Early batmen set a good example

Two first-class matches for the first and second weeks ended Lancashire County Championship leaders, to play on 20th August before Wakefield, who were defeated by 107 runs before being bowled out.

Hollies in form
At County, if anyone had predicted the day for 100 runs in a match in which a batsman would be dismissed for 100 runs, the Wakefield batsman would have been a good bet.

The mental approach to golf is all-important

by W. J. Cox

I HAVE never been able to make up my mind which is the more important part of golf—the mechanics of knowing how to strike the ball for its various shots, or the mental side—very important maybe—which enables a player to make the best of a worst, and of the ability to hit fifty fifty.

I am inclined to think that the greater attention is given to the mechanics side of the game. A great many people who are willing to spend hours and hours perfecting their technique don't take into account the mental side and one who is in which they are better than their regular routine of the course.

Prior survey

The technique of the professional player goes through a series of changes, but the most important part of the game is the mental side. It is probably the most important part of the game, and it is the one that is most often neglected. A player who is not mentally prepared for a shot will not be able to execute it properly. The mental side of the game is what makes the difference between a good player and a great one.

Slow and deliberate

In these circumstances it is best to be slow and deliberate. Take your time and think about each shot. Do not rush. The mental side of the game is what makes the difference between a good player and a great one.

PAVILION PROFILES

By John Adair, B.B.C. cricketer commentator

It is interesting to know that the pavilion at the Test match was built in 1880. It is a fine building and has been the scene of many famous matches.

'SUDDEN DEATH' HAS NOT MADE CLOVE CROP POOR

WHAT effect the 'sudden death' disease will have on the clove crop in Zanzibar and Pemba remains to be seen. For a fortnight, thousands of trees are believed to have died in a very short time.

When the 'sudden death' disease first appeared in Zanzibar and Pemba, it was believed to be a new disease. It was later found to be a disease which had been known in Java for many years. It was first reported in Java in 1890. It was later found to be a disease which had been known in Java for many years. It was first reported in Java in 1890.

ALL THE COLOURS OF THE RAINBOW

If you study the rainbow, you will find in it only seven colours, the colours of the spectrum—violet, indigo, blue, green, yellow, orange and red. The British Ophthalmic Chemist provides an accompanying greater number. Colour in the form of dyestuffs, enters into almost everything we wear, use or eat, on the course of our daily lives. The dyestuffs which make things look as they do, almost all owe to their existence to the discoveries of W. H. Perkin and A. G. Green between 1855 and 1867—today produces an enormous range of colours. By judicious blending the dyestuffs they multiply these a thousandfold. This astonishing array of colours is necessary because nature does not provide a wide variety of shades and each shade of natural dye is produced by a different plant. Officers need typewriter ribbons, carmen papers, printing inks and postage stamps. The textile trade would be hopeless without dyestuffs. The list can be extended indefinitely. The British Ophthalmic Chemist is working at full capacity and is being rapidly expanded to fill the vital need for experts—the 'Doctors of Colour'. Wherever you see colour, you can trace the hand of the British Ophthalmic Chemist. He shows you where the rainbow ends.

GETTING ELECTRIC POWER FROM TROPIC OCEANS. A UNESCO correspondent writes of an experiment in West Africa which may have far-reaching consequences.

Abdjan on the Ivory Coast, there is being built by the French Government an electric plant which will harness the energy obtained simply by mixing water from the surface of the ocean and colder water from the depths.

This is the first electric plant of its kind in the world. It will have a power of 7,000 kw. It has been designed following detailed and successful experiments based upon the fact that temperatures in the surface waters of the ocean are as high as 33 degrees C. at 100 metres from the surface.

The French experts are satisfied that the energy of the sea can be converted into electricity. This is one of the most important and socially important advances made possible in a world where there is a shortage of fuel.
