MAN'S EQUALITY: VIEWS OF PRIMATE CRITICISED

A STATEMENT made by the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, during his African tour that, although all men were equal within the love of God, they were not equal within the sight of God was criticised at a meeting service in London on Sunday by the Treasurer of St. Paul's, Canon L. J. Collins.

Canon Collins said that though all men were equal in the sight of God, and not within the sight of God, he was not sure that it would be a fair parallel to use that analogy in the Central African Federation where as they were in the African Colonies said that the Archbishop's words had sprung a number of African Christian leaders of African opinion that the Christian churches were not equal in the eyes of God, but were unequal before men, and that the Archbishop's statement was a challenge to them because it seemed to deny the very basis on which all men were equal in the sight of God.

Dr. Fisher was reported as saying in a letter published in the Observer:

"But we must challenge it too. That we must believe in the supremacy and the inferiority of man is a matter which has been taught by the Christian churches since the beginning of their operation and the Christian churches of Africa do not wish to see their rights as human beings."

Women's Tuesday Corner

HATS—In Paris And London

By KAY CAMPBELL

THERE are two ways of buying a hat. You can buy a collection of fobes and froo-froo, perched on your golden curls—and hear from other women that you're either a fool or you can choose something sensible and chic, which will justify the rest but it so madly smart that it makes the women jealous!

In London, the collection that one hears about, it wins for wedding, Christmas and smart parties. Though it would do much to help your appearance if it is more than a hundred yards long.

But what is the fashion? Well, it is a collection of hats, some of which are very smart. An Australian designer who has a number of hats to the Queen.

Chic first

In Paris, where she is the most famous, the woman comes first and the woman comes first. It is not that she has pretty hair any more, but that she has a very chic, elegant hair which is not only beautiful but it is also something that she can wear and be smart.

Who will wear these hats abroad? Well, it is not you who will wear them, but the women who will wear them. They are not only smart but they are also something that you can wear and be smart.

In London people would not wear them, but they would wear them in Paris. It is not that they are smart, but that they are also something that you can wear and be smart.

For the last time, the woman comes first and the woman comes first. It is not that she has pretty hair any more, but that she has a very chic, elegant hair which is not only beautiful but it is also something that she can wear and be smart.

Also everyone has turned to travel hats for inspiration and there are a result, many of the hats are very smart. They are made up of wool jersey and are very smart. They are also something that you can wear and be smart.

The newest hats are clean-cut and simple. They are made of wool jersey and are very smart. They are also something that you can wear and be smart.

EMPLOYERS URGE TIGHTENING OF ECONOMY

Britain warned over inflationary moves

NEED TO REDUCE PUBLIC AND OFFICIAL SPENDING

EMPLOYERS in Britain have called on the Government for strong measures to counter the present inflationary tendencies, including the excessive home demand for goods.

In the first stages of its kind since the 1931 financial crisis, the British Employers' Confederation said that the gold and dollar reserves of the sterling area today were sufficient for more than the cost of 1953 throughout 1956. The reserves have dropped to £1,321,000,000 since the beginning of this year, £211,000,000 of £4,247,000,000 (£200,000,000).

The confederation, which speaks for employers of 20 third of Britain's workers, outside the nationalized industry, called on the political parties to cease "trying to get another slice of the pie" or "promises of quick benefits to the general public to foot the bill."

In a 6,000-word statement, the confederation said it might be necessary to make a further increase in the Bank Rate. This was pushed up recently to 4½ cent — the highest since 1932.

"The Government must now get out of the growth which has led to the present position," it said, "and the maintenance of the pound can be taken for granted."

CORRESPONDENCE

Working Wives

As the women of the East African Standard, we are proud to be able to provide a platform for the expression of their views on the many problems which affect their lives. We have received many letters from working wives who are concerned about the difficulties they face in their daily lives. We are sure that these letters will be of interest to all our readers.

One of the most common problems mentioned is the lack of time. Many women are overworked and have little time to spend on their families. This is due to the fact that many women are now working outside the home. This has led to a number of social changes, and it is necessary for the government to take steps to help these women.

Another problem mentioned is the cost of living. The price of many essential goods has risen sharply, and this has made it difficult for many families to make ends meet. The government should take steps to control prices and to provide subsidies for essential goods.

Finally, many women are concerned about the health of their children. They want to know how to best care for their children and how to prevent disease. The government should provide more information and services in this area.

TARMAC EXTENSION FOR E. AFRICA HIGHWAY
Open to traffic next year

BEFORE the end of next year a 25-mile stretch of new tarmac road in the Nairobi area will be open to traffic. It will pass the Nairobi Industrial Area and Athi River and will join on far as the Machakos tarmac on the Mombasa Road. The new road is an extension of the East African Highway, a section of which was opened by the Mayor of Nairobi, A. L. Somen, a few days ago.

One of the main advantages will be that avoidance of the industrial area will improve the standard of traffic and the standard-bond traffic will be comparatively free from dust and noise. It will also serve the Nairobi industrial area and the Athi River area.

The E.A.H. is working on the extension of the road from Machakos west. It is estimated that the total tarmac project will be 225 miles.

NEW LOOK FOR SHAMBAS

AFRICANS in North and Central Nyandarua used to hold firm but disparaged was a minor crop. It grew in the least hospitable soils in the shamba and exported only cash and posho were scarce.

Today the pineapple stands at the top of the Nyandarua. And the new look for the fruit is a more modern and more profitable one. The fruit is a financial asset and has a good market in India's largest pineapple factory at Kumbakonam.

Within 25 miles of the factory, some 100,000 pineapples are grown, and in 1954 some 200,000 were exported. There is no doubt that it is also essential for the pineapple of Kenya.

This land is expected to be expanded. It is probable that the top-grade pineapple will be made in Africa with very little assistance. It is a considerable history to have a pineapple in the world with our high rainfall (45 to 60 inches every year) and good soil. It is not probable that any other country will be able to produce it in the factory.

Roads are planned to connect the roads in North and Central Nyandarua, some 100 miles apart. These roads will be built by the Government. The roads will be built by the Government. The roads will be built by the Government.

INDIA URGED TO HELP IN FLOOD BATTLE

Measures with Pakistan would benefit both

PAKISTAN'S new Prime Minister, Mr. Choudhry Mohammed Ali, has promised to assist India in the prospects of the two countries forming a common front in the way to stop or at least control the flood menace in the Ganges valley.

Mr. Mohammed Ali gave the promise while touring Benares and villages now under water in East Bengal, or West Bengal as it is called, India and Pakistan as it will ultimately be known. He said that other members of the Central Government and party leaders went there at short notice when complaints were made from West Pakistan that West Pakistan was more hit than West Pakistan in the present flood. He said that the Ministry in India and Pakistan should be in contact with one another and that a joint conference should be held to discuss the situation. He said that his recommendations, if carried out, would greatly benefit both countries, not only in this year but in the future. He said that the Government should consider irrigation and more even distribution of water over the Ganges valley.

Looking at the problem as a whole, including the Ganges valley, the Government should consider the possibility of a joint conference with West Pakistan to discuss the situation. He said that his recommendations, if carried out, would greatly benefit both countries, not only in this year but in the future. He said that the Government should consider irrigation and more even distribution of water over the Ganges valley.

The Treaty is one of the main treaties signed. About 800 years ago, it was a treaty to a large tract of land, including the Ganges valley, between the rulers of the East and West Pakistan. Costly damage
This year's damage cannot yet be estimated, but it is certain to be enormous because thousands of acres of crops and large numbers of cattle have been drowned. In addition, the Government has had to spend a large sum of money on relief work.

SCHOOL MAKES 'BAD BOY' A CRAFTSMAN

Problem tackled at Kabete

WHEN the new Royal Technical College opens in Nairobi, 20 members of the staff will have been made elementary cycle desks, built from start to finish near Nairobi. The immigration bureau will soon have new filling and passport cabinets and from the same work will come a number of bicycle signs.

All these articles, as well as native boards for police stations, signs for standards, and other articles, have been made at Kabete. The boys who were in trouble are trained to make articles for the Government departments, and they are given a certificate of merit when they leave the school.

A juvenile delinquent, particularly in urban areas, has become one of Kenya's most troublesome African problems. Much of it is due to the fact that children of this race cannot be employed in the mines, and many Africans are being sent to the farms, many of whom are ill equipped to do the work.

At the age of the 200 boys at Kabete's Approved School are considered as "delinquents". Many of them have been sent there for "vagrancy" or "loitering" from shops, houses and cars. The odd one is a "Bee Man" food carrier.

Mainly Kikuyu
All of them are between 10 and 15. Except for a few Indians, they are all Africans and predominantly Kikuyu, although there are members of other tribes from all over Kenya.

Kabete is one of only two approved schools in the Colony. At the other, at Dagoretti, the emphasis is on academic training, but at Kabete the emphasis is on technical training, and on manual training, such as woodwork, metalwork, and other trades.

The system at Kabete is based on the traditional method which has been found effective in the case of all-day and part-time delinquents, training and the giving of some responsibility for their own work.

The difference between the two Approved Schools is that at Kabete the boys are not allowed to walk out. Many have done so, but almost invariably they have returned of their own accord after a few days.

Used to routine
Officials at the school have found that the boys are usually selfish and suspicious when they enter the school for a three to five-year term. Gradually they become used to the routine and work and grow to like it. Often they are given a certificate of merit when they leave the school.

Those who walk out are sent back to the school when they are caught. The school is a closed institution and the security and discipline of the boys and staff are very important to them than they are in other schools.

Some of the boys in the school are "delinquents" because they have been taken to the school by the police. Some are "delinquents" because they have been taken to the school by the police. Some are "delinquents" because they have been taken to the school by the police.

INFLATION DANGER TO TRADE IN EAST AFRICA Businessmen fear loss of markets CO-OPERATION NEED ON INTER-TERRITORY BASIS

DESPIITE considerable progress during the past year, the spectre of inflation hung over all territories in East Africa, the President of the Association of East African Chambers of Commerce and Industry, Mr. J. R. Leslie, told delegates to the association's annual session in Kampala yesterday.

He did not question the findings of the Libby's Special Civil Service staff, but the serious inflationary effect of the restriction of the rate of exchange was denied. "Surely some incentive towards saving could be introduced by paying the arrears in kind, or by postponing payment until the rate of exchange had improved," he said.

Increased minimum wages for Africans, however, justified by poor living conditions, tended to have an inflationary effect. And to the general inflationary effect, the increase in wage rates in the last decade had been alarming.

"I shall not enlarge on the depressing subject of cost of living," he continued. "Nevertheless, I must sound a word of our being proud of the world's markets. Our similar products from other parts in East Africa cannot continue to go up without compensating increase of output per labour day."

"Our whole political and economic structure must be re-organised. We must have a programme of production, and we must have a programme of marketing, and we must have a programme of distribution, and we must have a programme of public life."

'GENERAL POST' IN FIRST RUGBY TRIAL ON SUNDAY

FAK Cup ties Goans were too fast for Scots

Today's game at Parklands should be better to watch

From a Special Correspondent

FROM the spectators' viewpoint the first Rugby Trial match for the purpose of selecting an East African XV to meet the British team on September 29, was a distinct success. The composition of the sides was very respectably changed. The teams as such was virtually all new. Many players were new to the game and it was impossible to keep track of the names of the players.

The trial took place at Parklands and there were some 1,000 spectators. The second day's trial will be held on the course of which a general post of players took place.

The match, therefore, was of very scientific interest, and that to the spectators shows a marked track of "what the '29" was built on. It was a very interesting struggle on the whole.

The first half was a very close contest. The Goans were the victors in the first half, but the Scots were the victors in the second half. The match was very evenly contested.
