Three sides of Vietnam problem

President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam smiles and waves to a crowd after the meeting of the National Assembly which decided to support the Paris talks.

Above: Demonstrations outside the London premises of Elving Automation Ltd, a firm which they allege is making equipment used by the United States in the Vietnam war. Right: The scene in the village of Nara, Afghanistan in Italy which stands more than 40 ft deep in flood water since a nearby creek overflowed its banks during the recent heavy rains. Below: Israeli soldiers posing outside contracting US shops in Jerusalem by order of the military governor, after a strike to mark the anniversary of the Balfour Declaration which recognised the setting of a homeland for the Jews.

Above: The leader of the National Liberation Front (political arm of the Vietcong) delegation to the Paris talks, Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, aged 41, smiles broadly on her arrival at Le Bourget Airport for the talks, which so far have not taken place.

Church 'discrimination' to be investigated

Standard Staff Reporter
 Yesterday Dr. A. K. Nnamani, General Secretary of the General Synod of the Church of Nigeria, said he would be prepared to discuss with the Government the alleged discrimination against the church in the awarding of contracts for the construction of a new cathedral in Lagos.

Country in chaos without police force

Mr. Nnamani said that if the police force were disbanded, the country would be plunged into chaos. He stressed that the police force was the backbone of the country's security and that its disbandment would lead to a state of anarchy.

He also mentioned the need for a strong police force to maintain law and order, particularly in light of the recent political unrest in the country.

Mr. Nnamani concluded his remarks by expressing his confidence in the Government's ability to address the concerns of the church and the general public.

He also mentioned the need for a strong police force to maintain law and order, particularly in light of the recent political unrest in the country.

M.P.s will consider security

Mr. Nnamani said that the Government should consider the security of the country as a top priority. He called for a comprehensive review of the current security measures in place.

He also mentioned the need for a strong police force to maintain law and order, particularly in light of the recent political unrest in the country.

The Minister of Education, Dr. Kiako, is welcomed by the Secretary of State for Education, Mr. A. G. Leventon, at a reception in the House of Commons. Other Ministers present include Mr. Nnamani, Mr. Nnamani, and Mr. Nnamani.

More employers willing to take ex-prisoners

Many people discharged from prison had great difficulty obtaining employment, according to a report by the Ministry of Labour. The report indicated that many employers were reluctant to hire ex-prisoners due to concerns about their reliability and criminal records.

The report also mentioned the need for government intervention to help ex-prisoners find employment. It suggested that the Government should provide training and support to these individuals to help them reintegrate into the workforce.

Mr. Nnamani said that the Government should consider the security of the country as a top priority. He called for a comprehensive review of the current security measures in place.

He also mentioned the need for a strong police force to maintain law and order, particularly in light of the recent political unrest in the country.

Local Loan Bill goes to President

The Local Loan Bill, which provides for the raising of a loan to finance the construction of a new cathedral in Lagos, has been passed by the House of Representatives. The bill now goes to the President for his signature.

Mr. Nnamani said that the bill was a significant step in the development of the country's infrastructure. He expressed his confidence that the President would sign the bill into law.

He also mentioned the need for a strong police force to maintain law and order, particularly in light of the recent political unrest in the country.

Be chary of other airline chairs.

The seat you're expected to sit on for several hours without a stretch is rarely brought to your notice. The reason's simple: most airline chairs are virtually identical, so there's nothing to say about them. Except for our seats. BOAC are in the fortunate position of offering the best economy seat in the world. On a long trip, you'll be glad you knew about it. We took the international rules on airline seat design and interpreted them with imagination. For our troubles, we got the first economy seat that doesn't feel 2nd class. Now it's standard on all our planes. Most of our passengers have noticed it. And feel chary about anything else as a result. We think you will. See your BOAC travel agent.

Soviet defence chief pledges forces build-up

The Soviet Defence Minister Marshal Andrei Grechko, charged in Moscow yesterday that imperialism was creating the threat of a new world war and pledged that the Soviet armed forces would increase their fighting potential. He was speaking before the parade through Red Square to mark the 25th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution.

The Communist Party's defence secretary Mr. Bogdanov and other Soviet leaders wearing their medals and fur hats stood behind the microphone as he addressed the troops from the Moscow Kremlin. Marshal Grechko said the Soviet people would continue to defend the gains of the October Revolution. He said the Soviet Union would continue to support the struggle for national liberation and the struggle for peace in the world.

Mr. Nixon fails to win Negro backing

Household name at last

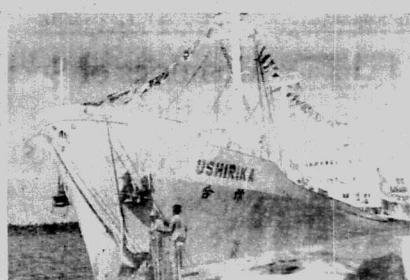

We showed the way says Mr. Wallace

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (AP)—Richard M. Nixon, the Republican challenger of President Lyndon B. Johnson, today failed to win the backing of a large number of Negroes in a national poll. The poll, conducted by the Gallup Organization, showed that only 34 percent of Negroes favored Nixon, while 66 percent preferred Johnson. This is a significant margin, especially considering that Nixon has been widely regarded as a 'household name' among the general public.

Mr. Wallace, the Republican challenger of President Dwight D. Eisenhower, today said he would support Nixon if he were elected. Wallace said he was impressed by Nixon's record in California and his ability to lead the country. He said he believed Nixon would be a strong leader and would work to improve the lives of all Americans.

Black leader ready to rock the system again

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (AP)—The Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. today said he was ready to lead a new campaign of non-violent protest against the segregationist policies of the Southern States. King said he believed that the time had come when the American people should demand a change in the way the South is governed. He said he would continue to work for the freedom and equality of all people.

E.A. joint shipping lines seem set fair

Tanzania President Nyerere meets members of the Ushirika's crew to discuss the commissioning of the vessel in Dar es Salaam.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (AP)—The East African joint shipping line, a venture between Tanzania and Kenya, today seemed set to begin operations. The line, known as Ushirika, is expected to provide a vital link between the two countries and to help improve their economies. The line's first vessel, the Ushirika, is scheduled to be commissioned in Dar es Salaam, Tanzania, in the near future.

Mr. Johnson praises successor

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (AP)—President Lyndon B. Johnson today praised the leadership of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, saying he was confident that Humphrey would continue to lead the country well. Johnson said he had a high regard for Humphrey's abilities and his commitment to the American people. He said he believed Humphrey would be a strong and effective successor.

Mr. Nixon's edgy victory

History repeats itself in the election of Mr. Nixon as President of the United States. He spent two terms in the White House. He was defeated by the Democrats in 1960. Since 1948 Congress has been controlled by the Democrats except on two occasions when the Republicans were in power. Ambassador Nixon's election is a significant development in the complex system of government in the United States.

When Mr. Nixon was elected, it was written that the people were tired of the Democrats. However, the Democrats have won the majority of seats in the House of Representatives since the Voting Rights Act of 1965.

Those who had predicted a landslide for Mr. Nixon were wrong. The Democrats have won the majority of seats in the House of Representatives. This is a significant development in the complex system of government in the United States.

Mr. Nixon's election is a significant development in the complex system of government in the United States. It is a result of the complex system of government in the United States.

Memories of Suez and the Poor Man's Grand Tour

The R.R. ship Mardian (R2153) comes but do not forget her, she was one of the cringing liners which carried thousands of East African residents on leave through the Suez Canal in Edward Rowell's time.

British ports and parts of the world they otherwise could only reach. They had gone to the Suez Canal, Bombay and the East.

When the vessel returned to the British ports, it was a sight to see. The ship was a sight to see. The ship was a sight to see.

LETTER FROM LONDON Harder now to 'remember them'

In a column on the British scene, DR. B. INGRAM records the changing attitude to what used to be a solemn national day of mourning. Remembrance Day for the dead of two wars, which is to be marked this weekend in Britain, but with much less sign of the old reverence and fervour.

The day Donald Duck came to lunch

Donald duck was sitting at the table with his wife and four children. He was looking at the clock and wondering how long it would take for the post to arrive. The children were talking about the day Donald came to lunch. Donald duck was very surprised to see them there. He had just come from a long trip and was very tired. The children were happy to see him and they all went to lunch.

Infamous history that eclipses the Arab culture

By ERIC MARDSEN

Arabs has stamped its influence on East Africa over a thousand years, including a 170-year period that left a dark shadow of that of the Arab world.

For most of that time, the Arab world was a mosaic of kingdoms, each with its own language, customs and laws. It was a mosaic of many different peoples, each with its own history and culture.

The Arabs came to East Africa in the 7th century, and their influence was felt in many parts of the continent. They brought with them their religion, their language, and their culture. They also brought with them their knowledge of the sea, and their skill in navigation.

Art of the modern poets

The art of the modern poet is a complex and multifaceted one. It is a form of art that has evolved over time, and it is one that is constantly changing and growing.

In the past, poetry was often seen as a form of entertainment, a way to pass the time and to bring joy to others. But in the modern era, poetry has become a form of protest, a way to speak out against the injustices of the world.

Modern poets use a wide variety of techniques to create their work. They use metaphor, simile, and other literary devices to create a rich and complex world of meaning. They also use a variety of rhythms and meters to create a sense of music and flow.

GARDENING

East Africa's eternal spring

It is a fact that the climate of East Africa is one of the most favorable in the world. It is a climate that is mild and pleasant throughout the year, and it is one that is ideal for growing a wide variety of plants.

One of the reasons for this is the location of East Africa. It is situated on the equator, and it is surrounded by the Indian Ocean to the east and the Red Sea to the west. This location gives it a unique climate that is neither too hot nor too cold.

Another reason for the favorable climate of East Africa is the altitude of much of the land. The highlands of East Africa are at a higher elevation than the lowlands, and this gives them a cooler climate that is more suitable for growing a wide variety of crops.

The combination of these factors has made East Africa a fertile and productive land. It is a land that has been able to support a large and diverse population for many centuries, and it is one that continues to do so today.

The high islands trek to the Coast — dates on their way from the interior of East Africa.

Yield up Falklands, writer urges Britain

The future looks dimly for the Falkland Islands, the rich but isolated community of sheep farmers and fishermen who live on the islands of the South Atlantic.

Eric Mardesen, author of "The Arab World in East Africa," writes that the Falkland Islands are a unique and important part of the British Empire. He argues that they should be given more autonomy and that their people should be allowed to determine their own future.

Mardesen suggests that the British government should consider the interests of the people of the Falkland Islands when making decisions about their future. He believes that the people of the islands should have a say in their own destiny.

In his book, Mardesen provides a detailed history of the Falkland Islands and discusses the various issues that have arisen over the years. He offers his own perspective on the situation and provides suggestions for how it might be resolved.

Mardesen's book is a valuable contribution to the discussion of the Falkland Islands. It provides a clear and concise overview of the history and current situation of the islands, and it offers thoughtful and practical suggestions for how to move forward.

Old fashioned

By ALAN TRUSCOTT

Players sometimes get impatient because they are told to take one double on the table and then to take another double on the table.

This is a common mistake in the game of pool. It is important to understand the rules of the game and to play accordingly. Taking a double on the table and then taking another double on the table is not a valid move.

MOTOR SPORT

Porsche lap record steals the limelight

The sensation of last Sunday's Nairobi Motor Club race meeting was Peter Sargant's rapid driving in his new Porsche 911T which swatted him with the lap record Sargant made full use of the Porsche's extra-assisted brakes and the car's five-speed gearbox to lap the 12-mile circuit in 12 seconds. This time is 12 seconds faster than the previous record of 15.2 seconds which was established by Vic Preston in a Ford Cortina.

There is considerable speculation among the motor racing fraternity about the times which the Porsche 911T will put up at the Nairobi track on December 13. Several enthusiasts consider that Peter Sargant is in a match for the Sage Special and the Lotus XX. One prediction is that the Porsche 911T will present a strong challenge in the 12-mile circuit race but a unlikely to register in less than 12 seconds. Last Sunday Gerhard Singh Sargant demonstrated the capability of his 4.7-litre Sage Special and won the championship trophy and set the championship record on Paul Nyalon in the Lotus XX. Peter Hughes came third after a masterly drive in the Cortina Lotus V6. Vic Preston in the Touring Car race in the same car. He led the event from the start. Alfa Romeo's Gonda, Super of Gwariya, Patra was fairly close to the front in the early stages of the race.

Peter Sargant was the up to 1,300 c.c. class in the Touring Car event, driving his Renault Cortina. The excellent performance was not fully appreciated by the crowd, as the 1,300 c.c. in race capacity with the event for touring cars will register in excess of the capacity. Consequently, the attention of spectators was focused on the struggle between Francis Ford and Patra's Alfa Romeo. The race being continued to attract increased interest, organisers would consider holding separate events for touring cars and for open class.

The R.A.S. Steve Rickett of M.A.K. Island produced the surprise in the wheelbar race. Riding his 100cc motor cycle machine, Rickett and his brother, the late Mr. Rickett, won the race.

Stephen Rose in the motor race and also captured first place in the event. The race was held on the last day of the motor cycle event. The 1,300 c.c. in race capacity with the event for touring cars will register in excess of the capacity. Consequently, the attention of spectators was focused on the struggle between Francis Ford and Patra's Alfa Romeo. The race being continued to attract increased interest, organisers would consider holding separate events for touring cars and for open class.

PUBLIC NOTICE

East African Community WORKING PARTY ON HIGHER EDUCATION

The Party will be aware that the establishment of the East African Community is the result of the P.H.P. Commission Agreement. The Commission's mandate was to review the future of higher education in East Africa having regard to:

- (a) The increasing needs for expansion of facilities for higher education within East Africa;
(b) The likelihood that at some time after the first transitional period ending in mid-1970 this will lead to the formation of a new East African University in place of the present three constituent Colleges of the University of East Africa; and
(c) The desirability of maintaining some types of co-operation between the three constituent Colleges when they develop into separate Universities in certain special fields which are of interest to the people of East Africa as a whole.
In the above context the Working Party is required to consider and recommend upon the need for the following facilities now provided by the three Colleges which should be provided as jointly national centres:
1. The arrangements under which any special facilities could operate for all or any of the countries to be covered by the new East Africa.
2. The arrangements necessary to ensure continuing co-operation in such matters as emergency study and examination standards, the development of an East African community curriculum, and the exchange of faculty staff, students, professional and specialist staff, and of research and administrative staff.
3. The financial arrangements appropriate to any system of facilities made available to all or any of the countries to be covered by the new East Africa.
4. The arrangements for the provision of such facilities as may be necessary to meet the needs of the people of East Africa as a whole.
5. The arrangements for the provision of such facilities as may be necessary to meet the needs of the people of East Africa as a whole.
6. The arrangements for the provision of such facilities as may be necessary to meet the needs of the people of East Africa as a whole.

New signs of end to deadlock over Rhodesia

The Rhodesian Premier, Mr. Ian Smith, and British leading Rhodesian negotiator, Mr. George Thompson, conferred for two hours yesterday amid signs that a fresh formula for breaking the independence deadlock was being studied.

At the end of a long recess in Salisbury, the first since Mr. Thompson returned from a four-day Central and

Col. Ojukwu sacks White 'volunteers'

Eight White soldiers fighting for Biafra have been expelled for acting as instructors and propaganda agents, according to Biafra's leader, Col. Ojukwu.

A Press Conference in Biafra has announced that the Biafra leader had expelled the eight White soldiers from the ranks of the expeditionary force and that they were now being held in custody by Biafran volunteers fighting on the side of the Biafrans.

Col. Ojukwu took the decision to expel the Biafrans as a result of "misconduct and lack of discipline" on the part of the White soldiers.

A spokesman for the International Red Cross said recently that Biafra had expelled 100 White soldiers from its ranks because they were acting as instructors and propaganda agents.

Col. Ojukwu announced the decision in a report which he read to Biafran soldiers in a camp near the Biafran front line.

The Biafra leader, denying the reports, said there was no need for such a decision. He said Biafran soldiers were well disciplined and that they had no need for such a decision.

"We don't need such a decision," he said. "The Biafrans are well disciplined and they are fighting for a just cause."

Reasonable volume of business on the Nairobi Exchange

There has been a very reasonable, if not spectacular, volume of business last week on the Nairobi Stock Exchange. The feature was probably East African Power and Lighting, which again eased in price, falling 2½ cents to 16½½ and offered Brunner's Hotel on the other hand came into demand and rose 25 cents to 6½½, with the cheapest available at 6½. The general tone of the market was firm gains balancing losses.

In the afternoon East African Bank showed a small rise of 10 to 10½. This firm dividend and for considerable activity between 5 and 7.20. Equinox on the other hand fell from 1.40 to 1.25. It was offered at an inflated price and was poorly absorbed.

Hotel East gained 6½ cents to 2½. It was a short profit before the market.

Most of the rest that was trading was confined to Merton's. It was held by Merton and Hughes on the other hand. It was held by Merton and Hughes on the other hand. It was held by Merton and Hughes on the other hand.

AGREED: everyone needs insurance, but how can you be sure of your insurance broker?

use a member of the A.I.B.!

A good broker's business, rather than selling insurance to clients, is to advise on correct insurance and then to buy on behalf of his client. This "know-how" takes a good deal of training and experience and it is only by using reputable brokers that this becomes available.

to you. That is why the Association has been formed. To give you, the client, the assurance that all member brokers in the Association are fully knowledgeable in the insurance profession and will do their utmost to ensure that you are properly insured at the least possible cost to you.

Home is a memory for 11 old soldiers

The number of Nigerian ex-soldiers who were settled by the former Colonial Administration in Kibera, Nairobi, in reward for their British Army Service is fast dwindling. The week which marks the 40th anniversary of the end of the First World War, only about 11 of the original 110 British soldiers and most of them arrived in Kenya to settle. Some of these soldiers are now in the United Kingdom, some in the United States and some in other parts of the world. Mr. Khomoi James, 74, was one of the original 110. He served in the British Army during the First World War and was wounded twice. He is now settled in Kibera with his wife, Mrs. Ibrahim Juma, 72. Mr. Juma was also a British soldier and was wounded twice during the First World War. He is now settled in Kibera with his wife, Mrs. Ibrahim Juma, 72. IF BACK ACHES Try This Quick Help

It was a happy day yesterday at the Chemist's Orthopaedic Clinic in Boma Road, Nairobi, when the Mission for Education, the Kiama paid a call to receive a donation of £1,000 from the American Women's Association. The money, which was raised by a ball held at the Elbert Hall, Nairobi, earlier this month and attended by more than 400 friends of the American community in Kenya, was handed to Dr. Kiama by the chairman of the charity ball, Mrs. Howard Brander (below). Afterwards, Dr. Kiama looked round the clinic and is seen (right) joking with a few of the young patients.

Shelling continues as U.S. warns N. Vietnam

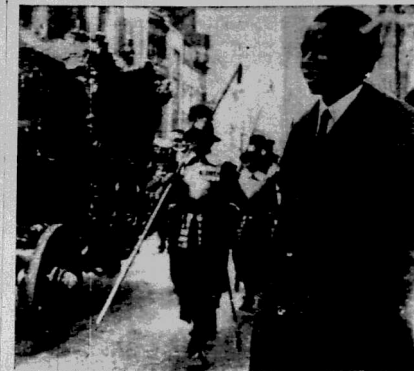

President Johnson was yesterday reported to be gravely concerned over Communist shelling attacks on Vietnam which still determined to pursue flexible diplomacy to get Saigon to the conference table. He was merely warning the U.S. that peace talks in Paris, already held up by a Saigon boycott, could be further complicated unless Communist stops showed the restraint which U.S. officials claimed they had twice offered when President Johnson stopped the bombing of North Vietnam last week ago.

The State Department reminded Hanoi that serious talks could not be conducted if Communist forces continued to fire across the demilitarized zone dividing the two Vietnams.

BIG RISE IN NATO SPENDING LIKELY

Why call this the Safari boot?

It looks right in the smartest places

We designed the Safari boot for casual wear. For roughing it in the toughest conditions. And it fills the bill.

But then people noticed its style, its smartness, its attractive colours. So they wore it in town. For work, for parties, just about everywhere. Seems it was a smart idea, the way it's catching on.

In future, better call the Safari boot the town and country shoe. After all, that's how our customers see it.

REVIEW OF LEISURE, TRENDS AND ACHIEVEMENTS IN EAST AFRICA

The mysteries of Lake Rudolf have tempted explorers to its shores many times over the past hundred years, and are attracting them still. One of the more recent visitors to the lake has been Wilfried Theisner, one of the world's last authentic explorers, who is at the moment in the Turkana District in pursuit of his favourite pastime — observing the relatively little-known places of the world whose natural beauties are still unspoilt by civilisation.

Earlier on last month Mr. Theisner followed the Turkwell River from its source on the edge of Lake Rudolf as far as Lakebar.

He was helped for a few days by local guides, but then set out to explore the area on his own. He was accompanied by a guide, a Game Scout and two men from the Turkana, Rendile and Samburu tribes — a kindly explanation of the events contained will last about 30 days.

It is his plan to follow the Turkwell River as far as possible and then to return to the coast from there, either by air or by sea.

At 56 Mr. Theisner is well regarded as the continent, but he seems to have the feeling that he prefers to do his safari the hard way.

'Car tyre' sandals bought

Full and 20, he is only starting to "develop". He is a member of a group of young coffee farmers who have a lot of success in the area, and of the evening he has the usual substantial meal of the day of rice and a soup of beans.

The sandals will be used in the next few months, and Mr. Theisner has never used any form of mechanical transport before. He is more interested in the world of the past than the world of the future.

For the last few weeks, Mr. Theisner has been at Lakebar, which he bought as a private market place.

Lake Rudolf also appeals to those who prefer to holiday in a more conventional and comfortable way. Since the early 1950s, the lake has attracted a steady stream of visitors in western shoes, on the Turkana District, has become increasingly popular with East African tourists and, more recently, overseas tourists as well.

Lakebar, which is situated about 100 miles from the lake, is a small village of about 100 people. It is the only place where there is a school, a post office, a shop, a bar, and a few other facilities. The lake is a beautiful wilderness, and it is a wonderful place to visit.

FRIDAY DIARY by JOHN ELGON

'Mrembo' film all set for early release

The first film to be made in Kenya in Swahili, with an all-African cast, is now in the can and scheduled for screening in East Africa over the Christmas period.

The completed version of Mrembo is now in London, and being packed together in the shipping trays by Basilus Films.

The producer, Mr. M. Adenomon, a British actor who has been in the film business for some time, is to be credited with the majority of the production in East Africa, Nairobi and Mombasa.

Leading roles in the film are casted as follows: M. Adenomon, the lead role; M. Adenomon, the lead role; M. Adenomon, the lead role.

Charged with the 100,000 worth of goods that were stolen from the Kenya State Bank.

The goods belonged to Lady Louise, Grand Duchess of Luxembourg, who was visiting Kenya.

She was the daughter of a self-confessed thief, who had been in the Kenya State Bank for some time.

A few of the goods have been discovered - a loose 100,000 diamond ring found in a trunk between the boards of a house in a neighbouring suburb.

No arrests in the crime have been made, although the man who was found in the trunk in the suburb, and two mechanics have been interviewed, but the police are silent on how they came up with the goods.

In her will, which was made in 1958, before her death, Lady Louise left a series of mechanics worth 100,000.

The son of the Chief threatens to shoot his hero (Oliver Idioto) during the wedding ceremony, Nairobi, Kenya.

A hundred yards in 60 seconds may not be your idea of a scorching speed.

David Kariuki can prove to you that it is. David operates the machine that sings the fibres of cloth and the heat comes from Shell Afrigas. 400 yards in one minute is a lot of cloth to handle; yet 10,000 yards can be singed every day. After singeing, the cloth moves on to a Padda machine for dyeing.

Shell Afrigas can also be used for heating the dye baths. Next in line is the colour fixing before washing, drying and the final process in setting, which stretches the cloth to the required width before the final drying and folding. Yes, Shell Afrigas can be used for the drying, too. The mill output is not less than 1000 yards of the boiler plant, the whole plant is more durable and it can stop and start at the push of a button without incurring heat losses.

Be chary of other airline chairs!

The seat you're expected to sit on for several hours without a stretch is rarely brought to your notice. The reason's simple: most airline chairs are virtually identical, so there's nothing to say about them. Except for ours. BOAC are in the fortunate position of offering the best economy seat in the world. On a long trip, you'll be glad you knew about it. We took the international rules on airline seat design and interpreted them with imagination. For our troubles, we got the first economy seat that doesn't feel 2nd class. Now it's standard on all our planes. Most of our passengers have noticed it. And feel chary about anything else as a result. We think you will. See your BOAC travel agent.

TELEVISION AND RADIO

The news only looks better

Since I have stood in for our regular columnist, Larry Hinde, there has been a bit of an improvement in the presentation of the news on television—but unfortunately, little improvement in the staples of content. The new set-up has improved, especially now that the news rights have dropped the daily picture they tried for a few days and one of two of the readers, Mr. Robert Douglas, who spent some time at the V.O.K. studios last week...

It is quite simple to do, you know. All you have to do is go along in the news studio with the set-up of the news, and read the news as if you were reading it to a small group of people. This has happened many times at the B.B.C. to Mr. Douglas. I do not think he is a good news anchor on television having a piece of paper thrust under the reader's nose, but at least viewers get the impression that the anchor is at least a little bit of a professional. Before having news presenters, Mr. Kokes said he was not aware of any broadcasters whose English was difficult to understand. He has been a pretty consistent work on V.O.K. with nothing but a critic of special merit. One point about the television anchor is that it is not the fault of the anchor in attempting to read the programme—short as it is—interrupted in many times by advertisements. This is a very interesting case, but I do not think it is a better idea to have a B.B.C. programme that is not national.

breaks and it is advertised in all national points. Consider the advertisement having their share at the beginning and end of the programme. I was pleased to see an improvement in the presentation of the news on television. I must say that the news anchor has been a bit of a disappointment in which I am not sure if it is a good thing or perhaps not. I do not think it is a good thing to have a news anchor who is not a professional. It is quite simple to do, you know. Saigon joins the celluloid spy game

South Vietnam's James Bond has entered the war. This unusual version of a secret agent appears in a glossy spy film showing in full colour the perils of running the Vietcong. New, long, dark, thick, in Saigon's cinema, the film 'From Saigon to Dien Bien Phu' has an impressive number of Brits for the infant Vietnamese film industry. It is Vietnam's first film in colour, the first shot on film to leave the country, the first in which a couple are seen in bed together and the most expensive yet—costing $1 million, well above the $250,000 standard of $188,000. But the war is shown as the fifty-walled shot through the paddocks, known to both sides, the contest North Vietnam's right-hand man. This war is fought in the backyards of Saigon, the city of English and French, in the hills in Hanoi, Hanoi and Hanoi. There is an impressive array of the backyards in the end of the film, with maps, letters and photographs showing a Vietnam stronghold, built in a secret war zone, built in a secret war zone, built in a secret war zone. The plot, basically, is about a British agent who is forced to join the Communist cause. The film is a masterpiece of the genre. The film repeats and joins the Vietcong.

DISC REVIEW

Big Brother breaks sound barrier

by GRANT PETERS

A most remarkable LP has found its way to my turntable this week. I cannot honestly say I like it but having once played it, I find myself strangely compelled to play it again and again.

Hippies and progressive popsters rejoice—Big Brother and the Holding Company have arrived! Big Brother and the Holding Company: "Cheap Thrills". Yes, this is it and live stars straight away for the amusing and highly original comic strip cover, the supercharged contents of which come across on a predictably warm, warm-length, "Underground" sounds are the order of the day, and although these can jar uncomfortably on the ears of the mainstream, the "free-form" blues of Big Brother and Co. generate an undeniable excitement and an almost hypnotic atmosphere.

But the feature of this album is the well-thigh incredible vocal performance of Janis Joplin. I have read a lot about this White girl blues singer with the coloured voice, but was scarcely prepared for anything quite so electric in impact. Hearing in believing, but it would suffice, a sleeve-note quote from "The Village Voice" (Crawshaw, one presumes) provides a pretty fair description.

"Her belting, groovy style combines Bessie Smith's soul with the ferocity of Aretha Franklin covered all over with James Brown's drive. She jumps and rams and pounces, vibrating the audience with solid sound. The range of her earthy, dynamic voice seems almost without limits. At times she seems to be singing harmony with herself!"

Yes, for all that, Big Brother and the Holding Company move just a little too far out to satisfy my middle-class-and-pop mentality. Nothing short of a five-star rating could do justice to this LP. Deserves in Number One spot in the American album charts and books well set to break through on the British scene.

The Sandpipers "Softly" is what a contrast to the soul and the fury of Big Brother. Bound to sell well on the local scene where the Sandpipers have established a steady following, and characteristic of its professional polish and easy-on-the-ear excellence. Songs include "Jonnie Juniper", "All My Loving", "Quando Al Innamoro", "A Man Without Love", "I Love It Blue" and "I Had a Reason to Believe".

Sounds Orchestral "Words"—The latest LP from this popular instrumental trio—without words of course, but featuring the Bee Gees song of the same name. Clearly swinging interpretations of a series of top pop numbers, featuring the impeccable piano playing of Johnny Pearson, ably supported by Kenny Clark (drums) and Peter McKee (bass).

BIG NAMES GO ON TOUR

U.S. exports top jazzmen to lure tourists

The word of American jazz emanates from the cool rhythms of Duke Ellington and Gerry Mulligan to the swinging of Elton John and the soul of Ray Charles. In 1969, 14 European cities saw as part of an effort to attract tourists the birthplace of jazz.

The tour was headed by Ray Charles, who is followed by Paul Simon, World Weather and the United States. In London, a branch of the Department of Commerce is sponsoring a series of jazz events.

Mrs. W. J. Williams, director of the British Council, said that the tour is a first step towards a better understanding of the scope and spirit of contemporary American jazz music, in addition to increasing their interest in visiting the United States to hear more of it.

Among the scheduled stars apart from Ray Charles and Mulligan are Elton John, Count Basie, Art Tatum, Herbie Hancock and Muddy Waters. The complete plans of the tour, which also includes Spain, the Netherlands, Germany, France, Italy, Japan, the Philippines, Hong Kong, Singapore, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, India, Pakistan, Sri Lanka, Ceylon, and Malaya, will be published in a book by the British Council.

Some range from a fading walk through a rhythm inspired by the work of a New Zealand band, that Herbie Hancock and the Blue Note have never done a record in New Zealand.

He has limited his concert appearances in recent years, but a few months ago he was in the country for a performance at the University of Waikato. He is now touring the country for a limited period.

In the coming week, the tour will include the following:

Mystery of the vanishing potatoes

Maria's father was a farmer. His potatoes were large and delicious. His potatoes were the best in the district and every year he would sell some in a large sack and take them to the market. He was very proud of his potatoes.

One day he was taking them to the market when he noticed that some were missing. He was very angry. He thought that someone had stolen them.

He went to the market and told the policeman about it. The policeman said that he would help him. He went to the market and looked for the missing potatoes. He found them in a sack that was lying on the ground. He was very surprised.

World watches fight to end money crisis

As most major foreign exchange markets in Europe remained closed yesterday, the eyes of the world were cast on the meeting in Bonn of the Finance Ministers of the world's Group of Ten rich countries as they struggled to find a solution to the international monetary crisis.

The first day's meeting appeared to have ended in deadlock and rife with caution, with the French Franc, the Dollar and the Swiss Franc being particularly important. The West German Finance Minister, Ludwig Erhard, was reportedly able to bring the world's money markets to a calm report appeared in effect on the day.

The World Federal Bank Council, London, endorsed a proposal to deposit the assets of the Central Bank with private banks would decline from the 10 per cent to 5 per cent. It was reported in London that the Finance Ministers had agreed in Bonn to supply France with ex-

New junta abolishes Mali political groups

The military junta which seized power in Mali on Tuesday took steps to abolish all political organisations set up by the régime of the late President Modibo Keita, including the Popular Movement for the Liberation of Mali. A spokesman for the junta said that some 200 political organisations had been abolished, including the Mali Association for the promotion of economic and social progress, the Mali Democratic Union, the Mali Labour Front and the Mali Women's Union.

An earlier Radio Mali broadcast announced that the junta had ordered the closure of all political organisations and the abolition of the Mali Communist Party. The junta also ordered the closure of all political organisations and the abolition of the Mali Communist Party.

Black day on Kenya roads as death toll mounts

Standard Staff Reporter — In another black day on Kenya's roads, 11 people were reported killed in road accidents yesterday. The number of people to have died on the country's roads so far this year has risen to 300.

The worst accident yesterday occurred at Mau Summit when a Government truck in which 16 people were travelling was involved in a collision with a bus.

IMMIGRATION ISSUE FOR LONDON TALKS

Immigration will be the most contentious topic between Ghana, Australia, Kenya, Kenya and Britain in talks in London. An all-party delegation has been given a qualified undertaking from the Commonwealth Secretary-General, Mr. Arthur Smith, that the subject would not be raised in the negotiations.

Coast M.P.s set up rival group 'NO ALTERNATIVE'

Standard Staff Reporter — A rival Coast Parliamentary Group to the one led by the Minister for Cooperative and Social Services, Mr. Mwangi, was formed yesterday under the chairmanship of Mr. W. K. Mwangi, Member of Parliament for Kisumu.

The secretary to the new group, which calls itself the Coast Parliamentary Group for Peace and Progress, is Mr. M. N. Mwangi, Member of Parliament for Kisumu.

Despite the present European currency drama, the Nairobi Stock Market has remained remarkably calm with only little price movement. The volume of business has been encouraging and there was little influence from overseas.

East African Breweries was the star performer and closed at its best price for a number of years at 16 1/2 Shs Dividend had. There were deaths at this price and at 17 1/2 Shs Dividend. East African Power and Lighting called 75 cents to 19 1/2 bid. In general prices remained from although lists after overseas.

Cocoa was bid at the same price but the cheapest offer was 25 cents, improved to 14 1/2. London on the other hand fell from 19 1/2 to 19 1/4 offered.

Markets are continuing their dull period with Cocoa 10 cents lower at 9 1/2 offered. The rest of the market was virtually unmarked.

Where changed, the plantation cocoa market tended more with Limona. Borneo Tea fell 1/2 to 16c offered.

Nairobi fashion show spotlights latest trends

At the pre-Christmas fashion show held at the New Stanley Hotel on Wednesday night, the chairman, who is also a member of the show company, Sir Donald Cameron-Bennet, is pictured presenting a certificate to Miss Bernadine Njiru, for successfully completing the fifth bi-annual course at the company's sales training centre, Limuru.

Children and civilians victims of Vietcong guns

Vietcong gunners have killed two civilians and wounded 37 children — many of them school-children — in new Friday attacks against towns in South Vietnam, a military spokesman said yesterday.

Two people were killed and 27 wounded on Wednesday in two attacks on the military center of Huoi An, a coastal town south of the city of Quang Nam Province.

Early reports said most of the dead were Vietnamese school-children in a village named north-west of the town 20 miles from the military center.

Another 10 civilians, including children, were wounded in an attack on Wednesday in two attacks on the military center of My Tho, a coastal town south of the city of Vinh.

President Johnson said an-ouncing the bombing had not Vietnam that past night, North American in which South Viet- nations were being killed. American Marines on Wednesday killed 29 North Vietnamese guerrilla forces near the northern part of An Hoa, who claimed several days a U.S. spokesman reported. One Marine seemed to have been killed.

A number of the North Vietnamese were spotted digging for holes two miles northwest of an industrial zone lying in a heavily wooded area 20 miles west of An Hoa.

The marines said a heavily armed unit of the Vietcong was reported to the west and northwest of An Hoa. They were a guerrilla squadron.

Kenya 'could face youth revolt on unemployment'

Standard Staff Reporter

Unemployment among school-leavers could result in youth revolts like the "hippies" movements in Europe and the United States, the chairman of the Youth Council of Kenya, Mrs. E. D. Hughes, said in Nairobi yesterday.

"She said Nairobi believes that the Government should consider the formation of a youth policy. Under this it would be necessary to set up permanent bodies to co-ordinate and imaginative director to meet all aspects of youth development. We think we have a number of problems and among them is unemployment. We think there are many unemployed adults but close on the heels of them are thousands of school-leavers, some with a smattering of education and some with secondary school qualifications.

"Unless something is done... and done well—they will face a great new army of unskilled and un-are trained to fit in with the national development plan."

Mrs. Hughes said that unless the voice of youth and their opinions were reflected in policy-making their demands and anxieties would break out in the form of revolution rather than evolution.

"In an excellent report prepared by Unesco last year they found that after 25 years of educational expansion in Kenya there would be 50 per cent more children lacking any formal education than there were at the outset."

She said: "Youth are often much misled, with undue publicity given to sports and laddy boys and little given to the kind of education which offers services in a most diversified way to work."

"The young are facing up to the world problems and in their idealism to build a world in which they can take part first in social and political demonstrations."

Mrs. Hughes appealed to the Government to build a centre at home for the young where they could find facilities for research and study.

Delayed action stamps

Postage stamps not being issued by East African Posts and Telecommunications have a new type of gum on the back which has a delayed action adhesive quality.

A spokesman for E.A.P. and T. said yesterday: "The new gum is stronger and better than the previous one, but after mauling the back of the stamp it is necessary to pause for a moment and then apply an even pressure for a few seconds."

The new gum is a synthetic one and we have been obliged to change over to it because the quality of the traditional gum Arabic has deteriorated and also supplies have become difficult to obtain, the spokesman added.

Course planned for coffee growers

A series of courses for coffee growers aimed at improving the quality of coffee in the Kenia District has been arranged at the Kenia Better Living Institute.

Buffaloes seek pity in parks

Rangers who help to guard the buffaloes in the Serengeti National Park are finding that the buffaloes look to them for comfort and safety when their time comes to die.

It is their report for October the deputy chief park warden, Mr. M. J. M. Turner, tells of an old bull buffalo near the Wogakira Grand Forest. One afternoon it walked right into the post and lay down as if lost from a but.

The rangers, after overcoming their surprise, tried to raise him but he stayed put and during the night he died.

Mr. Turner said it was the second incident of its kind. It has only once before that a buffalo has been found dead in the park, where hyenas and lion would tear them to pieces.

He also reported that a Thomson's gazelle was found dead in a Land-Rover outside his house by a lioness which gnawed through a lock by the 12th window to get into the shed.

The mass migration of plains game across the Serengeti began at the end of October.

PRESIDENT OBOTE PRAISES TANZANIA

Standard Staff Reporter

The President of Uganda, Mr. Obote, said if other African countries could follow what was being done in Tanzania they would be able to learn a lot.

President Obote was speaking at a dinner at Makerere University College organized by the Tanzania Makerere Students' Association to celebrate Tanzania's independence and republican status on October 9.

The celebration had to be held early because Tanzanian medical students are due to leave Kampala tomorrow.

Before officially opening dinner, Mr. Obote praised Tanzania's leadership and said that it was not the kind of leadership in the sense of guiding the flag.

"The work being done in Tanzania by the party and citizens was being done by Africans in their own hands," he said.

Celebrating an independence anniversary was a great honour in the history of one state in Africa in a whole.

"Before independence in Tanzania, no single African would be called to account and left to his own devices," he said.

He said the President had been the first to visit the island.

He wished the Tanzanians independence and success in all their endeavours.

Eighty, the president of the Tanzania students, who number about 200, Mr. Abdulaziz Kanga, said his country had decided to fight for economic development through socialism and self-reliance. He said that it was only through this that the common man in Tanzania would survive.

He also said that independence in Tanzania had opened for the people a new world of opportunity. If one passed through the country one could see the kind of development that had been achieved since the independence of Tanzania.

Mr. Obote also said that Tanzania was a model for other African countries to follow.

BOARD SELLS MORE COTTON

Standard Staff Reporter, Kampala.

The East African Cotton Board has sold a further 5,000 bales of cotton to the Kenya Cotton Corporation. This brings its total sales to the new crop to 120,000 bales.

After selling cotton for sale by private treaty in an earlier period, the board on Wednesday reported sales, pending further consideration of the contract.

No official forecast has yet been made for the new Tanzania crop, but a good source here, forecasting that the crop will not exceed the 1957-58, achieved for East Africa.

Tanzania to halt job handouts

Standard Staff Reporter, Dar es Salaam.

In order to put an end to comparisons that criticism and reproaches are being practised in giving jobs in both Government and private companies in Tanzania, the Government is to make it a general making it illegal to employ anyone without first passing through the Labour Office.

This was said by the Parliamentary Secretary in the Ministry of Communications, Labour and Works, Mr. R. Wandura, at Kivukoni College. He said the Labour Office of the Ministry had recently expanded its activities during the past year.

On the National President Fund, he said that there were 30,000 members contributing about 120,000 a month, had already 17,000 from the Fund was being deployed for different purposes by the Government.

European currency crisis

Expressed simply, the essence of the European currency crisis is the huge West German trade surplus. In short, this has caused a flight of other currencies from the franc and sterling in order to buy D-Marks, speculating about the possibility of the D-Mark being revalued upwards.

During the Bonn meeting of the top ten industrial nations, the West German attitude has been that it is not West Germany but other countries which have run into trouble. So why do anything at all about the D-Mark, never mind the ten per cent of some experts suggest? The answer is a very plain one: the surplus has made it necessary to voluntarily take measures to reduce trade making its own goods more expensive through a four per cent tax, and to help other countries by the margin measures which could be taken into effect at the end of this month.

Every country wants a surplus, none looks against it. Lately, Japan's surplus has been the only one to be mentioned only in West Germany. Lately, too, Japan has been mentioned in the Daily Telegraph and several other newspapers.

Pressure is being put on the Mark recently at a five per cent rise in 1961 which applied also to the Dutch Guilder and caused some of the worst currency convulsions of the past half century. The Mark recently has suffered heavily from selling in order to buy D-Marks. In view of the drain and competition with West Germany in export markets, the French favour revaluation of the D-Mark, rather than the 15 per cent devaluation of the franc which has been advocated by German authorities. Devaluation of the franc and further changes will help East African exports there, but increase the price of German goods in these countries. Devaluation of the franc would get necessary receipts at a parallel devaluation of sterling, which is reckoned to be a strong dollar rate.

The May 1962 rate, a sterling five shillings said that the franc had been raised from 160 to 240 francs.

It then claims devalued a year ago. Malawi, Sierra Leone and Gambia alone in Africa followed suit. The East African countries have retained their intention to continue pursuing this course.

It is not clear whether the D-Mark or the franc would be changed. Much is hoped that that any African country in the sterling area will be injected into the impulse of a revival today of the Director of the International Monetary Fund. Even so, some countries considered the

COAST CAUSERIE

Russia and the East African Coast

By EDWARD RODWELL

In the Daily Telegraph (November 11) it was stated that the increasing Russian naval strength in the Mediterranean may prove to be a cover for a less conspicuous penetration in the Indian Ocean.

There are, the correspondent writes, "indications that the East African coast will be used preferentially to Russian operations all the way down the British military presence is withdrawn from the Far East in 1971."

Within recent months Russian warships on a voyage to East Africa have visited Zanzibar, Pemba, Malindi, the Red Sea port of Hodeida, and the Kenyan coast. The Russian presence is further proof of a further penetration of the East African coast.

Two days after the Telegraph article an exclusive news item was published in London which was to arrive at Kilindi on Monday (November 19). It was reported that the ship was the next day the Admiral Vokov, the destroyer Vidobnyy and the tanker Dany, under the command of Commander S. E. Korotkevich. It was reported that the ship was on a mission to visit the East African coast.

FRANC AND MARK

National pride key to monetary crisis

By A Rester Finance Correspondent

The monetary crisis brought about by the weakness of the franc and the strength of the mark is a national pride key to monetary crisis.

The growing economic power of Germany is accompanied by an economic and political resurgence in the country.

It has encouraged countries to sell their non-German holdings a currency peg jump to the German mark.

There is nothing really new here. It has happened many times before. It is the national pride key to monetary crisis.

It has encouraged countries to sell their non-German holdings a currency peg jump to the German mark.

REVIEW OF LEISURE TRENDS AND ACHIEVEMENTS IN EAST AFRICA

Above: One part of the farm Mr. David Hopcraft keeps a mixed herd of eland, cattle, buffalo and ostrich. Ostrich flesh is very good to eat and the eggs make a meal for two people or more.

Left: Mr. Hopcraft studies and records the movements and habits of game, using a telescope from a tall platform which he has built in the middle of the enclosure.

GAME EXPERIMENT'S SUCCESS

NOT JUST FOR TOURISTS

The Thomson gazelles picked their way gingerly over the plain, stopping occasionally to nibble at the grass. The pasture on which they grazed was thick and lush.

How does the agriculturalist see East Africa in the future? A land covered with huge ranches, with the game surviving precariously in a few threatened parks? Or is a land returned to its pristine splendour literally treading with game? Of the two alternatives, most would assume the latter to be impossible. But on the plain near Athi River, 30 miles from Nairobi, a young scientist is working the end of experiments which he hopes will, in part at least, make the miracle come about.

MICHAEL BOYDELL reports

The face of a young Kenya scientist is a much deeper significance. It is represented a major breakthrough in the bold plan to save the game of East Africa from the path of destruction which he is seen to be threatened to follow if present trends continue.

He has already made a reputation for himself as a pioneer in the field of game ranching. He has already made a reputation for himself as a pioneer in the field of game ranching. He has already made a reputation for himself as a pioneer in the field of game ranching.

Mzee Pembe, who stars in the newly completed Swahili film "Mlevi" in an affectionate scene with Violet Frederick.

'Mlevi' drama brings Swahili choice of two

It seems that Kenyans may have a choice of two Swahili films over the Christmas period, as two film companies wait for censorship approval and completion of negotiations with the Kenya Film Corporation before putting on their productions which are already "in the can".

Much publicity has been given recently to Mlevi, produced by a local company, Paradise Films. It has been made in East Africa by African Film Productions, a subsidiary of an Indian film company.

Dealing with the problem of drunkenness, the film stars such well-known figures as Mzee Pembe, Mzee Panga and Kipanga. Other stars include Violet Frederick and Joseph Kariuki.

The film has a typically African setting and contains songs which the producers hope will be hits.

Mzee tells the story of how a man is forced by drink to leave his family, but later repents and goes back to them.

The future of Swahili films depends much on the success of these two ventures, but there are plans to use English dialogue and show them all over Africa and to advertise further sales.

Paradise Films have already decided to go ahead and make a second film, Taji Driver.

MOTORING

20-year success story of Porsche

In September the Porsche concern marked the 20th anniversary of its establishment as a motor car manufacturer. Before that date Porsche family already had a long association with the motor car industry.

In 1900, at the age of 23, Ferdinand Porsche joined the firm of Jakob Lubner and was placed in charge of the newly founded electric vehicle division. His first machine was named the Lubner-Porsche and featured electric drive.

By 1907 Porsche had made great progress in automobile design and he was awarded honorary doctorate degrees by two German universities. He created a 1,000 c.c. single overhead camshaft engine which was used to power the Austro Daimler cars of that year's Targa Florio. These cars achieved first and second place in their class.

In 1923 Dr. Porsche joined the head office of the firm as technical director. The firm became a public company and Porsche carried the production of high speed private automobiles. The firm's first supercharged Mercedes sports car, which carried the name of Ferdinand Porsche, was the 1912 Mercedes 54. This was the first of a series of supercharged Mercedes sports cars which carried the name of Ferdinand Porsche.

Concurrently with design work for racing engines, Dr. Porsche produced the first of his own motor cars. In 1923 he produced a sports car which was named the Porsche 1200. This was the first of a series of sports cars which carried the name of Ferdinand Porsche.

One of these will be occupied by the new arrival and the 20th anniversary of the firm's establishment in 1948. The Little Dancers

*Lonely, save for a few faint stars, the shy
Dreams; and lonely, below, the little street into glow returns, secluded and shy.
Scarcely the dumb war enters this retreat;
All is dark, save where come flooding rays
From a tavern-window: there, to the brich measure
Of an organ that down in an alley merrily plays,
Two children, all alone and no one by,
Holding their tapered frocks, thro' an airy maze
Of motion, lightly threaded with nimble feet,
Dance sedately; face to face they gaze,
Their eyes shining, grave with perfect pleasure.*

Be chary of other airline chairs

The seat you're expected to sit on for several hours without a stretch is rarely brought to your notice. The reason's simple: most airline chairs are virtually identical, so there's nothing to say about them. Except for ours. BOAC are in the fortunate position of offering the best economy seat in the world. On a long trip, you'll be glad you knew about it. We took the international rules of airline seat design and interpreted them with imagination. For our troubles, we got the first economy seat that doesn't feel 2nd class. Now it's standard on all our planes. Most of our passengers have noticed it. And feel chary about anything else as a result. We think you will. See your BOAC travel agent.

Letters entered from the E. African Handwriting Competition. Letters placed in order of merit. Some who in my judgement represent the best of their own efforts.

For one reason or another, such as age, consistency of style, layout, the development of maturity on the older age group, one has had the usual difficult task of striking a balance between many qualities. My congratulations go to the present winners and indeed to all those who are prepared to put their best into a page of writing to make this annual event in the educational calendar a purposeful & successful occasion.

Yours sincerely,
T. Barnard

TELEVISION AND RADIO

This is the tale of two coups — the coup that was and the 'coup' that wasn't.

The real coup as everyone has heard of, took place in Malawi, when the Army took over the seat of power, in Zanzibar.

In fact a war was imposed in Zanzibar as 'special exercises' were staged, presumably as a test of alertness after the Malawi coup.

Zanzibar well remembers the revolution of 1964.

How did V.A.K. treat these news items, both of which made the front page of Nairobi's two daily newspapers?

After my outbreak about the television news last week I was pleased to see that the Malawi coup — easily Tuesday's most important event — was given pride of place.

Obviously V.A.K. did not have a lot of information about the coup as the news item was very short, but at least they gave out what they had, and for that deserve a hearty pat on the back.

But about the exercises in Zanzibar — not a word, no television at all, and was mentioned again on Thursday morning.

This brings me back to my reference to the exercises on television. A baffling omission, as Zanzibar was the interest to Kenyan viewers there was no word during recorded interviews conducted by the President or other V.I.P.s.

Pride of place — and cold shoulder

There were two coup instances that week — one when President Kenyatta opened the African American Dialogue in Nairobi and the other when the Minister for Housing, Mr. Ngugi, opened the 'Tafari ya Kenya' exhibition.

It is so much better to hear the words that to watch them being mouthed in silence.

What has gone wrong with Press Conference? This programme, which used to be on television, is now only on radio.

With such a subject long and short, it is disappointing that it is not on television.

There is a certain quality in a live broadcast that is not possible in a recorded interview.

There is a certain quality in a live broadcast that is not possible in a recorded interview.

at times some of the drama is overstated, particularly by Shiri. The latter, however, did not breathe a harsh word of reproof but continued to perform as if merely the same old routine being changed over again.

Wednesday's documentary, 'N.C.C. Children's Theatre', was quite brilliant — but what a time of day to see it.

I have been asked to suggest that the V.A.K. should change places with Moyal as much more exciting and varied, or at least that his programme should be on Sunday nights.

It seems that most people say 'no' to Moyal, but that there are quite a few who could swap pop off to head down The Narrows.

I do not really mind either way but I pass the suggestion on for consideration.

Since my request last week for a full television film on the O'Byrne case — backed up by another critic — I have not heard a word from the V.A.K. about it.

My little boy would have loved to see the film on the O'Byrne case. I am going to get it for him. I have not heard a word from the V.A.K. about it.

Tyranny's ban on the box

The South African Government appears determined to keep television out of the country — in the charge of millions of viewers.

Opposition politicians claim the Government is acting in this manner because of its fear of the television screen.

South Africa is the only advanced nation that still does not have television — and why?

Known the world over

Janet sat in class staring at the picture. She had been told that she would not think about it and she could not think about it. It was only when she got into the picture, she thought, a year or so ago, that she realised that she was not really there and that she was not really there.

She kept on staring until she had a funny sinking feeling and found her feet were growing weaker and weaker. She got up and walked towards the picture and stepped on to the picture. There was a large picture of a street with a woman in a white dress walking towards her. She had a small bag and a hat. She was looking at Janet and smiling.

Janet looked down, and in her surprise, she was wearing a black dress, which she had reached to the ground, a white blouse and a black hat. She felt her head and found she was sitting on the ground. Her feet were not there. She was looking at her feet and found they were not there. She was looking at her feet and found they were not there.

CHILDREN'S STORY

by CYNTHIA HUNTER

There was a river with boats travelling there. There was a small path on either side by the houses, and funny little hump-backed bridges so that people could cross over.

The young girl and woman were dressed in the same kind of clothes as she was now wearing. The boys and the white socks, they had large black hats on their heads and clumpy shoes on their feet.

Janet was quite out of breath. She was not sure if she could go on. She was not sure if she could go on. She was not sure if she could go on.

She stopped suddenly, unable to believe her eyes. Not far away, the road changed into a large flat, square field, divided by straight lines of water.

In each field there were hundreds of flowers, a different colour in each square. From across the water, a man in a white shirt and dark trousers was walking towards her. He was looking at her and smiling.

"Surely you know this," said Janet, looking at her in surprise. "The man turned round and then up the water. This man into the farmers can water the flowers."

"Time to go back now," said Janet's mother.

DISC REVIEW

Great Scott makes the top—but pollsters shun Mr. Humberdink

The first of the two big U.K. "Pop Polls" for 1968 is now at hand, so roll up all ye faithful fans and see how your favourites have fared.

Some of the results are pretty surprising, as for example the relative output of English and American pop music.

Others may serve to draw attention to talents that remain sadly underrated on the radio, such as the output of the late Scott Walker, who has been consistently high in the column and has been described as a sensational singer who looks as good as the smooth and smooth-sounding Absolute 3.

Janet nearly fell over her long skirt as she hurried down the stairs after Hilda and her mother. She checked and pulled her skirt tightly round so that they would not see the wavy streak.

They crossed over one of the little bridges and walked along several turnings until they came to the edge of the town. Miles of moorland, green and brown, stretched out into the distance. There was a small hill on the top of the hill and look at the flower farm.

She picked up her skirt and ran along a narrow path. Janet followed as if she could just follow a path that came back and have something to eat!

Charity Wambui is one of the hundreds of girls on the card index of the Labour Department who hopefully awaits a job as a sales assistant.

Her case, however, is not quite so desperate as some of the others, as she has only been looking for a job since April of this year, but even so she is already bitter about the situation.

Armed with a public letter of introduction from the Labour Office, Charity has, like so many of the others, followed to and fro in the big round of finding employment. She has been to a shop in the morning and down by another large beach in the afternoon, and she has been told that she is not wanted, but she has not been told why.

She is not asking for very much other than a modern dress, but she is not asking for very much other than to live in all the while, and she is not asking for very much other than to be treated as a normal human being.

A frame is entered in a salary survey, but neither she nor the shopkeeper are interested in the matter. She is not interested in the matter, and she is not interested in the matter.

New arrivals from the ports - a group of about 20 girls - are being taken care of by the Labour Office. They are being taken care of by the Labour Office, and they are being taken care of by the Labour Office.

It is naturally a frustrating experience for the Labour Office trying to find jobs for the assistants. They are not finding jobs for the assistants, and they are not finding jobs for the assistants.

With no response whatever, the work permit situation is still not improved matters. It is still not improved matters, and it is still not improved matters.

Why then does the Labour Office not get a request for any more of the category? The problem is mainly because shopkeepers have members of their family working for them, and they are not getting a request for any more of the category.

Kenya's shopgirls deserve a chance

PENNY MOORE asks: Why the prejudice?

It is of course, such an age-old problem that it is difficult to see how it can be solved. The shopkeepers are not interested in the matter, and they are not interested in the matter.

They handle customers, keep the shelves in perfect order and clean the cupboards and also do a certain amount of display work. They are not interested in the matter, and they are not interested in the matter.

One of the dry cleaning companies began to employ assistants through the Labour Department in 1962 and the first African girl to be employed has since become the supervisor, who looks after all the company's branches. She is not interested in the matter, and she is not interested in the matter.

The general manager of the firm felt that the company preferred to employ African women and it is to employ African women and it is to employ African women.

We have 20 African women, all of whom are managers, assistants or trainees and we find them very satisfactory indeed. They are not interested in the matter, and they are not interested in the matter.

There are approximately 2000 shops in Nairobi and it is impossible to find out how many are employing African women. They are not interested in the matter, and they are not interested in the matter.

It is an investigation by the women's employment section of the Labour Department found that in only three weeks to train a shop assistant. They are not interested in the matter, and they are not interested in the matter.

FASHIONS FROM THE EAST AND WEST

We do not want to force the issue here. It is not our business to take for granted that all shop assistants are supposed to have permits and that they are not interested in the matter.

We used to write to shopkeepers asking if they had any vacancies, and when this failed we started sending the girls out with introductory letters, and this has had disappointing results. They are not interested in the matter, and they are not interested in the matter.

People are trying to evade the Immigration Act and this is not our business to take for granted that all shop assistants are supposed to have permits and that they are not interested in the matter.

It is possible that they do not consider themselves shop assistants, but they are not interested in the matter, and they are not interested in the matter.

No non-citizen shop assistant is supposed to be working without a permit and it is not our business to take for granted that all shop assistants are supposed to have permits and that they are not interested in the matter.

They have been given enough time to get used to the situation, and they are not interested in the matter, and they are not interested in the matter.

A few of the larger stores have taken the initiative in employing African assistants, but the number is still very small. They are not interested in the matter, and they are not interested in the matter.

The proprietor of a dress shop in Nairobi started employing African trainees assistants a long time ago, and she is not interested in the matter, and she is not interested in the matter.

Every girl is charming at their counterparts in boutiques of Europe. Three young Kenyan shop girls, Purity Wambui and Wambui Hambari, serve a customer in a Nairobi dress shop.

A parade of customers from different parts of India visit the fashion show of the Day celebration at the home of the High Commission in Nairobi. The women are seen in various styles of Indian dress.

Squatters told to make their farm an example

Squatters who have paid £150 towards buying the farm of the late Mr. S. S. Baxard, which has been renamed the Matsaya Estate, were advised at a meeting by the M.P. for Lukago East, Mr. Geoffrey Ndegwa, that the Government was prepared to grant loans to a 2000-acre farm which was assumed that the money would be used productively and repaid in a special period.

Mr. Ndegwa, who commended the Government for its efforts to settle the landless people, said that well-landed financial resources, the Government had managed to settle thousands of people in the district and other areas where such independence and self-reliance could be fostered.

Addressing the 600 squatters who had produced their request to buy the Matsaya Estate on a long-term basis, Mr. Ndegwa told the group for many among them who had been squatters for some time.

He said that the Government was ready to help them to make their farms an example to other people in the district.

Knuckle-duster 'bully' jailed LESSON NEEDED

Standard Staff Reporter, Nakuru.

A man who was recently charged with murder, but was released after a wile prosecution had been entered in the case, was sentenced to two-and-a-half-year imprisonment for twelve strokes when he appeared before Nakuru magistrates, Mr. M. R. Pahari, on two counts of assault and one of resisting lawful arrest.

Inspector Otiemo told the court that Isaac Mwangi Mwangi was recently charged with murder but a wile prosecution was entered in the case.

Mwangi had pleaded 'Not guilty' to assaulting Mr. Richard Wambogo on October 20 and 'No plea' on November 4 at Nakuru. He was released after a wile prosecution had been entered in the case.

The court was told that he used knuckle-dusters to attack Mr. Wambogo on the road and hit him on the head and on the chest.

Mr. Pahari said that Mwangi was sentenced to two-and-a-half-year imprisonment for twelve strokes when he appeared before Nakuru magistrates, Mr. M. R. Pahari, on two counts of assault and one of resisting lawful arrest.
