WHEAT LOSSES

The announcement by the East African Government for Agriculture of a guarantee for wheat...

Whether the loss of a big slice of this year's harvest will have any gross effect upon local supplies...

By guaranteeing a minimum price for minimum area, the Government of Kenya achieves several ends...

These considerations make it clear that the guarantee is a wise step...

It would have been little less than a tragedy to have permitted the wastage of many thousands of tons of wheat...

It would also have acted as a deterrent to the wheat farmer at a time when it has become of considerable importance to do what supplies are produced...

It is a pity that the Government has not taken the necessary steps to ensure that the wheat farmer is not discouraged...

TURKANA CHIEFS SEE ARMY PARADE

Governor receives recruits at Nakuru

TURKANA chiefs in ceremonial dress mingled with the crowd of visitors who watched Wednesday's passing-out parade of recruits at the East African Training Centre, Nakuru. Their blazoned head-dresses and their air of antiquity with civilization rendered recruits on parade smartly turned-out and well-disciplined recruits on parade had, however, been unimpaired hand-to-hand a fortnight earlier.

The parade, which drew thousands of on-lookers, was held in the presence of the Governor, Sir Philip Mitchell, who later took the salute at the close of the parade. The recruits were presented to the Governor by the E.A.T.C. which was inspected by the Governor, Sir Philip Mitchell, who later took the salute at the close of the parade. The recruits were presented to the Governor by the E.A.T.C. which was inspected by the Governor, Sir Philip Mitchell, who later took the salute at the close of the parade.

First recipients were Staff-Sergeant A. Lawson and Staff-Sergeant K. Hodges both of the Army Catering Corps. They are now being trained at the Royal Signals School at Bletchley, near London.

YOU'LL THRILL at the new life and lustre in your hair

They eat too many sweets
Children in Northern Rhodesia love to eat many sweets and sticky Australian foods and soft-soft French milk and chocolate. According to a report of the Dental Officer, who was requested in the annual report of the Health Department, although the number of children requiring dental attention has fallen, the Dental Officer does not feel that the general condition of the children is very much worse than the general population in British East Africa. The Dental Officer believes that the reasons for this are: (1) the prevalence of private practice dentistry, which is available at all levels; (2) the prevalence of a total diet which is not so rich in sweets as that of the children in the United Kingdom; (3) the fact that the majority of acceptance rates of Government dental services in England and Scotland.

'KISUMU'S NEW PRISON IS NEARING COMPLETION

Policy is to produce useful citizens

Practically everybody in Kenya has heard H.M. Prisons referred to as 'Hotel de King George' and may be in the past not without some justification. But within the very near future at least in fact the prisoners in Nyandarua Province are concerned, the inmates and even inmates will be referring to them as 'Pungwa na matata' and usually the more Kikuyu of the long-term prisoner who is comparable in workmanship and quality to many hotels, but the days when the inmates were used to be sent to the prison and just loafed around in an occasional token gesture of hard labour is dead and buried.

For several years past, it had been obvious to the authorities concerned that the Kisumu Prison was no longer suitable. It is practically in the residential zone across the road from the Roman Catholic Church and within a few minutes' drive of the main road to Kisumu. The present building is a new structure of concrete and steel, and is being completed in a few months. It is a modern building, and is being completed in a few months. THIS IS JUBILEE YEAR FOR THE 3rd K.A.R.

Ex-officer recalls stories of the past

On January 1st this year it was 30 years since the East African Rifles became the 3rd King's African Rifles, and to quote the words of the present Commanding Officer, Lieutenant-Colonel J. O. Crosswell at the recent Regimental Dinner which celebrated the occasion, "I started at a military history to which I venture to suggest there will be many notable additions."

Lt. Col. Crosswell gave the guests a brief summary of the history of the Battalion. Under the new title, he said, the Battalion served in the East African Campaign from 1914 to 1918. It was then reformed as the 3rd King's African Rifles in 1919. It has since then served in various campaigns, including the East African Campaign of 1940-42, the East African Campaign of 1948-49, and the East African Campaign of 1954-56.

The strength of the Battalion is now 1,200 men. It is divided into four battalions, each of which is equipped with modern weapons and equipment. The Battalion is currently engaged in operations in the East African Campaign of 1961-62.

The Battalion has a long and distinguished history. It has served in many of the most difficult and dangerous campaigns in the history of the British Empire. It has always been known for its courage, its loyalty, and its fighting spirit.

The Battalion is proud of its heritage and its traditions. It is determined to continue to serve with distinction and to uphold the high standards of the British Army.

The Battalion is currently engaged in operations in the East African Campaign of 1961-62. It is determined to achieve the highest standards of performance and to bring honour to its name.

THE DIFFERENCE

Between the old and the new

The difference between the old and the new is a matter of degree. It is not a matter of kind. The old is still there, but it is being replaced by the new. The new is better, but it is not perfect. The old is still useful, but it is being replaced by the new.

THE FIRST WAR

Between the old and the new

The first war between the old and the new was fought in 1914. It was a war of attrition, and it was fought in the East African Campaign. The British Army was victorious, and it was a great triumph for the British Empire.

NAIROBI BIDS THE K.A.R. GOD-SPEED

THESE were the scenes in Nairobi, capital of Kenya, a week ago, when all ranks of the 3rd (Kenya) Battalion of the King's African Rifles exercised their right as Freeman of the City to march through its streets with bayonets fixed, colours flying and drums beating.

The march was a solemn occasion which Nairobi has never witnessed before. It was the morning and colourful occasion when Nairobi bade them God-speed.

On Saturday they called from Mombasa in the troopship Devonshire. The Battalion's flag flew at the masthead and the band of the R.A.F. played farewell music on the quayside. Their march through Nairobi, from the Albert and their officers and non-commissioned officers through the main streets from the station to the City Hall and back again to the station, where their entourage, the Court.

Fashions here and there

It is always interesting to compare shopping and fashion notes in different countries. Bombay provides a fascinating contrast although, of course, in many respects it is difficult to compare young city with old city. It is a city of Bombay.

GROWING OLD WITH GRACE

A PERFECT example of how to grow old gracefully is Gladys Cooper. A famous beauty in the thirties, she is now fit and trim and none that is amazing. She has exchanged youthful beauty for a mature elegance and is one of the best dressed of our British stage stars.

Energetic

How well she keeps in good shape for the evening, her grace and poise in the theatre, her energy in the morning, her health and vitality, her grace and poise in the theatre, her energy in the morning, her health and vitality, her grace and poise in the theatre, her energy in the morning, her health and vitality.

Comfort

FASHIONS are always in the vanguard and it is in the thirties that they have been most conspicuous. At one party particularly, a woman in a dress of shimmering, sequined and beaded fabric, with a long, flowing train, was the talk of the evening.

The Sari

INDIAN dress has always been a thing of beauty. It is a thing of beauty, it is a thing of beauty, it is a thing of beauty, it is a thing of beauty, it is a thing of beauty, it is a thing of beauty, it is a thing of beauty, it is a thing of beauty.

AS everyone knows, the British are the greatest dog-lovers in the world. The whole thing is not their pet, but the animal which is their friend and companion.

Penmanship

WE'LL admit I don't like penmanship. I don't like it, I don't like it, I don't like it, I don't like it, I don't like it, I don't like it, I don't like it, I don't like it.

PLAYROOM JUSTICE

THE punishment fits the crime is certainly a good motto for the playroom. When Robin, who is a very mischievous boy, was caught stealing a toy, he was punished accordingly.

Spring in London

Metaphorically by the name of Spring, the city of London is now in full swing. The streets are full of life and the people are happy.

Nice Kids, says Danish King

BY CATHERINE BIRT

This series on Royal children ends with the happy story of family life of the reigning houses of Holland, Denmark and Sweden. Normal upbringing, love and laughter, are the keystones of the Royal parents' methods.

THE day begins in a Holland's Royal Family in the happy way that it begins in many of families all over the world—Mrs. Juliana and the happy three oldest little Dutch Princesses off to school.

There were 113 guests at the wedding... The bride wore a high-necked gown with a high collar and long sleeves...

WANDA LANDOWSKA: PRIESTESS OF THE HARPSICHORD

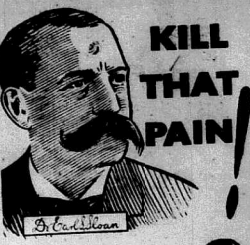

WANDA LANDOWSKA has been in the field of music, a liberator and a prophetess. In the past 50 years she has been a leading spirit in the movement to free music from the great mass of the 19th and 18th centuries and to bring the language of music and thought almost single-handedly back to its original sources. She has brought back the ancient harpsichord to a respected and active place in the family of musical instruments.

HOWARD TAUBMAN tells the story of the Polish-born musician who in 1951 received the President's award of the American Federation of Music Clubs for her revival of the once-erect instrument and its great compositions of the past.

Some faults in skin-tightening. When she was in New York City some years ago she was wearing a long white dress she looked like a nun. She was walking on the stage, and she was looking at the audience. She was looking at the audience. She was looking at the audience.

NO doubt among the stamp collectors given this past Christmas were a number of them who were always seen some new entries into the ranks of the ever-growing army of stamp collectors.

Germany seeks trade in Africa

NEARING the end of a four-month trip through Africa, the German Minister of Commerce, Dr. Johannes Winter, who is travelling through the continent on a one-man survey of trade, development and general conditions.

In an interview with the East African Standard, he said that Germany was now turning to Africa as a possible major export market.

Germany is a part of the Western world that we are interested in, he said. We have all got to be developed.

Weak finances

He said that Germany was willing to invest in Africa on the basis of money which it has accumulated in the last few years. Our main aim is to get our money back, he said. We will not be able to supply the African development.

No politics

He stressed that he was not political in his mission. He had come to Africa to see the country as it is, he said. We are not interested in politics, he said. We are interested in trade and development.

'THE WHITE SHEEP OF THE FAMILY'

THE scene opens in the living-room of this pillar of the Peace and Justice party, James Winter, and the little maid is bringing coffee.

Nothing could appear so more ordinary and decent, and indeed, one of the most engaging aspects of this play is the manner in which all the Winter family accept its employment as the price of a very vital and necessary to us that they are to be humanly.

Partnership in Africa

The forthcoming visit to East Africa by the Hon. Mr. Douglas Hoggins, Minister of Southern Rhodesia, is a significant event. The Central African Federation will be the first to be visited.

Genius

The genius of the play is that it is a play about a play. It is a play about a play, and it is a play about a play.

Paramountcy

Paramountcy takes its place in the history of the African continent. It is a play about a play, and it is a play about a play.

Delightful

It is a delightful play, and it is a play about a play. It is a play about a play, and it is a play about a play.

Nyeri rate to produce £1,570

THE Nyeri Township Association met to discuss the 1952 estimates of revenue and expenditure, submitted by the Township Overseer.

It was stated that although the final rating figure of 1 per cent on the probable value of property was recommended, rates had a liability of going up and a possible 10 per cent increase would have to be levied.

The 1952 estimates show a total income of £1,570 against a total of £1,447 last year. Rates are recommended to produce a total of £1,570.

The need for development

ADDRESSING members of the Township Committee last night, Mr. J. M. O'Connell, Chairman of the Nyeri Township Association, urged the need for development in the township.

Mr. O'Connell said that the township had a population of 10,000 and that the township committee should be concerned with the development of the township.

Grand away victory over Everton

All but one of the three round F.A. Cup ties have now been decided, four of the seven outstanding replays on Wednesday. Two Division III clubs, Ipswich Town and Gainsborough, alone failed to reach a conclusion and will meet again on Sheffield United's ground at Bramall Lane, on Monday, January 21.

Highlights of Wednesday's replays was the defeat of Everton, relegated from Division I last season, by Southampton, Division III side, 3-1. Southampton, who lost their first round tie to Ipswich, beat their opponents by a score of 2-1. Ipswich, who were drawn at Gainsborough's ground, and then joined the ranks of the Cup giants.

Younger fighters' bid for honours

By Freddie Mills

BRITAIN'S younger fighters are preparing for some exciting changes of fortune in 1962, and some are hoping for titles of various grades.

No boxer is eligible for a British area or national title until he is 21 years of age, but several promising younger men are now in the ring.

With the best heavyweights in the world, the British area is a very tough one to conquer. The winner of the title will be a very big man.

RUSE THAT HELPED WIN WAR

BY PETER LOVEGROVE

DETAILS of the high-minded and elaborate cover-plan which completely fooled the German High Command in Italy in the late spring of 1944 and helped the Allies to smash the notorious Goeben and Hitler Lines and seize Rome are revealed by Eric Linklater in his new book, "The Campaign in Italy."

During the previous winter the Americans, the Zealanders, the British, the Indians, the Canadians and gallantly but unsuccessfully tried to capture Cassino. It was an Anglo-American force led at great cost established a foothold at Anzio further up the coast which threatened it without much coercion, the German lines of communication to the Gustav Line.

This investigation shows the use of the same old same old - the fight for the right to vote continues in New York. The suffragettes are still active and are making progress in their struggle.

PASTURE RESEARCH IN KENYA

Implementing the Davies Report

In a statement on the organization of pasture research in Kenya, the Department of Agriculture recalls that after years of representations the Department has granted funds which will make a tremendous start on the work which was begun in 1960 some £70,000 was made available for the necessary capital development. The Department's current expenditure was far in excess of the amount met from Colony revenues.

The scheme on which the research is based was approved by the Government in 1956. It was a long time before the necessary funds were made available. The Department's current expenditure was far in excess of the amount met from Colony revenues.

Second phase

The second phase of the research is now being carried out. This involves a more detailed study of the various factors that affect pasture productivity in Kenya.

At Kitala

The first station of the research is at Kitala. This station is dedicated to the study of the various factors that affect pasture productivity in that region.

On tarmac now

The research is now being carried out on tarmac. This allows for more accurate measurements and data collection.

The program is being carried out by a team of experts from the Department of Agriculture. They are working closely with local farmers to improve their pasture management practices.

Using your frig. wisely

A NEWLY acquired refrigerator is always a joy, but once the thrill of making ices has worn off it is often regarded merely as a hygienic storage place, and not as an aid to quicker and easier tasks. Many people know, for instance, that a loaf of evaporated milk is placed in a saucepan of water and boiled for three minutes, covered and placed in the fridge overnight to make whip up very quickly when needed, but if the tin is simply left on a shelf in the fridge, it will stay liquid and without any beating at all. The reason for this is that the tin is kept at a steady temperature of about 40 degrees Fahrenheit, which is just what is needed for whipping cream. If the tin is placed in a saucepan of water and boiled for three minutes, the heat of the water will break down the curd in the milk, and it will whip up very quickly when needed.

FROM 'PANTIES' TO PUTTING

In the collection of spectator and sports clothes, today's fashion shows have old-fashioned, darning although not an inch of lace to be seen on the thin, tailored shorts.

Instead of Valenciennes lace, now used, starting with the waist, the shorts are made of a material which is both strong and soft. The shorts are made of a material which is both strong and soft. The shorts are made of a material which is both strong and soft.

THOMAS MANN, THE ELUSIVE

WORLD CITIZEN

The figure of Thomas Mann has always been an elusive one, impossible to fit into any of the literary or political categories in which our minds retrace.

The frontispiece to a new American edition of the Stories of Thomas Mann, edited by Charles Mendel and published by Peter Owen Ltd., London, is a rather prim-looking mounted illustration of the author in a Victorian archaic, a sight between brackets, and two hands disadroitly holding a manuscript in front of a raimentless torso. This may be the only picture of Mann that has appeared in this country.

Mann's first novel, Buddenbrooks, was written about 1898 and published in 1901. It was a study of the decline of a family, and the first of a series of novels which were published when the author was only 25 years old. Buddenbrooks was a success, and led to the development of his other work. Mann's first novel is a study of the decline of a family, and the first of a series of novels which were published when the author was only 25 years old.

that in the past Germany had produced no novelist of world fame; and that it was the duty of the German writer to produce a work of world-wide interest. Mann's Buddenbrooks was a study of the decline of a family, and the first of a series of novels which were published when the author was only 25 years old.

He and his family with Germanic blood, and which he himself wrote in the English tongue. He was not German, in the sense of the English tongue. He was not German, in the sense of the English tongue.

He emphasized his isolation

In the literature of this century, Mann has always been a figure apart. He has been a writer of expansive spirit.

KEEP YOUR HOUSE SWEET & CLEAN with SCRUBB'S

It is neither my province nor my desire to enter into any controversy on the relative merits of Nairobi, Entebbe or Dar es Salaam as the aerial centre of East Africa. I think the facts speak for themselves.

What I do want to do is to point forward, the policy of Government in the matter of East Africa, the needs of East Africa and the opportunities for East Africa. I would not like to see that a few months stay in East Africa would not give me the time to return home and write a book about East Africa.

Highlighting a Kenya problem

The opening of Entebbe Airport is a development of great importance to the people of Kenya. It is a development which will have a profound effect on the life of the country.
