KREMLIN ambitions to split West Germany

Spain from the free nations received a sharp set-back yesterday when both nations spurned any idea of an alliance with Russia.

In Bonn, the West German Foreign Minister, Dr Heinrich von Brentano, said that neither West Germany nor a united Germany would ever sign an alliance with Russia behind the back of the Western Powers.

Originally, it was intended as a natural home to support the temple in the Ptolemaic era, but it was also intended as a reading room for all the Mediterranean. Although now famous to posterity as the Library, it is lightless (the letters, now dug out in 1846, were one of the Seven Wonders of the World), while the base story of the city is marked with the names of vital personalities ranging from Julius Caesar to Napoleon. THE Treasury threw new light on the events which led to the increase in commodity prices which generally the whole of the increase in output of cars and metal containers sets to fly — went into the home market. This may not seem a very important or dramatic revelation, but it explains more clearly than any previous official announcement just what is meant by "too much prosperity".

In the first seven months of 1955, the production index for core and metal containers was a fifth higher than a year earlier and two and a half times as great as in 1945.

According to the Treasury's figures, the production index for metal containers has risen by 100 per cent since the start of the year. This is a reflection of the fact that the production index for metal containers in the first quarter of 1955 was 115 per cent higher than in the first quarter of 1954, and the rate of growth this year is expected to be still higher.

Increases in production of this type are not new. In 1954, the demand for raw materials, iron and steel, copper and ferrous metals, was high. The Government itself, including the Ministry of Defence, had a high demand for raw materials.

MILLIONS SPENT ON NEW MILL

NEWSPRINT made from the trees of New Zealand's Kangaroo forest is passed works of rigorous secret tests and will not be commercial use. The Taranaki Pulp and Paper Co. announced in Wellington.

The Special New Zealand Forestry Commission has passed a sample roll of the newpaper, the company said. The sample roll was made at the mill, which is now being made all over New Zealand and delivered to the mill. The mill will start early this month.

The industry hopes to establish a substantial export trade from the mill with New Zealand on the east coast of North Island, in which millions of pounds of British, American, Canadian and New Zealand papers are produced. New Zealand's Forestry Commission has already established an expanding export of pulp to Australia, Singapore, India, and other countries.

Canadian companies in the company say the raw pulp from Kangaroo forest is as good as any found in Canada. (RUPITER)

IN FEVER INQUIRY

Living habits differ

INVESTIGATIONS into why the type of mosquito which carries yellow fever in Africa into South America does not do so in Malaya have been carried out by scientists from the East African Virus Research Institute at Entebbe.

No case of yellow fever has ever been reported from Malaya, reports although the mosquito is abundant. It is linked with the disease in South America and West Africa, it is abundant there.

Conditions apparently favourable for transmission and maintenance of yellow fever in Malaya. It is important to find out why disease is absent, says the report on work carried out by Dr. D. Gillies, an entomologist, and Dr. W. Ross, a medical research officer.

Biting monkeys

At the request of the Malayan Institute for Medical Research, tests have been carried out on how many Malayan mosquitoes transmit yellow fever from one monkey to another. These tests have shown that the mosquito feeds, as elsewhere, in an efficient but sporadic manner, and at least one in 20 of those mosquitoes which were fed transmitted the virus to the monkey.

Nigeria hopeful of new sleeping sickness cure

DRUG TESTS SUCCESSFUL

SCIENTISTS working in Nigeria may have discovered a new cure for sleeping sickness, the five-year-old scourge of backward areas in Africa, according to an official report published in London. Field tests carried out in Nigeria last year, the 1954-55 Colonial Research Report says, justified the hope that the drug—Mecrin—would provide a valuable alternative treatment when routine drugs failed to cure.

Always building a greater East Africa

SEALED - for durability and strength the world's cheapest fibre - makes one of the most important contributions to East African economy. It is the major industry in Tanganyika land, since the war, has contributed £100,000,000 to the territory's export economy. Sixty years ago 62 plants were brought from Java to Tanganyika and Kenya was 210,000 tons - two-thirds of the world total - and 300,000 tons were exported, earning £13,000,000, much of it in dollars.

East African Railways and Harbours played a big part in earning that money - providing the transport to carry the sisal to the coast, and the dock facilities for the ships which carried it overseas. And what the Administration does for the sisal industry it does for all those industries which by their exports, are helping to build a greater East Africa.

It is the expert trade that East African property develops, but there can be no efficient shipping system without an efficient system for transporting goods to the coast for onward shipment. These are the facilities Administration provides, and it constantly improves, develops and expands so they can play their full and vital part in East African economy.

Only Deep-Cleaning can give you a perfect complexion
A lovely skin is the first sign of beauty. But only by perfect cleaning can you have a flawless skin. You may lose the hidden dirt, the particles of dust and dirt you can't see. That's why Anne French's Clearing Milk gives you a flawless complexion. Because 'Anne French' Clearing Milk and soap are right to the base of your pores. It clears away impurities. Try this test. # ZANZIBAR'S ESTIMATES SHOW DEFICIT

'No need for immediate increase in taxation'

ZANZIBAR'S total planned expenditure for 1956 in both development estimates, exceeded total revenues by £205,000, said Mr. A. H. Hawker, the acting Financial Secretary, when he moved the approval of the development programme draft estimates to the Legislative Council.

Moving the reference of the Finance Committee, the acting Secretary, Mr. P. H. Nightingale, said the general financial position was satisfactory, and there was no immediate need for increased taxation. The debates on the Protectorate and development estimates were adjourned until Wednesday.

Dealing with the Protectorate estimates, Mr. Nightingale said that the final result would be an expenditure of £1,914,000, a surplus of £1,000,000 over the £900,000 revenue. Surpluses including the £1,000,000 was proposed to spend from surplus funds, the final result would be an overall deficit of just over £200,000. The revenue estimates for next year was £2,300,000, and the total of government receipts was still high compared with the £1,900,000 in 1951. It was estimated that there was an increase of £100,000 in the total of expenditure.

He stated that there was no immediate need for increased taxation, Mr. Nightingale said that in a few cases certain services could be curtailed if it was considered that they should be a burden on the public. He also mentioned that the surplus and the deficit during the period from 1951 to 1952 were not being carried over into the programme of development.

Alarm not necessary
His exhibition to all respondents for the spending of public funds to be very careful, was rebuffed by Mr. Hawker, who said the estimates of the development programme would be a guide to the public. He said that the estimates were not to be taken as a guide to the public, and that the estimates were not to be taken as a guide to the public.

He drew attention to the fact that the British Government was not to be taken as a guide to the public, and that the estimates were not to be taken as a guide to the public.

Helping To Fill The World's Shopping Basket

INDUSTRIES OF KENYA

FACTORY farming with a difference, in which agricultural and industrial products are combined with an advanced approach to agriculture, is today enabling Kenya to play an increasingly important part in the world's shopping basket.

Permanent agriculture in which good hand-housed land is used to produce a wide range of goods, some of them usually grown only in the tropics, has now proved for many years the best way to meet export demand, and many of our shippers are looking across East Africa for better opportunities for markets.

The sale of this development is the case of I.E.P. Products of Nairobi, which is now producing for export and sale in East Africa, India, Ceylon, Malaya, and other countries a wide range of products from their three farms.

Five years ago

Five years ago Mr. H. J. Walker, who was in partnership with a Kandi-estate in East Africa, opened a small factory in the estate in a bid to make Kenya dairy farming pay, and he built this factory.

They began with the rearing of milk and cream. They soon branched out into the rearing of young calves and the drying of milk. They also began to produce butter, and the methods, all those used at the time were gradually being worked out across the plain. It did not attract the factory people producing what is perhaps our best butter product - Lamara processed cheese-making in a long and

This motorized machine seals milk and cream cans.

THE article on this and the three succeeding pages deal with some of the Kenya casements for which one of East Africa's leading commercial concerns, Messrs. M. J. Mackenzie & Co., set up its plant at Nairobi, Kenya. It is now possible to see the progress of the plant, and it is still playing a role in the economic expansion of East Africa.

Since 1937 when the company was launched, it has trebled from the limit to Kampala and beyond, and it has a record of growth and expansion which is difficult to see in East Africa.

Details successfully completed have resulted from the expansion and sale of 1,500 Toner machines to the sale of one bottle of hormone and to a relative of Dijkstra's Bacterium.

Towards the end of the 19th century British Machinery participated in one of the earliest (and most successful) attempts to grow Arabica coffee in East Africa, on the coast of Tanganyika near Mombasa, purchased for a sale of about five acres and a quantity of land.

The company's own trading activities have included the sending of many contracts to open up the field in East Africa, and among the agencies and the firms which are associated with the growth of Kenya are - for which is "covered" many areas of East Africa.

highly complicated process of disseminating past skill, careful design and high standards of hygiene. The study of all these factors has been the life's work of the factory manager, Mr. I. R. Chalmers - a Dane who came to Kenya after many years of cheese-making in his own country.

On arrival at the factory milk is chemically tested for purity and butter-fat content and then stored in stainless steel tanks. The milk is then pumped into a 200-gallon steam-jacketed cheese vat, ready for the addition of a specially prepared "starter" to make the milk curdle.

At a certain acidity, when the curd has formed in the vat and the whey at the top, the curd is cut into cubes with a cheese knife, and when they are drained off, to become food for livestock.

"Hutches"

Using a board, an African "assistant" presses the curd into a solid mass, and with a cheese knife he cuts the mass into rectangular slabs about a foot long and two to three inches thick.

These slabs are then stacked on top of each other, two layers giving the cheese a high acidity and four or more layers a high salt content. The "curd" is left to ripen for two to three hours.

Two to three hours later, the cheese is packed in small, three-ounce, three-ounce tins, and then pressed into its final shape. Salt is added to the curd, which is then packed into its final shape. These pieces are pressed into their final containers, which have previously been sterilized, and

Mr. Chalmers, right, supervises a test for acidity.

Bleeding

By these methods 1 1/2 of cheese can be made with one pound of milk. The cheese is usually sold in 100g tins, before becoming solid. Cheese, having to be ripened and the cheese in an insulated chamber heated to 60° to 70° F., where they are kept for about two months.

Normally, a cheese can then be eaten, but as Lamara cheese is pressed and sold in tins, even more processing is required.

From the ripening room the cheeses are taken to a second chamber kept at a temperature of 5° F., where they may be stored for several months.

When they are considered perfect, Mr. Chalmers inserts a cheese tin into each cheese, and each cheese is wrapped in a long, cylindrical piece of cheesecloth by hand and examined for texture and consistency.

After a long experience of cheese-making, he can then select half a dozen cheeses of different flavours for lambing and serving into the Lamara tin.

Output

In an address to the 4th Annual Meeting of the Kenya Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Chalmers said that the output of the factory in 1956 was 1,500 tons of cheese. This was a record for the factory, and it was due to the fact that the factory had been running for five years.

A FULLY mechanized carpenter's shop, in which precision machinery transforms great logs brought from the forests into roof, string and wall-boards, at the rate of 50 a day, is the pride of the Nairobi office of the Nyanza Timber and Hardware Company, whose mills, stores and timber yards are spread over a large part of the Nairobi industrial area.

Today the start and grind of the circular saw provide a deftening background to a most important industry, and very soon the tempo will be even faster for the company has just ordered the contract for one of its biggest-ever single orders.

Fine art

DOOR-BUILDING is an industry which has been brought to a fine art in the Nyanza Timber factory, and the artisans are masterly skilled and highly paid Africans who, to date, have produced a market in adaptability. Logs of rotas and poles, which serve to rail from Entebbe, Thromon's Falls and other spout, counter areas, begin their excruciating journey through the saws and they are machined on to a machine which cuts them into battens of varying thicknesses.

The first machine which really gets down to the business of making doors is the four-cutter, which cuts a groove in the edge of the board, and can cut four surfaces simultaneously.

A slightly handied cross-cut then cuts the battens into correct lengths—and that makes anything from two pieces for doors a foot square to 10 feet long for special orders from hotels and public buildings.

When cut and sanded, the poles are stacked systematically to dry. From these stacks, the wood is taken to a machine which fits into the grooves already made. Precision adjusted, this machine will make from 16 to 20 battens at a time.

In the meantime, made up of the same machinery but also with the aid of a setting machine which can do several operations controlled by a few floor frames, giving the strength and stability.

special glue imported from Britain is brushed, around the surface of the framework, and poured into all the joints.

On the surface of the framework is laid a sheet of plywood work in laid a sheet of plywood cut exactly to size. This is fastened in place. The door is turned over and a similar sheet is placed on the other side. Plywood is imported from several countries including India and Malaya from West Africa, pine from Sweden and birch from Czechoslovakia.

In large presses batches of 12 doors are subjected to heavy pressure for two to three hours to ensure that the joints are firm, and that all the plywood work is cut away the perfect framework, making them perfectly flush.

Sanding is done both by hand and by machine, and although to take time the door appears to be perfect, one more operation is essential—the drilling of holes at each end of the door to let out air which, would otherwise, be trapped, and would be liable to cause warping.

All varieties

DOORS of all kinds can be made in order to suit the factory's machinery, and for extra quick turning can be given round the edges of the doors all the fittings being related, to give a perfect finish. With trade showing a steady but constant increase during the two years it has been making doors, Nyanza Timbers are happy about future prospects in this field. Their doors are well made and adaptable whatever way they are being a lock

One Man And His Wife Started This Industry

WAY up in the Aberdarees on a plateau about 11,000 feet above sea level, even higher than the cloud banks, there is a small, perpetually cheerful little town. It can be found in an industry unique in the world. It is the home of the creator of Mau Mau to become one of the brightest hopes for the future of our agriculture.

Mr. John Cairns, one of the founders of the industry, who is carrying on the family tradition.

Began in 1934

Then, there was nothing on the farm but hundreds of scattered lease stamps. Today, thousands of trees which they planted, are in their prime, rich pasture lands and wide areas of woodland. Lively gardens grew up to a wooden house, built by an architect, and covered with an abundance of flowers. The stationery, the regular mail, the electric light-cream milk, the telephone, the car, the factory producing dried milk, the bus, the hospital, and the school, all came to the farm. The Government to replace the old cattle with which the farm was started, Mr. and Mrs. Cairns found it difficult to get a return to England and on their return later they met with the building of a factory and installing a power.

Factory fired

The factory did well, and the farm began taking milk from neighbours. The first year, the night milk was taken from their beds by a truck. The Cairns were not long in realising that the factory. Five first-class buildings were built, and the factory was completely destroyed. The machinery was destroyed, but Mr. Anthony the factory engineer,

These high-grade activities have succeeded the farm's original "dry" of four native cattle.

Chief of the land, and the Cairns dug deeply into their savings. It was built of stone and brick, and now it is a permanent structure. Additional modern machinery was installed, and an old Uganda railway locomotive which had supplied the factory's power for 18 years, was made into a safe, and equipped with a powerful diesel engine.

As a depository for firewood, the old locomotive is still doing $9,000 miles before it is replaced by the Diesel. In 1938, and when it was purchased by the farm, all the neighbours turned out with their families and a team of oxen, to haul it up the mountain-side.

Purity test

Developing 50 h.p. the new engine is capable of driving the mill. The factory does at present. When milk from farms within a radius of 15 miles arrives at the farm it is first tested for purity and butter-fat content. The ficker the milk, the larger the bonus for the supplier.

From a large vat, the milk is sent through a pasteuriser, a homogeniser, which gives it a homogeneous, uniform quality. Through stainless steel pipes, the milk then runs into a hopper, from which it trickles downwards into the rotary presser.

This consists of two giant rollers driven from one side and set concentrically of an iron shaft. As the milk pours on to them it spreads out and is squeezed into an even layer. The rollers are constantly revolving, and after travelling two thirds of a revolution the now dried milk is automatically scraped off them by a long knife and drops into a hopper.

Automatic

Once in the hopper it is stored for a day to allow it to become fully packed, and after being again for 72 hours and purified.

Packing is by tin and tins are done automatically, and if no order in the milk is taken by hand.

Most of the factory's production line is devoted to dried pure full-cream milk with nothing added, but a small quantity of dried skimmed milk is also produced.

A large proportion of this factory's milk is sent to M.P. Products at Naro Moru in respect of their contract. Assistance in drying milk for the farm when the machinery was out of order after the 1954 fire.

Recouping

Today, the Cairns have not fully recovered from the financial setback caused by the fire, but with a new factory, better machinery, and a daily yield of six gallons of milk, they are well on the way to recouping their losses.

In the process they are turning out ever-increasing quantities of a product which has not only proved its value as a baby food throughout East Africa, but also the subject of experiments by welfare organisations seeking an answer to the vast African child-mortality in

£285,000 To Be Spent
On New Factories

AFRICAN only window frame-making company in the East. It is called Kenya Casements Ltd. and it produces something like 200 frames every month.

The company plans to build two new factories at a total cost of about £200,000. And when these two start production they will manufacture 700 windows every year, 100 tons of rods and bolts and 2,500 bedsteads a month.

The company will be one of the biggest concerns in the three territories within the next three years. It will then be one of the finest examples of enterprise in this part of the world.

And the man principally responsible for the development is Mr. Chinnichai Patel, the managing director. He was himself an importer of steel window frames and doors at Mombasa. He was in Britain one day in a peculiar way and realised that the demand for his own East Africa was such that a local factory to produce it would be a far better proposition.

How right he was! In July, 1954, the Kenya Casements Ltd. began to turn out its first steel window frames by the most modern method in the world. To start with, the output was 100 frames a day. At the moment 400 frames are produced every single working day and it is anticipated that in the next twelve months will be increased to 500 frames a day. And steel frames in the process of being made by the factory will be seen in the picture of construction at the factory are the galvanneal frames which will be used in the work. The frames will be galvanneal by what is known as the hot-dipped process, an essential treatment in a climate which tends to rust steel very rapidly.

Every type of steel window frame and door is produced by the Kenya Casements Ltd.—standard, industrial and purpose-made. A particularly unusual purpose-made frame was turned out by the factory recently a giant affair measuring 21 ft. by 19 ft. the largest frame in East Africa. It was for a brewery at Juba.

Very large contracts for steel window frames and doors are continually being received by the firm. It recently received a contract to provide frames for an African housing estate in Nairobi. The first phase of the contract will be worth £110,000.

But the orders do not only come from concerns in Kenya. The company exports large quantities of window frames and doors to Tanganyika and Zanzibar. It also sends consignments to Uganda, and is negotiating to market its products in Madagascar, the Belgian Congo, the Cameroons and Abyssinia.

To cover such a large field is not an easy task. The company has therefore appointed as its main agents, Messrs. Smith, Mackenzie & Co. Ltd., a concern which has 14 districts in addition to the main agents, sub-agents have also been appointed in all areas in East with the consuming public and small contractors. This system is showing good results.

The company's steel is derived from locally manufactured window frames and doors are customarily being received by the firm. They can be serviced on the spot, saving shipping charges. Prices and the delivery of locally produced goods compare very favourably with the imported article as well.

All the machinery used by the Kenya Casements Ltd. is of the latest type. It is exactly the same as that used by the most important carpenter manufacturers in the U.K. & E. Kingdom.

The steel sections used by the company—500 tons a month—are produced by the largest and most important steel-roller in Great Britain.

At the present time the Kenya Casements Ltd. occupies a large building covering 12,000 square feet. The building houses the factory office, steel stores and the galvanising plant.

They are staffed by a British manager, five Indians, 20 Asians and 100 Africans.

But it is the intention of the management to close this factory down in favour of the two new factories, which will be built at Shauri Moyo on Mombasa Island, and at Changweya, on the South-West Mombasa.

The Shauri Moyo premises will be on an acre plot and they will cost about £15,000. The Changweya premises will be on a five-acre plot and will cost something like £100,000. Machinery for the two factories will cost about £170,000.

It is anticipated that the present factory, which is equipped with machinery worth £25,000, will be closed down in about three years to make way for the new factories, the smaller of which should be built before the end of next year.

GAME POACHING PRESENTS TANGANYIKA WITH A GRAVE PROBLEM

POACHING is one of Tanganyika's most flourishing industries. It has been estimated that about one quarter of a million head of game are poached every year in the Lake Province of Tanganyika alone.

A zebra which was shot to put it out of its misery. A steel cable snare was fastened lightly round the neck of the animal, whose head tips were almost severed.

Many of these animals are brought to market in the bush and are sold at very low prices. Some of them are used for food, but most are used for their skins which are sold to the white traders.

into a herd before the animal starves. As many as 90 of the white trappers and other animals can be killed in one morning by a gang of this kind.

Mr. Ker declares that the Government Park rangers and the great area of Tanganyika being the gathering place of thousands of African poachers belonging to many different tribes.

effect is left to the imagination. The wounded animals do not die for many hours and the agony comes as death approaches.

Part of a two-million-acre area of the Government Park rangers and the great area of Tanganyika being the gathering place of thousands of African poachers belonging to many different tribes.

Describing the crew of slaughter which is now going on in Tanganyika, a Kenya White Hunter of long experience, Mr. Donald Ker, tells the East African Standard and says every ten or 15 men gather to hunt one "thing" and each team may shoot as many as 50 animals

There are several reasons for this intense slaughter of animals. One is the profitable meat trade which has been built up locally through the lack of any adequate supervision by the Government of Tanganyika over the whole of its large territories. The game is sold at a considerable profit to the nearest market.

The Story Of One Woman's Enterprise

WOULDN'T it be a blessing as well as a convenience if, when you are doing your week's shopping, you found all the services you required literally under one roof? Where, having bought the clothes you wanted at a fashion store, you stopped for advice at the cosmetic and beauty counter, then slipped into the adjoining hairdresser's for your weekly shampoo and set, remembering to buy a few flowers for that sick friend when you came out, and, finally, your shopping list having been entirely scored through, you took a short dash for a cup of coffee in a neighbouring little cafe, also a part of the whole of this "one-stop" shopping thoroughfare?

It is possible quite easily to have come about this kind of enterprise and service for one woman, working single-handed — Mrs. Dorothy Hinchcliffe, known to her many clients as Adèle Ltd., but who will in future be even better known as Adèle of Nairobi.

OPENED yesterday with its main entrance just off Robinson Avenue, and next to the Queen's Hotel, Dorothy Hinchcliffe's new and exclusive fashion store, with a ground area of 8,000 square feet, occupies a very valuable but until now, little used site. Her original plan was to open the store, a doctor's shop, a hairdresser's and a tea and coffee counter simultaneously, but through the exigencies of the market and in such an undertaking and in such a hot climate, this has not been possible. But it is hoped that the other shops will open after Christmas, while in the meantime, Nairobi has been able to take a look at its first "one-stop" store.

Every detail of the enterprise has been thought out and carried through by Mrs. Hinchcliffe personally. Her architect, Messrs. Baker and MacCallum, have incorporated all her ideas in the building. Messrs. The Furniture Store, 1948, purely on a visit and, as have done so many others before them, they liked what they saw and decided to stay.

"One woman's enterprise and initiative..." — Mrs. Dorothy Hinchcliffe photographed in her new shop.

has produced an original and delightful color scheme throughout.

DOROTHY HINCHCLIFFE and her husband — she was widowed only very recently — came to Kenya in 1948, purely on a visit and, as have done so many others before them, they liked what they saw and decided to stay.

Six months later, Dorothy felt the call of commerce (not commerce in England, she had five shops and been in business on her own for many years). At Dorothy's show she opened her first "one-stop" of the age of 17 in the City of Nairobi and she has still from one end of the woolsen families of Huddersfield, and her late husband was a Manchester merchant with an old-established practice in Bransome Street, his family being well known in both Yorkshire and Lancashire. Dorothy bought the business "Adèle Ltd." from five local ladies and decided to run it as an English fashion store. From the first, it was a success, and she has been fortunate in having, as her right hand and confidante, a large number of professional stockists, Mrs. J. H. Hinchcliffe, whose local service has been of professional value, knowing that there is only a limited market here as yet. Mrs. Hinchcliffe expects to increase sales by turning what were formerly additions to her old shop into complete, self-contained departments in her new venture. For instance, there will be underwear and cosettey departments, a sportswear shop — including woollens, skirts and slacks — a millinery department, an accessories shop with handbags, purses, jewelry, etc., a large millinery department, where prospective customers may sit at leisure and try on hats they fancy, and a special cosmetic department will be in the hands of Miss Sally Schouten, a trained beauty expert.

UNUSUAL are the workrooms and stockrooms so extensive, when it is remembered

Display Figures In Basketwork

OUT of such a big enterprise and with so many varied needs catered for in her fashion store, it is not surprising that Dorothy Hinchcliffe has a particularly warm spot for what she regards as the pièce de résistance of the whole plan — her main window, which is just off Delamare Avenue. She can easily see why. It boasts a mosaic floor and has been treated in the manner of an Italian different way today, perhaps, it is a street scene that catches the eye, tomorrow, we are looking in at a fashionable cocktail party.

But certainly the most original feature of the window is the display figures. They are of basketwork and were specially created by an Italian craftsman to Mrs. Hinchcliffe's specifications. With attractive "young ladies" recline at ease in the up-to-the-minute streamlined measurements, these variety of selected postures suited to the day's scene and purpose. They should prove a big attraction to all who pass this busy part of Nairobi.

Display figures made from basketwork.

THE STORY OF ONE WOMAN'S ENTERPRISE

that the source of supply is very thousands of miles away. Dorothy Hinchcliffe sees her new business as a high-class society store, a place where it resembles the Marshall and. Designer provincial shops in England.

Every department has its own individual character. As one comes in at the main entrance, you find yourself in the reception area from which various departments lead off, the entrance is straight ahead and here you will see cushions, coats, Weatherall goods and tailored dresses. Facing a rosette screen, with the domestic counter on your right, you turn next to the dress-revision. There comes the hat department, set out on both sides of the shop. You walk through into the model gowns reception area, with its mannequins — coloured carpet and the beamed-covered tables and chairs. Here, the clients and habes them forward into the inner sanctum, that body of bottles, the model gown department. Returning again to the entrance lobby and taking a right-hand turn you approach the coat department where there are one and two-piece suits, handkerchiefs, gloves, costume jewellery, umbrellas, handkerchiefs, etc.

LEAVING the Delamare Avenue entrance to the left, we approach the sports-wear department where, among other goods are to be found Scottish kilts and Irish knit-wear, shirt stacks and the famous "Simons" garments. After a short passage in a display area, it is time to move forward into the shoe department. Attention is drawn to a lighted sign, overhead reading "The California Foot Shop". Bright colours and eye-catching greenery invite entry to one of Adele's most important departments dealing annually with thousands of rubber shoes and a wide range of footwear.

There, too, is a rough idea of what you will find in this well-laid-out ladies' section; but three important adjuncts of the main store — the florist, the hairdresser and the coffee lounge — will have to be left to the imagination. A little beyond it is a shop where they will have many more features and that, incidentally, MANNEQUINS. It is a job of women shoppers — and their husbands and children — will find much to intrigue and delight them as they walk at leisure through the premises of Adele of Nairobi.

Does your engine obey you meekly? Does it give you everything it's got? It should do. If you buy a Shell with I.C.A. it will do. Shell motor spirit gives extraordinary power at the end of your foot. The Shell is due firstly to Shell quality and balanced blending, and then to Shell's exclusive additive I.C.A. which overcomes power losses caused by engine deposits... losses cannot be checked by raising the power of the motor spirit itself. The I.C.A. in Shell makes them evaporate, deposits themselves and prevents the SPARK PLUG FAILURE and PRE-IGNITION which often occur. In this way Shell gives you not only a motor spirit with the most power, but the motor spirit to use, and here lies the key to the full

TALKING RADIO By Henry Reuter

QUITE unnoticed by many listeners, Kenya broadcasting has produced a programme which is in my opinion the most imaginative departure yet from the local radio play a record of the day.

"Stuff and Nonsense" which was first produced last year, and which was repeated by Radio Kenya, has been a great success. "Take it from here" is given full encouragement.

And what makes it so successful is that it is a record of the day, and is given full encouragement. It is a record of the day, and is given full encouragement.

AMONG THE NEW BOOKS

BACK TO AFRICA

BACK to Africa again this week, with three books for review, all of which are of varying lengths of attainment, are excellent. First, The Dark Child, by Mr. Camara Laye, has been available in the Colony for two months or so, but I have not previously had an opportunity of including it.

BACK AGAIN TO AFRICA

traditional man, but his subject-matter gives him a stamp of the Parisian, setting down to travel from the lullabies of the West to the lullabies of the East. It is a light but charmingly written book, having a quality of poetic reflection, and particularly interesting as the work of a young African.

Wistful

Just circumstances it was also nature that he should think back to Africa. It is a book of the day, and is given full encouragement.

UNDER REVIEW

The Dark Child by Mr. Camara Laye. It is a book of the day, and is given full encouragement.

THE photographs in Mr. Laye's book are only a few, which is a pity in view of the consistently high quality of his work. Mr. Laye's photographs are of a high level.

It has taken rather a long time for children in this country to be taken into the hands of the Government, and it is not until now that the welfare of the African child in the emergency has become a matter of the most important of all the Government and Parliament to which the past three years of the Government and Parliament have given their attention. For it is beyond question that the emergency has done much to give rise to those problems.

GOVERNOR SEES RESULTS OF HARD WORK

Trans Nzoia farms heave out of virgin land

The Governor of Kenya, Sir Evelyn Baring, returned by air from Eldoret to Nairobi on Saturday on completion of his tour of the Rift Valley. Earlier on Tuesday, accompanied by Lady Mary Baring, he visited the Trans Nzoia District, which is the most important of the Trans Nzoia, M.A. or M.A. B. Districts, which were established in 1946 and arrived in Uasin Gishu by the night of 21st.

Mr. Hindocha told Sir Evelyn that when he arrived at Eldoret he found the district established, and the country had roads and no railway—just game and a few huts. Applying to formal speeches, Sir Evelyn spoke of the Trans Nzoia District as a vast tract of virgin land which a few years ago was a vast tract of virgin land. The future was the problem of the European Agricultural Settlement Board, which was created in 1946 to deal with the problem of the Trans Nzoia District.

PIONEERS OF KENYA Sailor Who Settled in Africa

ALTHOUGH it is some years since he went down to the sea in a ship, there is still something of a sailor in Captain Hinocwa, and his mind is still on the sea. # A BACKWARD GLANCE AT GOLF IN KENYA

Changes in the past decades

by K. W. Hooper, former Kenya golf champion

SHORTLY after the publication of my book The Game of Golf in East Africa, some years ago, the suggestion was made that I should write a series of articles giving my impressions of changes in the game in East Africa since my arrival in the Colony in 1930. Having spent most of my golfing life in Kenya, the course of Uganda and Tanganyika are to some extent terra incognita, and I shall deal mainly with Kenya courses.

To recall the years 1930-31, it was then a "new boy" to Kenya, lacking knowledge of the background of golf, and of golfers in the Colony.

But the point which impressed me most about Kenya a course was the almost universal "traveling" and backhanded follow-up on which it was being played.

The ball kept going

In those days the ball had not been developed, as it has since been, to the point where it was "brought in" from America. But most of the golfers on the courses were foreigners with only a slight proficiency in the game, and this was the cause of it being played in that manner.

By the time I had been in Kenya for some time, I had seen many of the courses and had seen many of the players.

It was not until I had been in Kenya for some time, that I saw the first Kenyan player who was a native-born player. This was the late Mr. J. H. Smith in 1938, who was a very good player.

The first games I had seen were those of the late Mr. J. H. Smith, who was a very good player. He was a native-born player, and he was a very good player.

GOLFING ALLIANCE EVENT AT KISUMU

Kenya champion is just beaten

A MOST successful inaugural meeting of the Kenya Golfing Alliance was held at Kisumu on Sunday at 10 a.m., during which the late Mr. J. H. Smith was beaten by Mr. W. C. Matthews, who was the Kenya champion.

The Alliance formed on 28th October, and its first meeting was held at Kisumu on Sunday at 10 a.m. The Alliance is a voluntary organization and its members are all Kenyan players.

However, the morning round was hampered by steady cold wind, which was a factor in the result.

The match was a very good one, and it was a very good one. The match was a very good one, and it was a very good one.

WARNING

REFERENCE is made to the African political consciousness and to the growth of a young and irresponsible element in Mombasa in the view of Mr. D. W. Piggot, Acting Provincial Commissioner.

At the back of both of these "substances," he said, "has been the growth of a young and irresponsible element in Mombasa in the view of Mr. D. W. Piggot, Acting Provincial Commissioner."

It is recalled that there was a young and irresponsible element at work, led by people interested in the "TANI" movement, and that they were known as the "TANI" movement. This movement was known as the "TANI" movement.

Against work
The District Commissioner and Chief Clerk accordingly approved the granting of a licence to the TANI movement.

On the 1st of December, 1953, the TANI movement was held at the market place. The TANI movement was held at the market place.

Moderating influences

Nyanza the testing ground for Swynnerton Plan

SWIFT PROGRESS IN PROVINCE

SWANSEA has 2,000 people, or one-third of the country's population, is beginning to take its rightful share of the Province's produce two years in the life of a good year—and it is possible that it will become the Colony's leading producer. The people of Nyanza are beginning to take over the leadership of the African continent, which the Kikuyu have forfeited.

More than anywhere in the Colony, the names of the Swynnerton Plan for the development of African agriculture will be heard by the masses. This is because Kenya's famous Kanga plain and the best locations of her fertile lands are the population which Nairobi will be heard to take over the leadership.

Ministry's task
During his tour of Nyanza, the Minister for Agriculture, Mr. Blagden, saw the need for a special unit covering the most fertile locations—Margoli, Mbaraka and the Kanga plain. He also gave a clear indication of the Government's task before him and the Colony's future.

It is his task to develop 100,000 subsidiary farmers in the next five years. He has at least 1500 such farms a year ago. The Government has a plan to increase this to 2,000 a year. It is his task to develop 100,000 subsidiary farmers in the next five years. He has at least 1500 such farms a year ago. The Government has a plan to increase this to 2,000 a year.

Farm research
So far the implementation of the Swynnerton Plan in Nyanza has been largely concentrated on the intensification of existing work, on providing the facilities of development research, training centres and employment, training centres and employment, training centres and employment, training centres and employment.

African suspicion
This need for research led to African suspicion—which is being dispelled. It is the fact that the Government is doing its best to provide the facilities of development research, training centres and employment, training centres and employment.

Twice speed of sound
The Soviet rocket plane, the P.A.C.K., has exceeded double the speed of sound—about 2,000 miles per hour—according to a handbook of the Soviet army, shown on public sale in Berlin, West Germany.

The desirability of introducing a system for Africans, on which opinion seems to be strongly divided. Another controversial subject is land tenure and how far special routes should be altered to allow individual ownership.

Eye on Uganda
Members regard the Association as part of the development plan, which will give the Association a central African political party.

Crowded locations
There is a general unhappiness among the African population in the crowded locations of North Nyanza, which are being developed as part of the Government's plan.

Swynnerton Plan
The Government has a plan to increase the number of subsidiary farmers to 2,000 a year. It is his task to develop 100,000 subsidiary farmers in the next five years.

Firemaster's warning on Christmas dangers

A warning about the dangers of fire during the Christmas season. The Nairobi City Council Firemaster suggests a number of simple precautions which can help prevent fatalities being caused by tragedy.

Decorations
The Christmas tree when dry is easily ignited. It should be watered daily inside the house. Place it, if you can, well away from any source of ignition and preferably near a window. Nabel lights are costly, but dangerous, and should not be used unless well protected.

Musicians of world honour Sibelius on 90th birthday

MUSICIANS in all parts of the world yesterday celebrated the 90th birthday of Jean Sibelius. Sibelius, considered by many to be the world's greatest living composer and by many more an immortal, was born in Finland.

The Prime Minister of Britain, Clement Attlee, has expressed a greater personal interest in Sibelius than any other country except his own.

The most important of the British relations was a concert in the Royal Festival Hall, London, on December 1, 1955, when Sir Thomas Beecham, the conductor, conducted the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra, a Sibelius programme.

"Pure old water"
 Sibelius, born at Tavastland, Finland, on December 8, 1865, was a Finnish composer of great talent. He studied law at the University of Helsinki, entering the consular service in 1891.

He came to Britain and Vienna, and returned to Helsinki in 1905. He was a member of the Finnish Academy of Science in the first world war.

Sibelius died in Järvenpää, Finland, in 1957. He was a composer of a life great work, and his music is still so popular that it has been described as "pure old water".

HOLIDAYS IN EAST AFRICA

THE NATIONAL PARKS OF UGANDA

FOR many years Uganda has possessed magnificent game reserves, where wild life has been carefully preserved. A few years ago two of these reserves became the Uganda National Parks.

The first was named the Queen Elizabeth National Park, and was situated on the Maswa in April 1951. The area lies in western Uganda, and within the valley that great war zones Albert, Edward and George. The Park embraces Lake Edward as well as the northern shore of Lake George.

The Maswa Lodge, built on a table plain, with roofs of papyrus thatch.

The Park is situated about 200 miles to the west, and whether road from Kampala, whether it is approached via Mbaleke into Fort Portal, or via Masaka and the Kigezi, the beauty of the landscape and the view of the waterfalls is a wonderful opportunity of seeing a part of the beautiful scenery of Uganda without any expenditure of time.

The Falls

THE Maswa Falls falls into the River Nile, and contains the second largest Falls discovered by Sir Samuel Baker in 1862. It is here that the great river, on its 4,000-mile journey to the Mediterranean Sea, is forced through a narrow gorge which contains just that 20 ft. at the narrowest point. From the cliff the water tumbles Client elephant, like the one above, crocodiles, water buffaloes and hipopotams — all are to be found in abundance in the Uganda National Parks.

Probably 2,000 ft. and 100 ft. from the Maswa Falls, the river runs from Gulu, in the north, to the Nile, in the south. The river is crossed by many streams which are still in the process of being formed. During the months of the year, the Maswa Falls is a magnificent sight. The water is so clear that the stream beds to be seen, but at other times of the year it is made in many places by the Nile. The Nile flows into the Nile from the north bank in the north bank of the river. At present, the Nile is not so high as in the past, but still available in large quantities to the Maswa Falls and the Nile. The Nile is a very important river, and its water is used for many purposes. The Nile is a very important river, and its water is used for many purposes. # THE FRIDAY MISCELLANY

FROM first to last the Press Ball, held at the New Stanley Hotel last Saturday, went with a tremendous swing and the three-woman crowd with dancers as the Royal Brigade went into their opening numbers.

The wonderful array of over 400 people ranged in all their diversity — from a lady in a red and white dress to a young man in a blue and white uniform — to be seen at the Press Ball, was a sight to behold. The dancing was a success, and the evening was a success.

Mr. Ken Brainer, Mr. Vincent Matthews — who also found time to take to the floor — Mr. John Clarke, one of the dancing band members — and Mrs. John Clarke. The Press Ball was a success. It was a success.

Some complimentary things were being said about the excellent buffet supper which was served at the ball and which was a real success.

Sports Editor of the East African Standard, Mr. Charles Norman, who received several gifts, was also seen at the ball. He was a success.

Science At Work To Help Fashion

By DOROTHY BARKLEY

There's no fear of spoiling the fabric evening dress if you snip anything on it. It has been specially treated to make it stain-resistant.

ONCE again the back-room boys of industry have put science to work for fashion. Their latest discovery puts a finish on fabrics which makes them water repellent and stain resistant. The fabrics are coated and impregnated in the weaving. They are chlorine-resistant and will not be ruined by water— and grease stains can be easily removed. They avoid the firm marketing the process claim a display in show-off its use for practically every kind of fabric. They packed 75 pieces, including froth sweaters to evening dresses, to show that the fashion trend is completely stain resistant.

They pointed out that although treated fabrics are coated both sides, they can still "breathe" normally, a important consideration, especially in a warm climate. They also stressed that the traps and snarls of a washed shirt are not a problem. The treated fabric is not so stiff that it will not mark in the wash and that it is in no way different from the fabric.

AS the younger generation becomes more fashion-conscious, the makers of menage dress find it hard to keep up with them.

Now there comes another attempt to bridge the gap between supply and demand. The designers have developed a complete collection of new fashions, ranging from casual to evening wear. The fabrics, now extremely light, are made in a variety of colors and textures. The collection includes a plain stripe and a floral stripe alternate on a white ground. Other prints with a ray, sunburst and a diamond flower print in black on a yellow ground, and a diamond print in black on a blue ground. The new fashions are made in a variety of styles, some with a full neckline, some with a wide collar. Other styles with a full neckline and a full skirt. WHICH comes first, the hairline or the hat? Also a hairline or the hat? Also a hairline or the hat?

That's the way, both ways, both leading to the head and down the neck.

To illustrate his point, he takes one of the new sport hats in black velvet, with top tilted over the back to meet the top of the crown. At the sides he curves the hair down and away from the face.

Two languages

How ever the shelves appear in both languages, and the Tong themselves have even learned to speak Chinese.

When I visited the market I was introduced by Mr. Tong himself to a really jacked man who was up to date.

Mr. Tong then took over, and on a small table, showing me the goods, he showed me how to look for the goods.

She also gave me a Chinese vocabulary book, a pair of chopsticks, and a fan to help me on my way.

To date, I have used the fan.

Demarcating One Of East Africa's Boundaries

This is the story of a five-year task — the task of demarcating the boundary between Ethiopia and the Sudan from facts supplied by COLONEL E. H. H. CLIFFORD, British Commissioner of the Kordofan District.

The Commission assembled in Addis Ababa in 1945 consisted of representatives of the British and Ethiopian Governments, and of the British and Ethiopian Sections of the International Commission of the Red Cross.

Large items of machinery: a D4 Caterpillar, was delivered and arrived at the beginning of 1952. It was very soon found that the resulting surface of the demarcated track was too rough for it to be used as a motorable track, which was one of its purposes.

Now it became possible to see the situation. For as the hounded fawn a week cutting by hand, the line was now being bulldozed at something like a mile a day, too fast for survey operations to keep pace.

Financial considerations demanded that the mechanical equipment be kept working and accordingly survey operations were postponed until the completion of the demarcation.

While the D4 in conjunction with the grader proved eminently satisfactory for both work, in a different proportion when the apparently endless lava in the north of Marshal District was being worked. There was nothing for it but to purchase a second machine, a D7 bulldozer; but delays of one sort and another, frequently connected with the Emergency, meant that it did not arrive until May 1952. This was a great moment when the line was being worked at a rate of one day's work for three days.

Considerable stretches of the boundary, however, were in hilly and even mountainous country, where the bulldozer and grader could not operate. These sections were dealt with by the common or garden pump-jack method.

PERSONALITIES OF THE KENYA STAGE

By Lesley Clay

WHEN you take a look at Yvonne Faithfull's sparkling blue eyes and vivacious smile, you are reminded of many of the charming leading ladies you have heard singing and seen dancing their way through popular musical comedy successes.

And that, indeed, is what Yvonne would have had to be a musical comedy star - had she been born in London. Her father was a well-known actor, and her mother a famous singer.

Yvonne was brought to Kenya by her parents in 1948. She has been in the country ever since, and has been a part of the theatre scene in Nairobi, Mombasa, and Kisumu. She has appeared in many productions, and has been a regular on the stage of the Kenya National Theatre.

Yvonne's first husband was a well-known actor, and she has since been married to a well-known producer. She has a daughter and a son, and is now living in Nairobi.

Yvonne is a well-known personality in the Kenya theatre scene, and has been a regular on the stage of the Kenya National Theatre for many years.

In Britain for a holiday, her husband, to whom she has been married for nine years and who works in the Post Office, was on this occasion unable to go with them. For the first week of her arrival in Nairobi she was accompanied by Mrs. Faithfull, and they were joined by two television stars, the producer of 'Where No Villagers Fly', Mrs. Faithfull, and another television star, Mrs. Faithfull. The television producer and television star of the first film which was made in East Africa, saw her on the television screen and telephoned to ask if he would like to see her in the film. She was in Nairobi at the time, and she was in Nairobi at the time. She was in Nairobi at the time, and she was in Nairobi at the time.

The boundary commission is to be demarcated a surprise to the layman. A survey of the East Camp involved about 35-40 men and 200 animals.

The work in the field was completed in August 1953, just four and a half years after the party first arrived on the frontier to begin the work of demarcating the boundary.

The work has been light, but it is not without its difficulties. The transport charges on the one side of the boundary are approximately 400 tons (about 800 heavy duty loads) of material. In addition to the boundary work, there are new roads to be built, and the work of the surveyors is to be completed by the end of the year.

portion marked by the River Dan, has been surveyed, and it is in course of being correctly on maps.

The total cost is small compared with that of the Kenya, which through delays with regard to the delivery of machinery, is being delayed.

There are just over 400 miles of boundary demarcated and about 100 miles more to be done. It is not clear how long it will take to complete the work.

The work of the surveyors is to be completed by the end of the year. The transport charges on the one side of the boundary are approximately 400 tons (about 800 heavy duty loads) of material. Men who guide the destinies of the world wear Rolex watches

You know their names as you know your own. You know their faces from the thousand newspaper photographs, their life stories from a hundred magazine articles. You have seen them and heard their voices on newsreels and on your television screens. Their actions and decisions influence the pattern of our lives.

We cannot mention their names, or show pictures of them. It would not be fitting to do so, for they include royalty, the heads of states, great military commanders, but we would like you to look carefully at the next pictures that you see of them, at their wrists as well as their faces and clothes. You will notice that in almost every case they wear a watch. That watch will most likely have been made by Rolex of Geneva.

JOY NICHOLL visits KENYA'S SCHOOLS 2 The Duke Of Gloucester

"Effort unending" is the motto emblazoned on the crest of the Duke of Gloucester School and, from the atmosphere of studious calm which is to be felt the moment one walks into the school, it is a motto being taken very seriously indeed by the boys, who represent many Asian religions and sects, but who all have the common ideals of learning and achievement.

The chief aim of the school is the CXC Certificate through the Higher School Certificate, thereby opening the doors to them for training in the various professions to which most of them apply, such as the law, engineering, medicine, and other trades of selection. As there are many boys desirous of going to university, the selection is made on an academic standard, although satisfactory character and background is also taken into account. Most of the 630 boys come on after seven to nine years at the National Asian Primary Schools and the Higher School Certificate examination can only be undertaken after two years' residence in the Colony. There were 68 boys per cent Higher School Certificate passes and 74.7 per cent School Certificate, of which 110 pupils gained "first" out of the 115 entries.

school's curriculum. Mr. Nicholl said that a large proportion of the pupils were taking a wide range of subjects, as in many of the subjects, such as science or engineering, for which most go on to Britain for further training.

Two very large assembly halls with his platform and gallery are frequently the scene of lectures and debates, and regularly once a month, a speaker comes to give an address on current events, and the school is well supplied with the latest information to the pupils open for their use.

Along the corridor in the Duke of Gloucester School, Mr. Nicholl was shown a large number of books, which were displayed on shelves. The books were arranged in a systematic manner, and Mr. Nicholl pointed out several titles, including a book on physics. The school library is well stocked with books, and the school is well equipped for its subjects.

one of a group of girls' Mr. Nicholl explained that he has five girls studying at the school at the moment for their Higher School Certificate. Two of them will become doctors and three will become nurses.

Mr. Nicholl said that he had been in Kenya for 12 years and that he had seen the country develop from a small settlement to a large town. He was impressed by the progress of the country and the determination of the people to improve their lives.

Mr. Hugh Gaitskell, who, as Labour Party's new leader, may one day become Britain's Prime Minister, relaxes at home with his daughters Julia and Gretchen.

A New Star Rises—While Another Fades

Mr. Hugh Gaitskell, who has made a meteoric rise to the leadership of the Labour Party with only ten years of political experience behind him, will become Britain's Prime Minister if the Labour Party is voted into power.

But his election has written an unhappy and to the fore chapter in British history.

While no brilliant orator, he is a competent speaker and a firm believer in the concept of carefully planned and controlled economy.

HOW TO STOP PAIN

Why Phenisc is better than aspirin

ALL THE TIME, scientific research is going on with the problem of pain—what it is, and how it can be controlled.

The intensity of pain, for instance, can now be measured, and the effectiveness of various pain-killing substances is being tested. The best known of these substances is aspirin. Another very effective one is pheniscin. But there's something better than either—and that is a mixture of aspirin and pheniscin in balanced proportions. Such a mixture works more effectively, and for longer than either one alone!

PHENISCIN

contains aspirin, pheniscin and caffeine

Borax And Its Uses

By DIANA NIELSEN

MOST housewives know that borax is useful for removing vegetable stains. But it has many other uses in the home. Kettles that have got for inside can be cleaned by borax. It is also useful for cleaning the inside of the kettle and for boiling the fat. Borax will be spread easily and freely.

Clark borings can be cleaned with warm water to which has been added one table-spoon of borax to one gallon of water. Afterwards rinse to remove all the borax and dry. Silver jewelry will be polished with borax. It will also be used to clean the inside of the kettle and for boiling the fat. Borax will be spread easily and freely.

Borax is most useful to distinguish the water in the bath. Use just a small amount of borax. It will be spread easily and freely. It will be spread easily and freely. It will be spread easily and freely.

WHY NOT CHEAP AND CHIC?

By Eileen Anderson. I CAN never understand why fashion lines are nearly always softened when they enter the lower price ranges. The severe line is the chic line, the choice of top designers and their wealthy, fashion-conscious clients.

One reason for this softening-up process is the frowny that designers are tired of wearing the same pretty clothes as you, so of wearing the same severe dress. Consequently manufacturers make their lower-price ranges prettier rather than severe. I don't think that if the really severe lines of top fashion were copied in cheaper ranges we women would be delighted to wear them.

Romance Of Shoes

By DOREEN BEEMAN

SHOES are always the highlight of a woman's dress and have played a prominent part through the ages. Sandals were worn in Biblical times and were the first of the delivering of a shoe was a token of betrothal.

ANCIENT Greek Statues show that they were wearing open-toed shoes. The black boots of the film show with every odd silver, while the sandals were white leather. Modern ladies with long hair and high collars wear shoes with high heels and long skirts. The shoes of the future will be different from the shoes of the past.

THIS IS YOUR special CHRISTMAS!—a surprising party in which you are being drawn out through the good offices of Sharon Akshofinn. An average buffet will be incidentally very much above the average being given locally in the city.

Cluding from all over the City.

A real jubilee atmosphere is anticipated with specially decorated Christmas trees, and Christmas carols by the N.A.S.D. and a grand display of South African Dancing.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Steyer Collis were among those at the Ball held at the Duke of York Hotel Saturday.

Christmas Tree in City Square will feature a FAIRY DOLL FOR ONE SHILLING but not out of sight of counter. The raffie closes on December 21st and the following day the tree will be pulled and by the Tree.

It is quite strange how, if people work a little longer, they stand up in back to Kenya Club a size in that of P. T. High, who did so much entertaining to the troops and who was also well known in Nairobi district—and sometimes circles.

CINNAMON BUNS

Ingredients— 2 lbs. of flour, 1 lb. of sugar, 1 oz. of yeast, 1 pint of warm milk, 1 lb. of butter, 1 lb. of currants, 1 a teaspoonful of salt.

Method— Mix the flour, sugar, and currants; make a hole in the middle of the flour, put in the yeast and 1 pint of warmed milk; make a thin batter of the surrounding flour and milk, and set the pan covered before the fire until the leaven begins to ferment. Put to the mass 1 lb. of melted butter; add the salt, and beat well together, make up into soft paste with all the dough, using a little more warm milk if necessary. Cover this with a clean cloth, and let it once more rise up for about 1 hour. Shape the dough in buns, and lay them apart on spread in plates or buttered tins in rows at least 3 inches apart, to rise for about 1 1/2 hours. Bake in a hot oven at 300 degrees for 20 minutes. Sprinkle with 2 spoonfuls of sugar, spread on top of the bun, and bake a quick oven from 15 to 20 minutes.

IRENE MARTIN'S Story For The Children Patch, Koko And The Christmas Tree

PATCH stood in the door of the study, his hand raised as he sniffed the air. There's frost on the ground he burst. "Come outside, Koko climbed down from his cage, although he really feared the warm study to the outside.

"What shall we do?" he asked as he visited Patch. The boy began to walk through the branches.

"There's Jellison," remarked Koko, "whenever he is doing digging in this cold weather."

"The boy goes Master's Christmas tree," he said at last. "Why, of course, I'll help you, he added. Patch began to dig and as he uncovered the roots Koko took hold of them and pulled.

"Well done," exclaimed Jellison as he had found the tree. Patch promptly dropped it into the study door where Jellison led to the flower-bed.

"Carefully, Patch," he called, "we don't want to hurt the roots because we'll plant the tree in the garden again after Christmas."

Koko stood by the fire warming his feet, watching the boy work. "I'll sit it here, in the bay window," he said. Jellison had returned to the garden. Patch looked at Koko and hurried. "I'll bring you the tree, Koko!"

again. He picked up the tiny ball in his paw and with great difficulty, worked so that it stayed at the top dense tree.

"What else can we find to decorate the tree with?" asked Patch. He had an idea and accompanied over to their Master's den.

"Let's put the Master's pipe on the tree and one of my boxes, too."

The heard footsteps coming along the passage. "Where are Patch and Koko—they heard their Master approaching.

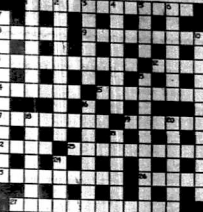

"What?" harked Patch, "here we are, we've a surprise for you."

Their Master came in, followed by Mrs. Lane carrying the tray.

"They had both exclaimed, "Oh, what a nice decoration!" "I got the fairy doll out," said Jellison.

"We helped Jellison dig it up, too," added Patch. "I think it's delightful," said their Master with a smile. "Come and have some tea."

2. Elimination of the inner tube has made possible a lighter, more flexible tyre, giving greater cushioning to your ride, and a driving thrill you've never experienced before.

set POWER free here

Use all the power you can get!

Does your engine obey you instantly? Does it give you maximum life? It should do. If you run on Shell L.C.A. it will do.

Shell motor spirit puts extra-power into the call of your foot. This is due firstly to Shell quality and secondly to Shell L.C.A. which overcomes power losses caused by engine deposits—losses which cannot be checked by raising the power of the motor spirit itself. The L.C.A. in Shell Shell does engine deposits, barotons and prevents the SPARK PLUG FAILURE and PRE-IGNITION which they cause. In this way Shell gives you not only a motor spirit with the most power but the means to use it, and keep that power to the full.
