

Mass arrests as Czechs begin to fight back

The arrests of Czech liberals and leftists mounted throughout the country by the occupation by Russia and the four Warsaw Pact states.

The Czech underground radio said that nearly 1000 people had been arrested in Prague, that the army was still armed and that the High Commission from the Government was still in the country.

The radio said the party congress had unanimously demanded the freeing of Mr. Pithek and other Communist liberals and the denunciation of the Soviet, East and West Blocs.

Mr. Pithek was arrested by Soviet forces yesterday after broadcast statements and the preparatory committee of the national committee.

The Government underlined its determination to defend its territory, its population and its independence.

It is reported that food and fuel must remain available, and that work should be carried out.

The Czechs are said to have organized a strike in Prague, and that the underground radio is still active.

Kenya condemns 'brutal imperialism at its worst'

Kenya yesterday condemned the invasion of Czechoslovakia as a brutal illustration of the worst form of imperialism.

An official statement last night said the Government had been shocked with deep concern and indignation by the news of the invasion.

The statement said the Government would do all in its power to ensure the complete independence and territorial integrity of Czechoslovakia.

Further reasons for the protest came from other African states.

In Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, Emperor Haile Selassie condemned the occupation and called for the withdrawal of foreign troops.

In Accra, Ghana, the Government expressed its indignation and its support for the people of Czechoslovakia.

In Kampala, Uganda, the Government expressed its indignation and its support for the people of Czechoslovakia.

The Red Cross has stopped flying relief supplies by two Dakotas to Ghana and Kenya as a result of the Nigerian Federal Government's ban on such flights to these and other states capitals.

The Red Cross spokesman said on August 22 that the organization has stopped the helicopters from the United States by which they would be assembled in Lagos and used on the Calabar Zone.

The spokesman said he also stopped two containers each, each capable of carrying 150 tons of supplies, from the Federal Government.

He said that the Red Cross had been asked to organize flights by British and American officials.

He said that the Red Cross had been asked to organize flights by British and American officials.

'Get out' says Prague Cabinet

The extraordinary Committee of the National Front in Prague yesterday demanded that the occupying forces get out of the country.

The committee said that the national committee was the only legitimate authority in the country.

It demanded that the occupying forces be withdrawn immediately.

The committee also demanded that the Czechs be allowed to elect their own government.

It said that the occupying forces were responsible for the deaths and injuries of thousands of Czechs.

The committee also demanded that the occupying forces be held responsible for the economic crisis in the country.

ENVOY AT U.N. DENIES 'INVITATION'

Karel Kucera, a Czech envoy in Prague, said he had been invited to the United Nations to discuss the situation in Czechoslovakia.

He said that the invitation was a trap to force the Czechs to accept the terms of the occupation.

He refused the invitation, saying that the Czechs would only negotiate with their own government.

He said that the Czechs were determined to defend their independence and territorial integrity.

He also said that the Czechs were ready to accept a neutral status for the country.

Romania prepares to defend herself

The Romanian Government has announced that it is preparing to defend itself against any aggression.

It said that Romania was a neutral country and would not be involved in any military conflicts.

It also said that Romania was ready to accept a neutral status for the country.

The Government also announced that it was strengthening its defenses.

It said that Romania was determined to protect its independence and territorial integrity.

Soviet parody

Roman capital is proved beyond any doubt in the present issued by the Government and published in page. As a result, excuse, for the invasion by the forces of five Soviet big countries, Moscow Radio claimed they were "invited" to Czechoslovakia by a group of the Communist Party Central Committee in Prague...

What does the Czech Government have to say? A defiant statement issued by the Politburo of the Communist Party of Czechoslovakia and of her people by the armed forces of the five Warsaw Pact countries...

Less than a fortnight earlier, with typical cynicism, in relation to sanctions against Rhodesia the Soviet Government told the UN Secretary-General: "In accordance with its steadfast policy of giving aid and support of every kind to peoples struggling for their national liberation against the forces of imperialism, colonialism and neo-colonialism, the Soviet Union is vigorously carrying out its decisions in the UN General Assembly and Security Council, aimed at the earliest possible removal of all the colonial remnants of the colonial regimes."

At a special Commission of the UN in 1955, after "daily considering the wishes of many countries of Asia, Africa and Latin America," the Soviet delegation submitted a definition of aggression, not only as regards military invasion but economic and ideological moves specifically in Africa. "Furthering international upheavals in another State or an upheaval in politics in favour of the aggressor." This was said with an eye to the uncommitted galleys. Today, Kenya identifies the new imperialists.

THEATRE HISTORICAL ASSOCIATION

Salvoes in the sex war Stepping up research on Kenya's past

JOHN OSO, treasurer of the Historical Association of Kenya writes about the work of the association which whose annual conference begins on Sunday.

In a few days time Nairobi will be the scene of a historical conference which will be convened on the premises of the National Centre of the Historical Association of Kenya. This year's conference will be held in August 1968. It was founded a year earlier as a successor organisation jointly by the Ministry of Education and the Department of History of the University of Nairobi.

Under the dynamic leadership of Prof. H. A. Uguz, the association has progressed from strength to strength since its inception, leading both scholars and laymen to a number of individuals who are active in the field of historical research.

There has been a long period of research into the history of Kenya. It is not until recently that Kenya has been a focus of historical research. This was a result of the fact that the country was not considered as a part of the world's history.

The Historical Association of Kenya, which was founded in 1967, has been a pioneer in the field of historical research. It has been successful in bringing together scholars and laymen to discuss the history of Kenya.

It is a pleasure to announce that the annual conference of the Historical Association of Kenya will be held in Nairobi on August 19-21, 1968. The conference will be held at the National Centre of the Historical Association of Kenya.

The conference will be held at the National Centre of the Historical Association of Kenya. It will be a most interesting and profitable one for all those who are interested in the history of Kenya.

'Crisis of faith' after Pope's birth control ban

The contradictions that have been triggered by the Pope's banning of the pill give a suggestion that, on the religious matter, the Catholics all over the world yearned for change in the future. Instead of a change, the Pope has taken a step towards reinforcing and emphasising what he has said in the past. This is a crisis of faith for many Catholics.

REVIEW OF LEISURE, TRENDS AND ACHIEVEMENTS IN EAST AFRICA

A well-known picture of palm, jets, still waters and distant peaks, taken at dusk on Mauritius.

Volcanic mountains command over defile and waterfall, woods and colourful gardens... sand beaches are the glory of Mauritius.

The picturesque setting of the island's racetrack at Champs de Mars, a green plateau dominated by the rugged profile of "Le Bush".

ON THE ISLE OF RAINBOWS

There is a certain quality about the island of Mauritius that is hard to describe. It is a tropical island with a unique character, a blend of nature and culture that has made it a popular destination for tourists from all over the world.

The island's volcanic landscape is a sight to behold, with its rugged peaks and lush green valleys. The beaches are pristine and the water is crystal clear, making it a perfect spot for a relaxing holiday.

Mauritius is a multicultural island with a rich history. It has been a melting pot of different cultures, and this is reflected in its food, music, and traditions. The island's location in the Indian Ocean has also made it a major trading hub.

The island's infrastructure is well-developed, with a modern airport and a network of roads that make it easy to travel around. The government has invested heavily in tourism, and this has helped to attract more visitors to the island.

The modern skyscraper in the city centre square, Port Louis.

Haven remote from world

Despite its remote location, Mauritius is a vibrant island with a rich cultural heritage. It is a haven for those seeking a peaceful retreat, with its beautiful beaches and lush landscapes.

The island's economy is primarily based on tourism and agriculture. It has a long history of sugar production, but in recent years, the service sector has become a major part of its economy.

Mauritius is a member of several international organizations, including the Commonwealth of Nations and the Organisation of African States. It has a strong diplomatic presence in the region.

CHILDREN'S STORY

Climbing giant's castle

By CYNTHIA HUNTER

A crowd of rocks scattered high up on the bright blue sky. And Steven (naming as they scattered through a gap in the hills and saw it. High walls of rock surrounded an area of flat, open ground. At the granite stood above, challenging any visitor to climb up the crazy sides.

It looked as if a giant should have been building a castle of rocks, remarked Steven. "I hope it does not tumble down."

And it remained on the first few feet and pulled hard as a rock jutting out from the side. "I'm very firm," he said. "I know if I can get out the top."

The started pushing himself up, until he was in the right position which grew out from the sides of the rock. Steven said, "It was smaller than I had and climbed up more easily. He was caught up with his friend, took a few steps on the left and reached him. In another half an hour he reached the top. He looked a tiny figure, qualified against the sky.

"It's higher than the surrounding hills," he shouted. "Come on, kid. You can stay for miles here."

And a long leg and big feet made the meagre, awkward and clumsy. He six or twenty yards from the top. "I have found myself stuck on a ledge," Steven called. "I can't get down. I feel badly. I think I'm going to fall."

The giant, who had been screaming down as quickly as he could off the ledge and then down in front of him. When he reached the ground, Andy had no words. He merely stared. Six or twenty yards up, he had no words. He merely stared. Six or twenty yards up, he had no words. He merely stared.

him as he gave a shriek and tumbled down. He lay there for a while, and Steven thought he was badly hurt.

After about ten minutes he got up and appeared to be perfectly all right, except for a big bruise on his arm and a tear out on his face. "Well better go home," said a shaky voice. "I'll have a drink of water first."

Steven went to find the bottles. They had fallen on the bottom of the rock, but the tops were out and they were empty. "A sneezing sound made him look up and he saw a group of monkeys bounding off through the trees as fast as they could. Steven peered up the bottles. "I'll go and find some more," he said. "You rest here. I won't be long."

He scrambled through another gap of the hills and came to an archway which led to a narrow passage. He climbed over huge slabs of rock and jumped down onto a rocky patch of ground. He looked up at the narrow cliff over a rocky patch of ground. He looked up at the narrow cliff over a rocky patch of ground. He looked up at the narrow cliff over a rocky patch of ground.

small holes in the ground. Every now and then a cloud of small white water fell. The water blew up into the air. The undergrowth man had said. There was no way up the hills. The only way to get down along the rock, or to back the way he had come, was to go back to the refreshing stream."

"I don't think that's a good idea," said a voice quite close to him. "Think how hot the sun will be when you start to send up these jets of boiling water. It will be a child's ball on eggs" piped up a high-pitched voice of a girl.

The steam cleared for a moment and Steven saw a man and a woman with a small child, gazing with wonder at the hot springs.

"Please help me," he called and straightened toward the hot pools towards them.

There another way back to the rocky tower, said the man. Steven did not know the man. "I'll take you in my car," it said. "I can drive but I can't fly. I can drive but I can't fly. I can drive but I can't fly."

And had fallen asleep while Steven had been away, so he did not seem long to get up. He went to find a kerosene lamp, lighting his bed and working the cut on his face. She held out a tray of cool water, which he drank gratefully.

"I've just been to your head when you fell," he said. "You'll be all right after a night's rest. In about forty minutes the boys were home. Nothing of the boys were home. Nothing of the boys were home. Nothing of the boys were home.

TOKYO'S BOOMING INDUSTRY KAMIKAZE AIR BASE BECOMES 'TOY TOWN'

A former air base used by Japanese manufacturers in the Second World War is now Toy Town, a manufacturing center sponsored by producers of half of Japan's lead toy production.

The huge toy factory, a maze of houses, workers' homes and a huge restaurant.

This manufacturing complex is a rapidly expanding group of metal and plastic toy-makers which is expected eventually to cover more than 100 manufacturing, workshop, painters and dealers.

Rolling out of this complex are assembly lines are made on a British children's television film. It is a miniature of the toys and cars that automatically fly after being a wall of.

Emphasis is being placed on production of quality toys, to avoid damaging competition with Hongkong, Macao, China and others.

These include talking dolls and highly mechanized items, such as remote-controlled, toy aircraft and motorcars.

The 28 firms with 1,000 workers each month on production of which are divided into 10 foreign countries. North and South America and Europe are the major markets.

The Toy Town project has succeeded and we are looking forward to a rapid expansion of the group, a spokesman said.

The town started in operation in 1961 with 11 firms moving from temporary temporary areas of central Tokyo where a variety of small units existed.

Revive the silent classics

There is an untapped source of good films that has yet to be really exploited by television. I refer to motion pictures of the silent era.

It would seem at first sight a retrograde step to go back to silent pictures. It is expected that these silent films, mostly between 1910 and 1929, would be of a low standard of acting and acting.

Most of them have been seen on television, but there is a lot of them that have not been seen.

As for laughter, there is plenty of it. For instance, the play Boys in the Girls' School, the story of the health of a young man during the American Civil War. The General is a comedy starring Charlie Chaplin in the 1920s. The General is a comedy starring Charlie Chaplin in the 1920s. The General is a comedy starring Charlie Chaplin in the 1920s.

A letter to my son...

...as it might have been written by the Fourth Earl of Chester.

Colour is claimed for the true tobacco. The best of the box, as Chase (C.C.) - light Colorado (C.C.) - dark; then the very dark and Maduro (M.) which is of exceptional darkness.

The wrapper of outer leaf may be tried on cigar of good quality and it is just to suppose that the man would make a good wrapper whatever the quality. There is no special virtue in the wrapper of a good cigar. It is a good cigar that makes a good wrapper.

A good cigar has a smooth texture, with no roughness within, will not crack or split, and will not break up in the wrapper, especially in the middle of the head, the top and the bottom. It should be as smooth as the skin of a baby.

The straight type of cigar should be round all over, except the head, the top and the bottom. It should be as smooth as the skin of a baby.

again thought only if the cigar is in the wrapper, but if the wrapper is not the full width, in one or two places, which is one of the most common faults, it will not be equally heated all over and there will be burn marks on the wrapper. This is a good reason for the straight type of cigar. It will be equally heated all over and there will be burn marks on the wrapper.

The first two or three draws, as a rule, should contain enough smoke to fill the cigar, not your mouth. If you draw through the cigar, so that no smoke made hands by the lips, a little of your palate.

Never smoke fast and thoughtful of the moment's thought. It is a good habit to draw harder on a cigar that is burning fast than on one that is burning slowly. It is a good habit to draw harder on a cigar that is burning fast than on one that is burning slowly.

EAST AFRICAN COURSE AMONG THE CHEAPEST AND BEST IN WORLD

2,000 miles of golf

East Africa is probably the cheapest place in the world to take up a hobby. A member of a golf club pays about $10 a month as a contribution to one of the larger golf clubs, and a visitor pays something like $10 for a day's golf. The visitor's fees are lower if he pays a weekly or fortnightly amount.

The initial expense for a resident of East Africa who wants to take up golf is in the cost of equipment and the entrance fee to a club. A soundhand set of golf clubs costs anything from $20 upwards, and the entrance fee to a club is anywhere from one month's to a year's subscription. The relative cheapness of golf in East Africa has encouraged people of all classes to take up the sport and there are nearly as many Africans playing golf as there are Europeans, with the latter being a late starter on the continent of Africa, which is surprising considering their inherent ability as players and cricketers.

The sport is encouraged at schools and at least one secondary school has its own golf club. The school coaches belong to boys' and girls' organisations in Kenya, by the I.C.E.S. and the K.O.U. The K.O.U. also runs the boys' championships each year and there is a trophy for an inter-school competition. Golf has been played in Mombasa and in Nairobi since the early nineteen hundreds and is controlled by riding bodies in each of the East African countries.

Kenya, which has the largest number of courses and golfers, has the Kenya Golf Union as its ruling body for the East African continent. In Uganda, the Uganda Golf Union and Uganda Golf Club perform a similar function in their respective countries.

Nyeri has one of the oldest golf clubs in the world and there are photographs of erstwhile ladies and gentlemen playing at Nyeri in 1910. Formerly an 18-hole course, Nyeri has now been reduced to nine holes.

Last month, after visiting Nyeri, our columnist has recently written the Maitai Kenya Safari Club in Nairobi. The club has a small golf course but the visitors can also play at the Nairobi course, which is situated between the Safari Club and the town.

This course, along the Equator and is the only course of the world where the golfer plays in both the Northern and Southern Hemispheres in one trip.

Leaving Nairobi and going westward to the Hill Valley course will pass through Eldoret and Faji, which has a nine-hole course. The road between Eldoret and Faji and Nairobi drops to the average level of 7000 ft. in a stage of 100 miles.

At Nakuru, 11800 ft. there is a small nine-hole course. Leaving the above-mentioned several thousand ft. in the state of the annual rainfall. There are 2000 ft. of the annual rainfall. There are 2000 ft. of the annual rainfall.

A few miles from Nakuru the road will enter the Mt. Kenia National Park. The fact that in the Mt. Kenia National Park, the road will enter the Mt. Kenia National Park.

From Mt Kenya a six-mile drive takes one to the Kiamba Club, a very attractive nine-hole course, started by the local District Commissioner during the First World War.

In respect to Nyeri there are courses at Mt Kenya, but the nearest of public is 125 miles. Nyeri is the heart of the industrial region in Kenya. It is a city of 150,000 people, and the fact that in the Mt. Kenia National Park, the road will enter the Mt. Kenia National Park.

one play golf at Uta, Soro and Mbeu on his way back by road to Nyeri.

From Mbeu and taking the north road around Mt Kenya, the road passes through the Kiamba Club, one of the most beautiful of the world's courses, both for playing conditions and design. Kiamba is about the starting pace for road riders to take their 200 miles to the north on the semi-desert, treeless country of the Mt. Kenia National Park.

Fifteen Golf Clubs, 45 holes from Nairobi, has a nine-hole golf course and the Nairobi Golf Club is situated on the opposite side of the road to the Government offices.

Returning to Nairobi via Nakuru, which has the lake and the nine-hole golf course, one should probably have an increasing number of spectators in the future, our visitor has the chance to see some of the best of the world's golf courses.

Both Sagaa and Lake Elmenteita, both nine-hole courses, are situated on the highlands of the faraway that the Nairobi course have during the dry season. It is always a pleasure to see a lake in a desert. It is always a pleasure to see a lake in a desert. It is always a pleasure to see a lake in a desert.

The relative cheapness of golf in East Africa has encouraged people all over the world to visit the sport and there are nearly as many foreign visitors to the African continent as there are Africans. The sport in East Africa, which is surprising considering their inherent ability at hockey and cricket.

The sport is enjoyed at schools and at least one or two clubs in each of the major countries. Kenya has its own golf course, which has been playing for 15 years. The Kenya Golf Union and the Kenya Golf Club, which was set up in 1907, also has an inter-club championship every year.

Kenya, which has the largest number of clubs and golfers, has the Kenya Golf Union as its national body. In the same way, the Tanzania Golf Union and Uganda Golf Union perform a similar function in their respective countries.

These three organisations possibility include the running of the main tournament. In Kenya, 1967 was the first annual Kenya Open tournament, which attracted both amateurs and professionals from many parts of the world, and served to put East Africa firmly on the golf map.

Kenya, Uganda and Tanzania also run their amateur championships each year in their own countries.

Tennis, golf in East Africa is controlled by the East African Ladies Golf Union, which is recognised by Kenya, Uganda and Tanzania. Uganda and Tanzania hold their own championships, while the main championship, which is the E.A.L.G.U. Championship, is held every year.

With East African golf players, South Africa has been the most successful. In 1960 and the Zambian ladies' team, which has won the same year.

East Africa has approximately 100 golf courses. There is a golf range in Nairobi, which has a teaching professional and other facilities of practice at any time of the year.

The visitor can combine a golf holiday with visits to the world's finest game parks and coastal beaches.

A suggested golf safari would normally start at Nairobi, which normally has the best weather. The visitor can play golf courses in the Rift Valley with views of over 70 miles on a clear day.

ANTIQUES

As good as gold—and much better to look at

By GILLIES TURLE

Not many people these days keep a small fortune sewn into their mattress against the advent of a rainy day. The world is out that when the rains come the notes won't hold out the water.

People prefer instead to invest in the liquid market of antiques and perhaps a capital gain. On the whole, share prices and land values have risen consistently over the last few years but their performance has been somewhat straggled by the colonial crisis of the early 1950s.

The comparison is perhaps a little unfair because the value of the stock market has risen since the war but the value of antiques has risen more than that. The value of antiques has risen more than that.

Since the advent of the pound in Britain the price of antiques has risen more than that. The value of antiques has risen more than that.

It is important to realize the effect that conditions like one a rare Meissen figure on the market. The value of antiques has risen more than that.

English lord who made a name for himself

Whatever the result of the House of Lords, the English aristocracy will always be associated with romance and status. Both inside and outside the country of origin.

At some times and on the stage of life, Lord has been related to great Britain, to those coming occasionally to be replaced by a new lord who actually does not exist.

Typical of the new generation is the young man who has inherited what they do not want, but what a Victorian family name means to the African for advancement, behind the wheel of a motorcar.

Mr. Mandeville, who has been a member of the House of Lords since 1952, was born in 1913 and 1955. He is a member of the House of Lords, which he inherited from his father, Lord David. He is a member of the House of Lords, which he inherited from his father, Lord David.

Vicount Mandeville and his co-drivers Stuart Allison take a champagne toast after finishing their 7th year's East African Safari.

The leading men who defy age

At 61, Lord Waverley is the youngest of the 12 members of the House of Lords. He was born in 1903 and is a member of the House of Lords, which he inherited from his father, Lord Waverley.

Another leading man is Lord Robert. He was born in 1904 and is a member of the House of Lords, which he inherited from his father, Lord Robert.

The last member of this band of indomitable able is Douglas Fairbanks, actor who has recently come out of retirement to reopen his acting career. He is 58 years old and has been a member of the film industry.

He made his first film 45 years ago, and quickly gained a name, establishing reputation. Even Sam Goldwyn, who rarely lavished praise on the stars he had under contract, said of Fairbanks "He is one of the best leading men of the film industry."

None is making a role he has long coveted, Professor Higgins of My Fair Lady.

He is making American cities, playing independently, and already his name has reached Hollywood's top ranks.

Kanu joins world in condemning Soviet invasion of sovereignty among nations. The Russian invasion is not only an act of aggression in an effort to break the internal affairs of another State but also an attempt to suppress State. Not even the United States, which has established a policy of non-alignment, has failed to condemn the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia. The United States does not have to agree with the United States government. Czechoslovakia in order to give full effect to the Charter of the United Nations, it is not an easy matter to get involved in a political party or to give support to any one party or to give support to any one party.

Benefits forecast for U. Africa RESULTS OF TREATY

Standard Staff Reporter

Kenya was bound to suffer initially as a result of the quantitative restrictions on trade with Uganda and Tanzania and the resulting increase in the cost of imports. However, it is expected that the long-term benefits of the treaty will outweigh the initial costs.

Standard Staff Reporter

A Nairobi businessman says that the benefits of the treaty will be realized over the long term. He believes that the treaty will lead to increased trade and economic growth in the region.

Ministers criticised in E.A. Assembly

Standard Staff Reporter. Those major events have taken place in the East African Assembly in Nairobi on Monday.

The High Court proceedings have been a stark reminder of the dark days of Uganda in 1966. The six men and a woman who were charged with the murder of President Obote and the death of both the President and his wife were found guilty of the crime.

Mr. Mwera said that the Government would take a great responsibility for the road carnage and would do its utmost to reduce the number of road deaths.

Tanzania hits out at Soviet action

Standard Staff Reporter. The Tanzanian Government was one of the first African States to condemn the invasion of Czechoslovakia by Soviet and Allied troops.

A Tanzanian Government statement said that it would consider a boycott of all properties of self-determining and national sovereignty which the government of the country (Prague, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Hungary, Bulgaria and East Germany) have signed in support and aid.

The statement said that the country was one of the most active units of international law and it was determined to stand for the United Nations Charter.

Tanzania's statement condemned the invasion of all African States and called for a boycott of all goods and services.

TV star buys in to Kenya One project

Above: Mr. Morris Gachamba, prop of Kenya One and these stands back to study its alignment. A colleague assists him from beneath the aircraft. LEFT: Jack Paer, the model of the project with Mr. Gachamba in the yard at Karatina. The plane has a superficial resemblance to the R.A.F. Canberra trainer.

CROWDS WAVE AS ENGINE FROM WRECK STARTS TEST

The American television personality, Jack Paer, has been seen in the thick of the Kenya building aircraft industry. Paer, who has been seen in a variety of roles in Kenya, including as a pilot and as a television star, is now seen in the Kenya One project.

Paer admitted that he was nervous about the aircraft, which he had built in an unpressured atmosphere. He said that the aircraft was not a hobby project and was one plan ahead of most aircraft. He said that he had never before that he had built a motor which was not a hobby project and was one plan ahead of most aircraft.

Mr. Gachamba said that the engine, which Mr. Gachamba had found in a wreck on the slopes of Mount Kenya, has been fitted to the aircraft and the cockpit and workable tail rollers are covered with a dark green material.

Full Grip

Full grip is an important part of my make-up. I mean, what's the point in choosing just the right shade of lipstick, and wearing it really good perfume if you haven't got the confidence to relax and be yourself?

Full grip gives me that confidence. A few dabbs of Full grip on my dentures in the morning keeps them firmly in place right through the day.

I can eat what I like, laugh, cry, drink and really enjoy life. And I feel utterly confident. In other words I can be myself.

Take my word for it. If it fits me, you wear dentures, you'll feel your make-up's complete without Full grip denture adhesive cream from all chemists.

African development

Much useful discussion has taken place during this week's conference in Nairobi on the African development. It was announced that the U.K., U.S., France, Italy and the U.A.R. are expected to contribute between £15,000,000 and £20,000,000 to the bank's Development Fund.

The outgoing president, Mr. Belaney, encouraged African countries to expect continued interest from the more established countries in the general field of Africa. On the other hand, some African countries have been dilatory in paying their membership subscriptions. Last year the bank received total subscriptions of nearly £18,000,000, but this year it is estimated that the bank will receive this year, however, seriously retards the bank's activities.

The annual report cautioned African countries against every-day expectations from agriculture. It laid warnings to the effect that the prevailing market conditions are likely to force a re-evaluating of investment in agriculture. Twice recently Kenya's Minister for Agriculture, Mr. McKenize, has emphasized the dangers of competition from outside. The bank's report points out that while world consumption will certainly increase, competition from outside will become more severe as scientific advances are made. "Leaving a steady diminishing share of the markets to be filled from a growing world supply of raw materials... The spectre of surplus is thus foreshadowed."

The closure of the Suez Canal could not have happened at a more critical time. Moreover, the adverse effects of the devaluation of sterling are, more precisely, falling in currencies in parallel, resulted in direct national financial costs cannot contraction all round.

Many pirate taxis a danger to public

In the first of my series of articles on the road safety situation in Kenya, I mentioned the problem of the "pirate taxis" which are a danger to public safety. These taxis are often old, unroadworthy vehicles which are used to transport passengers for a fee. They are often found on the roads, especially in the urban areas, and are a major cause of road accidents.

He stated that population growth is a natural process and that it is not the responsibility of the Church to control it.

REVIEW OF LEISURE, TRENDS AND ACHIEVEMENTS IN EAST AFRICA

The charge of dynamite goes up in three explosions in 40ft. of water in Lake Hannington. The white line in front of the plumes of water is a flock of flamingoes which did not even fly away.

Africa is splitting apart

Experiments by a team of British and Kenyan geologists have confirmed what they originally set out to prove - that the Rift Valley in East Africa is in fact a big part of a big tectonic plate that is drifting apart from the sea floor.

The rift valley is a 3,000-mile-long depression in the earth's crust, which is 200 miles away near Lake Hannington.

The geologists - designed to show earth movement up to a mile or so - showed that the speed of shock waves through the mantle (the layer under the earth's surface) is 2.4 miles a second, a figure which is 10 per cent slower than those through the earth's crust at other points. This means that the same speed as those through the mantle under the great mid-oceanic ridges.

Although the results, recorded mainly on Lake Hannington, have to be analysed by computer in Britain before any final judgment can be made, delighted scientists on the project regard it as important.

vidence to support the theory of continental drift, a subject which has been a subject of controversy among geophysicists throughout the world.

If it is correct, the culmination of the rift valley which has brought the continents through India and Indonesia in some of the toughest countries in the world.

The experiments were made difficult because it was the first time that techniques perfected in the U.S. had been used.

The rift valley, on the ocean floor, is a deep, narrow channel, 200 miles long, which runs from the Gulf of Aden, through the Red Sea, to the Indian Ocean. Although geologists have known about it for years, it was only in the past few years that it was shown to be a major rift valley.

Only the relatively slow rate of the speed of shock waves through the mantle could provide the key.

Obviously if this link could be established, not only would it be safe to assume that Africa was splitting apart (although only at the rate of millimetres a year), but also that the undersea rift valleys were themselves at one time on land, provided when all the continents were together before the continental drift started.

Much of the credit for the success of the expedition must go to two British scientists, Dr. Alan Khan of Leicester University, who first conceived the idea of the experiments, and Dr. John Huggins of the British Geological Survey, who was in charge of the expedition.

The rift valley has been a subject of interest to geologists for many years because it was found to be deeper than any other rift valley. It was also found to be deeper than any other rift valley. It was also found to be deeper than any other rift valley.

AFTER TWO YEARS, SUCCESS. MICHAEL BOYDELL REPORTS

government concern - was a direct proposition to disprove the theory of continental drift.

Scientifically, he pressed his case and the first government team came to carry out the experiment on Lake Hannington and Rudolf. The stage was set for the experiment last year.

led by Dr. Khan and Prof. Geoffrey Huggins, of Cambridge University, Birmingham, and Dr. John Huggins, of Leicester University, Birmingham, set up their field camp at Lake Hannington at the beginning of this month.

Lake Hannington, which is 40ft. deep, was chosen because it was found to be deeper than any other rift valley. It was also found to be deeper than any other rift valley.

It was also found to be deeper than any other rift valley. It was also found to be deeper than any other rift valley.

Three towering planes of water, the dull thud of the blast, and the proof is there...

These words, written by Michael Boydell almost exactly one year ago in the "Weekend Standard", have now come true.

Dr. Khan and Dr. Huggins of the Leicester College, Nairobi, later on the shore for work of the explosion on Lake Rudolf and Victoria.

It was this rift valley which was the subject of the experiment. The rift valley was chosen because it was found to be deeper than any other rift valley.

It was also found to be deeper than any other rift valley. It was also found to be deeper than any other rift valley.

The specially made raft sets off across the lake. Weighing with a ton, it had to be rowed two miles across the lake to the site of the one occasion when the engine broke down.

The experiment was successful. The explosion created a large plume of water, which was observed by a team of scientists. The results of the experiment are being analyzed by computer in Britain.

The Mombasa Show

At the beginning of 1967 the committee took on the lease of Frouser Park, then a derelict area of bush with a couple of old buildings on it. A total of £12,000 was spent on preparations for the first show, including the removal of the old buildings, the building of grandstands, offices and animal pens.

Mr. Pape has enjoyed the Mombasa Show well. He is a member of the Nairobi Show in a few years. It has been encouraging all ways through and most encouraging of all to see the growing interest and interest of new African farmers to see.

Practically all Mombasa and Coast hotels have expanded and added new amenities for visitors during the last couple of years. The picture above shows the new building and swimming pool at the Dolphin on the north coast, and below another town which Miss Hills thinks might prove a tourist attraction — Maroonia, near Mombasa.

Recent finds at Fort Jesus

by S. I. CLERK

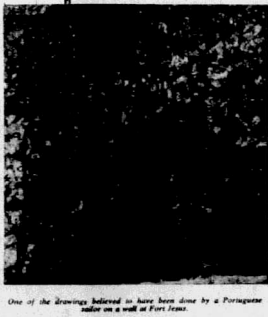

ANOTHER year ago, the British Government declared a National Park and took custody of the ruins of the Kenya National Park and on November 25, 1954, it was officially opened to the public.

When in Mombasa, a visit to the fort is a must not only for the history student but also for ordinary tourist. Looking at its various structures and its museum one has a feeling of entering East African history from the end of the 16th century when it was originally built by the Portuguese in order to strengthen their hold on the coast.

It was long believed that the walls represented various aspects of the 16th century, but it has now been proved by the United States on March 17, 1956, that in December 15, 1698, the plaque of 1698, and so on, ending with the purchase of the British Proclamation on July 1, 1897, when the fort was captured into a P.W.A.

In May, 1954, the Institute of Archaeology, London, sent a team of 150,000 to rescue Fort Jesus as a historical monument to be built the museum. Initially, the English show and the great preservation plans in the region are of the 16th century, dated from the rubble pits. They represent the Zanzibar (1471-1957).

Mr James Kirkman is in charge

of the historical monument (as well as the fact that at present there is a book on Fort Jesus which he hopes to complete by the end of the year). He will cover the last decade of the excavation and the discovery in the fort.

It will be more or less an archaeological report also based on the architecture of the Fort. Mr Kirkman intends to include in a some 20 plans and drawings in the history to illustrate it.

Technically, it could be considered as a companion to the Baroque Islamic Architecture of the East African Coast by Peter S. Gardner (Oxford University Press, 1954).

About three years ago drawings on walls were discovered in the Fort. These are in red ochre and carbon black, and represent galleons, boats, fish, man, two fish and a rhinoceros. The last is the most mysterious figure as the record of the most interesting are those of the galleons.

People interested in the history of ships will quite probably find the drawings of the galleons exciting. They represent medieval ships of the times of Vasco Da Gama, and I believe not much material is available on Mediterranean medieval ships.

These mural drawings have been excavated since between 1951 and 1954 (probably nearer the latter date). They are in the western (Portuguese) style and not an oriental style. Very possibly they may have been done by the Portuguese soldiers. They reveal a wall space of about 30ft by 8ft (length).

Two sub-committees from the Institute of Archaeology of London University are present in Mombasa to mount these drawings which should be ready soon for public exhibition.

Mr Kirkman believes that the only other representations of Portugal in the fort are the drawings of the rock paintings in the Maroonia district.

Fort Jesus is a veritable mine of information for anyone interested in the historical background of the East African coast and may do you some good across the world. If you are interested to have a fuller picture of the world as it was, when the sailing ships ruled the waves.

Miss Lorna Hills

She has ideas on tourism

A few months ago a seminar was due to be held in Mombasa on the East Province. For various reasons it never got off the ground, which seems a great shame, since it might have been put forward by Mombasa Tourist Association.

Miss Lorna Hills, nevertheless determined that some of the recommendations are put into practice. The potential figure is vast. We have all the basic things—over-seas tourists want a wonderful climate and beautiful beaches.

According to Miss Hills, most historical tourists who make inquiries at the Kenya tourist offices in London and Frankfurt are interested in finding most of their time at the coast, with some people staying in Nairobi.

They had to be told that the coast is good, but it cannot be emphasized enough that the coast is better publicized abroad in general.

With the increase in package tours from coming from the European continent, Mombasa and Coast hotels have been quick to enlarge and improve their facilities, but still the number of beds will have to be doubled by 1970.

Among the recommendations prepared for the first seminar were: create an inland and coast development. The general opinion was that some hotels should be located in concentrated resort areas so that government services such as roads, power and water could be made.

It was stressed that in order to encourage development of some of the inland areas at the coast, the Government Corporation bodies should proceed immediately with the development of these areas by providing services.

Plans for more inland attractions include an "African market place" at Mombasa, fairs, nightclubs, casinos, restaurants, theaters, open-air cinemas, craft villages, more water sports facilities.

Plans for more inland attractions include traditional crafts and dancers and one of Miss Hills' aims is to have teams of Galla dancers performing every day at Mombasa.

A few months ago a seminar was due to be held on tourism in the Coast Province. For various reasons it never got off the ground, which seems a great shame, since a lot of good ideas and recommendations were to have been put forward.

The chairman of the Mombasa and Coast Tourist Association, Miss Lorna Hill, is nevertheless determined that some of the recommendations are put into practice.

The potential here is so vast. We have all the better things, over-sea tourists would find a wonderful climate and beautiful beaches, she said.

According to Miss Hill, most potential visitors to Kenya tourist offices in London and Frankfurt are interested in spending most of their time at the shore, but not in the interior.

It is necessary, however, to give an amount of what is expected to be a modern tourist to find a modern town with shops full of the things they would like to buy. They thought they had to bring from home.

The latest brochure on Kenya is good, but it can be improved. It would be much better if it were more up-to-date and better public in general, she said.

Both the people in package tours, now coming from most European countries, Mombasa and Coast hotels have been quick to cater and improve facilities, but still the number of beds will have to be doubled by 1975.

Among the recommendations prepared for the general seminar were several on food and resort development. The general opinion was that new hotels should be located in convenient areas with easy access to the sea and a view of the sea.

It was stressed that in order to accelerate the development of some of the hotel sites in the Coast either the Kenya Tourist Development Corporation or other bodies should be approached immediately with the development of these areas by providing roads.

Plans for more tourist attractions include an "African market place" in Mombasa, festivals, nightclubs, sports, restaurants, theatres, open-air concert, craft villages and other water sports facilities.

Many visitors are eager to see traditional dancing and music and one of Miss Hill's ambitions is to have some of the best dancers performing every day in Mombasa.

Kenya names 16 for quadrangular

Kenya Cricket Association's first quadrangular cricket tournament, scheduled to start today will be between Kenya and Uganda in the first two days.

TEAMMAKERS ARE STILL UNBEATEN

Standard Correspondent Uganda's Teammakers cricket club have won their first Kenya match at Nairobi and are still unbeaten in their first two days of the quadrangular tournament.

Stage now set for fascinating battle

England's fifth Test victory over Australia at the Oval, London, has set the scene for a fascinating battle for the southern world cricket championship.

The match of emotional world cricket resumed today in England in the second Test at Trent Bridge, Nottingham.

But for the marvellous 4-run innings, England would probably have beaten Australia and regained the Ashes.

More than 15 hours playing in the sun and the whole of the first day in the second Test at Brisbane.

Through the five matches, England were clearly superior on every department they attacked.

England's agent to regard the Ashes as being in ruins when they were virtually certain to be won.

It was never that simple, with one man identified with one match.

QUALIFY NOW FOR SUCCESS!

Once again I.C.S. students and I.C.S. tuition prove their superiority through Africa!

Here is their extraordinary record of success: NINE FIRST PLACES, 25 SECOND PLACES, 25 HIGHER GRADES, 25 HIGHER DIVISIONS.

FISHING

Tourist lands 164lb Nile perch

Standard Correspondent Further tourist successes at Lake Rudolf Angling fish have included a magnificent 164lb Nile perch caught by Mr. Harvey Fry of Palm Beach, U.S.A. who is a member of the International Women's Fishing Anglers.

Mr. E. R. Clark boasted a perch weighing 114lb. This week he was back in the water in getting a better fish.

At Lake Naivasha the fishing has not been so good, probably because of the cold weather which affects both the fish and the fisherman.

Despite the some good fish have been brought up on the Safariland fish, mostly a 5lb. fish by Mrs. T. Wilson, member of 5th St. by Daphy, Tallon-Water and one of 5lb. by Lawson Moore.

For the women, Phil Kirk caught a good 10lb. fish by the fishing boat, 14th water. Mrs. Wilson landed a fine one of 10lb. 4oz. for the women's handicap in a Pancher 125 powered by a Mercury.

The men's handicap is the most exciting race yet held at Mt Kenya, won by Derek Brien in a Pancher 145 powered by a Mercury. He was more than 400 yards in the lead.
