Economic Mobilisation in Japan

Almost the entire resources and activities of Japan will be controlled by Government next year when the National Mobilization Act will come into force.

The Chairman of the Executive of the Japanese Government is thinking of preparing a bill to carry out the provisions of the act, under the name of the National Mobilization Act. This would involve the abolition of extraordinary rights which have been exercised by the Government.

Further measures for the complete economic mobilization of the Japanese have been announced. Provision is being made for the control of wages and working hours, the restriction of dividends payable by corporations, and power to requisition factories, land, buildings, and commodities. Practically the entire resources and activities of Japan will be placed under Government control.

A three-year plan for the expansion of industry is part of the scheme. It is expected that the full provisions of the National Mobilization Act will come into force early next year.

Natal's Victories Over Erosion In Reserves

An account of the progress being made by the South African Government in its campaign against soil erosion in the Natal reserves is given by a special correspondent of the "Natal Mercury."

The Department of Native Affairs has been successful in securing a number of immediate victories in its campaign against soil erosion in the Natal reserves. The Natal Mercury has reported that the "wild" mountains and hills, which were once a source of pride to the natives, are now being planted with trees and shrubs. The result is that the soil is being held in place and the water is being filtered through the ground.

Very Water

When the country begins to get through, water is the first thing that the natives notice. The water is clean and sweet, and it is good for the natives. The water is also good for the crops. The water is also good for the animals. The water is also good for the people. The water is also good for the land. The water is also good for the future.

Zero System

The zero system is a system of land use which is based on the principle of "zero" erosion. This means that the land is used in such a way that there is no erosion. This is done by planting trees and shrubs on the land. The trees and shrubs hold the soil in place and prevent it from being washed away.

Using Valley Floors

As part of its soil conservation policy the Department is encouraging natives from ploughing on the valley floors and trying to concentrate all agriculture at the bottom of the valleys, which is the most fertile soil.

Soil Conservation

The Department is also encouraging natives to plant trees and shrubs on the valley floors. This will help to hold the soil in place and prevent it from being washed away. The trees and shrubs will also help to improve the soil and make it more fertile.

The trees and shrubs will help to hold the soil in place and prevent it from being washed away. The trees and shrubs will also help to improve the soil and make it more fertile.

DUTY OF ALL BRITISH SUBJECTS

Defence Force Proposed In Tanganyika

It is stated "conspicuously" in the Standard that a compulsory defence liability should rest on every British subject in Tanganyika; Mr. J. Anderson (Mandini) raised the question of the desirability of creating an organized defence force, for all British subjects, whether in the form of a special constabulary or through the organization of the King's African Rifles or the Tanganyika Police.

Mr. Anderson's observations were carefully noted. The Chief Secretary said in reply that Mr. Anderson's observations were carefully noted. The Chief Secretary said in reply that Mr. Anderson's observations were carefully noted.

HOW CRISIS AFFECTED BALTIC SEA

Mobilisation of Sweden And Finland

Four people realize how far preparation was for war during the recent crisis save the shores of the Baltic, were a special circumstance of the Swedish Tones.

Herr Richard Sandström

He speaks at Helsinki on the effects of the mobilization of the Baltic Sea and the situation in the Baltic States.

The mobilization was the occasion of the Allied Islands, can be described as a declaration of the Finnish Court which, in a sense of general reaction, and was bound to stop up again.

Not unambiguously, this state of affairs was widely interpreted as a declaration that the Baltic and the Swedish allies in Finland had severed their ties with the German.

Further Mobilization. If their reaction reflected, for obvious reasons, from ignoring the danger, the fact is that the crisis had partially mobilized, primarily in order to cover an impending threat to the Allied Islands.

Defense of Helsinki. The fact that the Finnish-British military cooperation had been put into effect almost immediately has been one of the most interesting aspects of the pact.

WATER SUPPLIES IN NATIVE RESERVES

What P.W.D. Is Doing In Kenya

Approximately K10,000 of the £64,000 grant from the Kenya Government at the end of 1933 from the Colonial Development Fund is now being expended on the installation of water supplies and the carrying out of approved schemes in the Native Reserves.

Schemes are proceeding in many different districts at the moment and the general aim is to open up certain areas in the Native Reserves for settlement by natives. It is necessary to provide a shortage of water, to improve the existing supplies so far as quality is concerned, to open up pastures over a greater extent than at present and to provide water facilities on the stock routes.

The £64,000 grant from the Colonial Development Fund is spread over a period of four years and the first year's work is available for schemes and investigations early last year.

MINING AND COMMERCIAL FINANCIAL REVIEW

(By GEORGE A. TYBON)

As yet from political influences, the financial review for the month has been less than satisfactory. It is, however, a month which has been very busy in the financial world, and it is to be expected that the month will be a busy one.

MINING DEVELOPMENT. The need for a development fund has been emphasized in the last report by the Government. The Government is now considering the possibility of raising a fund of £100,000 for the purpose of financing the development of the mining industry. It is to be expected that the Government will be successful in raising this fund, and it will be a great help to the mining industry.

ROBIN AND COMMUNICATIONS. The Board of Directors of the Kenya Airways Corporation has decided to increase the number of flights between Nairobi and Mombasa. It is to be expected that this will be a great help to the shipping industry, and it will be a great benefit to the people of Kenya.

A Murder on Safari

A hint of elation appeared in Granger's eyes as he surveyed the man he was about to kill. Life, he reflected, was a convenient platitude...

He looked curiously at Beemah's crazy grin; at the protruding wisp of damp hair that fell below the level of his helmet; at the whole composite picture of the little man bending over a camera in the glare of the African sun.

What could such a woman as Lena be doing here? He had fluttered, coloured, rather than calmly, composedly, her hand meaningly 'rebuff' childlike innocence. But Granger, for all his pride in himself as an observer and connoisseur of women, saw only the surface of things.

It was a good accident that Granger happened to be in the neighbourhood of Beemah's camp. He had been looking for a woman to photograph. He had been looking for a woman to photograph. He had been looking for a woman to photograph.

"It's rather funny," he muttered, "that the lady has been so long in the bush. She has been so long in the bush. She has been so long in the bush."

"Best place for them," he told himself, "is in the bush. They are in the bush. They are in the bush. They are in the bush."

Granger, however, did not know that Beemah was a woman. He had been looking for a woman to photograph. He had been looking for a woman to photograph. He had been looking for a woman to photograph.

Granger, however, did not know that Beemah was a woman. He had been looking for a woman to photograph. He had been looking for a woman to photograph. He had been looking for a woman to photograph.

Granger, however, did not know that Beemah was a woman. He had been looking for a woman to photograph. He had been looking for a woman to photograph. He had been looking for a woman to photograph.

The Baobab Tree

By Murray Blak. The baobab tree is a common sight in the African bush. It is a tree of many uses. It is a tree of many uses. It is a tree of many uses.

It was a good accident that Granger happened to be in the neighbourhood of Beemah's camp. He had been looking for a woman to photograph. He had been looking for a woman to photograph. He had been looking for a woman to photograph.

La Femme S'Amuse

I FOR ONE... Ring out the Old-Ring in the New!

The end of a year brings memories of things that have happened—some bad, some good, some things that will never happen again. It takes with it memories of people—acquaintances who have become friends of a lifetime, and others who will never see again.

In a way, it comes tinged faintly with sadness and with regret for the many things that might have been and yet were not. But it brings with it fresh, fresh interests.

And so, like those who feel that the ring of the New Year is but a ring of the Old Year, they will remember the things that have happened in the past year.

It is not to be forgotten that the end of a year brings memories of things that have happened—some bad, some good, some things that will never happen again.

It is not to be forgotten that the end of a year brings memories of things that have happened—some bad, some good, some things that will never happen again.

Little Alvie and Miss Beulah

DAMON RUNYAN introduces:

MISS BEULAH BEAUREGARD who is loved more than herself
LITTLE ALVIE who is "always going around the race tracks with one or two crocodiles that he calls race horses."

PERSONALLY I never criticize Miss Beulah Beaurgard for breaking her engagement to Little Alvie, because from what she tells me she becomes engaged to him in spite of his false pretences, and I do not approve of guys using false pretences on girls, except, of course, when nothing else will do.

It seems that Little Alvie promises to show Miss Beulah Beaurgard the life of Riley, following the races with him, when he gets her to give up a first-class job displacing her place to the customers in the 900 Club, although Miss Beulah Beaurgard frankly admits that she has no objection to following the life of Riley, and afterwards Little Alvie states that he must be thinking of Four-year Riley when he makes the promise, and everybody knows that Four-year Riley is nothing but a hulk, in fact.

Anyway, the life Little Alvie shows Miss Beulah Beaurgard after they become engaged is the life of Riley, and afterwards Little Alvie states that he must be thinking of Four-year Riley when he makes the promise, and everybody knows that Four-year Riley is nothing but a hulk, in fact.

Anyhow, the life Little Alvie shows Miss Beulah Beaurgard after they become engaged is the life of Riley, and afterwards Little Alvie states that he must be thinking of Four-year Riley when he makes the promise, and everybody knows that Four-year Riley is nothing but a hulk, in fact.

Further, the life Little Alvie shows Miss Beulah Beaurgard after they become engaged is the life of Riley, and afterwards Little Alvie states that he must be thinking of Four-year Riley when he makes the promise, and everybody knows that Four-year Riley is nothing but a hulk, in fact.

Well, Miss Beulah Beaurgard has a top, and that there is no percentage in her remaining engaged, and many citizens put in her for her statement, and she is always going around the race tracks with one or two crocodiles that he calls race horses.

Miss Beulah Beaurgard says that she is very disappointed by the way she is being treated, and she is always going around the race tracks with one or two crocodiles that he calls race horses.

The Tragedy of Central Europe

AFTER AUSTRIA... CZECHOSLOVAKIA

The events of which the world would be much more cognizant if one could translate the activities of the former Austrian chancellors to the heads of the Government.

The prominent light to transpire the principal documents to a safe place enables us today to see the picture clearly. It is the first time that the public has been able to see the original documents to which the world has been denied access.

On August 25, 1938, however, the agreement for the re-annexation of Austria-Germany to the German Reich was signed. It was the first time that the world has been able to see the original documents to which the world has been denied access.

The events of which the world would be much more cognizant if one could translate the activities of the former Austrian chancellors to the heads of the Government.

From SIMLA The "E.A. Standard" Correspondent writes on EVENTS IN INDIA

H. H. The Aga Khan Speaks about Tanganyika... and Kenya.

His Highness the Aga Khan, who is in the region of the East African continent, has just received a letter from the British Government regarding the proposed re-annexation of Tanganyika and Kenya to the British Empire.

The Aga Khan has expressed his views on the proposed re-annexation, stating that he believes it is in the best interests of the African peoples to remain under British rule.

He has also mentioned the situation in the Sudan and the recent developments in the region.

The Aga Khan's views are of great importance in the current discussions regarding the future of the East African continent.

FIERCE FIGHTING IN SPANISH SNOWS Insurgents' Catalan Advance Continues

IN BITTERLY COLD WEATHER, FIERCE FIGHTING IS TAKING PLACE ON THE CATALAN FRONT ON THE... THE INSURGENT LINE ATTACKS NORTH TOWARDS A STRAIGHT LINE SOUTHWARDS FROM THE PYRENEES TO NEAR LERIDA. AT THE NORTHERN END OF THE LINE, THE TEMPERATURE IS SIX DEGREES BELOW ZERO. FAHRENHEIT.

According to reports received here the Spanish insurgents have launched a big drive against Lerida. The offensive had been expected for some time and began yesterday with a heavy bombardment along the line from 100 miles north-west of Barcelona. This is the first outbreak of fighting since the 1934-5 Catalan civil war which has been quiet for much more than three years.

The "Prager" says that the Spanish Government has been driven back to the Pyrenees. It is a no longer a good enough reason. The fact of the matter is that there is not a real road through, vigorous policy of Coast development. Nobody denies that there are large infertile areas, but the communications are and always have been a disgrace. The Coast is, in fact, an admirable example of our contention that Colonial Brides bear no relation to the economic condition of the country; on the basis of native tax revenue the expenditure is out of proportion.

The solution is, of course, a thorough-going plan to increase production and the sources of wealth throughout the whole Province. A promising start has been made in the institution of small holdings and the search for an angle of supply. It is worthy of comment that the investigation of water resources has been a neglected matter. (Continued at foot of next column)

Setting Natives at The Coast

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 29, 1954.—The Coast has never had a share of the time of Legislative Council during the recent session on the Budget. That was largely because the Member for Mombasa, who spoke for an hour and a half, made it part of his business to state the case for the Coast. As a new Member he had an accumulation of ideas, as well as of grievances. The Coast has always had a long list of grievances, amounting in the main to a general neglect of the needs and interests by the Government, and quite often there has been a feeling of alienation among the elected Members representing the up-country districts compared with the official members of the House to misappropriate the share of the Colony's revenue which the people in the lower altitudes would be entitled to. Happily, education is spreading at the Coast. People in the Highlands have never forgotten that there is a port; it means something to many of them who make their living exporting produce and who only see Mombasa at long intervals when world price levels enable them to enjoy the luxury of a holiday. But the people at the Coast have not, hitherto, always remembered that they have a hinterland. Perhaps it is the fiction of a Port of Call, where abandoned and the population of Mombasa and the littoral became in name as well as in fact Kenya Colonists, the process of education would be hastened.

When the Chief Secretary replied to the charge, repeated by Mr. Nicol, that the Coast was suffering from an excess of grandiose schemes. He supported the assertion by pointing out that whereas in the Coast Province the social services of a quarter of a million people cost £75,000, those in the Nyasa Province, with four times the population, cost only £10,000. And whereas Nyasa contributes to the revenue the sum of £207,000, that in only a modest beginning. It is the investigation of water resources appears to have had to wait a fourteen Administrative Officers, and a much smaller population has 13. Of course if Chief Secretaries and other people with responsibilities regarded Kenya as a business concern (which is no doubt the concern of the Member for Mombasa) they would at once say that the Coast branch was not a very prosperous part of the firm and either needed a special drive to increase its turnover (with replacement of staff where necessary by officers who would be more expert or special qualifications for the job), or alternatively had a limited development capacity which would therefore suffer a reduction in its share of the general expenditure; and possibly of staff too. Happily, the Coast nobody takes the latter view. It would, however, help towards an understanding of the whole related problem of Kenya progress if we had at the Coast a clear conception of the "prospective" needs in several areas into which the Colony is divided, for the Coast number not more than one per cent. of the forces engaged.

The Insurgents claim successes, and the capture of many towns along the line, though progress is slow among the Pyrenees.

BRITAIN'S FIRST WHITE CHRISTMAS FOR YEARS

Slight Thaw, But More Frost At Night

A SLIGHT RELAXING OF THE GRIP OF THE FROST DURING THE DAY WAS THE WEATHER'S CHRISTMAS GIFT TO BRITAIN, BUT FOR THE MOST PART IT WAS A REAL 'WHITE CHRISTMAS,' THE FIRST FOR MANY YEARS.

Christmas mail to England was 25 per cent. higher than last year and railway stations in London were crowded on Christmas Eve with people waiting for trains for south and west. Only day and night work, by rail and otherwise, together with the beneficial results of the slight rise in temperature, averted a Christmas mail shortage in London.

The temperature was recorded in London and last night there was the first snow for nearly five days of the year. The snow, however, was not very heavy and melted away in the morning. The temperature in the south and west was not so low as in the north and east. The snow was not so heavy as in the north and east. The snow was not so heavy as in the north and east.

COLONIAL DEBATE AGAIN DISSESSED

Divergent Views on Joint East African Board

WHEN THE COLONIAL ISSUE, AND PARTICULARLY THE RECENT DEBATE IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS, BY MR. MALCOLM MACDONALD'S STATEMENT, WERE DISCUSSED AT THE LAST MEETING OF THE JOINT EAST AFRICAN BOARD IN LONDON, DIFFERING VIEWS ABOUT THE VALUE OF THE STATEMENT WERE EXPRESSED.

Colonel Pembury, the Chairman, who had taken a prominent part in the debate, thought that Mr. Macdonald's statement had gone a very long way and was regarded as fairly definite in Germany. Mr. Somerville, another Member of Parliament, thought that the statement was conclusive.

Mr. F. S. Jellicoe disagreed and said that he thought that Germany had regarded Mr. Macdonald as saying one thing and meaning another. The Colonial issue was again one of the principal subjects discussed at the last meeting of the Joint East African Board. Colonel Pembury the chairman, said that a good deal had happened since the last meeting and that the matter was laid down by the House of Commons on Wednesday, December 2nd. He went on to give a brief outline of the debate. Colonel Pembury stated that he thought the general feeling in the House was undoubtedly one of sympathy with the views of Mr. Macdonald, but that he was not sure that it had given a very long way. Mr. F. S. Jellicoe's statement was also regarded as fairly definite in Germany.

RESHUFFLE OF BRITISH CABINET EXPECTED

Younger, All-Tory Ministry Wanted?

INTERESTING CROSS-CURRENTS IN BRITISH POLITICS AND IN THE CABINET CONSTITUTION ARE DESCRIBED BY THE 'EAST AFRICAN STANDARDS' LONDON CORRESPONDENT, IN THE MESSAGE PUBLISHED BELOW.

It was briefly reported a few days ago that junior members of the Government had complained to Mr. Chamberlain of the absence of some of the Cabinet ministers during the absence of Mr. Chamberlain, and it is reported that some of the younger Conservative ministers are wanting to see all the non-Conservative members of the Government removed from office.

We should all like to see the Cabinet remodelled on more youthful lines, but there are not many youthful men of promise amongst the London correspondents.

There are just two breaks in the Cabinet, and it is not clear that the Government are really much to be feared. The Government are really much to be feared. The Government are really much to be feared. The Government are really much to be feared.

Below the Register, For Taxation, £82,500. It is interesting to note that the resignation of Mr. Chamberlain is understood to have had to do with the charges in the resignation of Mr. Chamberlain.

Speech That Led To German-U. S. Tension. Greater detail of the speech by Mr. Chamberlain is available in the following report.

Mr. Chamberlain was attacked by Mr. Harold Lasker, who has accused the Government of high degree of suspicion.

It is understood that in any case the resignation of Mr. Chamberlain is understood to have had to do with the charges in the resignation of Mr. Chamberlain.

In Lamu, there has died Princess, a beautiful girl of the Mddivani Prince.

It would appear from the correspondence that the parties were in the habit of different treatment on the part of the Government.

The third question was: Have the Government any plan to take steps by way of their children's education?

It is understood that in any case the resignation of Mr. Chamberlain is understood to have had to do with the charges in the resignation of Mr. Chamberlain.

Empire Air Routes Mix-up

HUGE MAILS AND PLANE DELIVERY DELAYS

Imperial Airways are in such a state of confusion that the first time passengers cannot fly to a British town to Empire capital and most of British Christmas air traffic to Europe may have to be cancelled, says Victor Burnett, the Sunday Express air correspondent just before Christmas.

Passengers for Africa cannot fly there at all until the end of January. Until a month before the Empire sent the middle of January. Delays in having adequate aircraft, but the rash has cut off this down to two.

European Service
Now back at the European service. Imperial Airways used to operate their services in Europe. These of these have London-Nairobi and London-London-Nairobi and London-London-Nairobi.

Only the British service is still running. And this is better equipped than any other service that takes on long-haul routes on the continent.

The reason for the trouble is that the 200 aircraft of the Empire Airways have been grounded—left at the mercy of the weather. The 200 aircraft have been grounded—left at the mercy of the weather.

Many Forced African Marriages Alleged

Several instances of the Kenya Government's attempt to force marriages of African girls and the proposal that all forced marriages of African girls, be made illegal in all the provinces, was voted at a meeting in the Caxton Hall, Westminster, at which Archbishop and Mrs. Owen were the principal speakers.

Archbishop Owen declared that statements by East African Governors that coercion is practically non-existent were untrue, and Mrs. Owen declared that education for African women was the solution.

RACING
THE NAIROBI NEW YEAR MEETING
Solway's Chances In The East African Derby
(BY OUR RACING CORRESPONDENT)

THE most important meeting of the Kenya racing season begins this afternoon when the race for the East African Derby starts the chief event on the card. After the recent runs the public will be really good and there is every prospect of excellent racing. Solway has been a firm favourite for the Derby ever since this son of Archway won the United Arab Emirates in October. Nevertheless, several other horses are strongly fancied that it can stay 14 miles in public, a very different test to a trial on the home gallop.

In these days the Nairobi race is a very pleasant place to spend an afternoon, very mixed whether the main interest is social, gambling, or the horse itself. The "Milkmaid" is a social gathering, and the "Milkmaid" is a very pleasant gathering. The "Milkmaid" is a very pleasant gathering. The "Milkmaid" is a very pleasant gathering.
