Sir Geoffrey Colby's views on show in settlement

WITH Africa developing at such a tremendous pace, it is alarming that the guiding minds of the continent have not been opened up to the possibilities of the future. Sir Geoffrey Colby, Governor of Nyasaland, Sir Geoffrey Colby, who has been completely unopposed in his views on the political philosophy of the past few years ago, has now said that it is essential to change our present attitude as a continent.

Sir Geoffrey expressed his views on the future of the continent in a paper read at the meeting of the Federation during the last 20 years, during which the future of the continent in Africa.

Posting the question, "What is the future of the continent?" Sir Geoffrey said that the main factor in the development of the continent is the amount of capital and the amount of labour. He said that the amount of capital is the main factor in the development of the continent, and that the amount of labour is the main factor in the development of the continent.

FORDS TO MAKE BIGGEST ISSUE OF EQUITY STOCK

The Ford Foundation will make the biggest equity stock issue in history when it issues 10,000,000 shares of Ford Motor Co. stock. It was announced in Washington, Tuesday, that the foundation will issue the stock and begin the 10-year period of the Ford stock issue.

A statement issued by the foundation said that the issue of 10,000,000 shares of Ford Motor Co. stock, which was announced in 1949, was a record at that time.

The statement also said that the issue of 10,000,000 shares of Ford Motor Co. stock, which was announced in 1949, was a record at that time.

Disputed quarterly

The statement also said that the issue of 10,000,000 shares of Ford Motor Co. stock, which was announced in 1949, was a record at that time.

Heavy demand

There have been indications of heavy demand for the stock, which carries voting rights. It is expected that the issue of 10,000,000 shares of Ford Motor Co. stock, which was announced in 1949, was a record at that time.

INTRODUCTION

I am glad that it is the duty of Directors to review the results of the past year and the progress made towards the carrying out of the programme. Today I propose to update you on the working and a little on the future.

RELATIONS WITH GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS

Our relations with the Government officials are of two types. One is the normal relationship of a business firm with the Government. The other is the special relationship of a co-operative society with the Government.

ROYALTIES

Increased. Many royalties have been reviewed and considerably raised. This is due to the fact that the royalties are based on the value of the timber, which has increased considerably since the war.

THE EXPORT TRADE

During the past year, exports have been consistently falling. This is due to the fact that the market for timber has been very weak. However, we are confident that the market will improve in the future.

SOCIETY-OWNED MILLS AND OPERATIONS

The past year has been a very busy one for the Society. We have opened several new mills and have increased our production. This is due to the fact that we have invested in modern machinery and have employed more workers.

FINANCES

The Society's own balance sheet for the present time is in a sound and profitable condition. This is due to the fact that we have managed our finances very carefully and have avoided any unnecessary expenses.

THE EQUIPMENT OF MEMBERS

There is also the wider problem of financing the equipment of members. This is a problem which we are trying to solve by offering loans to our members at a low rate of interest.

MEMBERSHIP

During the past year, four new members have joined the Society. This is a good result, especially in view of the fact that the membership has been falling for some time. We are confident that the membership will increase in the future.

PROGRESS, EAST AFRICA AND OIL

Maganga, like the majority of the Salama tribe, has a small area of fagnland surrounding his homestead. Hitherto he has cultivated this land without the help of machinery. He has heard that plans are afoot to introduce tractors, and ploughs and other more complicated machines to help him in his daily round. He knows that these machines require fuel and lubricants.

PUBLIC'S VIEWS ON SERVANTS SOUGHT
Questionnaire by committee

The Select Committee on Domestic Service, which will examine the whole field of domestic service and recommend in what respects existing legislation should be amended and fresh legislation introduced on a basis for mutual consultation between employers and employees, has published the results of a questionnaire survey of public opinion on the subject.

The committee, which is headed by Mr. J. G. Gifford, has received 1,000 replies to its questionnaire, which was sent to 10,000 households in the London area.

It is the first time that a questionnaire survey of public opinion has been conducted in this country.

The committee is of the opinion that the public is in favour of the retention of the existing law, but it is of the opinion that the law should be amended in certain respects.

It is of the opinion that the law should be amended in the following respects:

- The law should be amended so as to provide for the payment of a minimum wage to domestic servants.
- The law should be amended so as to provide for the payment of a maximum wage to domestic servants.
- The law should be amended so as to provide for the payment of a minimum pension to domestic servants.

'Indians our allies' claim by Russians

LEADERS RETURN TO MOSCOW AFTER ASIAN TOUR

MARSHAL BULGANIN returned to Moscow on Wednesday after his tour of the thousands of cheering Muscovites that Russia's position abroad had been strengthened. The Communist Party leader, said the most vivid impression they had brought back was the "great love and sincere respect" for the Soviet Union in the countries they visited.

"China, Burma, Ceylon, and Afghanistan are our allies and our friends in our struggle for peace and democracy," he repeated.

Polities 'approved'
He and Marshal Bulganin had "approved the holding of the peace conference in Asia." They were also met with the kind of the Moscow Press, but they said that they had "approved" it. "We have said it will go on repeating it." The official papers had treated a major blow and would not repeat.

He said that Asia had been "our ally and our friend" and that Marshal Bulganin said Mr. Khrushchev's speech to the United Nations was "our ally and our friend" and that they had "approved" it.

PASS BOOKS : FARMING TO EMPLOYERS

Trade union officials stated yesterday that passes being issued by employers of Kiboko, Kenya and other areas should be cancelled. The passes were issued by employers to their employees to enable them to travel to their homes. The union officials said that the passes should be cancelled because they were issued by employers and not by the Government. # It's CHRISTMAS again and this year the Round-The-World Broadcast is called THE STAR WE FOLLOW

THE CHRISTMAS STORY began with a star. Three wise men followed the star-bearing gifts, the star led them to Bethlehem, to the cradle of a new-born child; the hope of the world. This year we recall the Christmas story in terms of our own age and age. The wise men, the seekers after knowledge, have changed. Today they are men of science. They are searching out the secrets of the secret of atomic energy. They are scanning with the giant radio-telescopes the uttermost limits of the universe, measuring and mapping the contours and life of the world beneath the seas. They are tracking into the frozen wastelands of the Arctic and Antarctic. They are working to make the desert bloom again and to clear jungles of death and disease.

For what purpose? Each will answer the question in his own way. For Sir Edmund Hillary it is an irremissible drive to conquer and defeat the claims of nature. Common to them all is the urge for freedom, freedom to roam, it is the desire to bring light to the darkness.

Scientists have reached too long from a sense of isolation. This isolation springs partly from the increase in which they have been aggravated by the progress of science. To their own eyes they see the social drama. Here is a spectacle of the modern scene of a vast degree of other a vital part of the social drama. Here is a spectacle of the modern scene of a vast degree of other a vital part of the social drama. Here is a spectacle of the modern scene of a vast degree of other a vital part of the social drama.

This fact received a startling and significant illustration in the meeting of the United Nations Conference on Atomic Energy. In the first year of atomic energy have been subjected to every kind of radiation from the atom. This energy is now being used to produce electricity. The energy is now being used to produce electricity. The energy is now being used to produce electricity.

LAURENCE GILLIAM once here introduces the Round-The-World Programme which precedes the Day of six o'clock. This year, as he explains, the programme is designed to retell the Christmas story in terms of our own day and age, and in 60 minutes to sum up the good news of progress in many distant parts of the Commonwealth.

Genova is the sparkling point for this year's Christmas programme. If this same point of shining new knowledge for the common good reveals in our own family, the British Commonwealth of Nations, and is the prospect before each of us.

To illustrate this position in 60 minutes of radio time, on Christmas Day I invited Louis MacNeice, the poet, and Miss Chalmers, one of Britain's best-known writers, on scientific matters, to join in the programme. To use all the good news of progress in many distant parts of the Commonwealth.

Material for the programme has often been a breaking new ground, new scenes. It is not only men who will speak, with their high adventures in the farthest reaches of the world. Among them will be the great scientist Sir Edmund Hillary, who has led his way to the Antarctic by New Zealand, great scientist Sir Edmund Hillary, who has led his way to the Antarctic by New Zealand, great scientist Sir Edmund Hillary, who has led his way to the Antarctic by New Zealand.

A Man Forgot—And Christmas Cards Were Born

By Ronald Boxell

It all began in the year that the finishing touches were put to Dickens's Christmas in Trafalgar Square and the early Victorians were laboriously writing greetings to relatives and friends. All except one man.

Sir Henry Cole (then plain Mr. Cole) had fallen plain with his high correspondence that winter of 1842. There just wasn't time to write to all the people who ought to be written to. But the man who inspired the Victorian Christmas Museum wasn't to be put off by a little thing like that.

The day after he had written his friends and relatives with a printer's galley, he thought that he would at least write to his wife and children. He decided to design the world's first Christmas card. It was a simple affair, but it was the last of a kind.

The result was considered the last word in festive fashion, and 1,800 copies were printed at Sumner's Home Office in Old Bond Street. These were sold at a shilling each.

Several of these original cards were sent to the Colchester card manufacturer. Some were interestingly reproduced here. It was sent by direction to the old young friend, Emma and Agnes—(The spelling—and the rather ham-fisted witicism are Heriot's own).

Though this was the direct ancestor of the 100 million in Britain alone last year, it is not an exact copy of the original. A contemporary described it thus: "A trellis of intricate work in the Gothic style divided the card into centre and two side panels. The sides were filled by representations of the feeding of the fowls in the extreme compartment a family were shown at table with an old man and woman, a maiden and her young man, and several other drinking, smoking, and eating. The centre panel was left for rays to be written and contained a drawing of the Virgin and Child."

But when the young man who was to be the first to send Christmas cards was not to be put off by a little thing like that.

Yet Christmas cards did not really catch on with the public until about 30 years later. This was partly due to the expense of the cards themselves—there were some relations at the time for the high cost of postage letters design and printing in verse, the cards were generally given in pocket form. When the postal rates were reduced in 1871, they really arrived.

The stamp of Christmas cards was still on nothing like the modern type of envelope, but the habit had grown steadily to create enormous quantities of Victorian stationery. The London Times was moved to the complaint about the craze of other people to be so busy each year to acquire and buy the "legitimate correspondence."

Despite this discouragement, however, the Christmas card industry—for that is what it had become—developed so quickly that in 1880 Sir Adolph Colnaghi, an art collector, announced a nationwide competition to discover original designs for Christmas cards. A big sum in those days—£10,000—was offered as a prize.

Embodied by success, Sir Adolph began to commission well-known artists and famous writers for designs and verses. For instance, the poet approached was one of those who had a good deal of money for the day. He was not to be put off by a little thing like that.

You cannot imagine what that regret I have felt since that way into many far corners of the earth where I can't find my very own.

Around this time the cards underwent a drastic change in

This was the very first Christmas card designed by Sir Henry Cole. It was the first of the many millions of cards that are sent each year. To modern eyes, the design seems Victorian in the extreme, but when it first appeared in 1842, it was a revolutionary innovation.

Below left, one of the most effective of the 1850 range. The snowflakes are made of tissue paper and drawn on a covering of gum arabic. The background is midnight blue. Below, right, an interesting, but not a very successful, card. It is the result of the shrewdness of the man who first introduced the traditional Christmas scene.

appearance. Previously, their design has little, if any, resemblance to the modern style. Some of the early cards were simply the introduction of a religious scene, the nativity, snow-scenes, and other Christmas incidents. The public loved them—and still do.

More and more ingenuity was now going into Christmas card production. Elaborate cut-outs, intricate and novel designs, and so on, were tried and found successful. This year's designs were a big success. A very early one of this type depicting a Victorian market scene with a woman carrying a basket on her head and a man carrying a bundle on his back. The scene was so popular that it was made into a series of several designs. Some of these were so popular that they were made into a series of several designs.

This was thought during the war. It was thought during the war. It was thought during the war. It was thought during the war.

He made Christmas Illegal

MAINLY because of the severe laws promulgated by Oliver Cromwell in England, in the 16th century, there are still many ordinary activities which cannot be carried out in that country during this festival.

When the puritanical Cromwell was appointed Protector of the Commonwealth and Protectorate he issued an order in Parliament that on 11th of December, 1652, it should be illegal to buy, sell, give or feast on any of his new laws. Christmas was to be a fast-day. It is equally illegal to drink during this festival. His father-in-law transferred the date of Christmas into an occasion for mourning. Cromwell and his followers, from many of his spiritual children, were to be in mourning on the 25th of December. It was also illegal to perform any religious services. Cromwell's laws are so strict that many of the ancient laws that still remain in force in this country are those which were introduced by Cromwell. It is equally illegal to play billiards or football, as well as to visit on Christmas day. It is also illegal to wear a Christmas dinner on any day other than Christmas day. It is also illegal to have a Christmas dinner on any day other than Christmas day. It is also illegal to have a Christmas dinner on any day other than Christmas day.

Fortunately, the authorities will not be so strict in many of the ancient laws that still remain in force in this country. It is equally illegal to play billiards or football, as well as to visit on Christmas day. It is also illegal to wear a Christmas dinner on any day other than Christmas day. It is also illegal to have a Christmas dinner on any day other than Christmas day.

According to the authorities, it is illegal to have a Christmas dinner on any day other than Christmas day. It is also illegal to wear a Christmas dinner on any day other than Christmas day. It is also illegal to have a Christmas dinner on any day other than Christmas day.

It is also illegal to have a Christmas dinner on any day other than Christmas day. It is also illegal to wear a Christmas dinner on any day other than Christmas day. It is also illegal to have a Christmas dinner on any day other than Christmas day.

It is also illegal to have a Christmas dinner on any day other than Christmas day. It is also illegal to wear a Christmas dinner on any day other than Christmas day. It is also illegal to have a Christmas dinner on any day other than Christmas day.

It is also illegal to have a Christmas dinner on any day other than Christmas day. It is also illegal to wear a Christmas dinner on any day other than Christmas day. It is also illegal to have a Christmas dinner on any day other than Christmas day.

It is also illegal to have a Christmas dinner on any day other than Christmas day. It is also illegal to wear a Christmas dinner on any day other than Christmas day. It is also illegal to have a Christmas dinner on any day other than Christmas day.

It is also illegal to have a Christmas dinner on any day other than Christmas day. It is also illegal to wear a Christmas dinner on any day other than Christmas day. It is also illegal to have a Christmas dinner on any day other than Christmas day.

THE STORY OF SANTA CLAUS

By Les Amour

SOMEWHERE in the west world, a tall, lean, elderly old man is probably sitting and chuckling genty at his legend.

SOMEWHERE in the west world, a tall, lean, elderly old man is probably sitting and chuckling genty at his legend. He is thinking of the merry old fellow who has been making his rounds for centuries. He is thinking of the merry old fellow who has been making his rounds for centuries. He is thinking of the merry old fellow who has been making his rounds for centuries.

It is a story that has been told for centuries. It is a story that has been told for centuries. It is a story that has been told for centuries. It is a story that has been told for centuries. It is a story that has been told for centuries.

Strange Christmas Beliefs

By A.V. STACEY

THE festival of Christmas is riven with superstitions, beliefs, mores of which are strange beyond belief and have little or no religious significance.

It is all parts of legend have been handed down to us. In the belief that Jews traced their ancestry to the tribe of Benjamin, the Jews of the East believe that the tribe of Benjamin was the tribe of the Jews of the East. The Jews of the East believe that the tribe of Benjamin was the tribe of the Jews of the East.

Some Scotsmen and Irishmen believe that children born on this day are destined for a life of hardship. They are born on this day are destined for a life of hardship. They are born on this day are destined for a life of hardship. They are born on this day are destined for a life of hardship.

The nativity superstition among the Irish is that children born on this day are destined for a life of hardship. They are born on this day are destined for a life of hardship. They are born on this day are destined for a life of hardship.

It is a story that has been told for centuries. It is a story that has been told for centuries. It is a story that has been told for centuries. It is a story that has been told for centuries. It is a story that has been told for centuries.

MOMBASA VICTORY OVER MALARIA

Full control forecast

The Mombasa municipal area is, at the moment, almost entirely free from malaria-carrying mosquitoes. This is accounted for by the fact that the city water during the last two years has been treated with a campaign for the first time over the Mombasa District reported complete with 1953 and 1954.

The Medical Officer of Health, Dr. C. D. Brown, said that if the mosquitoes do not return, there will be no malaria in the area. He said that malaria was an insidious disease that was very common in the area before the beginning of 1954. He said that the regular spraying campaign on the residential area has been very successful and that malaria has been almost completely eliminated.

Homes treated

This has resulted in a marked reduction in malaria. From a total of 100 cases in 1952, there were only 10 in 1953. The number of cases in 1954 was only 5. This is a very good result and shows that the spraying campaign has been very successful.

Discriminate plea to sportsmen

Sportsmen are urged to discriminate when they are shooting over the Mombasa National Rifle Club. The club has a strict policy of discrimination against those who are not members. This is to ensure that the club remains a place where only those who are interested in the sport can participate.

ETON RAISES FEES TO $400 A YEAR

Eton College has announced that it is raising its fees to $400 a year. This is a significant increase and is due to the rising costs of education. The school has also announced that it is introducing a new system of grading and that it is planning to expand its facilities.

PACTORIA: How 1819 Province has been the administrative capital of the Union of South Africa

Children ride 'motorised pedal-cycles' at 45 m.p.h.

NEW RESTRICTIONS IN UGANDA

Motor-assisted cycles above 25 c.c. will fall within the category of motor-cycles under amended provisions in Uganda. Vehicles with seats for more than two persons will become private motor buses and will be vehicles of more than 12,000 lb. instead of 8,000 lb.

Mr. J. A. Bavin, Controller of the Traffic Branch of Uganda Police, said yesterday that so far motor-assisted pedal-cycles with an engine capacity of up to 25 c.c. were being ridden by children not eligible for driving licences. It had been found that when children as young as 10 were riding these machines they had been able to reach speeds of 45 m.p.h.

S. RHODESIA MALARIA RATE CUT BY 93 per cent

Single-method 'gamble' pays

MALARIA among Europeans in Southern Rhodesia has been cut by 93 per cent during the past six years, a campaign carried out by two members of the Medical Department and the Director of Medical Services, Dr. Dwyon M. Hill, and the Director of the Malaria Research Institute, Dr. William Alford. The history of the six years' campaign is told in a paper published in the Journal of Tropical Medicine and Hygiene.

100TH HOUSE READY IN NEW YEAR

Salisbury scheme progress

EIGHTY-FOUR houses in the Salisbury municipal five-cut housing scheme at Southbridge were occupied before Christmas and the 100th house is expected to be ready for his owners during January.

Work has been completed on 11 of the houses, the first 100 completed in the first 100 houses of the scheme, which comprise 2,000 houses. A shopping centre, community centre, clubs and schools will be provided to make the Southern area a self-contained garden suburb.

Union 'can be kept busy for 100 years'

PREDICTION ON RESOURCES

A PREDICTION that the United States national income in ten years would reach $2,000 billion is the view of the National Resources Development Council. The council's report states that the United States has the resources to keep the country industrialized for 100 years. legions of some African who had not supported the Kabakas. The special police were drafted to the troubled areas and later in the month, 1955 had to be used to disperse mobs which were attacking his house. Many of the Luddite rejected a return to the British Government for allowing the Kabakas to return.

A debate in Burgess and Molson led to a promise by the Prime Minister that a Parliamentary group would be set up to consider the whole question of security in British Africa. This was followed by a stormy debate in the Lords in one week after which was responsible for attacking the British Government.

DECEMBER THE month of December was perhaps, too eventful, to be used as a guide to what has been some large shape, but it is worth a look.

First, there was the French coup d'etat in the Congo. Then there was the election of the new Prime Minister, Harold Wilson, and the resignation of Mr. Morrison. Anthony Eden's dramatic resignation of his office as Prime Minister was a surprise.

As the year ends, the world is not a happy place. Violence in the Congo is still rampant. Bulgaria has accused British spies of spying on her. Unemployment, fresh troubles have flared up in Britain. The new government and a new party are being formed in the United Kingdom.

Britain's financial position has improved slightly, following the stricter measures. The Labour Party has expected the Government to persuade the House of Commons to allow the off-balance book, apart from anything else, to be closed. It is hoped that the colour of sterling will be improved.

We have lost an ex-Governor of Kenya, Sir Kenneth Robinson (George Glegg), who has written a book on Kenya's future. Nairobi rates have gone up from 10 to 12 per cent and Nakuru are at 10 per cent. The Kenya Government has closed its books and a new Government has been formed.

The 1955 year, with its ups and downs, its joys and sorrows, its triumphs and its disappointments, has now closed. It has been a year that has seen many changes and a new year that begins with a fresh start.

PERSONALITIES OF THE KYRA STAGE

By Lesley Clay

How people can have had more varied experience of the theatre than Leonard Pierpoint. Throughout the entire East African Territories, wherever he has gone, he has played a part in local drama.

When Leonard Pierpoint left school in England and was waiting to go into the Royal Navy, he was an assistant stage manager. When his projected career was abandoned, he went to work with Jimmy Grant and his company.

That was his first experience of the theatre and worked with Messrs. Transport Board until the Indian Army in 1939. He worked with productions for the Indian Army in East Africa, and formed a dramatic society, had the opportunity to produce and put on plays in East Africa.

Let Pierpoint venture to produce plays as well as act in them. He would like to produce plays as well as act in them. He would like to produce plays as well as act in them.

The Diversity Of Competition

The E argument that Capitalism is better than Socialism cannot be settled by force. The economic competition that is being waged is the highest of all.

Some of the most important factors in determining the success of a country are the quality of its labor, the amount of its capital, and the efficiency of its management. These factors are not equally distributed among the nations of the world.

EVERY fact of the oil industry is influenced by the high degree of international competition. The oil industry is a world-wide industry, and its success depends on the ability of its producers to compete in the international market.

HIGH COSTS DANGER TO FIVE-YEAR PLAN

Nairobi Council approves £10,500,000 expenditure

WARNING that high costs of building and civil engineering work could have a serious effect on the five-year plan programme directed by the Nairobi City Council, was given by the chairman of the Finance Committee, Ald. H. H. Woodhouse, at a special meeting of the Council yesterday, when expenditure of nearly £10,500,000 for the coming financial year was approved.

The Council meeting was held at 3.30 p.m. in the Council Chamber, and was presided over by the Mayor, Ald. I. S. Kemezis.

Mr. Woodhouse said that the estimate for the coming year required that the Council should be prepared to meet a number of large items of expenditure, and that the Council should be prepared to meet the balance of the estimate by the end of the year.

He said that the estimate for the coming year was £10,500,000, and that the Council should be prepared to meet the balance of the estimate by the end of the year.

He said that the estimate for the coming year was £10,500,000, and that the Council should be prepared to meet the balance of the estimate by the end of the year.

There was great interest in the fact that the Council had approved the estimate for the coming year. It was noted that the estimate was £10,500,000, and that the Council should be prepared to meet the balance of the estimate by the end of the year.

SOUTHERN RHODESIA FINDS THERE'S MONEY IN TREES

TREE BREEDING of the highest and soft timber—of which the vast Southern Rhodesian borders are so rich—is now being developed in the high country of the north-eastern hills between Inyanga and Chipinga for many years but on a small scale.

Before the war the Government Forestry Department had one large timber estate, at Standerton, north of Umtata, and there were only two private plantations of any consequence. Today plantations cover 15,000 acres.

Today the Forestry Commission, successor to the Forestry Department, has since 1946 increased the area to 100,000 acres. In the next quarter of a century, while present yields are in the order of 200,000 tons, it is expected that the area will be established over 800,000 acres of trees.

Even more impressive has been the progress since 1946 in the development of water power. On its 28 estates the Rhodesian Water Commission has planted 25,000 acres of forest and pre-arranged, or authorized, the planting of 4,000 acres.

Already the Eastern Border Forest has been planted with 100,000 trees and will eventually have a quarter of a million.

An important point to that most of the land used for tree-planting is not suitable for any other production or cattle raising. Good management can ensure that the plantations are quickly at their feet level to 2,000 and 3,000 acres.

Water matters more quickly than any other. This year has been added to last year's. The forest will be produced in the forest, now being planted in the post-war plantations. Five estates have at least 20 years' growth, and the total area is 12,000 acres.

At Standerton, in the north-east, the plantation is 20 years old. The biggest now in operation is at Standerton, in the north-east, which is 20 years old. It is a well-established estate. It is a well-established estate. It is a well-established estate.

The first thing that was done was to plant a small plantation of 100 acres. This was done in 1910. It was done in 1910. It was done in 1910.

fore being regarded for bark-wooding. But next year the first significant crop of bark from the post-war plantations will become available and will go to the factories now being built in the Inyanga district (and in the Inyanga district and in the Inyanga district).

When it is necessary to strip the trees, the water extract will be capable of producing 10,000 tons of extract a year from something over 200 acres.

In some quarters there has been some difficulty in water-logging, but this is a very good thing. It is a very good thing. It is a very good thing.

ODDLY ENOUGH

FOUR years ago I became a householder (strictly speaking, a mortgagee). By signing incompensable documents about cartilage and insurance I crossed the last great gulf between gull and unfettered youth and Responsibility, and within the first three months I thought I knew all there was to know about a man's property. When the factory opened next year he will be able to strip at the rate of 40 acres a year and to replant at the same rate he would have a net income of £2,800 a year instead of £7 a acre a year over the 10-year crisis.

GIBRALTAR CHRISTMAS IS a difficult in the light of the fact that the island is a military base. The population is small and the majority are British. There are many who are unable to return home for the Christmas holidays. The authorities have made arrangements to provide a Christmas party for all those who are unable to return home. The party will be held at the Officers' Club and will include a dinner, dancing, and a presentation of the Christmas cards. The party is expected to be a very successful one and will be a great help to those who are unable to return home.

AMMUNITION LAW EASED

DEATH PENALTY REDUCED TO LIFE IMPRISONMENT

The death penalty under the Emergency Regulations for the unlawful possession of ammunition will be reduced to life imprisonment for a trial period of three months, beginning on Sunday.

This relaxation covers the possession of ammunition in circumstances such as to raise a reasonable suspicion that the holder is engaged in a trade, business or profession, or for a purpose prejudicial to public safety, or for the purpose of public order. For the same experimental period, it will be reduced to life imprisonment for three months for three years.

These provisions are contained in the Emergency Regulations (No. 14) Regulation, 1944, passed by the Emergency Legislative Council.

Government ministers stated this week that the relaxation of the death penalty for possession of ammunition is as a result of a recommendation made by the Attorney General. It is intended to be used for a trial period of three months for three years.

Higher prices for Kenya meat producers

REVIEW OF INCREASED COSTS SINCE 1952

INCREASES in the prices paid to producers of meat in Kenya have been approved by the Government on the 21st. The increases, which will be effective from next Sunday, range from 64 per cent for all grades of beef and 23 per cent for all grades of mutton and lamb, to 118 per cent for all grades of pig meat. The increases are based on statements put out by the Minister for Agriculture, Mr. J. M. Nyoro, who said that the increase in the price of meat is not controlled by the Government but is a result of the rising prices of produce, producer, wholesale or retail — is not a matter for which the Kenya Government is responsible.

The statement continues: "The Government believes that the new producer prices will help secure a greater security of supply and will also lead to an increase in the supply of meat for the people of Kenya. It is not intended to increase the price of meat for the people of Kenya, but to increase the price of meat for the producer, wholesale or retail — is not a matter for which the Kenya Government is responsible."
