

Federation to avoid racial politics

HOPE FOR CHANGE OF STATUS

THE Deputy Prime Minister of the Central African Federation, Sir Roy Welensky, said at a reception to mark Federation Day that the Federal Government was determined to avoid racial politics and stick to 'Federal and British' politics. He said the Government constantly bore two factors in mind in its relations with Britain.

"The first," he said, "is that we must do what we can to secure a perfect instrument, in which the people of this country would be united and under the circumstances prevailing at the time of Federation."

"It is to show down the way to us in some way, it is to ensure that it is a machinery of government, but it is a Constitution which specifically allows the United Kingdom Government to honour certain obligations it has towards the people of the Federation and I would like to put on record the fact that we have no personal reasons for this and do not question it."

Transfer of Trust

"My ladies, however, that under certain conditions it will be acceptable for that trust to be transferred to us, and in fact for us to take over the status of a fully self-governing country."

"We think we may have had in mind the second factor to which I referred, and that is, the fact that in the political sphere we do not see will ever have any amount of genuine growth."

"It is not of course our first duty to make our country poorer, but the breathing space makes us play politics, particularly to other racial politics."

Honour pledge

"As a Government, however, we are deeply determined to stick to broad and better politics and as we are allowed to do so, we are allowed to maintain the status of a federation until we can do this for 'constitutional reasons' about 1960."

"It would be premature and would be of no benefit to the people of our country, to make any political move, however convenient we may be, which we can govern ourselves."

"On the other hand, when the time comes for change to be made, and this time is provided for under the Constitution, we will be able to get the British Government to get the best deal for our people with substantial obligations and a history of responsibility."

LOW DEFENCE EXPENDITURE IN CENTRAL AFRICA

Manners

THE eight per cent of national expenditure devoted to defence by the Central African Federation is the lowest in the Commonwealth, said Sir Roy Welensky, Deputy Prime Minister, at Northern Rhodesia.

He gave these comparative figures: Britain, per cent; Canada, 13; India, 14; Australia, 15; and the U.S.A., 32. In the United States the expenditure is not a defence but is a deterrent to the U.S.S.R., said the Minister.

"The Federation's principal commitment was for air bases and its immediate defence would be the air force, which would be supplied by an airport organization. There would be no heavy tanks and we would have to have tanks and we would have to have an army to maintain law and order and internal security."

Income Tax

He said that the Federation would have to have a tax system which would be acceptable to all racial groups and which would be based on the Middle East type of system which would be based on the individual's income.

KARIBA PLAN TENDERS EXPECTED SOON

THE Hydro-Electricity Board will soon call tenders for the Kariba dam project, said Sir Roy Welensky, Deputy Prime Minister. The project, which is estimated to cost over 10 million pounds, will provide power and irrigation for the Kariba region.

"The tender is for the construction of the dam and the associated works. It is expected that tenders will be received in about two weeks. The project is a major step towards the development of the Kariba region and will provide a significant contribution to the economy of the Federation."

Sport behind the 'Curtain'

CZECHOSLOVAKS TOE THE LINE

JUST as the satellite "Iron Curtain" countries have followed Russia's political lead in their sports, Czechoslovakia is an interesting country to study because Czechoslovak is an active sporting nation before the war. Now they conform to the Communist pattern of both sports and every participant in every "athletic" sport is a "professional" writer. Terence O'Connell, the most outstanding sportsman, is a product of these sports. Slimey, the Irishman, their leading sportsman, is a product of these sports. Slimey, the Irishman, their leading sportsman, is a product of these sports.

Six separate sections The famous clubs of the old system have been absorbed in the new. Following the general principle of being allied to certain industries, the sports are now organized into six sections. These are: 1. Football, 2. Basketball, 3. Handball, 4. Hockey, 5. Ice Hockey, 6. Figure Skating.

This is the first step that has been taken in the new system. It is a step towards a more organized and professional sports system in Czechoslovakia.

CATTLE RANCHING Success of pilot scheme in Kenya

Mr. Northern Kenya, Samburu tribesmen-warriors by birth, herding and hunting in the hills and valleys of Africa, are today taking part in an interesting experiment in African cattle ranching.

It is a pilot scheme designed to show how the tribesmen can be trained to manage their cattle and to improve their living conditions. The scheme is being run by the Kenya Government and is being supported by the British Government.

Mr. Brian Carter, who is in charge of the Samburu ranching experiment, examines specimens to be taken against cattle thieves with one of his dogs. In the background, a Samburu herder, in charge of a few herds of young steers, looks on.

Starvation threat

In some parts of Samburu it is estimated that 50 to 100 acres can maintain one cow. If the grazing lands are overgrazed, starvation, accordingly, the cattle will starve to death. The Government is now trying to help the tribesmen to improve their living conditions by teaching them to manage their cattle properly. This involves fencing their grazing lands and providing them with better quality feed.

GOVERNMENT ABANDONS SAVINGS PLAN

Appeal of certificates limited in East Africa

The Kenya Government has decided not to introduce a savings certificate scheme but will consider a development bonds. In the meantime, the appeal of certificates is being given to the extension of the activities of the Post Office Savings Bank.

The Government's decision was reached after consideration of a report by Miss C. M. Cole, an expert from the British Financial Organization, who was asked to come to Kenya to advise on the possible introduction of a savings certificate scheme in East Africa.

The report was held in the table of the Legislative Council. It has also been submitted to the Governments of Tanganyika and Uganda, which supported the Kenya Government's proposal that the idea of issuing savings certificates should be investigated in East Africa.

Higher interest rate
Miss Cole puts forward the opinion that a scheme similar to that in Britain would not be so successful in East Africa. She feels it would be better to postpone and extend the scope of the Savings Bank to attract higher rates, and to issue development bonds in East Africa.

Although the offer of a tax-free investment would have some appeal to Europeans, it might not be so great as in Britain. Other short-term investments offering good security and yielding higher rates, they should be recommended to those paying income tax at a low rate.

The total European population in the three territories was about 54,000, if they contributed at the same rate as in Britain, £2 million a year—this annual contribution would amount only to about £200,000.

Little appeal
It was doubtful if savings certificates would have a great attraction for Asians. She thought that, generally, they would look for an investment which would give a higher return. The Commissioner for Hong Kong and Malaya reported that savings certificates did not, as yet, appear to be of much interest in the Indian in the Federation.

It was suggested that to encourage savings the scheme should have to be set within a wider framework, and which they could readily understand. The opinion of practically all who had been written thought by the master was that savings certificates would not be successful in East Africa.

would start in a very small way, to report on savings with not more than £100,000 in 1952, the Government's target was £100,000 a year. The scheme would be subject to three conditions: (1) that there would be two strong objections to it—security and cost.

Preparation would have to be taken to grant against fraud in Great Britain officers with access to the files. It would be necessary to have a complete knowledge of the savings certificate system in the other territories not to fraud successfully.

In Kenya the staff would be so small that it would be necessary to have a complete knowledge of the savings certificate system in the other territories not to fraud successfully.

Cost of issue
Apart from her own objection to the scheme, Miss Cole stated that the cost of issue would be too high because of the cost of printing and the cost of the extra work required at the counter.

Far too complicated
The workings of any system of savings certificates are likely to be somewhat complicated. It would be difficult for many Africans to understand—particularly the changing value of the certificate as interest accrued, and the method of redemption.

A number of people who had been consulted in East Africa had indicated that it is far too complicated for Africans to understand—particularly the changing value of the certificate as interest accrued, and the method of redemption.

Fraud precautions
Another objection was that the majority of Africans would not have the income tax, or if they have, it would be very low. They would go to advantage from a tax-free investment.

It appeared that the scheme would start in a very small way, to report on savings with not more than £100,000 in 1952, the Government's target was £100,000 a year.

SHORTER ARMY SERVICE DEMAND DEFEATED

The House of Commons has rejected, by 226 votes to 265, a Labour Opposition motion calling for an immediate end to a two-year period of National Service.

The Government's proposal was that the period of National Service should be extended to three years.

The Labour Opposition argued that a two-year period would be sufficient to train young men for the armed forces.

The Government argued that a three-year period would be necessary to meet the needs of the armed forces.

Ethiopia is this week celebrating the 25th anniversary of the coronation of His Imperial Majesty, Haile Selassie I. Here a special correspondent reviews the history and progress of the country during the Emperor's reign

TWENTY-FIVE years ago the more civilized parts of the world were inclined to look upon Ethiopia as a backward and tribal land. The attitude of Ethiopia towards the world has since then undergone a complete transformation. The Emperor Haile Selassie I has led his country and its people through a period of remarkable advancement into the modern world.

Isolation
Countries of isolation from the mainstream of world progress have been a curse. Ethiopia was no exception. For years she was a remote and isolated land. Her geographical position and her political situation made her a country of isolation. The Emperor's reign has been a period of remarkable advancement into the modern world.

Postmen Used To Come To The Gate

The Gate

By JOHN CHERRY

FAMILIAR and well-known figures in the postman with his bag of mail and parcels to emerge you do not associate with the Kenya scene.

When we think of mail we think of the trees of houses at the Colony's Post Office and the postmen who are bringing people with letters to their homes and collect their money from them. It is almost a social institution which you know of the first postman was 77 years old and was 11 years old when he was born in 1875.

It was not long before the water was up to Mr. Din's neck. The flood waters were down to about 30 feet below the level to which he was able to cling with his arms. Several men had been lost but by midnight there was a faint glimmer of light on the water. Mr. Din's River boat was still in the water when the tide came in.

in this series of articles 'Mr. Jessup has so far concentrated on the modern and historical evidence for the existence of flying saucers. For his last article he suggests what they are and where they exist in space.

Their existence or true nature can hardly be known to us until we can in some way determine the nature of gravity itself.

Let us look for a moment at the manifestations of some of the U.P.O.'s.

Their ability to achieve immense acceleration has been one of the greatest puzzles to scientists. Time after time we are told that the U.P.O.'s are possibly dead living bodies of flesh and bone - that such bodies could not withstand the stresses imposed by the observed acceleration.

Yet such argument can be based on entirely erroneous ideas of the propulsive forces used by U.P.O.'s. Aviation is damaging only because the forces behind it are applied externally to the living body or to the structural members of any flying machine.

Any force which would simultaneously accelerate every molecule of either the living body or the mechanical structure would add all such stresses, and both of these and the mechanical acceleration - are any amount of energy without the slightest effect on the living body.

We can assume that whatever the nature of the U.P.O.'s, their propulsion must be, in whatever form, based on the fractions of the accelerated atoms of the accelerated matter. This is the nature of the U.P.O.'s. Aviation is damaging only because the forces behind it are applied externally to the living body or to the structural members of any flying machine.

HOW TO STOP PAIN

Why Phenics is better than aspirin

ALL THE TIME, scientific research is going on with the problem of pain - what it is, and how it can be controlled.

The intensity of pain, for instance, may be measured and the effectiveness of various painkilling substances tested.

The best known of these substances is aspirin. Another very effective one is phenetics. There's something better than either - and that's the new Phenics. It's a combination of aspirin and phenetics in balanced proportions. Such a mixture works more effectively, and for longer, than either one alone!

What is a headache? All the time, researchers are working about pain. The best known substance which makes you feel better is aspirin. But there's a new one - Phenics. Kenya's New £120,000

Factory

By HENRY REUTER

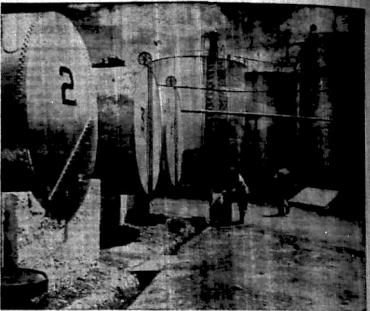

THREE weeks ago, the Governor of Kenya, Sir Evelyn Baring, described as an "important moment for Kenya" the opening of a new £120,000 margarine factory in Nairobi's industrial area. He was alluding to the expression of confidence in the future of the Colony by the financiers of the enterprise: the Colonial and Industrial Development Corporation and Unilevers, but since last week, when margarine was launched on the African market, it has been shown clearly that the new factory will have an even greater influence on the future of Kenya. Africans have responded enthusiastically to this opportunity of purchasing something manufactured in their own country. Sales are expected to increase greatly when distribution is fully organized, and each packet sold represents another step towards the balanced diet known to the West. The factory, in Commercial Street, is fully prepared for a considerable increase in business. Some of the factory is newly built. Some of it has been produced during the last few years, and all of it represents the latest techniques in margarine

180 years of margarine production. Vegetable oils from all parts of East Africa and the Belgian Congo arrive by rail in giant tankers and are pumped directly into four bulk storage tanks, each capable of holding more than 350 tons of oil.

oil from the tanks to a refinery to begin a process which will turn it from a dark, stagnant looking fluid into a pure, sterilizing and protective fat.

This process begins in the "neutralizer," a large steel tank in which it is treated with caustic soda to remove fatty acids and other impurities which would affect the taste or quality of the finished product.

Once neutralized, the oil passes through pipes to another tank in which it is steam-heated to 140 degrees Centigrade and bleached by activated earth and carbon from a dark brown to a rich golden colour.

In a filter gross dirt and rashes are removed, and the clear oil continues its journey.

By this time, the oil is beginning to take on the appearance of the product found in the little oblong packets, but it still has a long way to go.

Stainless steel

"Through stainless steel pipes it then travels into another tank, with little windows, through which one can see it being agitated as though whitened simultaneously by a heated Mr. Beattie. This is the 'hydrogenator' which, by the use of hydrogen gas, creates a vacuum which draws out any excess water and gives a cream which dries but may require and their code it with the aid of a hydrogenator, another steel

NEW MACHINE WILL DOUBLE OUTPUT

TRIALS are now taking place at the new Nairobi margarine factory of a new-type packing machine capable of doubling the daily output. If the machine is successful, it will be used in other Unilevers factories.

French origin

DURING the 1860s, when there was a severe food shortage in France, due to a combination of wars and a rapid expansion of the population, the Emperor, Napoleon III decided that "an artificial butter" was cheaper and better than natural butter. This is a far cry from the conditions under which the first margarine was produced.

to invent the artificial butter. He reasoned that cows obtained the fat found in their milk from their own body fat, and with that in mind, bought a quantity of beef tallow. From the beef tallow, Mouton extracted the protein that most resembled butter and mixed it with milk. Mouton found that the mixture in a boiler, when to form an emulsion, kept it out of the cream separator and in 1869 the first margarine was produced.

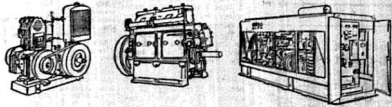

Back in 1890

MARGARINE production with beef tallow continued, improved and it was not long before it was discovered that vegetable oils extracted from roots and seeds could be used as an alternative material for making margarine. By 1900, the product had progressed from the kitchen to the table.

VITAMINISED OIL FOR PRISONERS

One of the most important additions of Nairobi's new margarine factory is the production of vitaminised oil for former Mau Mau, detained in prisons and camps throughout Kenya. Every month about 20 tons of this oil goes into bottles and drums destined for Mackinnon Road, Nairobi. The camps spread over an area stretching from Kitale to the Coast. It is the result of insistence by Government medical authorities that each of the given vitamins to a set standard of 2,000 international units per day. In February this year, prisoners were given a daily ration of cod-liver oil and in late February, their daily 2,000 units have been contained in a half-ounce of margarine. These measures were introduced to cut down scurvy and other ailments.

It has also been found useful in the Aberdeens and other spheres of activity where it has been issued to askaris engaged on long patrols in remote areas.

Production Aim Is 500 TONS

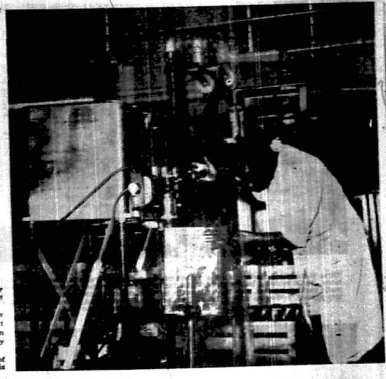

From Holland To Kenya

Under the terms of a licence which is subject to Government approval, sterilised and neutralised, the oil is pumped to the factory or is deposited in large tanks for a certain period and is then bottled.

Water from the municipal supply has been purified by passing through a series of filters and is used for the manufacture of the margarine. The margarine is made in a large factory which is called a "refinery". The margarine is produced in a series of stages and is then packed into tins. The margarine is then transported to the various prisons and camps throughout Kenya.

Aluminium

It is not only the fact that the margarine is produced in a series of stages, but also the fact that the margarine is produced in a series of stages, and is then packed into tins. The margarine is then transported to the various prisons and camps throughout Kenya.

Side by side in the hall for three days after it comes off the production line. A refrigerating plant is now being installed in the present storage room, ensuring even further conditions on receipt by the consignee. Through every stage of manufacture the margarine is

There is a plan to build a soap factory in Nairobi, which will be a large-scale enterprise. The factory is expected to be completed by the end of the year.

THREE PICTURES TELL AN INDUSTRIAL STORY

Kenya moves to counter propaganda

MOVES are being made by the Kenya Government to counter what the Chief Secretary, Mr. R. G. Thurland, described in a letter to the Council yesterday as "hostile propaganda" brought from outside stations to Kenya and received with particular clarity at the Coast.

In a interview, Mr. Thurland said that the outside stations to which had referred were the ABC and in other Middle East countries.

The programme received very strong support from the Coast. They were provided in a way which was in accordance with the wishes of the station, which was of a satisfactory small size.

Medicine of truth

The Kenya Broadcasting Corporation had stressed the need for an improved service to the general public and to establish an Air Force officer to head the service.

The Air Force officer who was named was the late Col. J. H. G. Thurland.

3,000 dozen Kenya eggs for Uganda

CONSICM ENDS THE SIGNIFICANCE OF eggs to reach Uganda at a rate of 3,000 dozen arrived in Kampala from Kenya last week.

The eggs were supplied to Kenya after a long time between the Kenya Government and the Uganda Government, the Department of Agriculture, and the Kenya Ministry of Agriculture.

"We should have enough to export all our eggs," Mr. Harrod, Deputy, said, "and to export to continue at our rate, and these should be the more and more eggs to be exported."

It is understood that the agreement of the Kenya Government in Kenya to take regular supplies with eggs is about to be signed.

The first meeting of the Executive Council of the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland on 15th November was held in Salisbury.

Mr. G. M. Vasey, Secretary, presided over the meeting.

The meeting was held in the presence of Mr. G. M. Vasey, Secretary, and Mr. G. M. Vasey, Secretary.

'LITTLE HOPE' OF TAX CUTS

Heavy pressure

NEVERTHELESS the Government did not intend to see the Agriculture Bill passed at the present time, the Finance Minister said today.

Graduated tax

TURNING to taxation, Mr. Harrod said that the Government was not in a position to reduce taxation at the present time.

WHITE PAPER ON HOUSE PURCHASE PROPOSALS

KENYA LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL was asked on Wednesday to consider a loan-for-homes scheme under which building interest would be reduced to 5 per cent of the purchase price. If approved, people living in the Nairobi area will be able to take advantage of it immediately. The scheme would include all local authorities in the country. In a White Paper, it stated that the result of the scheme would be that the Government would be able to provide interest-free loans for the purchase of houses. There are severe limitations on the way of financing a need for a new type of housing. The Government has a limited amount of money available for house building. BRITISH OFFER OF HELP IN THE MIDDLE EAST Premier condemns arms for Egypt

BRITAIN is ready to render any services in finding a solution to the Israeli-Arab quarrel. In making the offer, the Prime Minister, Sir Anthony Eden, said: "It is there anything, anything that we can do to help, we would be glad to do it for the sake of peace."

The Premier, who was making a foreign policy speech at a luncheon to honour the Lord Mayor of London, A.L. Cuthbert Ackroyd, had accused Russia of deliberately delivering arms to Arab countries to make it easier for Communism to penetrate the Arab States.

"For our part," he said, "it is impossible to reconcile this Soviet action with protestations that they wish to end the cold war in the spirit of Geneva." Neither Israel nor the Arab neighbours wanted to see their differences turned to the advantage of anyone else.

"Our own policy is to urge both sides to accept the U.N. plan for a withdrawal in the Gaza area and said: "Let there be no mistake. Were any such withdrawal to be effected, it would be a triumph for the Arab side."

He urged reconsideration of the August proposals made by Britain and the United States to be given in a formal treaty agreement to prevent any offer by either side to help forcibly the present boundaries between Israel and Arab States, "even should it mean the loss of territory or other related problems."

"Our side wishes it to help to find a means of living which will enable the people concerned to thrive side by side in peace." Sir Anthony Eden said he was having to give a speech in the House of Commons on the subject of the world, and to prevent competition in armaments races.

He said that he was not sure that he was going to be able to do this, but he would do his best to do it for the sake of peace.

SIR ROY BLAMES UNPOPULARITY ON REALISM

Federal Government 'firm' on REALISM

Farm control changes urged

SIR ROY WELNSKY, the Acting Prime Minister, has said that the stock of the Federal Party has been low "because of the impression that the Government is not firm in its determination to carry out the interests of the Federation first, above the interests of particular sections and in disregard of really sound popularity."

He was speaking the other day at a meeting of the Eastern Districts Regional Development and Publicity Association. He added that in addition to the line the Government had taken, the stock of popularity of every government in history had been low in the second and third years of its life.

In his determination to stand the interests of the Federation first, the Government had entered into a trade agreement with South Africa, the primary purpose of which was to give the people of the Federation a better life and to enable them to export to the Union.

The measures

Again, the Government had intended to introduce legislation which it had prepared to be essential for the national interest in the next few years. "There has been a feeling that they were unpopular," he said, "but they were necessary, and the people of the country are now realizing the benefits of the economic strength of the Federation."

He said that in the Eastern Districts, £200,000 was being spent on water processing plants, a casing factory was being erected, and the economic potential of the area is being developed.

RESETTLING OF KARIBA AFRICANS BEGINS

The only thing that could really neutralize the views of the Northern Rhodesian Africans on the proposed Kariba dam, is the resettlement of the Africans in the area to be flooded by the Southern Province, in a Free conference in Lusaka.

A start has been made in the resettlement of Africans in the Chambesi Valley and it is expected that about 1,000 will be moved from the area in 1934 and 150,000 Africans will be moved from the area in 1935.

One of the main reasons why the resettlement of Africans in the Chambesi Valley is being undertaken is that the area is a fertile one and it is expected that the resettled Africans will be able to support themselves and their families on the land.

WOLVES LOWER DYNAMO FLAG
Scotland gain well-earned 2-0 victory against Wales

PLAYING fast, clever football, Wolverhampton Wanderers, the former English Soccer champions, defeated Dynamo Dynamo, the Soviet Union Soccer champions, by a 2-0 victory in a floodlight match on Wednesday night. It was not until Dynamo's second goal for a time, their sparkling football guaranteed them a place in the second round. They were never able to penetrate the Wolves' defence.

AGAINST UNION

'Protectors of Bantu' idea refuted by Mr. Du Plessis

ANNOUNCING the South African Government's decision in its smallistic attitude towards the United Nations, the leader of the delegation, Mr. Du Plessis, outlined his country's position on the apartheid policy and accused the Union of pursuing a vendetta against the Union practically from the inception of the United Nations.

Mr. Du Plessis said that, naturally, he did not and could not vote on the resolution approved by the Special Political Committee to keep the racial situation in the Union under review during the next 12 months. The reason was that, once again, the matter was within the competence of the jurisdiction of the United Nations.

It could not have any effect on the United Nations' decisions on the U.N. Charter, which was signed by South Africa's rights as a member State.

'No case' stated

"Since we take our stand on the judicial position, we have no case to present," he said. "We have no doubt that we will be able to put forward on this specific question."

"In this matter we say that the Union would have given no greater assistance, in terms of financial assistance, than to the United Nations, on the subject of apartheid. We say that the Union is not doing anything to help the Bantu to a position of equality with the white people."

"But if we want to say this, we must not forget that the Union has not only been a member of the United Nations since 1946, but also a member of the Commonwealth of Nations since 1931. We say that the Union has not done anything to help the Bantu to a position of equality with the white people. We say that the Union has not done anything to help the Bantu to a position of equality with the white people."

Verdict of History

"By following this traditional path of prejudice and balancing the interests of all races, we will be able to work out a policy which will be in the best interests of the people of South Africa."

"We should understand all the consequences of such a decision. We should understand all the consequences of such a decision. We should understand all the consequences of such a decision."

Without the railways and harbours many of East Africa's industries would be lost

The beginning of the development of these industries dates from the building of the railway. Their expansion and growth has followed and has been typical of many industries in the entire trade. Today the railways and harbours are being expanded and modernized so that in the future, at little cost, they will play their vital part in the development of this, and every other, East African industry.

Committee adjourned

'GRAVE CONCERN' AT 'WALK-OUT DECISION'

At Britain's request, the U.N. Trusteeship Council has adjourned its 14th meeting in view of the "grave concern" of South Africa's walk-out from the General Assembly.

The Committee was adjourned at the outbreak of the meeting by Mr. C. K. Westcott, who said that the committee would be "in a very grave position" if the walk-out were to continue.

Inevitable harm

It is inevitable that to themselves an element which is extremely prejudiced against the Bantu people, and which would be in a position to do so, will do so. It is inevitable that to themselves an element which is extremely prejudiced against the Bantu people, and which would be in a position to do so, will do so.

Members view

"The members of the United Nations Organization have expressed their grave concern and their disappointment at the decision of the South African Government to walk out of the General Assembly."

WORKERS IN AN EAST AFRICAN FOREST

When the railway came to East Africa at the turn of the century it provided an immediate impetus to the timber trade. Much timber was required for railway construction, and to provide mechanical sawmills took the place of primitive processes. And, as the territories' timber potential was realized, it was the railway line which determined the locations of the sawmills. Between 1910 and 1932 there was a rapid increase in the number of mills. Forests in the Mount Kenya area were opened up—and all the new mills were served by the railway.

In these years the first cedarwood pencil slats were exported — the first consignments of timber in commercial quantities from Kenya. Today this trade is worth nearly a quarter of a million pounds sterling.

Between 1925 and 1930 a great step forward was made in the decision to plant many thousands of acres of softwoods, which are maturing now, and are as important to the industry as the indigenous hardwoods.

The production and export of timber was an important part of the territories' war effort, and since the war plans have been made for improved production and marketing methods, which will give the timber trade a growing importance in East Africa's economy.

Nearly all the timber grown in East Africa is moved by rail, at some time or another, and the importance of transport to the timber industry is something of which the East African Railway & Harbours administration has proved itself to be constantly aware.

Turning tribe turns to beekeeping business

HONEY PROFITS FOR DOROBO

HONEY is a booming business to the Dorobo tribe in Kasungu district, Northern Kenya. After the Government had stopped Dorobos from hunting wild life in the Matthews, Mido and Ng'ro ranges, a scheme was worked out to turn them into beekeepers. The Dorobos have been remarkable. The District Commissioner and a course of instruction in beekeeping was given to Dorobo tribesmen. The Dorobos have been successful in their new venture. Major bridge over Nzioia completed

DESPITE heavy rains and the flooding of rivers flowing down from Mount Elgon, considerable progress has been made with work on the new road link being constructed between Eldoret and Tororo. When completed many miles off the existing main road from Kenya to Uganda.

The new road, which is 21 miles long, is being built in two sections. The first section, from Eldoret to Nzioia, is now open to traffic. The second section, from Nzioia to Tororo, is still under construction.

CHILD NEGLECT FOR KENYA

Probation officer warns on lack of concern

DIFFICULTIES faced by juvenile court probation officers in young people in trouble but in persisting magnates that the interest of the child is of paramount importance, according to the Principal Probation Officer, Mr. Colin S. Owen, in his 10th report on his Department. The lack of concern is more fully shown by the numbers of juveniles in prison and detention camps. Probation officers feel that they should not be called on again for the penal reform battles won long ago by Marjory Fry and her colleagues. Mr. Owen says: "The only juvenile court in Kenya was Nairobi. The omission to set up similar courts throughout the Colony pointed a lack of interest in the welfare of the young people of little importance. A special effort must be made to draw attention to the fact that juvenile work is not a job which can be done by any ordinary man."

Manner of man
"To predict this work has serious repercussions on the future of Kenya is to do injustice to the parent in a small measure, and to the child in a larger measure, for the way in which the child will turn out as a citizen, and in many instances as a parent, the proper care of children, and young persons."

At the Nairobi Juvenile Court. The High Court was often because of the services of Emergency Regulations, and in the case of the children and young persons. Another factor was the condition of family life due to "Anarchy" and similar operations between eight to 10 years from the Nairobi Juvenile Court. The High Court was often because of the services of Emergency Regulations, and in the case of the children and young persons.

Left homeless
Many children, left homeless by the burning of their homes, wandered into Nairobi and other cities in search of shelter. Probation officers were able to find and have over 200 children in their charge.

SERIOUS M.P.'s question on use of Kenya land

UNDEVELOPED areas of Kenya White Highlands consisted mostly of unpartitioned grazing land developed European farmers into use because of poor fertility, irrigation problems or inaccessibility. The Colonial Secretary, Mr. James Johnson, said in reply to a question in the House of Commons.

Mr. James Johnson (Lah.) had asked if the Colonial Secretary was aware that the agricultural colonies of East Africa had shown that three per cent of land was used for the raising of sheep and over 11 per cent of arable lands were under sown or in the hands of Government.

"I had wanted to know if consideration would be given to the possibility of using the unpartitioned lands, Upper and Lower Kavirato, Upper and Lower Uasin Gishu, and Uasin Gishu District, to sell for farmers."

ZANZIBAR SELECTION OF COUNCIL MEMBERS

Resident dispels 'misunderstanding'

CONSIDERATIONS which would influence the British Resident, Mr. H. S. Potter, in making recommendations to the Sultan for the appointment of Representative Members to be present at Unofficial Members to the Zanzibar Legislative Council are outlined in a communication by the Zanzibar Government.

Considered a cost a life

The communication states that the Government is pleased to see the British Resident's intention to be understood that, subject to what follows, it is the intention that no members should be persons who have made their homes here and have fully identified themselves with the interests of the Government. Under the proposed new Constitution the British Resident could not normally recommend to His Highness the Sultan the appointment of any person who was not a Zanzibar subject. In the past, however, the Sultan might be made from the Government and he is particularly anxious to see that the Government is not a Zanzibar subject. Get POWER free here

Use all the power you can get!

There's power in your engine which you may not be using. It's being held back by deposits of combustion which collect in the cylinder and cause faulty ignition. Prevention is a common example of this and it wastes power and motor spirit. Nothing can stop these deposits forming but when you use Shell with I.C.A. they will be harmless.

The superior power of Shell motor spirit is due firstly to its supreme quality and balanced blending and then to the unique power-saving action of I.C.A. which enables your engine to develop, and keep all the power, all the pull, all the smooth acceleration the makers built into it.

LESSONS THAT WILL LIVE...

By PENNY WISE

CAN you remember, during your school days, dreaming vividly of the lands of which you were reading in your geography book of struggling side by side with the brave people of that day?

Such daydreams usually had a certain realism about them, where you thought of but one thing, and that was to go to a certain island, where you would be a hero, and you would be a hero, and you would be a hero.

AFTERMATH OF HORROR OF ATOM TESTS

By GORDON HOPE

HEAR the voice of the wilderness. Whose voice? Dr. J. O. McDonald, speaking in medical circles in Washington, D. C. last week. The wilderness is the wilderness of public and private opinion concerning the effects of atomic tests on man and the world.

What is the answer? "Living in sin" is not the scientific answer. The scientific answer is "it is impossible to say for certain."

The scientific doctor speaking from his ivory tower as a great scientific practitioner in the Parkland Center of Research in Dallas, Texas, is not the only one to doubt the wisdom of nuclear tests. The British doctor, who has been asked to head the committee of inquiry into the effects of atomic tests on man, also doubts the wisdom of nuclear tests. He says that the effect of atomic tests on man is "a question which will be answered by time and by observation."

It is possible that the doctors know the present level of atomic tests is not the best way of conducting atomic tests. They are, however, unable to say that. They have already reached the limits of their knowledge.

Dr. McDonald's voice is the first truly expert to speak in this something that can be done?

HENRY REUTER Talking About The Radio

GENERAL Lathbury's broadcast, disseminated at the Press Club dinner last Friday that has now so quickly left off on many a terrace, as possible, and then to leave no stone unturned or controlled by the police; has aroused questions as to the fate of the Forces' Broadcasting Station.

Obviously, at the station it is run for the Forces every day, the Forces' Broadcasting Station. It became a little more to justify the station to the taxpayer.

A business inquiry at 12.15 this week brought the rather ominous reply that if there is a further stoppage of broadcast the station will have to be reviewed.

Duplicated

So, if the success of the campaign continues, it seems unlikely that any programme will be presented under the name of the Forces' Broadcasting Station, but it is hoped that some of the programmes will be duplicated in other parts of the country.

At Christmas the last year, the Forces' Broadcasting Station was presented with a programme for the British Post, with a programme for the British Post, with a programme for the British Post, with a programme for the British Post.

Invitation

Listeners to the Forces' Broadcasting Station on Wednesday evenings are invited to send suggestions for anything they would like to hear on the Forces' Broadcasting Station. It is hoped that some of the programmes will be presented under the name of the Forces' Broadcasting Station.

AMONG THE NEW BOOKS

It is, I know, a tendency to regard a feast of mine that I top of it in the field of literature of present-day literature.

This is probably the best of the new novels to be read, and the best of the new novels to be read, and the best of the new novels to be read.

At this time of the year, however, there are no more novels being published that I would not like to read.

I had new eyes in reading and talking about it. It is a novel that I have read, and I have read it, and I have read it, and I have read it.

It is a novel that I have read, and I have read it, and I have read it, and I have read it.

BRITAIN'S 92 AIR RECORDS

Britain holds 92 official aviation records, says the aviation record office of the Royal Air Force.

Authentic air

An excellent historical novel takes the form of Elizabethan spy fiction. The author, John Galsworthy, follows the career of an English airman from his boy's days at the Court of the Emperor to his great triumph when he is captured as a prisoner of war.

Work of quality

I will begin with the three volumes by R. C. Hutchinson. The first is a collection of selected novels and while having a literary interest, has never quite reached the level of the other two.

Historical novel

Mr. D. L. Matson is already well known to our readers as the author of 'The Cruel Sea' and 'The Wind on the Water'.

NOTE: It is suggested that the price of the book be lowered to 10s. 6d. when stocks last week.

A tribute to a great soldier—and an appeal on his behalf THE K.A.R. ASKARI

Of all the troops engaged in Kenya's State of Emergency, the askari of the King's African Rifles—the 60th-yeoman trained soldier—is the happy-go-lucky demobilist, for his smiling and extreme optimism in all circumstances—deserves the longest cheer.

Six months' instruction turns the raw material of tribesmen, with blanketed and speared, into the infantryman with rifle and bayonet. But his training, in camp room and on barrack square, gives the African askari those more valuable qualities: the desire to please, an earnest devotion to his officers and an unwavering loyalty to his uniform and unit.

Of such qualities are born five regiments and the battalions of the King's African Rifles are not lacking in the spirit which inspired the Gloucestershire Regiment on the Dardanelles and the Black Watch as they fought for the King.

Fine record

We have not heard all of the deeds of their men in the past few months. Their fine record, their score in the King's operation "First Pledge" alone, in the K.A.R. battalions of the 40th East African Brigade accounted for more than 400 terrorists in six weeks' fighting of the Mount Kenya.

The regiment has had a glorious year. It has won the 4th Battalion of the King's African Rifles in the months on the 4th Battalion of the King's African Rifles. It has won the 4th Battalion of the King's African Rifles. It has won the 4th Battalion of the King's African Rifles.

By JOHN WOOD who spent much of his National Service on patrols with the K.A.R.

Fresh meat, we used to the African to do. When one item of goods of the morning of green vegetation, he is there to talk and joke with.

I picture him now as I write tall, and must be of evenly on the face of his forehead, his nose pointing upwards and steam rising from his nostrils. He is there to talk and joke with.

One's greatest pleasure comes during service with the happy carefree men of the K.A.R. They get out of anything, and they are happy in the present, and they are happy in the past.

LAST DAY of the operations. Everyone is tired and anxious to return to their barracks. But the askari is not. He is still smiling and joking with his fellow soldiers.
