WEEK-END DARD MASENO-POPPA R SEAT OF LEARNING ON THE EQUATOR

By Alexander Mackenzie

MASENO, standing plumb on the equator and looking down from its 5,000-foot vantage point into the deep, rapid waters of Lake Victoria, is today one of the most rapidly expanding centres of Kenya, providing for Africans courses of education from laying drains to instructing choirmasters.

Six separate training establishments, some Government-run and others mission institutions, are now located at Maseno. This part of Nyanza Province was the site of the very first school in white Kenya, when the Church Missionary Society (C.M.S.) established a station in 1905—so an "African" town—not long after the railway line from the Coastal opened up this region.

The Rev. J. Willie, who was later to become Bishop of Uganda, was the first missionary. Kenyan men had to travel back to the school and attend pupils. The school pupils made the long distance covered by the "Ochoko" bus trips with the aim of offering the opportunity of education to the mass of the people, but was closed for some months owing to a serious illness in a school, as infectious were they of various kinds.

WIDE OPPOSITION

Local opposition became strong and Mr. Willie was obliged to leave Maseno—who had no successors in the school—leaving school to be run by a local teacher and four lay teachers from that part of the Maseno District. The school was able to make marks on paper that were intelligible. In other words, the school had been established as a steady grower in a short period of time. The school was operating on a small scale, but the progress was such that the school was able to function as a school. When the demand for school places increased, the school was able to handle the situation. By 1911, the school had changed rapidly from two early days status of a primary school to a secondary school, with an

...farmers and their wives go back to school at Maseno... courses on farming. Students are selected from districts with good farming techniques.

The Principal of the Church Missionary Society School, Mr. Bernard Brown, talks with a group of secondary teachers of the school's Kenyan students. This is one of James' School, Maseno, built from Government and local funds and opened in 1937.

A NYAMBENI ADVENTURE

RECENTLY, the Kenya Administration arranged a safari to the Nyambeni Mountains in part of an extensive programme of photography and cinematography. The safari was led by the various subjects of Government and took place in that corner of the White Highlands.

Next week, ERROL WHITTAKER will report on his adventures and discoveries, including a visit to a local mine containing really beautiful specimens of minerals—possibly the only remaining evidence of a great battle between the Masai and an unknown race.

Among this week's features are the reports in our pages on the first election in the life of British Kenya (Page 17) and a featured feature on a woman's journey through the Congo in Rhodesia with her small son and his dog (Page 19 and 20).

An unmistakable atmosphere of tradition backed up by Government and more recently the people of Maseno have been benefited from formal education. In 1937, the first attempt at formal education in the district was made in the form of a new school, which was opened in 1937. This is the only school in the district which has been built from Government and local funds and opened in 1937.

Mr. Brown, who is now in the 10th year of his service, has a record of creating the Maseno school which few people can better.

Prince Charles, (center) in the classroom at the boarding school in Wales. Prince Charles is the only boy in the class.

Spartan life of Prince Charles's schooldays

So it was Charles. On September 10, 1957, eight-year-old Prince Charles, heir-apparent to the throne, began the first long-term boarding school. It was not what he had anticipated, and he was not the only boy in the class.

Instead, his parents chose a very private 2100-acre school, Eton, with the town of Princes Charles' standing on all sides of the school, and a schoolmaster, standing on all sides of the school.

It was another instance of royal life with tradition. There were no television sets, no radio, no telephone, and no motor cars within the school.

Three countries

For it was in three countries (1957-58) that Prince Philip himself was prepared for his public school of education, at Stoneham, near the town of Princes Charles. It was the first of the three.

What had Charles to offer? He started in 1957, at the age of eight, and he was the first of the royal family ever to attend a public school.

It looked a most competent start indeed in England, where he had been educated at the boarding school, and he had been educated at the boarding school, and he had been educated at the boarding school.

The classroom which Prince Charles uses.

With his teacher, he was given the opportunity to study the history of the world, and he was given the opportunity to study the history of the world, and he was given the opportunity to study the history of the world.

His mother, the Queen, was also present at the school, and she was present at the school, and she was present at the school.

The Queen's presence at the school was a rare occurrence, and it was a rare occurrence, and it was a rare occurrence.

PERFUME HARMONY

Freshel method

White Charles' first teacher at Eton was Miss Margaret Corbridge, a self-proclaimed, slim woman in her early 20's who uses the teaching methods of Friedrich Froebel, the German educational reformer.

This method, it is based on the idea of 'learning by doing' with the accent on natural progression rather than on rote learning. It was also used at the boarding school in Princes Charles' school in Kensington.

But 'learning by doing' has its limits at Eton. The boys are allowed a number of sweets a week, 20¢, a term pocket-money, and food money, and they are allowed to have their own money, and they are allowed to have their own money.

The Queen's presence at the school was a rare occurrence, and it was a rare occurrence, and it was a rare occurrence.

Top in geography

That was his 'trick' up for the summer holidays last year. The end-of-term 'exam' had been done in the place of his school, with 79 out of 100 marks.

In French he had made 20 out of 20 marks, compared with 50 marks for the top boy in his class, however, were better marks.

It was not really surprising that he had succeeded in his geography. It was not really surprising that he had succeeded in his geography. It was not really surprising that he had succeeded in his geography.

WASHINGTON, October 16. (AP)—The House of Representatives today passed a bill to amend the National Labor Relations Act, which would give the National Labor Relations Board the power to order the reinstatement of workers who have been discharged for participating in a strike.

The bill, known as the Wagner Labor-Management Act, was passed by a vote of 347 to 197. It would give the NLRB the authority to order the reinstatement of workers who have been discharged for participating in a strike, provided that the discharge was not for cause.

The bill also would give the NLRB the authority to order the reinstatement of workers who have been discharged for participating in a strike, provided that the discharge was not for cause.

The Council General for the Parish, Dr. Antonio Ransome Garcia, looks on while his bride, the former Miss Margaret Rose Thomas Williamson, signs the register.

Their wedding took place today at the Chapel of the Convent of the Holy Family, St. Francis Xavier, assisted by Fr. Timothy, vicar-general of the territory and celebrated assistant priest. The bride's white satin gown had a hooded skirt, draped and caught up with steel points. Her short veil was accompanied by a portrait of a saint and the carried a white prayer book with a shell of pearls, penance and rose.

Farina does vanishing trick with A40 boot!

The lady in't Farina, she is just a happy woman. Farina is the famous Italian designer who has inspired the English car for its styling the way. She is making the boot, making a four seat family saloon into a world's most unique with plenty of room for luggage. The A40 has a length of 117" and the engine, transmission and suspension are basically identical with the 350,000 sales total A40. Running on 1700 cc. Prototype engine has shown 95 m.p.h. at 50 m.p.h. and 112 m.p.h. at 70 m.p.h. Colours: Farina Grey, Tartan Red, Horizon Blue, Sunflower Green, Ocean Blue and Black. The result of this is a car that is a pleasure to drive. It is easy, practical, and here's a word rarely used even in these hard days. The A40 is CHEAP!

School day starts with a dance

MASAI GIRLS ARE LEARNING NEW WAY OF LIFE

By MATHIAS

KITATION KERRIO, an intrepid teacher whose scholastic achievements are causing unusual interest among her friends and colleagues, is one of seven Masai girls who sat for the Kenya African Preliminary Examination in July at the Nairobi Intermediate School, which is expecting its first large intake of girls early in 1953.

For the Masai, one of the most conservative peoples of Africa, girl schooling represents something of a social revolution for the whole group of British and African groups. In the Masai, Masailand is meant a hard-earned word.

The Masai descendants of African peoples who migrated with tribes in the Nile Valley before arriving in East Africa several centuries ago, were overlords of large stretches of Kenya and Tanganyika before the coming of the White man. It is to maintain the tribe's position to safeguard its territory and to maintain the tribe's position to safeguard its territory and to maintain the tribe's position to safeguard its territory...

Never gave up

After a meeting between the Kenya Education Department and Masai leaders in 1947, the latter agreed to send their daughters to school.

By their second year, however, when the first children arrived at school, it was found that some boys considered compulsory school a waste of time and effort. They were not prepared to give up their traditional life.

But the girls were different. They had been brought up to respect the white man's way of life. They had seen their mothers and sisters who had gone to school. They had seen the benefits of education. They had seen the power of the written word.

Life in manyatta

This was their acknowledged role, and little else was expected of them. In return, they received many privileges, among them the custom of moving into warriors' compounds.

Later, when the warriors had returned from their expeditions, the girls were allowed to marry and generally to give birth to children. They had spent the years of their youth in the manyatta.

British administration

British administration put an end to the traditional warfare, but the Masai still found an occasional lion hunt or trophy hunt a source of pride. The girls were taught to do so. They were taught to do so. They were taught to do so.

Kajiado progress

The attraction of the written word is irresistible. It is irresistible. It is irresistible. It is irresistible. It is irresistible. It is irresistible.

CRICKETERS ILL OF THE WIND

It is a common-sense fact that the cricket season is a long one, and it is not surprising that the players are often ill of the wind. The reason for this is that the players are often playing in hot weather, and this can lead to indigestion and other ailments. It is important for the players to eat a healthy diet and to avoid overeating. They should also avoid drinking too much alcohol and caffeine. The players should also get plenty of rest and exercise. This will help them to stay healthy and to perform well on the field.

The players should also be aware of the fact that the weather can affect their performance. If it is too hot, they may become dehydrated and their concentration may be affected. If it is too cold, they may be unable to perform at their best. The players should be aware of the weather and adjust their clothing and diet accordingly. They should also be aware of the fact that the ground can affect their performance. If the ground is too hard, they may be unable to bat or bowl well. If the ground is too soft, they may be unable to bat or bowl well. The players should be aware of the ground and adjust their technique accordingly.

Change in lock

England's lock, J. G. Horne, has been replaced by the more experienced J. G. Horne. This change is expected to strengthen England's defence in the 12th Test match.

How not vital

The 12th Test match is considered to be a less vital contest than the previous Tests. This is due to the fact that the Australians are returning to the M.C.C. last match with Queensland at Brisbane. After virtually three years of absence, the Australians are returning to the M.C.C. last match with Queensland at Brisbane.

Tear gas ends riot: Police stoned

Police arrested with rifles, and a riot broke out. A number of people in the crowd were injured and the African Hospital suffering from shrapnel wounds.

Police used tear gas and water cannons to disperse the crowd. The rioters threw stones and bricks at the police.

The British Government has announced that it will send a mission to East Africa to investigate the situation.

PROGRESS ON CATHEDRAL

The cathedral in Nairobi is making good progress. The contractor has completed the foundation and is now erecting the walls.

The cathedral is being built on a site which has been donated by the Government.

The cathedral is expected to be completed in about two years.

CROPS DOING WELL IN TEITA HILLS IRRIGATION AREAS

The results of a year of irrigation in the Teita Hills District are being reported by the Provincial Commissioner for the Coast, Mr. Desmond O'Hagan, during a tour of the area.

O'Hagan stated that the crops are doing well and that the irrigation scheme is a success.

The irrigation scheme was inaugurated in 1957 and has since then benefited a large area of land.

O'Hagan is expected to return to Nairobi in a few days.

New step to avert plant diseases

INTERNATIONAL action is being taken to avert the spread of plant diseases. The International Commission for the Control of Plant Diseases has been set up.

The commission will be responsible for coordinating the work of national plant disease control organizations.

The commission's first task will be to identify the most serious plant diseases and to develop methods of control.

The commission will also be responsible for the exchange of information and the coordination of research.

HOLDEN tops the half-million

A landmark in Holden's history was reached during October when the first hundred thousand Holden was bought. Within yearly production now of 110,000 units, 40% of all light vehicles bought in Australia are Holdens. In other parts of the world, including East Africa, enthusiasm and demand grow daily for the exciting car — a marvel of modern workmanship, designed to travel with confidence and ease over the worst roads imaginable.

Some hard facts behind the story of Chinilla breeding

BY DEE REMINGTON

THE chinilla—most nearly trapped out of existence—is back in business in a big way. Its fabulous fur—softer and finer than mink—is coming into the collection of critical associates and chinchilla shows—even a chinchilla pet-shop.

And cashing in on the chinchilla boom are hundreds of men and women who hope to make a fortune out of its amazing fur in popularity.

It may be fun to keep chinchillas as pets, but it is no picnic to make a fortune.

Of about 100 chinilla breeders, only a few are still in business.

HOW MOTOR RACING HELPS TO IMPROVE THE FAMILY CAR

STERLING MOSS, who took second place in this year's World Motor racing championship, describes some of the benefits his driving has brought to his family car.

Only Sunday afternoon in summer, the roads of Britain are crowded with thousands of motorists and their families making their way to the sea and the country. Usually at the same time, however, in Europe, a racing driver is holding his car delicately on the knife-edge between victory and defeat, as this million-ton race disappears behind him at any moment.

Very few things could be further divorced from each other than these two types of driver, their techniques of driving and the cars they drive. But in reality their relationship is far closer than either of them might think, for the racing driver and his car are indirectly, but materially, helping to improve the family car. The pace and the speed of the racing driver and his car are indirectly, but materially, helping to improve the family car. The pace and the speed of the racing driver and his car are indirectly, but materially, helping to improve the family car.

Many a racing driver has been known to have a family car which is a masterpiece of engineering. This is because he has had to learn to drive a car which is a masterpiece of engineering. This is because he has had to learn to drive a car which is a masterpiece of engineering.

The chief advantage of the racing driver is that he has to drive a car which is a masterpiece of engineering. This is because he has had to learn to drive a car which is a masterpiece of engineering. This is because he has had to learn to drive a car which is a masterpiece of engineering.

Consequently, if a component is designed in the first place specifically for racing, it will survive the pounding it will receive in a family car. This is because it will have been tested in a family car.

The classic modern example of this is the engine. The type of engine has been known to last for many years by the motor industry, but only in recent years has it been adapted for use in an ordinary car.

Use in a motor race is unarguably the most thorough test that can be devised for a car. This is because it is a test that can be devised for a car. This is because it is a test that can be devised for a car.

Let's say you are a motorist who is interested in the motor industry. You will find that the motor industry is a very interesting one. This is because it is a very interesting one. This is because it is a very interesting one.

WHAT SHALL WE DO TONIGHT?

Visit a super cinema... or a toilet theatre?

Dance to the rhythms of many nations at a glittering night club... or wine and dine at a plush restaurant? Go to the ballet... or a symphony concert... or admire an evening display of ultra-modern shops?

WHATEVER YOU DO, you and your children can have the best of both worlds. Visit a super cinema... or a toilet theatre? STRAIGHT CIRCLES

The most direct way of passing electrical information around in busy office circles is through a Straight Private Automatic Exchange. Time and trouble is saved! Efficiency is greatly increased. There are many different installations to choose from, for both large and small organizations. Each embodies the most up-to-date equipment, backed by the many resources of a world wide organization specialising in communications. And you have the choice of cash or rental terms with local servicing.

DEFIANCE TO LAW PROGRESS IN TANGANYIKA Governor's warning

Members of the Select Committee of the House of Representatives in the United States have expressed their concern over the situation in Tanganyika. The committee, which was headed by the late Senator James Eastland, has issued a report which states that the government of Tanganyika is in a state of lawlessness and that the people are suffering from the effects of a civil war. The report also states that the government is not taking any steps to restore order and that the people are being oppressed by the ruling class.

The bride and groom were married at the home of Mrs. C. G. Shaw, 1215 S. 10th St., at 10:30 a. m. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. J. O'Connell, pastor of St. Francis Church, Portland.

The bride, Miss Helen Marie Latta, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Shaw, was given away by her father. She wore a gown of white tulle and lace, with a long veil and a crown of white flowers. Her bouquet consisted of white roses and carnations.

The groom, Mr. Peter Edward O'Connell, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Shaw, was dressed in a dark suit and a white shirt with a bow tie.

The wedding party included the bridesmaids, Misses Mary and Elizabeth O'Connell, and the groomsmen, Messrs. James and Robert O'Connell.

The reception was held at the home of Mrs. C. G. Shaw, where a large number of guests were present. The bride and groom were the center of attention, and the evening was a most enjoyable one.

Mr. and Mrs. John Latta (the bride's parents) and Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Shaw (the groom's parents) were the hosts of the wedding.

The bride chose a white tulle gown with a long veil and a crown of white flowers. Her bouquet consisted of white roses and carnations.
