RUSSIA'S THREATS TO NORWAY SWEDEN ON THE WATCH

because of their "Anti-Soviet Policy"

MANY RAIDS ON FINLAND

Nearly 5,000 threats to Norway and Sweden because of what Moscow describes as their "anti-Russian policy" are contained in a Russian protest to the two countries.

The attitude, continues the protest, may, if persisted in, lead to undesirable complications and a disruption of normal relations between them and the Soviet.

Replies from the two countries apparently have not satisfied the Soviet for the Moscow radio declared yesterday that they showed no resistance to great Powers which were trying to drag them into war with Russia.

The Swedish official agency disclosed last night that Russia protested to Norway and Sweden a short time ago, over what is described by the agency as "their anti-Russian policy." The announcement refers to reports sent to the Swedish Government stating that "thousands of Swedish volunteers have already gone to Finland and are taking part in the fighting." The Russian protest also declared that "thousands of Swedish volunteers are countries was showing a hostile attitude towards the Soviet Union."

Replies from Norway and Sweden have apparently been received in Berlin.

Berlin's 4 Large Fires in 1 Day

Four large fires have occurred in Berlin in the last 24 hours and two factories have been completely destroyed and other badly damaged. Heavy and cold weather made it difficult for the firemen to prevent the flames from spreading. Many gas fires have occurred since it is thought they may have been due to sabotage.

The Governments of the two countries point out that there is freedom of press in Scandinavia and that such volunteers as have gone to fight are doing so of their own free will.

The Moscow wireless, last night reported the Swedish and Norwegian Governments. Early this morning the Swedish Government in Stockholm said the Swedish Government might view the situation of Russia as a serious political problem.

REVOLUTIONARY MOVEMENT IN NEW YORK

Planned "Eradication of Jews." 18 Members Arrested

New York, Jan. 15. Mr. Edgar Hoover today announced that 18 members of a revolutionary group known as the "Christian Front" have been arrested by the Federal Bureau of Investigation. The group is reported to have planned to overthrow the Government and establish a new one. The group is reported to have been active in New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania. WILL WORK WING TIP TO WING TIP

January 15. Air Marshal A. S. Barrett took over his duties on Sunday as Commander-in-Chief of the British Air Force in France. In a special order of the day he said: "The ideal that inspires us all is to do our utmost to bring about the victory of the Allies."

Norwegian Ship Victim To Mine

January 15. The captain and 10 men of the crew of a Norwegian steamer have been killed by the explosion of a mine in the North Sea. The steamer was the Frederik, of 1,100 tons, and was struck a mile while on her way from Narvik to Bergen. She was carrying a cargo of coal—Buster.

"BLENHEIMS" TACTICS OUTLINED

London, Jan. 15. The tactics employed by the Blenheim bombers in their running fight with the Me 109 and Me 108 were outlined in a statement issued by the Air Ministry. The statement says that nine Blenheim bombers were undertaking a reconnaissance flight over the North Sea and the enemy planes were suddenly attacked. The Blenheim bombers were attacking from the front, rear, and side. The enemy planes were attacking from the front, rear, and side. The Blenheim bombers were attacking from the front, rear, and side.

Record Exports of British Cars

While the export of German road cars has been stopped since the outbreak of the war, the export of British cars to Portugal and Uruguay during the first three months of the war has reached record figures. The remaining R.A.F. planes this morning gave up the attack and the R.A.F. planes were back to their original course and completed their reconnaissance orders—Buster.

Government will protest against the arrest of General Lindbergh

General Lindbergh, commander-in-chief of the Swedish Volunteer Corps in Finland, has issued his first protest. He says the volunteers for the corps are not fighting for Finland but for a Scandinavian country—(Reuter.)

Another German Airplane Shot Down

January 15. The German Air Force has announced that another German airplane has been shot down by British fighters. The plane was a Heinkel He 111, and was shot down over the North Sea. The pilot was killed. The plane was carrying a cargo of bombs. The plane was shot down by British fighters. The pilot was killed. The plane was carrying a cargo of bombs.

corrugated iron roofs even under the blazing sun!

No doubt you've touched a dark painted corrugated iron roof on a sunny day and know how unbearably hot it felt. Touch a roof painted with Acme and Sherwin-Williams Heat Reflecting Aluminum Paint and it is relatively cool. The microscopic fine grinding of Acme and Sherwin-Williams Aluminum pigment gives this paint its greater brilliancy, its superior sunlight and heat reflective qualities. A roof painted with this material literally throws off the sun's rays, instead of absorbing them and becoming hot. Many buildings roofed with corrugated iron can be made cooler and more comfortable simply by giving the roof a single coating of Acme and Sherwin-Williams Heat Reflecting Aluminum Roof and Tank Paint.

SIDELIGHTS ON THE WAR...

London. Naval shipwreckers are advised to carry German goods. Attempts are being made to get them to the British blockade have been fairly successful.

It was stated at Westminster that a ship behind the coast had adopted the complete personality of a friend so as to obtain employment.

John W. Caggle, of Wood Green, Middlesex, was fined £2 at Marylebone for defiance of the limit at Marylebone station. He was fined £10 when it started raining and he was fined £10 when it started raining.

Hundreds of young women crowded into unspecified Finnish recruiting stations after Burns' plane Alaska. Sweden's radio program, had announced at the end of a broadcast session that it had volunteered for service with the Finns.

Because the Government plans to even badly the army, the Women's Land Army has failed. The cost of running the army is £2,000 a year. But only 2,000 women in the whole of it have been found jobs.

That works out at £110 to £120 a woman. It would have been better if the Government, who have to find a much better way for it. Christmas shopping involved such a demand for currency that the rate rose. jumped just £2,000,000 to £55.6 million—figures never previously attained.

Despite the war and reduced incomes, Christmas spending has fallen very little short of that of a year ago. It will not be interesting to see whether the effect of the year ago.

From NAKURU 'STANDARD' CORRESPONDENT—

PROGRESS OF THE LIBRARY

In The Night Sky

Early Records Come To Light

Two thrillers regarding the new book, "The Progress of the Library," by Mrs. L. May and Miss Manning, and this has been an unusual story from America called "Aberdeen to Hants," by Edward Arbeson.

Some very welcome help has been given in the Library by Mrs. L. May and Miss Manning, and this has been a great help to the old papers discovered in a cupboard at work or two (and unfortunately the very earliest records appear to have been destroyed and the records begin with the following printing notice signed "Frank Watkins Senior" and dated November 22, 1927.

"As the meeting called to establish a Public Library for Nakuru was not a success owing to poor attendance, I will make a last effort by requesting those who take an interest in the subject to append their names to the list. Should sufficient members appear to support a worthy and interesting project, a meeting will be held on the night of the 1st, December 10, 1927, at 8.30 a.m. I will then arrange for a meeting of the subscribers to discuss ways and means."

It goes on to say that Lord Delmore had promised his support, and Mrs. E. B. Manning, the Governor his patronage, and ends, "Don't let Nakuru take a back seat." There is nothing to show that the attached and the public meeting took place at the Nakuru Hotel on December 10 and there is a list of subscribers numbering forty as a result of the meeting. Of these ten are still members of the Library.

In January 1928 the Library was established as an organization with a Committee, a minute book and a number of members. On February 8, 1928, on February 8 the books collected were available for circulation in a small two-roomed building where Baxby's Bazaar, a shop which had been let for this purpose at a generous low rent by Commander Colquhoun.

FOUR GENERATIONS

The manager's house of the Nakuru branch of the National Bank of India (hereinafter referred to as the Bank) was the scene of a family reunion on Thursday night, when Mrs. Wallace, that grand old lady of whom we have heard so much, was joined by her daughter, Mrs. Warren, stayed with Mr. and Mrs. J. MacDonald on their way to Nairobi, and Mrs. MacDonald, Mrs. Wallace's grand-daughter and Master Warren, stayed with Mr. and Mrs. J. MacDonald on their way to Nairobi.

Although the extravaganza of Dr. and Mrs. MacDonald's wedding records of life so very long ago should have taught us to think in centuries and not in decades of human history, it remains a thrilling experience to meet one who was so active in the early days of the Nakuru branch of the Bank. Mrs. Wallace, who is well over 100 years of age, is still in the best of health and is still active in the management of the Bank.

"THAT LITTLE BRIDE IS A WONDER"

At the Committee meeting held at the Library on Tuesday, Mrs. Settle was elected to succeed Mrs. Manning in the position of joint-secretary, but to be allowed to continue as honorary-secretary. She hoped to be able to do this work more efficiently in the future as, at last, papers and books have been fully checked and put in order.

Notes of thanks were passed to Mr. Hamilton Ross for his help in securing a number of books from the Library. Mrs. L. May, Mrs. Conington, Mrs. Sinclair and Miss Manning for their help in taking a census of the books and bringing the filing and card index up to date, and to the joint-secretaries for the work of the past year in which less than half a dozen books have been lost and are unaccounted for.

It was unanimously decided to ask Mrs. Settle to take Mrs. Settle's place as joint-secretary with Mrs. Manning.

GRASS FIRE DANGERS

Precautions By The Railway

The recent long period of drought has been a great blessing to the farmer, but there have been clear intervals in which it has been possible to notice that there has been a great increase in the danger of grass and forest fires. The danger of grass and forest fires is caused by the dry weather and the fact that some employees of the Railway Administration have been negligent in their duties. The Manager in his Bulletin this month has issued a warning to the staff to be on their guard against anything which always happens in the dry weather.

Girl Cures Snake Bite

It is estimated that about 2,500 paid for admission, but altogether some 8,000 people saw the exhibition, including school-children and guests.

Mr. U. K. Odu, General Inspector of Public Opinion when he said that the exhibition was a great success and a magnificent one.

Mr. Melli, who performed the Hindu Volunteer Corps on presenting a fine show and presented the exhibition with Shs 127. Several other presents were also presented.

It is hoped that next year an even better show will be given with the cooperation of all the communities in Dar es Salaam. Will be possible.

The Weather

The British East African Meteorological Service yesterday supplied the following note on the weather—

Principal falls were reported at this morning were Dar es Salaam 4.8 sh. Also Hill 2.8 sh. Thomson Falls 0.5 sh. and Kable. Mombasa, Arusha, Mwanza, Mbaraka and Zanzibar each with 0.4 sh.

All local showers of thunderstorms will continue over Kenya, mainly in the afternoon of evening. There will be scattered thunderstorms over Uganda and further general thunderstorms over Tanganyika, though some decrease is probable on the coast.

IN THE ATHLETIC WORLD

Records Beaten Last Year

[STANDARD'S CORRESPONDENT] London.

The two outstanding athletes of the year (in the estimation of H.M. T. Maski, of Finland, and Rudolf Harbig, of Germany) and it is tragic to reflect that the two countries to which these magnificent athletes belong.

During the year Maski has set up no fewer than five world records, and at the comparatively young age (for a Finnish runner) of twenty-nine he has come to be regarded as an even greater than Nurni.

Nurni, it is true, is likely to be remembered longer than Maski, because Nurni marked a new epoch in track performances. Maski has only succeeded by a position which Nurni established, and in a period of more intensive competition has made even Nurni's records seem by comparison a little slow.

Nurni was in the front rank for nearly fifty years. He held all the five world's records which Maski has knocked six seconds off his credit this year. Maski has knocked six seconds off Nurni's two mile record, twenty-nine seconds off his three miles, and over forty seconds off his six miles. He is the first man to run six miles inside twenty minutes, and has beaten Albert Strubbe's record, which stood for twenty-five years, by over a minute.

Harbig set up world records for 400 metres (487 yards), which he ran in 46 sec., and his best Wooderson's 800 metres record, and that by nearly 2 1/2 sec. It is indeed that both these men have been robbed of the chance of Olympic victories, had the Olympic Games were scheduled for Helsinki next year, and one wonders if Olympic Games will ever be held in Finland at any time in the future.

British Records

While Maski's world figures make British performances seem rather mediocre, nevertheless, our rather distance runners have shown marvellous improvement. During 1939 Jack Rippey set up a new British record for three miles of 14 min. 8 sec.—a record which remained on the books for less than a month, for Maski himself beat 14 min. on August 14th Holiday.

Emery also accomplished a new British record of 9 min. 0.3 sec. for two miles. P. D. Wainwright second to Emery on each occasion, and in relation to national athletics in the not too distant future, both these men will be still in their prime.

Another British record, that for twenty-five miles, was set up early in the year by F. J. Hamner, while C. Wooderson beat 3 min. for the three-quarter mile, 2 min. 59.8 sec. being not only a new British national record but the best ever in the world.

It has been a good if not outstandingly good year, and at the end of the season there are great hopes for Britain giving an extremely good account of herself at the 1940 Olympic Games. That, alas, is impossible now.

Australia Aims At Comprehensive War-Time Objectives

Far-reaching powers in regard to price fixing and control of factory products are being exercised by Government in Australia, whose war effort objectives are summarised below.

A Review of the actions taken by the Australian Government since the declaration of war reveals comprehensive and deliberate progress towards the attainment of these objectives. It may be summarised as follows:

Full employment of resources of the country, particularly those which can be utilised for military purposes. This includes maintenance of full employment, stimulation of primary and secondary production, and preservation of trading and financial stability.

Provision of adequate military forces with all necessary equipment.

Completion of arrangements for marketing Australia's export surplus of primary products in those ways which will be most helpful to the Empire and at the same time provide adequate returns to the producers.

Substantial efforts to have made towards the common end, namely, the marshalling of Australia's resources for her own protection and security of the Empire in its conflict.

The Government has drawn up its plans and conferred upon the respective bodies, the War-time Committee the powers necessary to carry into effect its objectives. The measure of success at every stage of the Government's spread plans will be determined by the efficiency of the administration of those powers and by the extent of co-operation between the various authorities set up to carry on the Empire's war-time activities. A high standard of public administration is of the utmost importance in the present circumstances to ensure complete co-ordination of work of the various controls.

The far-reaching powers conferred upon the Price Fixing Controller are designed to prevent price increases from being caused by the influence of profiteering, hoarding of stocks, shortages of supplies, inter-trader selling at rising prices, etc. A long list of commodities were fixed at the beginning of the year, but to enable traders to recover cost which was being lost at prices since that date, a system of price averaging has been adopted. Action has been taken also to control increases in rentals of shops.

Control of Factory Products
In the new National Security Regulations these drastic powers virtually to commandeer the services of Australian factories were taken by the Commonwealth Government. The regulations empower the Minister for Supply to declare any goods or commodities to be essential for national purposes. Once any class of goods has been so declared, the Ministry may then issue orders on that class of goods to deliver them at once for defence purposes. It may also call upon an Australian factory to manufacture stocks of proclaimed goods for delivery to the Defence Department within a time limit for the completion of an order. As soon as this instruction is given to the management of a factory the supply of the commodities must be given all priority over any other work upon which the factory is engaged, so that they will be delivered on the appointed date.

The regulations declare that the price of such goods shall be fixed by arbitration. Full direction over the appointment of arbitrators is vested in the arbitrator.

The regulations also provide that the fact that a factory has been working at less than full capacity for a period will be a sufficient defence for an action brought against the management for breach of a private contract—Australian News Letter.

WAR-TIME CRICKET IN KENYA

Kongonis Club Meeting

The Hon. Secretary of Kenya Cricket Club, Mr. C. V. Brainbridge, presenting his report at the annual meeting of the Club, recalled that following an expression of opinion from Government House after the outbreak of hostilities, every effort was made to arrange a match cricket in the Colony as possible. All clubs had been encouraged to carry out their fixtures and the Committee had given the help within their power in many directions.

It was decided to play the Europeans vs. Asians match, limited to two days, but the remainder of the representative matches had unfortunately to be cancelled. The Coastal cricket had been popular, could not be carried out in the English "Tour was completed, but the outbreak of war, the Deputy Honorary Secretary was very much disappointed at the unsettled European situation, but all the fixtures were fulfilled with the assistance of certain enthusiastic members who obtained other players to complete the side when necessary. Several Kenya Club matches were played in England, but none of them with the Kongonis.

S. A. Tour Postponed

"It is exceedingly probable" he went on, "that had it not been for the war we should now be on the way of welcoming our first visiting team, a team from South Africa. The organisation was well in progress and all prospects were bright for an enjoyable and instructive tour. It is hoped that this event is very much postponed until a far distant date."

Two sub-committees were appointed during the year. The first committee dealt with rules, nine-months of the work following on the shoulders of Mr. H. J. Thompson, and the second Committee considered the ways and means of encouraging cricket in Kenya. Unfortunately the war prevented a number of these commissions from being carried out.

Since September every effort had been made to assist the military to obtain some cricket and, at the suggestion of the Committee, an Army Sports Officer was appointed and a number of games with and for the military had been arranged. It is hoped that the season will conclude with a match between the Army and the Kenya Kongonis Cricket Club.

Others

The election of officers and Committees resulted as follows:
Patron, H.E. Sir Henry Moore; President, Capt. P. O'Connell, C.M.G., D.S.O.; Vice-Presidents, P. V. Allen, R. J. Flint, J. D. Methuill, H. J. Thompson, C.B.E., D.S.O., H. J. Thompson, H. J. Webster, Hon. Secretary, C. V. Brainbridge, F.R.C.S. (Dip.) Honorary Treasurer, N. T. Tremm.

Among the many mixed farming propositions which I can recommend from personal knowledge are

- (a) 600 acres proved first class pyrethrum land with good and some forest near road, a hundred acres being made up with present rains in a popular residential district, cattle and wheat all do well.
- (b) 1,200 acres good grazing and pyrethrum land; good rain-water and fuel abundant, at 12/60 per acre to wind up an estate.
- (c) One of the best mixed farming prospects in Kenya; in a most prosperous district on main road, 3 miles from station grows pyrethrum, wheat, maize, etc., etc. A real money making opportunity, 2,400 acres.

Best prices of breeding stock show a definite tendency to rise and prospective buyers are advised not to delay their purchases. Enquiries from buyers and sellers are welcomed and will receive my careful and personal attention based upon twenty-five years experience of Kenya stockbreeding and farming.

Mr. Hore-Belisha

Britain's dynamic Secretary of State for War has terminated a difficult two and a half years at the War Office in circumstances which will be universally regretted. The reason for nothing wrong with his record. He has discharged the great and responsible task of preparing the British army for the inevitable war with a thoroughness and imagination which has earned at this time of his withdrawal unqualified praise from every section of the British Press, endorsed by the undignified sympathy of the House of Commons. Mr. Hore-Belisha brought to this task a mind free from cobwebbed tradition and it is a fair reflection of his outlook that it was his own words when he told the House this week that it did not occur to him that he was substituting his own views when he was fighting for democracy. One of his first achievements was to put many of the old brass hats on the scrap heap, and no doubt they have not forgotten nor forgiven him for that. He has also tried to keep before him in all his reform-and some of them must have shaken every Colonel Blimp in Britain to the core—the ill-fated Mr. Chamberlain, who had a career for a young man in which he had a chance of rising to the top on merit alone, and without the aid of his social position or his means.

Mr. Hore-Belisha made his first speech in the House of Commons on the 11th of January, and it says much for the spirit of the nation and its Press that his appearance has not been criticised to embarrass a Prime Minister who, with his many high qualities, is not without a touch of the humor and occasional displays of impatience. Mr. Chamberlain has assured the country that there will be no change in policy at the War Office and this wider view of the implications of the resignation, shared fully by the two speakers for the Opposition, is in the end all that really matters today. The resolute and efficient conduct of the war, no interference by the politician in the work of the soldier, and no attempt by the High Command to usurp the duties and responsibilities of the King's Ministers, is the main essential. The country having been assured that there is no divergence of opinion, it is and having been told by the Premier that no professional soldiers, or their friends, have gone behind the back of the Minister for War, with their complaints or faced the Premier with a list of demands, cheerfully created choice and dilemma, will be satisfied to continue its trust in Mr. Chamberlain's wisdom and authority to make Ministerial appointments has not been challenged, and Mr. Hore-Belisha has been honest in his own mind to accept the Board of Trade because he felt, no doubt, that the cause of the friction which led to his resignation was fundamental in the personal sense. But the country will want to see whether the Cabinet changes that are being proposed will be time proves that the Premier's decision was not well founded. The resignation of the War Minister will against him. Further changes in the Cabinet later are inevitable. It does not represent Britain's best man.

The Hon. the Secretary of State for War, Mr. Hore-Belisha, has been invited to resign his office as Minister for War, and to be replaced by Mr. Chamberlain. The resignation was announced in the House of Commons on the 11th of January, and it is expected that the Cabinet changes that are being proposed will be time proves that the Premier's decision was not well founded. The resignation of the War Minister will against him. Further changes in the Cabinet later are inevitable. It does not represent Britain's best man.

LABOUR PROBLEM AT MOMBASA

state with a degree of elevation why the strike took place. Many employers stated that their labour was perfectly satisfied and only stated by force and were undesirable elements frequenting Mombasa. The strike apparently started on July 19 among the F.W.D. labourers. Their grievances were:

- (1) No proper accommodation for water and sanitation;
- (2) They wanted to go home on a monthly wage;
- (3) There was no fixed basis for the employment of skilled and unskilled labour; and that boys might be employed for a number of years without necessarily getting a wage.

The F.W.D. members were granted at once a house allowance of Sh. 2/- per month. The Principal Labour Officer having pointed out to July 25 that they were entitled to such an amount, the strike was over at the same date. The strike agreed involving the port on August 1. From a general survey of the evidence, the Commissioners have no doubt that any solution came out on strike not because they felt that they had any grievance but because they had heard that the labourers had struck for a wage. They were not in any way dissatisfied with their wages. They felt that if they lost an strike they might be successful in adding to their wages. In fact, the strike ends that the strike did compromise the amount of wages to be paid by the labourers of the F.W.D. never had happened.

The Principal Labour Officer, in his evidence, said he believed that the Mombasa strike was caused by the East African Labour Trade Union assisted by the Young Men's Association and that many of the strikers were not the slightest bit sincere in their other channels for grievances existed. The Commission's report, however, says that beyond the fact that in every case in which the strikers were interviewed by Mr. Allen, the F.W.D. spokesman was hostile, whereas there was no evidence to support his allegation. There is, however, definite evidence that the Railway employees considered they had a grievance in that some of them got no house allowance and that they were considered too small.

GENUINE GRIEVANCES

In spite of the lack of conclusive evidence, the Commission held reasonably just in concluding that genuine grievances as Mombasa, such as inability of employers to find and house themselves in the case of wage paid inadequate earnings of a number of strikers and the existence of large numbers of men who could not find work and who, if employed, provided fertile ground for any agitator who suggested that it was in Mombasa and who, in all probability, belonged to the unemployable class and had nothing to do with the strike.

The Commission continues on the failure to post a Labour Office at Mombasa for the last few years. The Principal Labour Officer expressed the view which the Commission agreed, that if there had been such an office, the strikers would have been able to put their grievances before the Commission and the terms of Section 31 of the Ordinance might have been observed. Secondly, Government has not endeavoured to secure the compliance of the natives by keeping any one office in the post of District Commissioner for Mombasa for any length of time. Mr. McKean, the Acting Provincial Commissioner, had held seven District Offices from 1925 to 1930. He held 1808 and 1899 Mombasa but had 13 District Offices and in the first six months of 1930 there were seven changes. If the circumstances the Commission said it is not to be wondered at that the natives of Mombasa have been out of touch with Government officials. Evidence was also given of the loose application of the Registration Ordinance in Mombasa, many witnesses saying that they had no time to look at legends. The Commissioner of Railways should take immediate steps to rectify the matter. There was some evidence of victimisation, especially among the unskilled and vegetable boys, which the employers had not reported to the Labour Department. Investigation by the evidence disclosed, the report states, that the Police Force in Mombasa handled the strikers efficiently and well and the Commission record that the conduct of the Police was excellent and that it was due to this and to the spirit with which the strikers were dealt with that disorderly conduct was reduced to a minimum.

More Labour Officers

Finally, the report recommends an increase in the number of Labour Officers and remarks that it is a mistake to have two Labour Officers on duty with the Military Force. The African Labour Force is one of the most valuable assets of Kenya and should be well looked after. The very close contact between it and the Labour Department is essential for the maintenance of the present staff. The report recommends that the two Labour Officers now on military duty should be brought back to the Department at once.

In their opinion the time has come when Government should seriously consider raising the status which is low compared with other Colonies. It is recommended that the title should be changed to Labour Commissioner so that he can enter any Province and not feel in a position subordinate to the Provincial Commissioner. He should remain, however, directly responsible to Government through the Chief Native Commissioner.

RAILWAY SUPERANNUATION SCHEME

An Improvement On The Old Provident Fund

Full details are given below of the workings of the Superannuation Scheme which has been introduced for the benefit of employees of the Kenya and Uganda Railways in place of the Provident Fund, on which the new scheme is a great improvement.

The possibility of replacing the Provident Fund of the Kenya and Uganda Railways by a Superannuation Scheme has been under consideration for the past fifteen years, but it was not until 1924 that definite action was taken to obtain expert advice on the subject. The principal advantage of a Superannuation Scheme is that all contributions are made by the employee and the employer, and the employee receives a lump sum at the end of his service. The Provident Fund is a savings scheme in which the employee contributes a fixed amount each month, and the employer contributes a fixed amount each month. LIFE IN A 'SARDINE BOX'

SIDELIGHTS ON THE WAR...

French Submarine Exercises

(By Lt.-Col. T. A. Lovell.)

If the Finns manage to continue their military operations, the intensity of which may be such that such a small nation has been able to stand up to such a huge one as the Soviet?

These are the questions which military men are asking. The admirable anti-aircraft weapons which they have developed have been amazingly effective. They have destroyed large numbers of tanks, they have shot down bombing aircraft, they have proved that defensive positions when properly manned, are always superior to attacking forces, even if the odds are twenty to one against it.

It is possible that the Soviet Army is a giant with feet of clay? The opinion of European general staffs, including the German, has for some years been unanimous that the Red Army is not much to be feared. In part, this is because the German staffs view it and they have been in closer touch than any of the other armies.

In numbers the Red Army is the most formidable fighting force in the world. Its strength on a peace footing is two million men, and in the event of mobilization, it is estimated that this total can be increased to five million. It is trained by the use of reserves. But the value of the Red Army cannot be judged solely by numbers. It is a well equipped force, and its officers are trained on two continents and are well versed in the art of communication, their weapons are of the latest type, and they are trained in the tactics of the modern war.

The Russian troops now operating on the Karelian Isthmus, by the Leningrad district. In peace their duties include police and internal security. They are not field divisions in the highest sense, and their experience is not so great as that of the other armies of the world.

Scottish distillers say that a hold-up in barley supplies threatens to stop whisky production and to ruin many communities depending on the work of distilleries. Since last year the price of barley has doubled.

In response to the recent appeal, 3,500 pairs of binoculars have now been sent by private owners to the Ministry of Supply Armament Inspection Department. Binoculars having a magnification of 8-10 diameters are still needed. Those already sent have come from all parts of the United Kingdom and some from abroad.

The Milk Marketing Board have drawn so heavily on supplies that some famous English cheeses may disappear from the market. Butchers are able to get only a third of what they order, and cheese is being sent to the shops only a few days ahead of being made.

The Ministers of Rumania, has sent a message, with a gift, offering his services to the King-Emperor and stating that he has instructed the Legation of Bucharest in his State to perform religious ceremonies in order that victory in the war may be assured.

A conference at Shrewsbury of the National Equestrian Council, the Rev. D. Wyle Lewis, of Hobs, Wrexham, drew attention to what he described as threats to the sanity of the Sabbath resulting from war measures. The discussion, which followed the services, was presided over by Welsh and English clergymen.

A list of 20 motor-ambulances, 20 to the army and the nation is asked by the members of the Royal Automobile Club of Banbury, has been handed over to Government for the army.

Three hundred multi-line trains have now been equipped with the new white reading light. Suburban trains also will be fitted with improved lighting.

There is now a new national aviation campaign. Every citizen is asked to join—a cost of only a little thought. It is a campaign to save our considered lives. Every citizen, every factory and every household is being asked by a new Government Department to help the war effort. It is at present literally thrown into doubt.

Field-Marshal Mannerheim.

Jäger troops from Germany he had sent to the front and entered Helsinki in triumph. Since then Finland has prospered by her own industry and initiative. The aid of conscription has built up an efficient army. The Finns are a naturally robust people and they carry the staying power they have shown in the Olympic games into other spheres of life.

All that can be said of the progress of the campaign is that the Finns have done far better than anyone expected and the Russians have done worse. The odds against Finland are overwhelming but they need only a few more weeks of resistance.

Germany In Dire Economic Straits

SHORT OF MANY ESSENTIALS But Britain's Trade Improves: Minister Of Economic Warfare's Review

GERMANY IS IN SOMETHING LIKE THE SAME ECONOMIC STRAITS TODAY, AFTER FOUR AND A HALF MONTHS OF WAR, AS SHE WAS AFTER TWO YEARS IN THE GREAT WAR, DECLARED THE BRITISH MINISTER OF ECONOMIC WARFARE ON WEDNESDAY NIGHT.

Moreover, he stated, she was desperately short of many essential commodities for "virtually the whole of Germany's imports which can be assailed by this means have been effectively stopped."

By contrast, Britain's trade has steadily improved. Imports in December exceeded those of any month since December, 1937, and exports for the first eight months of the last year totalled over £40,000,000. The year ended with the small increase of £14,000,000 in the adverse balance of trade.

London, Jan. 18. Navy in keeping the sea routes open for ships coming in. The value of exports in December for four months of war, rose by nearly £20,000,000 compared with November 1939. The Minister declared there were encouraging signs of the effect that the Allies' economic measures were having on the Germans. "Our strategy," he said, "is to operate with a minimum which was not economical and it has given Germany's economy a sharp blow. It is clear that at the end of four and a half months of war the same economic straits as we

Europe's Cold Snap Continues

The extremely cold weather continues over the whole of Western Europe and the weather is lower everywhere than by many days.

Many ships have fallen in the North Sea and the British fleet is to be seen in the North Sea.

Transport along the German-Danish border is a great deal hampered by snow, and the river Meuse is frozen again—Reuter.

After two years in the last war the same reverse of cold did not begin to appear until the middle of the year. Her stocks of raw materials for industry were far smaller and conditions of life in Germany were miserable.

There are signs of a general thaw in Germany to prevent the winter from being so bad as last year.

German shortages. There were also serious difficulties in the supply of certain materials in Germany. The shortage of oil, petrol, kerosene and other essential commodities was very serious.

It was also noted that the German Government had information that the Allies were planning operations for lack of raw materials.

Readings of the contraband control board said: "We may now fairly claim to have won the war of contraband control which can be assailed by this means have been effectively stopped."

The Minister said it was known that the Germans were doing everything with traders to counteract the effect of the British contraband control which can be assailed by this means have been effectively stopped."

Determined To Help Finns All Hope Of Holding Positions During Winter Abandoned

ANOTHER FINNISH SUCCESS

FIGHTING HAS BEGUN AGAIN IN FINLAND, ALTHOUGH THE TEMPERATURE IS SO LOW THAT IT CANNOT BE RECORDED BY MERCURY THERMOMETERS. SOVIET TROOPS HAVE LAUNCHED ATTACKS ON THE SALLA FRONT, TWO HAVE BEEN REPULSED AND IN THEIR COUNTER-ATTACKS THE FINNS ARE ADVANCING ON SALLA FROM THE WEST.

Russian Army's Hope

The Russian Army commander "Red Star" today expressed the hope that the new Japanese offensive will try to improve relations with the Soviet—Reuter.

It is believed that any attempt to violate Swedish neutrality would be resisted. "We do not need orders from abroad about our relations with Sweden," he said. "We ourselves know best to serve our cause and that of the Northern States."

Norwegian Steamer Torpedoed

A Norwegian steamer "Patriot" has been torpedoed in the Bay of Biscay, but the crew were rescued and the ship is believed to be intact.

U.S. Exports Up In November

Figures of U.S. exports show considerable increase in November, December, principally because of the export of wheat, cotton and metals to the Allies. Exports to the Axis countries are down.

K.P.M. CHETTLE

Among the many mixed farming propositions which I can recommend from personal knowledge are

- (a) 900 acres proved first class pyrethrum land with good and some forest near main road, a hundred acres being planted up with present rains in a popular residential district, sheep, cattle and wheat all do well.
- (b) 1,200 acres good grazing and pyrethrum land; good rain; excellent labour and fuel abundant; at 12/50 per acre; wind of one estate.
- (c) One of the best mixed farming prospects in Kenya; in a most prosperous district on main road, 5 miles from station grows pyrethrum, wheat, maize, etc., etc. A real money making opportunity. 2,400 acres.
- (d) Prices of breeding stock show a definite tendency to rise and prospective buyers are advised not to delay their purchases. Enquiries from buyers and sellers are welcomed and will receive my careful and personal attention based upon twenty-five years experience of Kenya stockbreeding and farming.

The Report, but it is by no means the worst among Mombasa's standards. But the African's own low level is no excuse for a continuation of these conditions. One of the soundest recommendations, and one we hope will have immediate effect, is a drastic reduction in the number of casual labourers congregated in Mombasa far in excess of the demands of the market place. That change should be brought about by all the means of control Government possesses. It will have immediate and desirable advantages. It will at once reduce to some extent the present overcrowding which the Medical Officer deems is largely responsible for disease prevalent in native Mombasa, and it will ensure that those who remain have more regular share of the work available and consequently more time to improve their conditions of life. It will also ensure property controlled—and elasticity to meet growth or exceptional demand is not difficult to ensure. It will also ensure that we have far reaching economic results and go a long way to put the Government on a sound financial foundation for the future application of a policy of social improvement on permanent lines.

ON THE STAIRS
COMMENT ON CONVERSION LOAN
 London, Jan. 18.
 The large conversion operation announced yesterday, although it has nothing to do with the Government's financial policy, is regarded by the market as a useful indication of the terms in which those loans must be raised.

There is general agreement that the Government were well advised to take the first opportunity of liquidating the 1924 loan. As a result of the conversion, the Times, which describes it as a "new course" is of the opinion that it is not of course to be regarded as a new course, but rather as a continuation of the policy of conversion on patriotic sentiment, but with sentiment in a factor in market conditions, on which the Government has as a duty to count heavily. It adds that it would be unwise to take the character of the new two terms of conversion as an indication of the terms on which future loans should be raised. It says that the addition to the volume of low yielding government securities issued in the last year, and should be equally digestible by them. The Financial Secretary, however, has fully accepted the implications of the conversion, and has stated that the conversion operation which was announced yesterday, is not a new course, but rather a continuation of the policy of conversion on patriotic sentiment, but with sentiment in a factor in market conditions, on which the Government has as a duty to count heavily.

JUVENILE'S APPEAL
 It was disclosed in the Court of Appeal, sitting at Nairobi yesterday, that shortly after the outbreak of the present war, a juvenile named School at Kabete (the Reformatory) was released in association with the internment of enemy aliens. The juvenile's appeal was dismissed. With one exception, namely, that the juvenile was not a native, the appeal was dismissed. The juvenile was not a native, and the appeal was dismissed. The juvenile was not a native, and the appeal was dismissed.

A SOCIAL PROBLEM
 The Mombasa Strike Enquiry
 The Report of the Commission of Enquiry appointed by the Government of Kenya to investigate the labour conditions in Mombasa, and the present position of the strike of July-August last year, is a frank document in its exposure of the social problem posed by the native population of Mombasa. The principal value of the Report lies in its exposure of the social problem posed by the native population of Mombasa.

Leaves from

future home

THE DUKE OF KENT has paid several visits to Kensington Palace since the death of Prince Louis. He goes as an escort, but he has also a personal interest in the palace.

The palace is regarded as the future home of the Duke and Duchess of Kent. The Princess Mary has been here since the death of her father, the Duke of York.

It will cost at least £10,000 to maintain the palace, but modern lighting, heating and such modern as a lift, a telephone extension on to the upper floors and modern bathrooms.

The apartments would also need extensive refurnishing; there have been no substantial purchases or renewals since long before the death of Queen Victoria.

Most of the furniture is Crown property and belongs to the Office of Works.

The present of the Princess's furniture is still not known and it will be many months before the furniture is fully settled. Her Majesty's amount is large and death duties will be heavy.

owner rivals

THERE ARE SEVERAL elderly women owners who are re-exclusively under national hunt rules and who have never been in the least interested in flat racing.

Among them are Lady Lindsay, Mrs. H. M. Collins and Mrs. Violet Mundy. And they have been at Windsor last month.

On December 27 Mrs. H. M. Collins's Pyralis led outpacing Mrs. Mundy's Cuckoo Hawk by the last turn head and head but at least half a mile.

These women owners have blazing outpacing and excellent judgment.

Mrs. Mundy's known to everybody and designs in conversation Mrs. Collins's Pyralis.

Anthony Fokker

A FORTUNE made from flying over-cured Mr. Anthony Fokker's industry while he was in an airplane.

He admitted that he was frustrated and he avoided flying as often as possible.

When he did travel by air he insisted always on occupying the seat near the door, but he never flew with his feet both up and down on taking off.

Mr. Fokker, who died last year in New York, was a man of affairs. He was a man of affairs.

He made his biggest success just before this war as agent in Europe for Douglas airplanes. He sold the Douglas machines used on the air lines here.

When rearmament was started on a large scale he wanted to build an airplane. He wanted to build an airplane.

OUR MOTHERS USED TO CALL THEM BLOUSES - We call them TOPS

Twenty-five years ago our mothers merrily used their own-time wardrobe with tailored blouses. We will do the same, but go one better. This page helps you to choose blouses that help the figure.

Drawn by ROBB

For good all-round economy there's nothing to beat a blouse: easy on the purse to begin with, time-saving to get into, easy at the laundry, and they stand alone for picking up a tired suit.

But for all that they are not so easy to wear; because they add to the waist they cut your figure in half. If you are tall a suit and skirt, but not many of us have mannequin figures. If you are on the plump side the average light silk blouse gives something of the shape of a skin on a sausage. If you are thin, "slimpy" is the word that comes to the mind.

But there is no need for those drawbacks. Learn the principles of the kind of blouse you should wear to do your best as comfortable in a blouse and skirt as you do in your evening gown. If you can't just buy the thing you want, a few hints are worth while.

There are four types of women who think they were hard done by when measurements were handed out - the tall and well-built (she's a fine figure of a woman) type, the short and plump (it isn't motherly woman) the tall and bony, and the small and slight.

Look at Robb's drawings on this page and you will know, for over the kind of blouse you want; minor fashion points will change, but these are the basic types for you.

No. 1 shows the type for you if you are tall and generously made. Pick out these points in every blouse you buy. Narrow neckline to slim your throat; deep vertical panel to flatten your front; slight vertical stitching to disguise the bust; plain, round collar to give your arms long, straight sleeves to slim large wrists.

No. 2 picks out the points for the short and stocky. In addition to looking thinner, your aim is to look taller, too. Look for No. 3 shows the type for you if you are thin, "slimpy" - in thin places, and a small broken neck is a good idea.

No. 4 shows the type for you if you are tall and generously made. Pick out these points in every blouse you buy. Narrow neckline to slim your throat; deep vertical panel to flatten your front; slight vertical stitching to disguise the bust; plain, round collar to give your arms long, straight sleeves to slim large wrists.

No. 5 shows the type for you if you are tall and generously made. Pick out these points in every blouse you buy. Narrow neckline to slim your throat; deep vertical panel to flatten your front; slight vertical stitching to disguise the bust; plain, round collar to give your arms long, straight sleeves to slim large wrists.

No. 6 shows the type for you if you are tall and generously made. Pick out these points in every blouse you buy. Narrow neckline to slim your throat; deep vertical panel to flatten your front; slight vertical stitching to disguise the bust; plain, round collar to give your arms long, straight sleeves to slim large wrists.

No. 7 shows the type for you if you are tall and generously made. Pick out these points in every blouse you buy. Narrow neckline to slim your throat; deep vertical panel to flatten your front; slight vertical stitching to disguise the bust; plain, round collar to give your arms long, straight sleeves to slim large wrists.

No. 8 shows the type for you if you are tall and generously made. Pick out these points in every blouse you buy. Narrow neckline to slim your throat; deep vertical panel to flatten your front; slight vertical stitching to disguise the bust; plain, round collar to give your arms long, straight sleeves to slim large wrists.

No. 9 shows the type for you if you are tall and generously made. Pick out these points in every blouse you buy. Narrow neckline to slim your throat; deep vertical panel to flatten your front; slight vertical stitching to disguise the bust; plain, round collar to give your arms long, straight sleeves to slim large wrists.

No. 10 shows the type for you if you are tall and generously made. Pick out these points in every blouse you buy. Narrow neckline to slim your throat; deep vertical panel to flatten your front; slight vertical stitching to disguise the bust; plain, round collar to give your arms long, straight sleeves to slim large wrists.

No. 11 shows the type for you if you are tall and generously made. Pick out these points in every blouse you buy. Narrow neckline to slim your throat; deep vertical panel to flatten your front; slight vertical stitching to disguise the bust; plain, round collar to give your arms long, straight sleeves to slim large wrists.

No. 12 shows the type for you if you are tall and generously made. Pick out these points in every blouse you buy. Narrow neckline to slim your throat; deep vertical panel to flatten your front; slight vertical stitching to disguise the bust; plain, round collar to give your arms long, straight sleeves to slim large wrists.

No. 13 shows the type for you if you are tall and generously made. Pick out these points in every blouse you buy. Narrow neckline to slim your throat; deep vertical panel to flatten your front; slight vertical stitching to disguise the bust; plain, round collar to give your arms long, straight sleeves to slim large wrists.

No. 14 shows the type for you if you are tall and generously made. Pick out these points in every blouse you buy. Narrow neckline to slim your throat; deep vertical panel to flatten your front; slight vertical stitching to disguise the bust; plain, round collar to give your arms long, straight sleeves to slim large wrists.

No. 15 shows the type for you if you are tall and generously made. Pick out these points in every blouse you buy. Narrow neckline to slim your throat; deep vertical panel to flatten your front; slight vertical stitching to disguise the bust; plain, round collar to give your arms long, straight sleeves to slim large wrists.

No. 16 shows the type for you if you are tall and generously made. Pick out these points in every blouse you buy. Narrow neckline to slim your throat; deep vertical panel to flatten your front; slight vertical stitching to disguise the bust; plain, round collar to give your arms long, straight sleeves to slim large wrists.

your height up and disguise your thinness. And look out for the waist: sleeve fitting tightly at the wrist; wide cuffs make strain look thicker; necklines, boxes and sleeves; squared shoulders to "broaden" the neck; or some intention to accent the bust; a fitted waist to make the figure look like a sausage; and fabrics with "body" that help to fill your curves and flatters with wrinkles.

No. 2 shows pointers for the short and stocky. It is easy to look like a schoolgirl in a blouse. The skirt to look plumper and to gain height at the same time. Watch out for a fitted waist - stripes are fine to give you length in the bodice, but see that some of the stripes go the other way to broaden your neck; squared shoulders to make you look more important; high, not too severe, necks; some of your throat should show; high-waisted blouses (have your skirts cut high) to give you a long-legged look; fairly full sleeves to round your arms out.

No. 3 shows pointers for the tall and bony. It is easy to look like a schoolgirl in a blouse. The skirt to look plumper and to gain height at the same time. Watch out for a fitted waist - stripes are fine to give you length in the bodice, but see that some of the stripes go the other way to broaden your neck; squared shoulders to make you look more important; high, not too severe, necks; some of your throat should show; high-waisted blouses (have your skirts cut high) to give you a long-legged look; fairly full sleeves to round your arms out.

PERSONALLY SPEAKING

HIS EXCELLENCY the Governor and Lady Moore made their first informal public appearance last week when they attended "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" at the Empire Theatre on Saturday afternoon with a small party. On Sunday Sir Excelsency presented the Nairobi Cup at the Kenya Golf Club, and he was accompanied again on that occasion by Lady Moore and by Captain Oliver, the aide-de-camp. Tomorrow Mrs. Hathorne Hall, the wife of the British Resident at Zanzibar, is expected in Nairobi, and, with her two children, will be a guest at Government House for a few days.

Tomorrow is, of course, the day on which the marriage takes place between Mrs. Katharine Harrigan, the smart and attractive older daughter of the former Acting Governor and Mrs. Walter Harrigan, and Captain Richard Blair, the Royal Engineers, recently seconded to the K.A.F. The wedding is to be at Government House, and will be followed by a reception at Government House, which His Excellency and Lady Moore have very kindly offered to host for the occasion.

Lady Moore is, as yet, too busy settling into her new home and getting accustomed to have had time to consider any aspects of women's work that she is presently taking up. She is, of course, President of the N.S.W. but it is not intended to take any active part in the organization presently on a national scale. She first wishes to learn more of the problems of the country; she is the President of the Kenya Girl Guide Association and was formerly the President of the Kenya Girl Guide Headquarters in London, where she was also responsible for A.R.P. work in Chelsea. Lady Moore's chief social interests are in the welfare of women and children in all communities, and she has, in the past, been able to help leading organizations in these fields.

A charming and friendly person, Lady Moore has had an affection for Kenya ever since she first saw the Colony and says that she thinks it "one of the very best of things" that she has ever done since she is a countrywoman in her country. She is a keen sports woman, and in the past she has been able to help leading organizations in these fields. MARMITE makes Soup a meal in itself!

A household budget is a big responsibility. But there's no shaming to make ends meet if you know about, and use, Marmite. It is both an appetizer and a concentrated food source rich in Vitamin B. With a little Marmite and a few simple ingredients you can make soups that are tasty, nourishing and of real nourishment value. Even if you buy your soups ready made in tins, don't forget the Marmite. It will add a lot to the nourishment and zest to the soup. Soup made with Marmite always "goes down" well.

LELAND STOWE, our Special Correspondent in Finland, Writes about—

The Red Army On The Finnish Front

By Telegram
With the Finnish Army on the Karelian Isthmus Front.

THE Russian Troops which the Kremlin High Command have thrown against the eastern side of the Karelian Isthmus are probably the most miserable looking creatures to be seen in uniform in this part of Europe since Napoleon's last starved stragglers from Moscow. The only differences seem to be that Bonaparte's men were largely ex-cold soldiers, whereas Stalin's conscripts have struggled up from Leningrad to fight the Finns without a shadow of adequate training for their very tough job.

This is not an Bolshevik propaganda piece, but a report from the front. It is based on the statements of Finnish soldiers who have been in contact with the Finns in the last few days. It is not a propaganda piece, but a report from the front. It is based on the statements of Finnish soldiers who have been in contact with the Finns in the last few days.

These were samples of the army which Moscow sent out to conquer Finland—a force of some later recruited by the Kremlin. The Finnish army is into the line, and the Finns are now in contact with the Finns in the last few days.

Russians are afraid to move in the forests at night and many of their simple-minded soldiers are convinced that the Finns are in league with evil spirits, thereby explaining how the Finns, gliding noiselessly through the forests by day and night and raiding their camps like American Indians. According to general testimony, the Russians have no stomach for this type of warfare, a method in which the Finns are masters.

ANY number of Finnish officers told us that the political army of the Finns was extremely active behind the Russian infantry. When the Reds were repulsed they often had their machines near afterwards in the Soviet rear. One captured Red army sergeant is quoted as saying: "It is impossible to fight when being shot at from both front and rear. Please stop this help to explain this complicated group of prisoners we interviewed here."

In some instances, long ranges of machine guns were used to cut down into the rear in the Finnish attack. The Russian troops have been repulsed in many instances, and the Finns are now in contact with the Finns in the last few days.

WHAT about that? One of the Finns who was carrying an automatic had been promised half the amount he was carrying on a stevedore. He was a Russian, and he had left his wife and his three children in Leningrad. He was a Russian, and he had left his wife and his three children in Leningrad.

The Red prisoners said they had been well treated by the Finns, and they were not being held in the contrary. They were simply pitiful human beings who had been thrown against the Finnish line. They were pitiful human beings who had been thrown against the Finnish line.

It is not warm," he said. "Don't you freeze?" he asked. "It all depends on how cold it is," he replied, with the only faint trace of humor discernible in any of the seven or so very many Russian words we have spoken to. "The Finns have frozen feet," Dmitri also told us what the Russian soldiers are being fed on and on fighting rations in his bitter words. "I eat a bowl of brown porridge," he said, and about two cups of tea. "I eat a bowl of brown porridge," he said, and about two cups of tea.

CONVERSATION PIECE

Only human things displaced truthfully—this is the only way to get the truth. M. THIERIS, in a letter to Saint-Hippolyte.

Recently it was my duty to take part in a discussion of the draft of a Land and Water Preservation Bill which I hope will soon be introduced to Legislative Council.

During the course of the discussion, I asked why it was that administrative officers of the Government so rarely seemed to regard the preservation of the natural resources of the country as a first duty to the people in their charge. The replies given to me by three men of varied and wide experience in this line were, in brief, that it was not administrative officers who are so preoccupied with routine work and with managerial duties that they are virtually impossible for them to devote attention to the real problems, to the true well of the people. I was told that many administrative officers lacked the knowledge, and the experienced advice, to recognize the misuse of land and to organize direct remedial measures. Thirdly, I was told that it was utterly impossible for administrative officers to enforce the mass of legislation already in existence; and fourthly, that much of the fault lay with the unofficial community which was generally opposed to any increase of administrative power. And there we were, discussing the enactment of further legislation which will give administrative officers additional powers to preserve the land—if they have the time and the means to exercise those powers!

In the course of a letter which Sir Albert Toke wrote to The Times last August, he maintained that the problems of soil fertility, soil erosion, and malnutrition should be considered together and not as isolated and independent fragments as a new case. The correct relation between mankind and the soil must be the first duty of the Administration. We know that in Kenya the greatest of all the problems of Africa is considered fragment by fragment and the whole is seen only as a glass darkly. We know that it is not the first duty of the Administration that the most conscientious of the members of the Native Reserves cannot make it his first duty, for he is shackled to a mass of clerical work most of which could be done by a clerk and by a mass of court work most of which could be dealt with by a junior magistrate. A District Commissioner has usually been expensively educated; he has served the State for many years and his emoluments represent the wealth from a surprising number of native subjects. The day will surely come when the people will ask why neither the Tax and the Tax Brackets are not directly known the land and the people is worth a score of men who are expert in the direction of a citizen which does little to preserve the land and advance the well of the people. Kenya has too long suffered the same inertia of bureaucracy that Lord Curzon found in India and somewhat impatiently shattered—inertia which has frustrated the constructive plans of a hundred pro-consuls throughout the history of the Imperial Colonies.

Almost every time that I receive from THE REAL FARMER, almost every farmer who writes DEMAND. The District Board published in the Agricultural Section of this paper, refers to the lack of an agricultural policy in Kenya. When this demand is analyzed if it is a demand for the restoration of the profit margin to farming. Letter after letter has been received from the Government, general, or the Settlement and Production Board, particularly, should guarantee markets and prices for the farmer, although anyone who devotes his mind to the problem must realize that neither the Board nor the Government can do either of these things. Everyone must recognize that in general terms the agricultural prospect of Kenya is, at present, gloomy. I believe that so far, the farmer has suffered more from drought than from the incidence of war, but, unfortunately, when the farmer's case is represented the two causes of disability are frequently combined. I read and hear many claims that the cost of production is thirty per cent; claims which are rarely supported by the facts and the figures necessary to corroborate an extraordinary statement. I am afraid that few farmers in Kenya really know what are their costs of production, and that, in consequence, a confusion between rising costs due to drought—for the lack of precise evidence. And there is generally some confusion between rising costs due to drought—for the lack of precise evidence. And there is generally some confusion between rising costs due to drought—for the lack of precise evidence.

For many years past Major E. S. O'Grady, and those who support his views, have asserted an that development of the East African agriculture, the sole effective means of reducing the profit to the agriculturalist. The Government of Kenya has appointed a Committee of Enquiry which may well be the last of its kind. In 1935, the Economic Development Committee encountered that hapless and bygone the fact of the statistics required to present the argument must be more extensive than that as it may, it might be statistics to prove that unless the profit margin is restored Kenya will become, indeed it is rapidly becoming, an incipiently bankrupt. In terms of effective aid our economic contribution to the Imperial effort is at present negligible. We have agreed to increase the Colony's military vote by 25 per cent which probably represents less than 1 per cent of the military budget in East Africa. Some hundreds of thousands of the farmer's products would be required to pay for the military vote. The Government must pay more for the farmer's output, or the shilling must be inflated in terms of sterling, or the Imperial Government must admit that they care little or nothing for the economic or social well of the land and the people of Kenya. The most patriotic farmer in Kenya cannot maintain never must increase production at the expense of the land. No policy can assert that fact. Already the costs of production have been reduced. Further deflationary measures, frequently advocated, or subsidize from the Kenya State, can only maintain equilibrium in the market, but it is not a policy which is desired for the farmer. The farmer must be largely neglected in the Imperial effort to maintain a healthy Empire, and only where the daisies grow.

Information has been received at Mombasa that the British Army in Kenya is serious disaffection broke out in the Southern Highlands of the British East Africa. It is reported that the British Army in Kenya is serious disaffection broke out in the Southern Highlands of the British East Africa. DO YOU KNOW? That in 1759 the 15th Dragoons were recruited from the out of work London tailors. At the battle of Embsford their tails were gaining a reputation for quality to change. N.B.—This ability appears to be retained by some modern tailors.

On Friday the news included a statement on the position of German Africa... The most interesting feature of the brief reference...

The people of Kenya would be very glad to know that a similar policy is being followed in the Colony.

At the beginning of the war the civil authorities prepared a camp at Kabete, but it did not meet the approval of the military authorities.

The German in Kenya a National hotel had been closed since war began for the housing of alien women and children, and one way and another, the hotel had been abandoned.

The Kenya report of the treatment of the internees is as good as the record of the rest of the Colonial Empire. They have been treated with every courtesy and thought life in internment camps is difficult.

Unfortunately though, the alien internees are being handled in all East Africa, it has not apparently been treated as such. Thus Tanganyika, accommodation on neutral territory has acted promptly while Kenya and Uganda merely thought about the solution.

whether the Cabinet changes have a reaction on policy and if time proves that the Premier's resignation was not founded, the Minister will tell against him. Further changes in the Cabinet will be inevitable. It does not represent Britain's best team.

The statements in the House of Commons have thrown no light on the dispute, so could be expected that Cabinet differences, or friction between the politician and the soldier, would be exposed at a time like this. In the usual British way it was necessary to perform an unpleasant task decently and with proper regard for the proprieties and in that spirit both Mr. Hore-Belisha and the Prime Minister approached it.

That it will always remain to the credit of the brilliant and forceful driver of officialdom that it was his urging which helped to introduce conscription in time and was his organising ability which put the second British Expeditionary Force into France swift, trained and equipped, and earned the admiration of the world as an accomplishment almost without parallel. SUSPENSE TO THE AIR WAR RECORD FLIGHTS ACROSS EUROPE

Army And Air Force Leave Suspended

BELGIUM TAKES PROTECTIVE MEASURES

HOLLAND, BELGIUM AND THE ALLIES HAVE BEEN NO REASON TO RELAX THEIR PRECAUTIONS, THE LATEST OF WHICH WAS ANNOUNCED ON MONDAY NIGHT: THE CANCELLATION OF LEAVE FOR THE ROYAL AIR FORCE IN FRANCE.

Although reports from Belgium suggest that the situation generally is considered easier, the current opinion is that Germany is staging an episode of war nerves in an attempt to intimidate neutrals. Support for this theory was forthcoming by the brutal sinking by a U-boat of a Dutch steamer in the Bay of Biscay.

The Belgian Foreign Office announces that Belgium has taken certain protective measures amounting to the application of a defence plan formulated during the days of the war. Soldiers on leave are rejoining their regiments and munition depots in frontier districts are being restocked.

An official comment on the new measures is that they cover everything. They do not, however, imply any change in the situation.

One of the Belgian newspapers on Saturday morning referred to the large number of recent instances of German planes flying over Belgian territory and recorded the articles which have appeared in the German press criticising neutral members of the League of Nations. On the other hand, it adds that German and Belgian economic negotiations are progressing very satisfactorily.

The War Office announced that leave for the British Expeditionary Force in France has been temporarily suspended. It is reported that soldiers already on leave in Britain and those now on their way from France are to be recalled to this announcement.

This British decision follows the cancellation of all leave to the Netherlands and Belgian armies. A special meeting of the Netherlands Cabinet was held at the Hague yesterday afternoon to discuss the international situation, after the other countries have taken the Dutch Army had been issued. This calculation affects about 100,000 men and it is estimated that the suspended leave has been taken as a precautionary measure because of the increasing international situation as the "last neutral" situation described as "the last neutral" situation.

Yesterday, the Netherlands Government described as absolutely untrue the allegations in a German newspaper published on Monday morning that British airmen had been over Germany territory.

Belgium, in addition to stopping leave, has taken one more step towards full mobilisation and has issued further orders of this operation to remain. The new step is the posting of police in strategic positions and all other military posts. Munition depots are being restocked and factories are being worked over the military personnel while the army is now under the command of the German High Command. The British High Commanders were sent instead of that of the Ministry of Defence.

In both Belgium and the Netherlands these steps have been reported with complete ease, and it is emphasised that the measures are purely precautionary. The Netherlands Foreign Minister declared yesterday that he did not imply any change in the situation, and a statement broadcast from Brussels emphasised that the steps taken throughout the country were precautionary.

It was also stated that the British opinion had been seen now no reason to expect any further developments.

Nevertheless, it is a certain fact that between the two divisions the German army, representing about 100,000 men, are massed in the frontier districts of the two countries just as they were in 1914. Soldiers are on the alert and the situation is tense. It is a fact that whatever were Germany's intentions in Holland and Belgium have been frustrated by the Dutch and Belgian Governments. The Belgian Cabinet met yesterday afternoon and the Prime Minister, Foreign Minister and Defence Minister were present. The night by King Leopold. No communication has been issued and the official impression is that, although official quarters are not completely reassured about the situation, the tension is not what it was.

A Dutch newspaper declares that both countries are as resolved to defend their independence as in 1914. The Netherlands was not over-accident nor was the showing off against the report. "We are quickly pursuing our peaceful policy with the risk at the ready, we know our minds and continue to be free Dutchmen, without any hesitation anybody."

The Chairman of the Naval Affairs Committee of the United States announced in Washington yesterday that the United States is to be drafted to allow the United States to build submarines over the treaty limit of 1000 tons. He added that Treaty limits of all categories of warships would be eliminated. (Reuter).

In Rome, it is understood that the former Prime Minister of the United Kingdom, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, the Italian Foreign Minister, last week, that there was complete agreement between the British and Italian Governments and Belgium and that, in fact, an agreement would mean an attack on the motorship Arsenale. The German wireless broadcast yesterday afternoon that the ship was torpedoed by a German submarine. A statement was made to newspaper correspondents in London, stating that carrying contraband and that the ship was not a submarine.

More Air Raids By Both Sides

RECONNAISSANCE FLIGHTS ON FAR THE BIGGEST SCALE SO FAR ACHIEVED WERE CARRIED OUT SUCCESSFULLY ON FRIDAY NIGHT BY R.A.F. UNITS, ALL OF WHICH RETURNED SAFELY TO THEIR BASES

Some of the machines were eight and nine hours in the air, and many important towns in Germany, Austria, and Czechoslovakia were observed. Munich, it was noted, appeared fairly well-lighted when the British machines first passed over it later it had appeared a black-out.

The Air Ministry has related German reports of damage to British aircraft which recently maintained security patrols over Holland and Belgium.

Attract of the Royal Air Force quickly replied that "the planes" which were reported to have been shot down by the German air force, were in fact, reconnaissance flights over many parts of northwest Germany last night, of course, it may have its own explanation.

did because of the darkness. Danish people say that they saw a large number of German planes slowly returning to their bases. Another train went slowly through the dark balance of the night. The damage, if any, must have been slight and quickly repaired.

The Danish authorities have established that the three bombers which fell on a Danish island were of British manufacture, only 1000 damage was done and it is understood that the British authorities will make full restitution. (Reuter).

Four Royal Air Force officers from a British bomber which had developed engine trouble landed by parachute in the fields near Postdam, Devon, last night. The pilot remained at his post and was able to bring his machine to a safe landing at his base in Kent. Distress fares were dropped just before the men jumped, but the parachute decelerators were unobscured in the darkness. All four landed safely, though widely separated. (Reuter).

Russians Drive Air Raids on Finland

HUNDREDS OF PLANES: RESULTS NOT IMPRESSIVE
With an improvement in the weather, Russian air raids on Finland have been renewed.

In the latest raids hundreds of planes are said to have taken part and some 500 bombs were dropped. Casualties however, were not correspondingly numerous.

There are conflicting reports of the progress of the war on land. Stalin himself is now stated to be taking a hand in the conduct of the campaign in Finland.

Italian volunteers who will be known as the Garibaldi Legion have arrived in Finland to help the Finns.

The Russian division near Salla, in the north of Finland, has been reinforced by a new force of 1,000 men.

Several other troops in south Finland were bombed. Two civilians were killed and 100 houses destroyed.

Apparently the Finnish anti-aircraft defences had been expecting the Russian air force to be active in the weather.

Thinly veiled threats to Norway and Sweden, which the Moscow despatches as their "anti-Russian policy" are contained in a Russian protest to the two countries.

This attitude, continues the protest, may, if persisted in, lead to undesirable complications and a disruption of normal relations between them and the Soviet.

Replies from the two countries apparently have not satisfied the Soviet for the Moscow radio declared yesterday that they showed no resistance to great powers which were trying to drag them into a world war.
