U.S. REJECTS SOVIET OFFER TO JOIN NATO

Manoeuvre against Western security

NOTE BY MR. MOLOTOV

The United States has rejected a Russian offer to discuss joining the North Atlantic Pact and the possibility of America entering anti-European defence alliance, the State Department said today.

Russia's offer was contained in a note handed to the Soviet Foreign Minister, Mr. Molotov. It was the first time that Russia had suggested a move to join the North Atlantic Pact.

A statement issued in Washington said that the proposal "inspired no confidence in the face of the continued grip of the Soviet Union on its captive population. It was a manoeuvre to gain admittance within the walls of the West to undermine its security."

A French Foreign Office spokesman said that the note pointed out that there were no longer any objections to the West to undertake its security.

Progress on the Land

Today science plays an important part in agriculture, and the modern farmer has replaced many of the old, traditional practices with new techniques and equipment. And no doubt the advanced methods of today will in turn become obsolete in the years to come. Yet amid all the changing changes one practice stands firm; for the modern farmer has banked with Barclays. Today, as in the past, farmers can always rely on the experience and advice from men who have a deep understanding of their problems.

THE first annual general meeting of the English Electric Co. Ltd. was held on April 10 at the Grosvenor Rooms, London. The Chairman, Mr. G. G. Moore, said that the company had achieved a record turnover of £1,000,000 in 1932, an increase of 25% on 1931. He also stated that the company had secured a further substantial increase in exports, particularly in the United States and Canada. He mentioned that the company had received a substantial order from the U.S. Navy for the production of 1000 aircraft engines for the year 1933, an increase of 25% on 1932.

THE AFRICAN POSITION
In building the future I still believe in the policy of gradually increasing the economic position of the country as a means of increasing the living standards of the people. The management of the country must give the workpeople every chance of increasing their living standards, but it must also ensure that the workers of the country are not exploited. Every country has its own special problems, and it is the duty of the Government to deal with these problems in a fair and equitable manner. The Government of Canada has done this in the past, and I believe it will continue to do so in the future.

CANADIAN MANDON COMPANY
During the year we had the opportunity of purchasing the shares of the Canadian Mandon Company. This was a very desirable investment, and we are pleased to have secured a further 5% of the shares of this company. The Canadian Mandon Company is a leading manufacturer of electrical machinery, and its shares are highly regarded by investors.

EXPORT BUSINESS
Our exports to the United States and Canada have shown a steady increase during the year. This is due to the growing demand for our products in these countries. We are pleased to have secured a further 10% increase in exports to the U.S. and a 15% increase to Canada.

RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT
The company has spent a large amount of money on research and development during the year. This has enabled us to develop a number of new and improved products. These products are now being manufactured and are being sold in all parts of the world.

CONCERNING THE FUTURE
The future of the company is bright. We are confident that we will continue to increase our sales and profits in the years ahead. This is due to the growing demand for our products and our commitment to research and development.

THE YEAR 1932
The year 1932 was a very successful one for the company. We achieved a record turnover and a substantial increase in exports. This was due to the growing demand for our products and our commitment to research and development. We are confident that we will continue to increase our sales and profits in the years ahead.

East African Railways & Harbours

In the last 10 years the Railways have handled a traffic increase of over 100%.

A vital contribution to this tremendous expansion has been made by powerful new types of articulated locomotives, specially designed to haul longer trains and heavier loads on light rails.

Later of these Beyer Garratt Locomotives in the '56' class, the most advanced of their type in the world.

Six of these fine locomotives are already in service and 29 more are on order, together with 34 of the new and even more powerful '59' Class now being developed. But they are only part of 225 million worth of railway equipment still to be delivered, including 146 mainline and 37 shunting locomotives, and 5368 units of rolling stock.

'New deal' for Masailand progressing

WARRIORS STILL A TERROR

THIS "new deal" programme for Tanganyika's Masailand, which aims to turn the 24,000 square miles of arid, Erythraean plain into a vast, properly managed stock, cap and arable area, fully to its economic development, is working fast to overcome the "disturbing conservatism" of the tribe and already the District Commissioner, Mr. S. W. Fraser-Smith, reports encouraging changes in outlook.

It is the knowledge that the Government will be able to assist in the "new deal" which has been largely responsible for the changes in the Masailand warriors and their attitude towards the Government.

The Masailand warriors are still the terror of the Masai, but they have been seen in the past to attack the Government's stock and to raid the Government's stock. The Government is now sending its own warriors to guard the Government's stock and to raid the Government's stock.

European leadership in Kenya Guard posts

THROUGHOUT the Emergency the Kenya Regiment has been given a role to do, which members of the Regiment did police work. They have formed intelligence teams and officers of the King's African Rifles. They have worked in operations rooms and fought as a unit in the field.

These men came from the European countries and were equally armed with modern weapons. They were given a week's notice to move into the field. These weeks later they had their organizing work completed and in most cases had already begun their advance against Mau Mau.

When they moved into the field, they did not get into any trouble. They were given a week's notice to move into the field. These weeks later they had their organizing work completed and in most cases had already begun their advance against Mau Mau.

A typical post is a small hut with a thatched roof. It is situated in a clearing in the bush. The post is manned by a few men, including a European officer and a few African soldiers.

The post is used for a variety of purposes. It is used as a base for operations, a place for training, and a place for the collection of intelligence.

The post is also used as a place for the collection of intelligence. The European officer in charge of the post is responsible for the collection of intelligence and for the training of the African soldiers.

Millionth Policy

An Outstanding Achievement
Unequaled in Southern Africa

After 108 years of service to the nation, The Old Mutual proudly announces the issue of its millionth assurance policy.

This unique event is a tribute to the generations of peoples of Southern Africa who have placed their trust in their own mutual assurance society -- THE OLD MUTUAL.

OUT OF THE PAST ...

One hundred and eight years have passed since Policy of Assurance No. 1 was issued on the life of John Fairbank, the founder of our Society. From that day onwards, the growth and development of The Old Mutual have kept pace with the growth and development of our country.

TO THE PRESENT ...

This month The Old Mutual issued its millionth policy. Proud indeed, that The Old Mutual has come to be the Mutual friend of all the peoples of Southern Africa.

FOR THE FUTURE ...

To meet the many hazards of life -- to help us to prosper and thrive -- the "Millionth Policy of The Old Mutual" has issued, sure proof of complete assurance and protection where and when you need it.

H-BOMB CAN WRECK ANY CITY IN WORLD

Premier agrees to Labour demand for debate

THE United States hydrogen bomb test had shown that the new weapon could destroy any city in the world, the House of Commons, chairman of the American Atomic Energy Commission, has announced in a statement. He said that the explosion on March 1 got out of control, but that this margin of error was not inconceivable with a slightly more powerful weapon.

"The results of these tests has brought in very much nearer to the day of the satisfaction of military requirements, especially with that we can see the ability to power in an extent that we never before had to do before."

Mr. Churchill said that the House of Commons should discuss the matter. He said that the Government's policy on the hydrogen bomb is to keep it as long as possible as a deterrent.

Mr. Roosevelt said that the Government is not in a position to discuss the matter. He said that the Government's policy on the hydrogen bomb is to keep it as long as possible as a deterrent.

TOMORROW SEES BRITAIN'S 100TH BOAT RACE

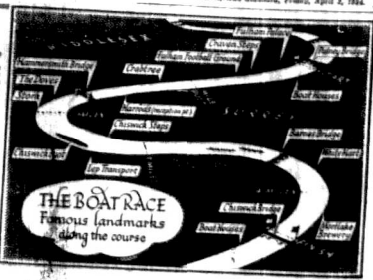

TOMORROW, April 2, will see the 100th anniversary of that historic event. It is the anniversary of the first Oxford race. The first Oxford race was held on the 1st of April 1836, and was won by the Oxford crew. It was a private challenge between two individuals, and it has remained a private challenge.

Tomorrow, over the traditional course of the Thames from Putney to Mortlake, Oxford and Cambridge will row the 100th Boat Race since the series began in 1829. Here JOHN SNAGGE who will be giving the commentary on the race, looks back over the history of this annual sporting event which now has, through radio and television, a world-wide audience.

It began in a very "casual" way. The boat race was first started by a competition in rowing between the two colleges. It was a private challenge between two individuals, and it has remained a private challenge.

History does not tell us who started it, but it is believed that it was the idea of the Rev. Thomas Sturges, the headmaster of the school at Mortlake. He was a keen sportsman and was a great supporter of the rowing club.

Cambridge has won "the Boat Race" more times than Oxford. It has won the race 29 times, while Oxford has won it 21 times. The race has been rowed for 100 years, and it is a great sporting event which is watched by millions of people.

Poet's nephew

A man of Oxford was named Charles Whorwood. The race was started by a competition in rowing between the two colleges. It was a private challenge between two individuals, and it has remained a private challenge.

The heat set in again today as the sun shined down on the banks of the river. It was a hot day, and the rowers were wearing light clothing.

Sunk

Between those two events the sinking of the ship was a sad event. The ship was a large passenger ship, and it was carrying many people.

In 1952

Looking back to 1952, the race was a great success. It was a very competitive race, and it was watched by millions of people.

The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh arrive in Colombo a week tomorrow at the start of their 12-day visit to the Dominion of Ceylon. Here REX MOORFOOT introduces the B.B.C. Programme 'This is Ceylon' looks at the country and its people and their way of life.

Ceylon has had a long history. It is a small island in the Indian Ocean, south of the Indian subcontinent. It is a country of many different peoples and languages. BUDDHISM

To what extent does Buddhism encourage man to escape from life, to exploit life, to render tribute to it or view it with scorn? This question forms the main theme of Dr. H. H. Collins' new book, "Buddhism: A Study in World Religions." It is a study of the Buddha, the law, the teachings, the philosophy, the ethics, the psychology, the mysticism, the art, and the literature of the religion. The book is a study of the Buddha, the law, the teachings, the philosophy, the ethics, the psychology, the mysticism, the art, and the literature of the religion.

This is the fourth article in the series in which speakers examine great world religions to discover to what extent faith in them encourages their adherents to escape from life, to exploit life, or to render it. CHRISTMAS HUMPHREYS, Q.C., discusses the concepts of Buddhism "this middle way," as he calls it, "from illusion and desire to the heart's enlightenment."

They left the meeting in a confident mood, to return to their followers and discuss final arrangements in the light of talks with the Government representatives.

MAPPING FOR THE FUTURE

How Aerial Survey is Helping To Develop Natural Resources In Asia And Africa

THE desire for social and economic reform is today sweeping the continents of Africa and Asia. But progress is no longer an ill-considered ideal. In the Middle East, Western skill and capital have been brought to bear, and the bringing forth of new resources is being achieved within the reach of every eye.

The first step in planning a new nation's future is to conduct a survey of its natural resources. This is done by aerial photography. The aerial survey is a very important part of the planning process. It allows the planners to see the land from a different perspective. This helps them to understand the land better and to make better decisions about how to use it.

ON THE TRAIL OF THE WHISKY 'SPIVS'

SCOTCH WHISKY entered for Britain more than £200 million in foreign currency in 1953—a record that amounts to nearly half of that amount was in United States dollars.

Over 1,300,000 proof gallons of Scotch were sent abroad. It makes the industry one of Britain's biggest foreign currency earners.

But whatever it is sold there are instances of it and the great deal of money has to be spent in protecting the industry's quality name and reputation. They employ various methods to track down the fraudulent bottles, many of whose destinations are unknown to the Scotch Whisky Association.

It is a well-known fact that the Scotch Whisky Association is one of the most successful of all the whisky associations in the world. It has a long history and a strong reputation. The association is responsible for the production and distribution of Scotch whisky. It also works to protect the industry's interests and to promote the quality of Scotch whisky.

How it is done

It is done by using a special technique. This technique involves the use of a special camera. The camera is mounted on a plane and is used to take aerial photographs. The photographs are then used to create a map of the land. This map is used to plan the development of the country.

Value recognised

A growing number of African countries are now recognizing the value of aerial photography. They are using it to plan their development and to manage their natural resources. This is a significant step towards progress and development.

Cockell puts British boxing on world map again

HOPE OR AN ILLUSION?

WHEN referee Eric Henderson rated Don Cockell's performance in triumph over Roland La Starra, the 13,000 fans who packed the Barotia Circuit arena had two things in mind, writes Dennis Hart. First, they cheered their hero's act; for Cockell is the only British heavyweight to show a 100 American the know-how of boxing.

Then, having got the cheers and a roar from the crowd, they asked themselves: "Would Cockell be a champion or a pretence?" "Would he be a champion or a pretence?" "Would he be a champion or a pretence?" "Would he be a champion or a pretence?"

LEN HUTTON TOPS TEST BATTING

THE England captain, Len Hutton, only touring batsman to make a double century, really showed in Test batting, even with an analysis distinctly better than any West Indian batsman.

Hutton's aggregate of 471 runs in the two Tests at Kenilworth, is only just below Cribb's 468 runs, twice as much, scored in the Test. Cribb's 100 was the highest score by any batsman in the series. West Indian batsmen also scored a double century.

TALKS ON INDO-CHINA NOT HOPEFUL

Mr. Eisenhower warns of threat to Pacific defence

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER has said in Washington that the chances of a negotiated settlement of Indo-China were not good. Mr. Eisenhower, who was speaking at a conference, added that the United States would have to act as far as possible to prevent any settlement which would ease the world's problems. Any settlement which would ease the world's problems would mean that the United States would have to reduce its military forces in the Pacific.

He said the loss of Indo-China to the Communists would have the effect of weakening the free world. It would affect the so-called allied defence system including Japan, Formosa, and the Philippines, and would threaten the security of Australia and New Zealand.

The President said that the United States would have to act as far as possible to prevent any settlement which would ease the world's problems. Any settlement which would ease the world's problems would mean that the United States would have to reduce its military forces in the Pacific.

Great danger

Admittedly, with the United States withdrawing its troops from Indo-China, the United States would have to reduce its military forces in the Pacific.

Appeal for help

Some officials in Paris feel that the United States should be a better France would have to consider seriously the possibility of withdrawing its troops from Indo-China.

French divided

French Ministers are split in Paris in support of a United States proposal for a settlement of Indo-China. The French Government is divided on the issue.

WOMEN IN POLICE UNIFORM

By Steve Mitchell

AS in the last war, so in Kenya's present Emergency, the women of the Colony have rallied to play their part. It was more so than the memory of the regular Kenya Police and those who undertake full-time and part-time duties with the Kenya Police Reserve. In all they number 212. Most are regular Policewomen, and of the 22 who wear K.P.R. uniforms, 181 are on full-time duty.

And, again, as in the last war, they do jobs which relieve men to more active duties in the operations. Not from their own needs and ability, there are those who have held down jobs usually associated with office work. In the case of the Government of Kenya it is a part of their own important job of a personal assistant to the Commissioner of Police. A British, Miss Ann Pitt, and one from which three Kenyan Policewomen and 18 Aikars operate.

It is for that very reason that the Chief Inspector has granted the women's pay and cover again and, in the exacting, detailed work of investigation, has given the standard regard of the male colleagues.

And it is in the emergency "Reserve" jobs of investigation, clerks, telephonists and typewriters that the women are doing their best. And this is shown in the photographs.

But now and then, women have taken on jobs which men usually do. In the field and on the Kenya Emergency and reserves, they do not hesitate to wear uniform. And it is a woman's voice, broadcasting daily from Nairobi in the new established and separate combined full-time Police broadcasts, which keeps the best listeners up to date with the latest Emergency news in the region.

It is a woman's voice, she broadcasting from the operations room at each combined Police and Military reserve command at Nairobi, Mombasa, Kisumu, Voi, where she keeps Police abreast in charge of the network of Police posts, co-ordinating the activities of Aikars, footmen in touch with operations headquarters.

Almost 100 women are K.P.R. members, helping out Nairobi's busy Police force. They carry the bulk of the City's heavy and amount of paper, war-time reports, statements, communications.

It is from the K.P.R. women, working in Nairobi, Mombasa, Kisumu, Voi, that many of the thousands of letters living in that bordering location have received the papers, which they must carry with them constantly.

In the City's operations room, where apparatus are received and from where the fleet of patrol cars radiating through the city's streets, their drivers, 24 hours, women share the duty throughout the 24 hours.

If you have any difficulty in a district or in a street that is a woman's voice, you will find it in the operations room. She will take your message and get the wheels of Police action in motion.

On the large white map of Nairobi laid out before her will rest the position of the nearest patrol car to your address. By radio-telephony she will contact it and in a matter of seconds the car and its crew will be on their way to your assistance. At the same time, she will identify the patrol car's latest position.

There are many times when a woman, with large periods lacking in incident and seldom the disturbance of excitement and emergency which come the way of their male colleagues, the women on the Kenya Police Reserve fully know their constitutional temper, ending the country's present Emergency. The three-dimensional communication system, with which they carry out their duties, is a true illustration of this.

Five Nations Have Sought This Island's Treasure

BY JACK SENN

Wanted to know what the treasure was, and how wide the line was. They thought the treasure was in the island's interior, and that it was hidden in a cave. They searched for weeks, but found nothing. They were disappointed, but they were not discouraged. They were determined to find the treasure, and they were not going to give up until they had found it.

They searched for weeks, but found nothing. They were disappointed, but they were not discouraged. They were determined to find the treasure, and they were not going to give up until they had found it. They searched for weeks, but found nothing. They were disappointed, but they were not discouraged. They were determined to find the treasure, and they were not going to give up until they had found it.

The first shock when they found out that the treasure was not in the island's interior, but in the sea. They were shocked, but they were not discouraged. They were determined to find the treasure, and they were not going to give up until they had found it.

In Port Moresby, B.M. officers in all sorts of uniforms, some in uniform, some in civilian clothes, are seen in the foreground. In the background, the sea is visible, and the sky is overcast.

Fortune hunters
They tried to keep it secret that the treasure was in the sea. They were determined to find the treasure, and they were not going to give up until they had found it. They searched for weeks, but found nothing. They were disappointed, but they were not discouraged. They were determined to find the treasure, and they were not going to give up until they had found it.

Many desired and turned to the sea. They were determined to find the treasure, and they were not going to give up until they had found it. They searched for weeks, but found nothing. They were disappointed, but they were not discouraged. They were determined to find the treasure, and they were not going to give up until they had found it.

NO-ONE knows better than M15 or the chiefs of any of Britain's Secret Services that when opportunity is ripe, their agents will not hesitate to blackmail in order to bring down the curtains and to force them through exposure to continue to betray their country.

It has long been held that blackmail parties make money and the like are among the greatest dangers to the security of a country. It is often said in such places that foreign spies are quickly hounded and secretly executed.

Simple method
The purchase of a spy in the United Kingdom will be financed by men working on the "Blacklist" and who write information. He becomes a "Blacklist" member, and with every member of this party he receives his opportunity on a weekly basis, when his assigned "fill" has been received. He is then to be hounded and his name to be placed in the "Blacklist".

Caught
His memory was not too good and he was not too bright on the size and weight of units.

His mother, father and little brother, Christopher, were in the garden at the time the everyday domestic affairs were being carried on. At that time of the morning, Andrew was laughing and shouting. He was killed by a single blow.

world should hear of such a case. The Indian Congress, the Hindu-dominated organization which has been fighting with militant spirit, would do better to realize the needs of the community. That Mr. Patel had been elected to the Congress "ticket" apparently meant the intention of the members of the Congress to consider that even in negotiation with the Government, discipline could be applied in terms which would make it impossible for the elected representatives of the Indian community to enjoy freedom.

Indeed an earlier stage of the Congress had sought to establish a claim not to be controlled by the members before they agreed to any course which had no approval of the Government. There is now a probability that having accepted the principle of the freedom of a member of the Legislature to participate in the Government, Mr. Patel would be expected to accept the Government's proposal.
