A Little of What You Fancy

YOU and the show song, "A little of what you fancy does you good," don't you? Well, this week I consider there is something to appeal to everyone's fancy. If you don't care for plays (but who doesn't want to see a real play) with first-class actors in a first-rate Londale comedy—no, I think you must see that anyway) so if you want to see something else as well, there's "The Platmanian," vigorous and exciting and splendidly, or Jack Buchanan's film with good catchy tunes, and especially offering us absurdities for you to laugh at.

Better still, see them all. Believe me, they're really worth it.

Gay Cooper is back once again in the part of part that made her famous in "The Virginian," a long-remembered, and now a classic, musical with delightful students of what is right for her kind—first, she is "Wild Bill" Hickok, unafraid and free, quick with her wit and her gun. Into the West, with the rest of the townsmen after the Civil war, she returns with his friend, "Stinko" Billy Gaby, who has been demonstrated by marriage to be still unmarried and ready, and there is Calamity Jane, as well as the other three who are not so well known to her feminine weaknesses for which she has become famous. They have the struggle against the savages of the plains, the men with the red-quick crane who will kill the Indians, and all their tribulations.

The film changes for your attention from the start, holds it through the most spectacular action scenes, and the ending ends with the arguments that follow.

It is a very well made and first-rate production, and it is very enjoyable to watch. It makes a heartening and womanly appeal which we women can all understand. It is a very good play, and it is very well acted. It is a very good play, and it is very well acted.

Canaries Sometimes Sing

(Empire from Town to Sea)

Presented by E. G. MURPHY.

Players: JAMES HENRY, GEORGE HANCOCK, H. HAWES, E. G. MURPHY.

This is not a review of Frederick Londale's famous play for the simple reason that I have not yet seen it. But it is just a matter of time, you know that you ought to see it. Like all Londale's plays it is a combination of drawing-room comedy and show song—gay and delightful, with the theme that is so frequent to more free than a canary in a cage and, when it comes to the point of the play-right (the part played by George Hancock), takes the stage and Tom Walls in the film whose wife is a pseudo-actress, a rather "began" lover of Art with a capital "A". The show is a very good and Oxford, where his wife is a charming, good-looking woman but "not quite" as her husband thinks) he finds sympathetic.

It is however, not so much the stars that count, as the situation, and really witty lines. The players are all experienced actors, able to pull off these "bursts" and, from what I have heard of the rehearsals, they are all well cast as characters.

One innovation has been made. On Tuesday, the first night when players are always break-up and playing at their best, the prices will be the ordinary cinema prices, 2/6 and 4/6. On subsequent nights they will be usual play prices.

to ring the bell with presents you must use sound judgment. Stiff-necked Uncle Edward will hardly be pleased with Longfellow in limp leather. Dora won't thank you for paste, she's got so much dough; and you'll only get it in the neck if you try to give Gerald gifts. But there is one matchless little gift that always strikes the right note. It gives hours of pleasure from the first moment and you can buy it in a tick. It's just—a Christmas Box of Max Cigarettes.

What I like about "The Sky's The Limit" is that it is really entertaining. It is a very well made and first-rate production, and it is very enjoyable to watch. It makes a heartening and womanly appeal which we women can all understand. It is a very good play, and it is very well acted.

The 'BIGNESS' of this Car of such Low Rating

● THE BIGNESS OF ITS PERFORMANCE. A motoring correspondent describes the Big Seven as "Potted Power" Consider that its 120 h.p. engine develops 23 brake horse power under test. Acceleration from 10 m.p.h. to 30 m.p.h. in 8 seconds. Does over 60 m.p.h. with unusual ease. That is bigness of performance!

● THE BIGNESS OF ITS ECONOMY. One gallon of petrol takes four people over 40 miles and one gallon of oil over 1,000 miles.

● THE BIGNESS OF ITS COMFORT. There are four doors, all windows, real leather upholstered pneumatic seats for four large-sized adults, supple springing and covered tyres for the smoothest riding—a cushion, a driving ease not previously found among economy cars.

"IT WILL MARCH AGAINST FRANCE IF NECESSARY"

Hint That Cession Of Djibuti May Be Demanded

DIPLOMATIC ACTIVITY

MONDAY, THE ITALIAN SEMI-OFFICIAL SPOKESMAN WHOSE ARTICLES ARE USUALLY REGARDED AS EXPRESSIONS OF THE OPINIONS OF SIGNOR MUSOLINI, WRITES REQUIRING THAT THE ITALIAN NATION IS SOLIDLY BEHIND THE GOVERNMENT AND WILL BE READY IF NECESSARY TO MARCH AGAINST FRANCE.

One of the demands which the Italian Press suggests that Italy will make on France is for the cession of Djibuti. It is pointed out that Italian-German collaboration has far from ceased its possibilities.

In reply to a protest by the French Ambassador in Rome, Count Ciano declared that the Italian Government took no responsibility for the demonstration in the Italian Chamber.

Paris, December 9.—A protest against Italy's new foreign policy against France, by the French Ambassador in Rome, Count Ciano, the Italian Foreign Minister on Friday night, the Ambassador's new message says, will be sent to the Italian Government on Friday night.

The British Ambassador in Rome yesterday called on Count Ciano, and in a conversation which lasted for an hour, he expressed his regret that the recent Italian move against France was not on Count Ciano's belief to be the result of a misunderstanding which the French Ambassador in London, Count D'Adda, had pointed out to the Italian Government.

M. PONSOT, French Ambassador in Rome, is reported to have been applied again to solve the problem of the Italian-German dispute.

Signor Geyda does not make the Italian position any more precise than he has done in the past. It is recalled that in the treaty between Britain and Italy, the Italian Government has no further territorial claims in the Mediterranean.

Mr. Chamberlain's Visit to the British Embassy in London does not mean that the present difficulty between France and Italy will be solved. It is recalled that in the past, the Italian Government has no further territorial claims in the Mediterranean.

THE TANGANYIKA INCIDENT

What Unofficial Members Said In Council

(*STANDARD CORRESPONDENT)
 Dar es Salaam, Saturday.
 A public meeting was held in Dar es Salaam on Friday night under the auspices of the Tanganyika League. It discussed the situation arising out of the debate in the Legislative Council on Tuesday and the much interested reaction introduced by the Williams League. The meeting decided that action be taken as soon as to bring to the notice of the British Government the strong expressions of public opinion that the Prime Minister's statements had not in fact reassured Tanganyika and that the society itself was awaiting a definite indication of British policy in respect of the future.

Following is a report of the debate in the Tanganyika Legislative Council on Tuesday which gave rise to the recent dissatisfaction in all districts of the Mandated Territory.

THE WORLD OUTLOOK

To the Editor, "E.A. Standard."
 Sir—Viewing the steps of the world in long perspective, a person registered the present as a simple extension of the past extending into the future—no time has been wasted—a fourth dimension—the world seems to have arrived at a stage of phenomenalism where all is progress and advancement. The past ages of growing civilization will know late decay and sad note; and all these threads of human progress and effort seem to be extraneously joined in the present. Here were three such high quality threads in the world's history were first fringed by the progress of the world's history.

When ever your best friends are let down by you in any way, you are bound to feel a great deal of regret.

If you can hold my best friend's hand and look into his eyes as they meet yours, you will find that he will be able to tell you what he really thinks of you.
