designed to provide water for the people there.

Borholes

It is with these ideas in mind that Dr. Frank Dixey, the Government's representative in the Waik district, has made a comprehensive survey of the Waik district, and has found that the water supply is inadequate for the needs of the people there.

Nanyuki chosen

The works which have been carried out at Nanyuki, in the Waik district, have been successful in providing water for the people there.

Two hours' hard work has done much to improve the water supply in the Waik district. The Governor of Kenya, Sir Evelyn Baring, is seen here with a horse and some equipment.

The Governor of Kenya, Sir Evelyn Baring, is seen here with a horse and some equipment.

borholes were expensive due to the uncertainty of drilling, the high cost of boring, and the difficulty of obtaining and maintaining the equipment.

Going ahead

With all the machines contracting on the Waik district, the programme there is being completed by September, 1934, and the early morning will be completed by the end of the year.

economic and presented several problems, such as the local labour, much of it being unskilled, and the fact that the water has now been brought to a distance of 100 miles from the source.

In addition to the construction of earthworks, the mechanical equipment has been constructed many miles of new roads and greatly improved considerable lengths of existing roads.

The main works successfully completed up to date are: three miles of new roads, three miles of earthworks, and the construction of the Waik district.

PERSONALITIES OF THE KENYA STAGE

By Lesley Gray

ADA ATWILL'S first professional engagement in this country was as a singer at Turf's Hotel when her programme was broadcast by the then T.L.O.

She has recently joined her husband, Mr. Billy Atwill, an engineer with the E.A.H. and is in Kenya to work and do her part in the theatre.

Turning to her in the Atwill's celebrated domestic, a charming drawing, furnished in execution table and bearing a wonderful portrait, we were interrupted by another member of the Atwill family.

Working in a training office, Ada is little like her husband, though the changes in her personality such as her dress, and follows closely everything she does with the theatre here and in Britain.

Her's a way to rest! Do you know that a London lady who has returned to Kenya after a long stay in the States? What are her impressions of the country? What are her impressions of the people? What are her impressions of the climate? What are her impressions of the food? What are her impressions of the people? What are her impressions of the climate? What are her impressions of the food?

Welfare of the Children

WASHINGTON, July 8.—The welfare of the children of the United States is the subject of a bill introduced in the House of Representatives today by Representative William C. Clegg of Ohio. The bill is designed to provide for the care and maintenance of children who are abandoned, neglected, or otherwise in need of protection. It authorizes the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare to take such action as may be necessary to carry out the purposes of the act. The bill also provides for the establishment of a fund to be used for the care and maintenance of such children. The bill is expected to pass the House in the near future.

Improvements on public affairs and private enterprise

Germany has claimed that their wartime invasion of Poland has improved the way in the upper six and middle classes. The German press has been busy since the outbreak of the war in 1939 in claiming that the German people have benefited from the war. It is claimed that the German people have become more industrious and more patriotic, and that the German economy has been strengthened. It is also claimed that the German people have become more united and more loyal to their government. These claims are based on a number of factors, including the fact that the German people have been able to produce more goods and services than ever before, and that the German people have been able to withstand the hardships of war with a determination and courage that is unparalleled in the history of the world.

Another Geneva Meeting

WASHINGTON, July 8.—The United States and Great Britain are expected to meet in Geneva tomorrow to discuss the situation in China. The meeting is being held at the invitation of the Swiss government. It is expected that the two countries will discuss the recent developments in China, including the recent attack on the city of Shanghai. The United States and Great Britain are expected to express their concern over the situation in China and to discuss ways in which they can provide assistance to the Chinese people. The meeting is expected to last for several days.

Patience and Progress

There is still a need for patience and progress in the world. The world is a complex and ever-changing place, and it is important that we have the patience to deal with the challenges that it presents. At the same time, it is important that we have the courage and determination to make progress. We must not be discouraged by the difficulties that we face, but we must also not be complacent. We must continue to work hard and to strive for a better world for ourselves and for future generations. Only through patience and progress can we achieve our goals and our dreams.

The Problem of Industry

The problem of industry is a complex one, and it is one that is facing the world today. Industry is the backbone of the modern world, and it is responsible for the production of the goods and services that we need to live. However, industry is also responsible for many of the problems that we face today, including pollution, global warming, and the depletion of natural resources. It is important that we find ways in which we can continue to support industry while also addressing these problems. This will require a combination of government action, industry action, and individual action. We must work together to find solutions that will allow us to continue to enjoy the benefits of industry while also protecting the environment and our future.

Dr. Chou's Visit to the United States

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Dr. Chou En-lai, Premier of the Chinese government, is expected to arrive in the United States tomorrow. Dr. Chou is the first Chinese Premier to visit the United States since the establishment of diplomatic relations between the two countries in 1949. His visit is expected to be a landmark event in the history of Sino-American relations. Dr. Chou is expected to meet with President Truman and other members of the administration. He is also expected to give a speech to the United States Congress. His visit is expected to last for several weeks.

Problem of resettling dangerous men

MAU MAU EXILE PLAN A LONG-RANGE OBJECTIVE

WASHINGTON, July 8.—The United States government is planning to resettle dangerous men who are being held in the Mau Mau camps in Kenya. The plan is a long-range objective, and it is expected to be completed in the next few years. The men are being held in the camps because they are considered to be a threat to the security of the United States. The government is planning to resettle them in other parts of the world, where they can live in peace and contribute to the development of their new homes. The plan is being implemented by the State Department, and it is expected to be a major success for the government.
