BROAD AGREEMENT IN EXPORT TALKS

Confidence over E.A. loan

THE United Kingdom, France and the United States have agreed on an increased number of categories and maximum quantities of goods they are prepared to export to Europe's Communist bloc. They are prepared to export certain types of machine tools and petroleum according to diplomatic arrangements.

The three Powers announced at the end of a two-day agreement in London "in a wide area of agreement" which would be the subject of a conference after President Eisenhower expressed misgivings about Sir Winston Churchill's substantial relaxation of the trade ban.

Under the "Baltic Act" passed by the House of Representatives in 1952, the United States and Great Britain and American vessels were to be allowed to trade with the Communist bloc. Under the new agreement, the United States will allow the United Kingdom to trade with the Communist bloc.

Kenya to raise £1,000,000

The Governor would be empowered to raise the loan by the issuance and issue of registered stock.

New proposal for British shares

A MAJORITY report of a committee appointed by the Government has urged Britain to follow the United States and Canada in permitting companies to issue ordinary shares with no par value. The proposed change would oblige companies to advertise shares not in terms of a nominal monetary value, but as fractions of their net worth.

RECORD TURNOVER - EXPORT PROBLEMS

MEANS TO IMPROVE COUNTRY'S ECONOMIC POSITION

In 1954, the results obtained in 1953 as a result of marketing our new products, except those of 1952, competition from overseas manufacturers has been reduced and our well established products have greatly increased prices and contract conditions are more attractive, and the volume of exports has increased. THE ECONOMIC POSITION
In looking to the future, it still remains, in spite of greatly reduced orders, to ensure that our sales in 1954 are maintained. The economic position of the country can continue to improve by (1) increasing production, (2) by increasing our turnover, (3) by increasing production, (4) by providing a lower cost of production, (5) by increasing the productivity of our staff.

CANADIAN MARCONI COMPANY
During the year we had the opportunity of purchasing the shares of the Canadian Marconi Company. This transaction means that the historic association between the Marconi Company and Marconi Companies has been renewed and the Canadian Marconi Company will receive every benefit of the Marconi Group.

EXPORT SALES

An Outstanding Achievement
Unequaled in Southern Africa

After 108 years of service to the nation, The Old Mutual proudly announces the issue of its millionth assurance policy.

This unique event is a tribute to the generations of peoples of Southern Africa who have placed their trust in their own mutual assurance society — THE OLD MUTUAL.

OUT OF THE PAST...

One hundred and eight years have passed since the issue of Assurance No. 1 was issued on the life of John Fairbairn, the founder of our Society. From that day onwards, the growth and development of The Old Mutual have kept pace with the growth and development of our country...

TO THE PRESENT...

This month The Old Mutual issued its millionth policy. Proud indeed, that The Old Mutual can claim to be... the Mutual friend of all the peoples of Southern Africa.

FOR THE FUTURE...

To meet the many hazards of life — to fulfil its hopes and dreams — the "Man from The Old Mutual" has sound, new plans to provide assistance and protection where and when you need it.

H-BOMB CAN WRECK ANY CITY IN WORLD

Premier agrees to Labour demand for debate

THE United States hydrogen bomb test had shown that the new weapon could destroy any city in the world, Lewis Strauss, chairman of the American Atomic Energy Commission, has announced in Washington. Denying that the explosion on March 15 was out of control, he said its power was about double the original estimated and that this margin of error was not incommensurate with a totally new weapon.

"The result of these tests has brought in very much nearer to the day of the actualisation of military requirements," he commented, "so that we can see the ability to proceed with the aggressive development of this power to an extent that we were not able to do before."

Mr. Strauss said that the House of Commons should be asked to discuss the hydrogen bomb on Monday. The Prime Minister said that he would do so, but that he would also discuss the hydrogen bomb on Monday.

More signs

Mr. Strauss stated that a debate on the hydrogen bomb was held at a Cabinet meeting at which the Prime Minister said that the hydrogen bomb was a new weapon and that it was a matter of time before it would be used.

TOMORROW SEES BRITAIN'S 100th BOAT RACE

TOMORROW, April 2, 1954, will see the 100th Boat Race. Let us be quite clear about that. It is not the centenary for it is 125 years since Oxford and Cambridge first rowed against each other in eight-oared boats. That was in 1829, a private challenge between two individual members of each university—and it has remained a private challenge.

The fact that the Boat Race is now an annual event for the public and is rowed in London on a most busy stretch of the tidal waters of the Thames has become a tradition, and a most happy tradition, and a most national event such as the Cup Final, the Grand National, or the Derby, which are open to all-comers, recognized as covers its fame. It has no national interest, it has no national concern, it is a sport to its most true meaning.

It is an event in the calendar of London spectators, and of British tradition. Happily too, it is not concerned with politics, which may make profits, for there is no "gate" to be taken. Like a "fish-of-the-year" it is rowed for private and commercial, and it is more chosen from Oxford and Cambridge, which may get from Putney to Mortlake first in one of the oldest means of progression known to man.

Tomorrow, over the traditional course of the Thames from Putney to Mortlake, Oxford and Cambridge will row their 100th Boat Race since the series began in 1829. Here JOHN SNAAGE, who will be giving the commentary on the race, looks back over the history of this annual sporting event which now has, through radio and television, a world-wide audience.

It began in a very private way. It was the competition that there might be a "race" between the two universities. The Oxford crew started the Cambridge crew. The Cambridge crew had then to take to the river in the evening. The Oxford crew of Christ Church, which brought the boat which was to be used as a bridge in the following Christmas, was the first to take a place on the river.

History does not tell us who it was that first rowed. It was light blue. It has been suggested that it was the crew of St. Philip's who was to be the first school to take a place on the river. There were three crews, but in the end it was the crew of St. Philip's who was to be the first school to take a place on the river.

Cambridge boat has been being rowed in the river since the first school that came to the river. It was the crew of St. Philip's who was to be the first school to take a place on the river. There were three crews, but in the end it was the crew of St. Philip's who was to be the first school to take a place on the river.

Poet's nephew

A man of Oxford who rowed the boat which was to be used as a bridge in the following Christmas, was the first to take a place on the river. It was the crew of Christ Church, which brought the boat which was to be used as a bridge in the following Christmas, was the first to take a place on the river.

The second Boat Race was rowed in 1830. It was the crew of Christ Church, which brought the boat which was to be used as a bridge in the following Christmas, was the first to take a place on the river. It was the crew of Christ Church, which brought the boat which was to be used as a bridge in the following Christmas, was the first to take a place on the river.

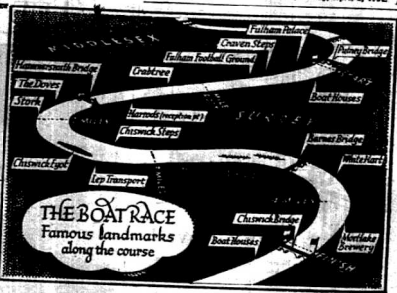

It was the crew of Christ Church, which brought the boat which was to be used as a bridge in the following Christmas, was the first to take a place on the river.

Dead-heat

The year 1871 is always remembered for the only dead-heat in the history of the Boat Race. It was the crew of Christ Church, which brought the boat which was to be used as a bridge in the following Christmas, was the first to take a place on the river. It was the crew of Christ Church, which brought the boat which was to be used as a bridge in the following Christmas, was the first to take a place on the river.

Sunk

Between these two races there was a tragedy. The crew of Christ Church, which brought the boat which was to be used as a bridge in the following Christmas, was the first to take a place on the river. It was the crew of Christ Church, which brought the boat which was to be used as a bridge in the following Christmas, was the first to take a place on the river.

Traditional

A waste of money? An unnecessary waste of time in working out superfluous matters? I wonder. Many of the things that are done in the Boat Race are traditional. It is a tradition that has been passed down for generations. It is a tradition that has been passed down for generations.

Always, Christ Church

Christ Church has always been the most successful crew in the history of the Boat Race. It has won more races than any other crew. It has won more races than any other crew.

U. S. visit

The year 1954 was famous not only for its sporting but also for the fact that the Boat Race was rowed in the United States. WHAT WAS over a month for employees at the Kempha power station of the Upcountry Electric Board to give a perfect little holiday party. With seating for more than a hundred people, which gives the Christmas celebration a place of prominence, it is appropriately named Kempha's Little Christmas.

In 1935, when John Johnson, a name well known in the Upcountry, was elected president of the U. S. E. B. at that time, he gave the party. It was given at Kempha, a small town of approximately 1000 people, in the industrial area of the power station, and the celebration was a success. This small group, consisting of 100 or more, were seated at long tables, both the steps and the main floor. The decorations were of the fact that it was a Christmas party, and the guests were given a very good time. The party was held in the main hall of the power station, and the decorations were of the fact that it was a Christmas party, and the guests were given a very good time.

THE LYING DUTCHMAN

FOREIGN AGENTS do not understand the danger of detection by M.I.5 in special operations. Although there is nothing today to prevent a spy entering Britain, it is the first job of the counter-espionage agents to see to it that he does not know their secrets. Hence more rigid and more frequent screening at Britain's security establishments.

How M.I.5 select and watch the identity of their headquarters concerning British, it is the chief. It can be said, however, that of one time he was housed in London press.

Prison vans

In the very early days of the war it was thought desirable that M.I.5 should change address which was found to be known to the enemy. For this reason, the headquarters of M.I.5 should be their new home.

The move was carried out on a secret and strictly not even the people living close by the action had any idea of what was going on.

Early one morning a fleet of raised prison vans drove through massive lanes and were loaded with prisoners who were driven off to other locations. Here they stayed for a few days, until they were again taken to their new home.

Very few

Senior officers took over the Government's headquarters while others worked from offices which were thought to be safe. This change of address, and the fact that M.I.5 headquarters were now dispersed, was the result of counter-espionage activity.

The move was carried out on a secret and strictly not even the people living close by the action had any idea of what was going on.

Case in point

MAPPING FOR THE FUTURE

How Aerial Survey Is Helping To Develop Natural Resources In Asia And Africa

The desire for social and economic reform has swept the continents of Africa and Asia. But progress is no longer an attainable ideal. In the Middle East, Western oil and capital, huge revenues from oil, are helping to bring work, sufficient food and decent housing within the reach of every man.

The East has a long and a young history. It has a rich and a vast potential. It has a future which is virtually unexplored. It has a wealth of resources which it has not yet fully tapped. It has a population, however, which is growing at a rate which is a serious threat to a comfortable life for all.

Aerial survey

The science of aerial survey refers only to the use of the camera in the development of a map. It is the use of the camera in the development of a map. It is the use of the camera in the development of a map.

How it is done

It is done by taking a series of overlapping photographs from a high altitude. The photographs are then processed and the resulting images are used to create a map.

Value recognized

A growing number of African and Asian countries are recognizing the value of aerial survey. They are using it to map their land and resources.
