AIR-MAIL ROUTE ACROSS THE ATLANTIC.

Cable agent be regarded as a sample of the service. Later in the morning the plane was made in regard to the possibility of a winter service to the west of the Atlantic. The route.

In each case Great Britain and the British Empire are directly affected. The northern route must pass over a Canadian territory while the southern route will involve a call at Venezuela. Moreover the southern route will bring France into direct communication with America while the northern route most favor Denmark and Germany.

For the reason Col. Lindbergh's present trip is regarded as an international experiment. During his call at the Shetlands he visited the geographical observatory near Lerwick, and obtained information regarding the weather conditions in the Shetlands. The Islands, he said, were on the direct route of the proposed northern service, and would be an intermediate station of great importance.

A Shuttle Service.
It was stated in London that the line reports of Col. Lindbergh's tentative establishment of a regular service in the summer between America and Europe by way of the North Atlantic route, via Greenland, Iceland, the Faeroes, and the Shetlands Islands, proceeding to the mainland in the neighborhood of Copenhagen. It is such an event there is no doubt that a shuttle service will be established between the Shetland Islands and Orkney and that the establishing practically direct contact between London and New York. The actual time of the cross-Atlantic journey would be about half that now taken by steamer.

The Southern Route.
The southern route has yet to be investigated, but it is understood that Col. Lindbergh will be playing this on his return trip. It is being under Col. Lindbergh's advice, Pan-American Airways projected the southern route as long ago in 1911. The big flying-boat, partly designed by Lindbergh, even ordered, and are now under construction. They are amphibious, with cruising speed of about 100 m.p.h. Forty-one horsepower, and a range of 4,000 m. could be carried, and the machine would have a range of 2,800 miles.

THE WANDERING JEW.

would have made her spirit more effective. Part Bessie's speech, which she clearly and loudly read, but her voice sounded rather a matter-of-fact to the moment for the great events which were pending, the "Wandering Jew" and Christ and the death of her sister.

The second scene of "Antoinette" was calculated to show the Jew on the Prince of Denmark's part with the authority and grace and gesture which are his own. Owen Sumner as "Eugene" and the same happy effect, and Florence's "daughter" Geoffrey completed an entirely satisfactory group. A Miss Lin's study of "Antoinette" was a little more finished and convincing. Mr. Meakin, however, of his work later on Tuesday, the Chief Inspector.

Barbara Harrison as "Antoinette" was a performance of genuine excellence. Her natural dignity of bearing and her knowledge how to move and speak. In the first scene with Mr. Pearson and Miss Harrison to be compared with the delicacy with which they presented a difficult situation, the execution of the scene was admirable.

Paul Barton gave a confident performance as "Graziella" in the final scene, but she rather missed the dignity and majesty "uplift" of one may see the front which is only acquired and strong religious conviction. Mr. B. gave "Graziella" in the final scene, but she rather missed the dignity and majesty "uplift" of one may see the front which is only acquired and strong religious conviction.

A special word is due to W. G. Frost who, doubtless the part of "Antoinette" in this scene, and supports the "Jew" in the last scene—good and clear performance in both cases. David Baul's study of the "Wandering Jew" (Mr. Meakin) was quite effective. Zappara spoke with pleasant voice and style, and made the best of a small part. Mr. Bessie's acting as "Antoinette" was most effective and his lines were for the most part spoken with appropriate vigor and meaning. Mr. Stude rather exaggerated his dimness in "Antoinette" of "Antoinette".

Lady Broogham and Vaux's Petition.

(STANDARD'S CORRESPONDENT.)
London, August 30.
(By Mr. Hall.)

Lady Broogham and Vaux has filed a petition for divorce from her husband, Lord Broogham and Vaux. The case is expected to be heard during the coming week.

Lady Broogham and Vaux, before her marriage, was Miss Valerie Fennell, daughter of Major the Hon. and Mrs. Gerald Fennell, of Cliffhanger, Leinster, S.W. and grand-daughter of the late Lord of Vaux.

The late Lord Broogham died in 1901, and her wedding to Mr. Margaret's, West-End, a few months later was a "billion" ceremony. Lady Broogham was "back" by a million.

Lady Broogham succeeded to the title at the age of 18, and inherited his estates in Cumberland and Somerset in October, 1903, when she attained her majority. Her fortune was estimated at £1,000,000.

It is understood that these "billion" were nearly when originally built into the bridge. Transported to the Atlantic, it cost from £100,000 to a matter of 300 miles, these "billion" had "billion" distributed through various long storage, or had been disseminated from a previous structure.

The bridge is a vital link in a long and important stretch of highway, and the many difficulties encountered at the time of erection have been aggravated by certain developments.

A BRIDGE IN UGANDA.

Repairs Rapidly Follow Construction.

(STANDARD'S CORRESPONDENT.)
Fort Portal, September 1.

The bridge over the Mbitu River, which connects the 150 mile stretch of road between Fort Portal and Mbarara, is causing the authorities a good deal of anxiety. The greater part of the bridge is mounted on wooden pilars, and although the bridge has only been in use for little more than a year, a large number of the pilars have already had to be replaced by iron ones. At present, vehicles are only permitted to cross the bridge at midday, a walking pace, and anything in the nature of a heavy load has to be transported across piecemeal.

It is understood that these "billion" were nearly when originally built into the bridge. Transported to the Atlantic, it cost from £100,000 to a matter of 300 miles, these "billion" had "billion" distributed through various long storage, or had been disseminated from a previous structure.

A GLANCE AT LONDON'S LATEST FILMS.

Life Story of Late Mayor of Chicago.

ALIBIOMATIC CRIMINALS.

Among the new films in London this week "Zess Menschen" and "The Rebel" have attracted the attention of the London public. "Zess Menschen" at Cinema House has been followed by Herr Zess, Washburn and in the first of a new batch of Continental films to be shown by Miss Eileen Collins. "The Rebel" at the Polytechnic, has been made by Herr John Dreyer, and describes an unsuccessful attempt by the Danes, to prevent the arrival of Napoleon from exiling his country. "The Rebel" is based on a story by Mr. Philip Oppenheimer, "Observation" with Mr. Fernand and Miss Janet Grey in the lead. "Accident in the Street" with Mr. Leo Grogan as the principal actor; and "The Man who Shook" a story based on the life of Anson Cramb, the Mayor of Chicago, who was killed by a bullet intended for President Roosevelt.

"Two Lives" (Zess Menschen).

This is talking film in German, with subtitles in English. Directed by Mr. Fritz Wasth. Adapted from a novel by Richard Voss. It has as its setting the moments of the first and last subject the love of a girl, "The Man who Shook" a young politician, Count Boston, who is seen at the end of an easy position, something of a hero in the bright and outgoing his lady from the river, but is compelled by the pressure of the family to become a priest.

A Mayor's Biography.

"The Man who Shook"—Thought to be called by another name, this story of the life of a Mayor of Chicago, who was recently smothered by a bullet. The film is a masterpiece of photography. It shows in a series of flash and often discontinuous episode. At the same time the film attempts a business-like rapid review of the life of Chicago, from the great fire, through the epoch of gangsters when Chicago's name became a household name, to a contemporary which at this moment is a large building, in a surprising technical fashion, while the opening of the World Fair, which was the occasion of the name of Chicago being given to the city. The "epic" treatment of the film is much more successful than one might have expected, and it is, indeed, a great relief to have so easily available a story to follow.

Refined Thieves.

"Midnight Club"—The refinement of Mr. Oppenheimer's pen has been shown in the film, which is so carefully and lavishly produced that it resembles the product of some "surrealist" painter. The result of a series of education and cultural education. Detective work, more animals, more than the fact that every man is a thief, and every thief a detective. The result is a picture which is a masterpiece of the art of the camera. It is a picture which is a masterpiece of the art of the camera. It is a picture which is a masterpiece of the art of the camera.

Light and Amusing.

"Archie's World"

"Archie's World"—Not even the ability of Mr. Fox, who has made this film more than slightly amusing. It is a story of a young man who is a victim of the modern world, who is a victim of the modern world, who is a victim of the modern world.

BEE STING CURE.

Doctor's Tests on Rheumatism.

["STANDARD" CORRESPONDENT].

Tryptophan, London (by mail).—The following is a list of the results of the tests on rheumatism, made by the late Dr. J. H. Thompson, M.D., formerly Professor of Pathology at the London Hospital, Medical School.

It is the last named constituent, "Lanoxin" which is the active principle of the preparation. The substance causes a marked increase in the amount of uric acid in the blood, and when dissolved in water, it is a powerful diuretic.

A tradition of the craft which has been justified in that those who have been afflicted with rheumatism, have found relief from the use of this preparation. It is a preparation which is a masterpiece of the art of the camera.

A Feeble Reply.

Death of Viscount Grey of Fallodon.

HISTORIC SCENES IN HOUSE OF COMMONS RECALLED.

11 Years at Foreign Office.

PARSEENING STATESMAN WHO TRIED TO AVERT THE GREAT WAR.

Viscount Grey was Britain's Foreign Minister for 11 years and his tenure of office constituted a record for any man of his rank. He used every human endeavour to avert the catastrophic which overtook the world in August, 1914, but when the time came to make a decision he stood by the pledges that his country had given. To him there was no other course to follow.

Modern St. Francis of Assisi.

Viscount Grey was a man of curiously diverse interests. In his own time he was a keen athlete, in his leisure years he took himself into the mad world of politics, yet he was his own love of nature was demonstrated in his many books. His brief secretaryship at Fallodon is believed to be unique in the world.

GOL. LINDBERGH'S NORTHERN SURVEY.

Interest in Europe.

PLANS FOR WINTER AND SUMMER SERVICE.

The survey of the Northern Atlantic by Colonel Lindbergh with a view to the inauguration of an air mail service between Europe and America is attracting the attention of Britain, France and Germany, and it is expected that the commercial airlines of these countries will co-operate in the scheme.

The projected scheme is for a summer service across the Northern Atlantic via Iceland and Greenland, and a winter service via the Azores and Bermuda. The Northern service, it is anticipated, will use Copenhagen as its European terminus, in which case it is likely that Britain will organize a shuttle service between Croydon and the Shetlands.

The first reports of Colonel Lindbergh's survey have been very favourably received in London.

INTERNATIONAL CO-OPERATION.

Duration (by air mail) of a regular summer and winter service between Europe and America, between Britain and Europe, and between Europe and America, is envisaged as a result of the survey now being made by Col. Lindbergh, who accompanied by Mrs. Lindbergh, arrived at Copenhagen last week on completion of a flight from New York via Iceland, Greenland, Iceland, Faro, and Shetland Islands.

Col. Lindbergh's voyage of exploration of the Northern Atlantic route is actively engaging the attention of Imperial Airways and the various French and German commercial air services. His survey has also been the subject of correspondence and negotiations between the various air companies in America, Britain, France and Germany, and a number of a North Atlantic air service is being organized.

It is well known that Imperial Airways are anxious to extend their activities to an Atlantic summer and winter service. Such a service must have complete collaboration between the companies concerned on both sides of the Atlantic.

It is also recognized that the journey in 1932, between the Arctic (Continued on page 6.)

SWING OVER TO advertisement featuring a bottle of whisky and a man in a top hat.

There's a reason why all the portraits of "Johnnie Walker" show him in his characteristic attitude. He's always moving and with the times. That's why "Swing" has been produced—the first whisky to be specially blended for climates like East Africa's.

THE LORD MAYOR IN YACHTING ACCIDENT.

captain. Visibility was extremely bad.

Rescue Party.

"A fog had suddenly shrouded in hidden the motor yacht in that port, which is absolutely an absolute replica of the fog that had completely hidden the motor yacht and yacht crew by half about 4.30 p.m.

"An officer had taken bearings from the ship's standard compass on two objects which five minutes before the yacht struck the rocks showed up to be absolutely clear dangers."

"There are three possible alternative explanations for the accident:

- (1) That in the fog the objects from which bearings were taken had been wrongly identified.
- (2) That the strong tidal currents had set off on the evening.
- (3) That the rock was uncharted.

"The captain had no alternative but to go by the bearings given him by the other officer. The captain was navigating the ship on the strength of the bearings."

"He had taken the place of the landing on the fog which impeded navigation. This was necessary because the fog was so thick that the chart and look it away with him."

Disappointed Crew.

"We own much to the splendid conduct of the crew. The captain had always made a great point of look after his crew, and the discipline and good order in the boat was in good order."

"The yacht was a cutter and a dingy—were all in the water, although three dingies of our deck had been lost. These dingies, which were used for the whole party—were and goods together numbered about 30."

"We had just been crossing the coast and one of my dingies started to go ashore to get out of the water. The dingies were being a run-over on Stone Island, about 20 miles away."

"Killey Bay is one of the most difficult stretches of water to navigate. There an insurance's notice, and the navigating officer in each case is to be very careful."

Half a Mile.

"When the ship struck the rock the captain got ashore so that she might sail on an even keel. She was in about 12 fathoms of water, with the tops of the masts showing."

"It was blowing half a gale and a heavy sea was running. She went down so quickly that there was no question of lowering gangways for getting into the boats. We just dropped off the rail into the boats all at once. Everything was done quickly."

"At this point Lord Moyne bent down to check his mail and sundries which had been carried with him in a wooden box with long sails for air space. The recovery party did not see him until he was about 100 yards from the boat."

"They believed, especially, said Lord Moyne 'They just along to see. Moyne always made a note when anything goes wrong, and of course none of us. But they did not appear to be looking in any way.'

"Lord Moyne declined to discuss the matter of the party who were on board the yacht."

"It is not clear from the information by correspondence or communicating telegrams," he remarked.

ENTERTAINMENTS.

Empire Theatre.

The War produced among other things was numbers of war books, tracks and records, or perhaps to explain the dubious psychology of the period after the strife, when many good playing restrictions on over sea recordings were introduced but a world of the unpleasant and striking "From Love" in its title will suggest, a something of the sort—the sort set of tracks which I was in a hurry to bring home. None of the items in the supporting programme may be more pleasing entertainments.

Capitol Theatre.

Central Nepal and Lovina Young are worthy of better matter than the produce provides for them in "The High of War", a film representation of a story by the Gilbert Parker. It is in the old melodramatic tradition which, as long as far as the silent screen has concerned, seems not to speak louder than words. But Keysy is not very fond of melodrama; if there are to be to take its pleasure so easily. Even the programme of short films does not have the brightness in news, comedy and interest necessary to relieve us out of the world of the feature film.

THE CENTENARY OF THE CIGARETTE.

Story of Soldier who Made the First One.

Presented by the British Cigarette Association, the first soldier to make a cigarette was a British soldier named James Watson. He was a private in the 1st Battalion of the 24th Regiment of Foot (Black Watch) and he was in the Crimea in 1854. He was a soldier who made a cigarette for a friend who was sick and he was the first to make a cigarette for a friend who was sick.

He was smoking for a puff. He had a pack of snuff. From his pocket he took the snuff and he made a cigarette. He was the first to make a cigarette for a friend who was sick.

This Vulgar Taste. For a long time only his friends were allowed to smoke. He was the first to make a cigarette for a friend who was sick.

for a long while the smoke of the "soft-woods." They had not become cheap, just at the moment that they have since. The famous Virginia tobacco, which brought about the "cigarette" we know today. A man had invented which enabled cigarettes to be made in thousands.

Then smoking really developed on what appeared like a fantastic scale. Before the war a woman level smoking in public. Today that is almost the exception, if she does not smoke.

There are some figures which give some idea of how the fashion has spread since that time. In 1890 the total number of cigarettes in England was 44,000,000. In 1900 it was 120,000,000. In 1910 it was 400,000,000. In 1920 it was 1,000,000,000. In 1930 it was 2,000,000,000.

COLONISATION SUGGESTED IN TRANSJORDANIA.

In Addition to Palestine.

CONGRESS DEMANDS INTERNATIONAL ACTION IN REGARD TO GERMANY.

Additional to every immigration of Jews into Palestine, the Zionist Congress is turning its eyes towards Transjordan as a possible place for further colonisation of Jews who are the victims of persecution in their own countries.

A resolution passed by the Congress demanded international action to obtain emigration of Jews on a large scale from Germany. Speakers at the Congress also mentioned Russia, Yenan and Siam as other places where Jews are badly treated.

BRITISH ATHLETES EQUIPPED.
Germany's Success at White City.
[STANDARD'S CORRESPONDENT] London, August 22. (By Air Mail.) Great Britain's athletes were fairly and squarely beaten by Germany's at the White City Stadium yesterday. Germany had been successful on the last two occasions the continents had met, when the battles were decided on a team and relay basis. This time points counted, 1-2-3-4 for the four competitors in each event, and Germany won by 76 to 50. Germany lifted five phases in nine of the thirteen events. It had been generally anticipated that when the battles would carry off most of the points in the field events. And so they did, but it was in the track events that Britain faltered where they were expected to win.

There was some unpleasant boisterousness on the part of the Britishers and a parade arranged outside the ground by London Jews against the Hitler regime was suppressed by the police; but the demonstration found their way into the stands. The boating had been browsing in volume during a number of the events, and reached its climax in the three miles race when German runner Gebhart, appeared to cut across the track of the British competitor who was leading. The race was won by Frying, a German, such a storm of boating broke out at the end of this race that the loud-speaker announcer had to ask for silence and asked, "Please leave it to the judges to decide, they will do it fairly." Even this failed, and the boating continued. Two of the visiting athletes, Meyer and Gehrman, were in a state bordering on hysteria when they reached their dressing-rooms. Lord Desborough, who was a spectator of the event from the centre of the stadium, said, "I regret the display of bad feeling. It is totally unlike British sport. Politics and sport have nothing to do with each other."

WORLD MARKETS DEMONSTRATE SOME HESITANCY.

Obstacles for President.

FEAR THAT THE MINERS' STRIKE MAY BE RENEWED.

The world is continuing to follow with great interest and some anxiety the working out of President Roosevelt's Recovery Plan.

British observers express the view that, whether the President wins or loses, his experiment is bound profoundly to affect British and Empire trade.

Those who believe in the soundness of the Plan point to the signs of progress evident during July as a justification for putting it into effect.

Further Decrease in British Unemployment.

NEARLY HALF A MILLION SINCE JANUARY.

Figures for August.

IMPROVED CONDITIONS IN MANY IMPORTANT INDUSTRIES.

Figures issued by the British Ministry of Labour show that during August unemployment decreased by nearly half a million as compared with January this year.

There was a continued improvement in the iron and steel, and engineering industries, while continuing and building indicated a slight improvement.

Encouraging Signs.

On the whole there was a further decline in tailoring and book-binding and a slight setback in the pottery industry.

The "Manchester Guardian" records that the Ministry of Labour estimates that the number of insured persons aged from 16 to 64 in employment was 2,087,000 being 27,000 more than the month before and 648,000 more than the year before.

The month before in employment which was 16 to 64 in employment was 2,060,000 being 27,000 more than the month before and 648,000 more than the year before.

TELLURIDE GOLD ORES IN KENYA.

Reports of Discoveries of Rare Minerals.

GUIDE TO PROSPECTORS.

Treatment Oils for Special Methods.

The following notes on telluride gold ores have been compiled by Mr. T. Murray-Hughes, Senior Government Geologist, in view of the general interest on the subject and as a guide to prospectors in the field.

Although no specimens have yet been taken from the (Geological Survey, one or two good specimens have been obtained in the field. There is no reason to doubt this statement and no prospectors should be deterred from following information of value.

As stated above all telluride ores are rare, but of the total amount of telluride minerals only three or four are known to be found and detected. These are Telluride, the isometric form of a telluride of lead (the (Pb) Te), Bi-telluride, the monoclinic form of a telluride of the same metal (As, Sb) Te, and Crocoite (or Calaverite), the orthorhombic form of a telluride of mercury.

They are found in deep-seated high-temperature igneous rocks, and in the case of Crocoite, in the volcanic veins of Kalambo, as was indicated in the lecture recently given at the Geological Museum.

Prospecting. The prospector will find the best indication of the presence of telluride minerals in the igneous rocks which is most general, that is, a fine to coarse sand showing their colour, hardness and specific gravity. For comparison the values for pyrite, galena, and stibnite are 5.0 to 5.5; 7.5; and 4.7 respectively.

Particular Colour, luster may be black, hardiness, 2.5-3; specific gravity, 8-9.

Sylvanite: Colour, steel grey to silver white; hardness, 1.5-2; specific gravity, 7.0-8.0.

Bi-telluride: Colour, silver white to brass yellow; (Calaverite), ochre brown yellow; hardness, 2.5; specific gravity, 8.8 and 9.0.

Pb-Te: Colour, pale brown to black; hardness, 2.5; specific gravity, 8.5.

As-telluride: Colour, silver white to steel grey; hardness, 2.5-3.0; specific gravity, 5.0-5.2. (Stibnite) may give trouble, being as soft as talc, but the shape, luster, etc., and the fact that it will not be attacked by nitric acid, will usually be sufficient to identify it.

The telluride minerals decompose readily above the water level, the tellurium in part being carried away in solution, in part forming a white precipitate, and in part forming a white precipitate to form iron sulphide. The fresh

"INTOLERABLE HARDSHIP" ON A JURY.

Judge's Comment in Fire Conspiracy Trial.

A BIG SACRIFICE.

One which Established three New Records.

["STANDARD" CORRESPONDENT.] London, August, 22.

There have been two or three instances of intense public interest which have entered this week through pages in the Courts of import or export.

The most famous trial of recent times ended on Saturday. This was known as the "fire conspiracy trial" and it has not only broken all long distance records in Old Bailey cases, but it has directed attention to the sacrifice and fortitude of the jury, which was exposed to the most intolerable hardship imposed upon the jury, with whom is expressed the public opinion.

The case has lasted seven weeks. During that time the jury, unfortunately, were not only exposed to the heat and humidity, and entirely unrelieved, endured the strain and fatigue which is only to be expected of a jury sitting for so long a period. It has been said by some of the judges that anything to do with the case which would be likely to cause any of the jury to be unwell, or to be in any way inconvenienced, would be met with the most sympathetic consideration. The jury, however, were not only exposed to the heat and humidity, but they were also exposed to the strain and fatigue which is only to be expected of a jury sitting for so long a period.

This case is of course outstanding, but it is also of interest to all other cases. A Departmental Committee was set up to inquire into the matter before the jury, and its recommendations were given to the public. It is to be hoped that the recommendations will be given effect to, and that the jury will be able to sit for a longer period.

Three Records.

The first case has set up all the three records. It is the longest trial that has ever taken place in the Central Criminal Court. It is the only case in which the three records have been broken. It is the only case in which the three records have been broken.

The telephone was specially designed by the Chief engineers to convey the most important messages connected with the private telephone system.

AFFAIRS OF A CINEMA COMPANY.

[With regard to the sale by Messrs. Minter and Oswald, it is admitted that this sale was only advertised first before it actually took place. Mr. Hamilton had advertised as a donee trustee; I am not sure that I actively adopt the descriptive but certainly the time of the advertisement and sale was far too short. Talking matters in highly technical matters with but a limited margin. My own opinion for such advertisements should have been allowed after the notification of sale. The advertisement in Kenya but in the adjacent territories of Uganda and Tanganyika. I am further of the opinion that the prior advertisement on sale two or three of the value of the entire sale, more particularly at a highly technical matter.]

"I am afraid that as a foreword to the property should have realized £800 to £1000. In view of the financial condition of the company, in September 1932 it is clear that it was only a question of time, and not very long time, before there would have been a sale of the property."

"Taking all the above facts into consideration, I am of the opinion that a fair price for the machinery would be £800."

"I now have to consider whether Mr. Kirkel should be relieved of the responsibility for the balance sheet of the company, in which is included £270 of the balance sheet of the company. In other words, has he acted honestly and reasonably in the circumstances of the case?"

"A Strong Suspicion."
I would further add that the generally surrounding the sale referred to as a strong suspicion that the sale was not bona fide and certainly not in the best interests of the company. Mr. Schwartz has written on the case in re Cardiff Savings Bank, Marquis of Bute's case, 1902 2 Ch. 100 in which the Marquis of Bute was relieved of responsibility but there were two directors of the company who were not relieved of their liability for the two respondents.

For the balance sheet I consider that Mr. Kirkel must be held liable for negligence and misfeasance in the sale of the property to the Marquis of Bute to Entertainment Ltd. at a considerable value.

Over £200 Debenture.

"The position therefore is as regards the £200 debenture, since that proceeding to my satisfaction the talking application of the £200 debenture, 5,784/80 and lease, 6,000. In the absence of evidence that the assets were sold for £10,000, and the first respondent is accordingly liable for the deficiency of this, 12,784/80."

"I have now to consider the position of the second respondent, Mrs. Kirkel. Mr. Schwartz argues that Mrs. Kirkel had been advised and did not take an interest in the proceedings and never attended any meetings of the board."

"On this last point I can get no help from the lady's evidence. She told two entirely different stories at her public examination and in these proceedings. She states that at her public examination she was confused and distressed, it being her first appearance in court. She goes on to say that she was an excited and hysterical woman, remembering nothing Mr. recollection of this witness at the public examination was that she was not in such a condition of confusion and was not hysterical as presented her giving a coherent statement. Her examination was not directed to complicated questions of finance but to simple matters such as her attendance at board meetings. In the absence of satisfactory oral evidence recourse must be had to the minute book. Section 88 (2) of Cap. 90 enacts that the minutes shall be evidence of the proceedings. A reference to the minute book discloses that Mrs. Kirkel was appointed a director of the company on February 25, 1931. There were six meetings of the board up to September 3, 1932. Mrs. Kirkel is shown as attending two of these meetings and in particular the meeting of September 3 when it was decided to sell the assets of the company. At this meeting all the directors, namely the two respondents, were present. I accept these minutes as correct and in evidence of the proceedings at the meetings."

"It is a mere dummy."

"I do not think the relief granted in the Marquis of Bute's case applied here. It is not in evidence that Mrs. Kirkel, when there are only two directors and both of them attend a meeting, it is impossible to hold that one of them was a mere dummy."

"I quote from the judgment of the House of Lords in the Marquis of Bute's case, 1902 2 Ch. 100, as follows:—

"I do not consider a sale of all the assets of the company to be made in effect by the sole director of Entertainment Ltd. who had the effect of turning a company solvent into one which was to be considered insolvent and a transaction which the court in the Marquis of Bute's case considered to be void of cap. 90."

"A Strong Suspicion."

"I would further add that the generally surrounding the sale referred to as a strong suspicion that the sale was not bona fide and certainly not in the best interests of the company. "I do not think the relief granted in the Marquis of Bute's case applied here. It is not in evidence that Mrs. Kirkel, when there are only two directors and both of them attend a meeting, it is impossible to hold that one of them was a mere dummy."

"I quote from the judgment of the House of Lords in the Marquis of Bute's case, 1902 2 Ch. 100, as follows:—

"I do not consider a sale of all the assets of the company to be made in effect by the sole director of Entertainment Ltd. who had the effect of turning a company solvent into one which was to be considered insolvent and a transaction which the court in the Marquis of Bute's case considered to be void of cap. 90."

"A Strong Suspicion."

"I would further add that the generally surrounding the sale referred to as a strong suspicion that the sale was not bona fide and certainly not in the best interests of the company. Mr. Schwartz has written on the case in re Cardiff Savings Bank, Marquis of Bute's case, 1902 2 Ch. 100 in which the Marquis of Bute was relieved of responsibility but there were two directors of the company who were not relieved of their liability for the two respondents.

For the balance sheet I consider that Mr. Kirkel must be held liable for negligence and misfeasance in the sale of the property to the Marquis of Bute to Entertainment Ltd. at a considerable value.

Over £200 Debenture.

"The position therefore is as regards the £200 debenture, since that proceeding to my satisfaction the talking application of the £200 debenture, 5,784/80 and lease, 6,000. In the absence of evidence that the assets were sold for £10,000, and the first respondent is accordingly liable for the deficiency of this, 12,784/80."

"I have now to consider the position of the second respondent, Mrs. Kirkel. Mr. Schwartz argues that Mrs. Kirkel had been advised and did not take an interest in the proceedings and never attended any meetings of the board."

"On this last point I can get no help from the lady's evidence. She told two entirely different stories at her public examination and in these proceedings. She states that at her public examination she was confused and distressed, it being her first appearance in court. She goes on to say that she was an excited and hysterical woman, remembering nothing Mr. recollection of this witness at the public examination was that she was not in such a condition of confusion and was not hysterical as presented her giving a coherent statement. Her examination was not directed to complicated questions of finance but to simple matters such as her attendance at board meetings. In the absence of satisfactory oral evidence recourse must be had to the minute book. Section 88 (2) of Cap. 90 enacts that the minutes shall be evidence of the proceedings. A reference to the minute book discloses that Mrs. Kirkel was appointed a director of the company on February 25, 1931. There were six meetings of the board up to September 3, 1932. Mrs. Kirkel is shown as attending two of these meetings and in particular the meeting of September 3 when it was decided to sell the assets of the company. At this meeting all the directors, namely the two respondents, were present. I accept these minutes as correct and in evidence of the proceedings at the meetings."

New Grazing Produced from Cupboards. DISCOVERY WHICH MAY PROVE BOON TO DAIRYING.

Experiments in Britain.

EXCELLENT CATTLE FEED AVAILABLE IN TEN DAYS AFTER PLANTING.

Experiments which are at present being carried out in the world's dairying industry.

It has been shown that trays, sown three times a day with seed containing the exact proportion of salts to the plants would absorb from soil, produce a crop of prolific growth of maize at a very much quicker rate and of better quality than under ordinary planting methods.

In ten days, it is claimed, excellent grazing can be produced from the cattle which, fed on the results of this intensive cultivation, have shown surprising improvements in weight and milk yield.

Encouraging Tests.

A major experiment, according to the inventor, of sowing in ten to a year better than any other method, has been conducted in the Department of Research in Dairying, near Reading.

A new British firm, Industrial Cultivation, Ltd., proposes to establish a series of cupboards in quantities in the dairying countries.

The inventor, Dr. Spangenberg, who is in Germany, developed the idea of a cupboard in which the plants would grow in ten to a year, and would produce a crop of prolific growth of maize at a very much quicker rate and of better quality than under ordinary planting methods.

POWER ALCOHOL FROM MAIZE.

Fuel Research Institute Report.

CRITICISMS IN THE UNION.

Expert Entirely Disagree With Finding.

The Fuel Research Institute recently issued a report expressing doubts as to whether power alcohol from maize or other plant products could be profitably manufactured in South Africa, and a former Director of the Institute has expressed his entire disagreement with the report.

The report was prepared by the Fuel Research Institute recently by the "Furness Weekly" for publication in South African journals.

The annual report for 1967 of the Fuel Research Institute expressed doubt as to whether the production of power alcohol from maize, molasses and other primary products could be undertaken with profit to the producer and advantage to the consumer.

The report stated that the production of alcohol from maize is definitely unprofitable. It is pointed out that for success, the price of raw material would have to be secured at a price not subject to any market fluctuations, which would amount to a price of 100 cents per tonne of maize as the raw material.

The report of South Africa would have to be developed to supply what may be termed the domestic market. It is pointed out that the alcohol industry would be dependent for its raw material on the domestic market. It is pointed out that in the past few years there has been a shortage of the supply of raw material. It is pointed out that it would be made good by importation, and that the price of raw material would have to be developed to supply what may be termed the domestic market.

It is considered that such an undertaking could only succeed with Government assistance but it is doubtful if any Government would be prepared to subsidize an industry when the cost of the raw material is so high.

It is pointed out that the cost to the consumer would be such an unworkable quantity of raw material.

Another most important factor in the economic production of alcohol from maize would be the disposal of the by-products in the shape of distiller's stillage and so on.

It is thought that without an assured market for such by-products, the economic production of alcohol and its sale at a price acceptable to the consumer would be impossible.

The disposal of the by-products would depend upon the demand by cattle farmers and it is again doubtful if when various circumstances are considered it would be possible to guarantee the disposal of the by-products. Further, it is pointed out that the Government of South Africa is a country with a small and slowly-growing population of persons who may be expected as potential consumers of power alcohol, and therefore the scope of the manufacture would be relatively small.

In consideration of the very high capital outlay which would be necessary, there would not be a sufficient margin to justify the investment, or at the outside, two sources of supply and storage or later these sources would probably be brought into competition with producers of spirituous fuel from coal, who would not be working under similar disabilities as those which the alcohol producers would be faced in the case of maize.

"Taking into account the above considerations," the report states in summing up, "it is thought that the establishment of an industry for the production of power alcohol on a large scale should only be undertaken after the most extensive investigation into the various factors that would bear on its production and development."

Entirely disagreed with the report of the Fuel Research Institute has been expressed by J. T. E. W. Sellman, a former Director of the Institute, who has asserted that far from being unprofitable the production of power alcohol from maize, in his opinion, of those best computed to judge both here and abroad raw industry which held out very rich promise of being entirely successful.

Since 1951 the production of maize had not sufficiently better the domestic market. High supplies of maize were the rule and not the exception. The quantity of milling necessary for producing an alcohol of 2,000,000 gallons annually would have to be met from local production.

Could be real dangerous, yet they are very often neglected. Influenza, Bronchitis and Pneumonia are frequently the direct result of colds left to run their course.

VAPEK also prevents the cold and the cough. "Breathe your VAPEK" with VAPEK.

A NEW DISCOVERY!

One of the most notable discoveries in the field of food hygiene was made recently in the laboratory of The Populorum Company when a new and revolutionary cleaning material was developed. The cleaning and polishing material is the part of any food preparation that does the work. Hence, the difference between the best food preparation and the best food preparation is the difference between the best food preparation and the best food preparation.

Political Warfare in South Africa.

NATIONALIST OPPOSITION TO GENERAL HERTZOG.

Led by Late Colleague.

GENERAL ELECTION IN NEAR FUTURE FORESHADOWED.

The political situation in the Union of South Africa is rapidly moving towards open warfare between the General Hertzog and leader of the Nationalist Party, and Dr. D. F. An interesting review of the political situation in the Union of South Africa was given by the Johannesburg Times on August 22. The writer, who is well known to the public as the author of the book 'The History of the Union of South Africa', points out that the present situation is a repetition of the history of the Union of South Africa.

General Hertzog does not claim to be a statesman, but he is a politician. He is a politician in the sense that he is a man who is interested in the power of the State. He is a politician in the sense that he is a man who is interested in the power of the State.

DR. MALAN'S POSITION.

THE MEAT SUPPLY.—CONDENNED OXTAIL.

To the Editor, "E.A. Standard," Sir.—In connection with the recent importation of oxtails at Nairobi slaughter house and with reference to the question of sterilization, the sanitary aspect of the matter does not seem to me to be the last word on the subject. In the interests of public health it is desirable that the authorities should take steps to insure the sterilization of the meat on account of the danger of disease which may be found in them.

Mr. W. W. W. Sir.—I am glad to hear that you have been able to get the meat supply improved. It is a pity that the meat is not better than what we get in other parts of the country. I hope you will continue to improve the supply.
