ATOMS FOR PEACE PROPOSALS APPROVED Soviet support for West resolution PROMPT ESTABLISHMENT OF U.N. AGENCY SOUGHT

THE United Nations Political Committee has unanimously approved a Western resolution proposing that President Eisenhower's "atoms for peace" plan.

Russia voted for the motion after two amendments which she submitted had been defeated. The motion will now go for final approval to the General Assembly.

In its planetary session, where another unanimous vote is assured.

Mr. Soboles, the Russian delegate, said that his international co-operation in the production of atomic energy. Mr. Dag Hammarskjöld, the UN Secretary-General, said by his decision, the member Governments had embarked on a course that might well prove to be epoch making.

The resolution endorses the negotiations now in progress for the establishment of "a quickly as possible" of an International Atomic Energy Agency which will give the agency is established it negotiate an appropriate form of agreement with the United States, and to the suggestion of the United Nations.

All members of the United Nations and specialised agencies will be invited to the conference. The resolution recommends a "conspiracy" committee comprising representatives of Brazil, Canada, France, India, the Soviet Union, Britain, and the United States — to issue invitations to the conference, to prepare and circulate classified agreements, to provide the necessary staff and facilities for setting up the agency will take place in Geneva in 1955. It also asks the United States to make a contribution to the agency.

U.S. WARNING ON USE OF THE VETO

At the same time it is expected that the United States will carry on similar negotiations with the Soviet Union. Before the vote, Mr. Cabot Corcoran, American delegate to the conference, said that a Soviet proposal to be the Atomic Energy Agency to the Security Council — where there are five permanent members — does not have the necessary support of the sponsors in the United States. The first Soviet Union amendment should be "established as an

MINISTRY EXPLAINS TOP TENANCY BILL

Second Reading given in Legislative Council

KENYA LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL, yesterday gave a Second Reading to the Landlord and Tenant (Shops and Hotels) (Temporary Provisions) Bill, which it is proposed should come into force on December 25.

The Minister for Commerce and Industry, Mr. V. A. Madondo, told the House that the proposal legislation did not purport to extend the present control on shops and hotels but merely provided safeguards against unfair terms. The proposal was sponsored by an MP, Mr. Mr. J. S. Patel (Western Area) as a private member who suggested its withdrawal or at least its reference to a select committee where evidence could be given by representatives of public bodies.

Other speakers were critical of certain aspects of the Bill and intimated they would move amendments if the Bill were passed. Mr. Madondo said that the Bill was intended to protect tenants who were being put out of business because their landlords had been unable to recover their investment of a suitable business available.

Many relations

The House began by referring to a speech made by the Minister for Commerce and Industry in 1953 to extend the increase of the present control on shops and hotels for three years. He expressed the hope that the Bill would be introduced in the next session of the Council.

Balance

A court was appointed, therefore, at its discretion and upon application, to order a grant of a new tenancy. It was stated that the Bill would be those tenants who were being put out of business because their landlords had been unable to recover their investment of a suitable business available.

Board consulted

In answer to the question, the Government said that the Board of Trade had been consulted on the Bill. It was stated that the Board of Trade had been consulted on the Bill.

Some inquiries

Mr. H. P. Harris (Northern Area) asked the Minister for Commerce and Industry if he would be prepared to state that the Bill would be those tenants who were being put out of business because their landlords had been unable to recover their investment of a suitable business available.

Shops and hotels

The Minister explained that the Bill would be those tenants who were being put out of business because their landlords had been unable to recover their investment of a suitable business available.

Nothing to fear

The Bill is not designed to put tenants out of business. It is intended to protect tenants who are being put out of business because their landlords have been unable to recover their investment of a suitable business available.

Labour rebels face expulsion threat

SEVEN DISOBEYED LEADERS

LABOUR Members of Parliament were denied by 131 members in 90 minutes on seven occasions from their parliamentary opposition for disobeying the official members' orders during the rearmament. The seven members defied instructions in last week's debate on the rearmament for West German sovereignty and for the rearmament of West Germany.

Instead of obtaining leave of absence, they refused to attend the debate on the rearmament of West Germany, and the seventh voted in favour of the rearmament. A suggestion that the members should be expelled was understood to have been made by 171 votes.

Stormy meeting

The decision, made at a stormy meeting of the Labour Party on December 16, was the first time since the war that the seven are expelled from the party. The seven are expelled from the party. The seven are expelled from the party.

Manpower policy to be reconsidered

COMMITTEE OF INQUIRY SET UP BY GOVERNMENT

The Minister for Internal Security and Defence, Mr. J. C. Usher (Mombasa), has announced that the Government will set up a committee of inquiry to review its manpower policy.

The committee will be headed by Mr. J. C. Usher and will include representatives from the Ministry of Labour, the Ministry of Education, and the Ministry of Health.

The committee will be asked to consider the Government's manpower policy in the light of the needs of the economy and the availability of manpower resources.

The committee will also be asked to consider the Government's policy on the recruitment of foreign labour and the training of local manpower.

The committee will be asked to submit a report to the Government within three months.

The Government will then consider the committee's recommendations and may decide to revise its manpower policy.

Act a brake on education of Africans

UNION CATHOLIC BY ARCHBISHOP
The Anglican Archbishop of Cape Town, Dr. G. H. Cousins, said in his charge to the House of Bishops of the Anglican Communion that the Union of South Africa should act as a brake on the education of Africans in South Africa.

Dr. Cousins was referring to the Act of 1953 providing for the expansion of the education of Africans from the province of Natal to the Department of Native Affairs and for the gradual transfer of education to the Government. The Act also provides for the establishment of a separate church league in the Union of South Africa.

Down on to streets

Dr. Cousins said that the "British education" implied in the Act would be a "down on to streets" education. He said that the Act would be a "down on to streets" education, and that the Act would be a "down on to streets" education.

RECAPITULATION OF THE MAU MAU UPRISING
The Mau Mau Uprising in Kenya was a significant event in the country's history. It began in 1952 and lasted until 1954. The Mau Mau fighters were led by Dedan Kimathi and other prominent leaders. The British government responded with a military campaign to suppress the uprising. The Mau Mau fighters were eventually defeated, and the British government implemented reforms to address the grievances of the Kenyan people. The Mau Mau Uprising is remembered as a pivotal moment in Kenya's struggle for independence.

KIKUYU WORKERS HARMED

BY MAU MAU

Employers' preference for labour from other tribes

At the end of its first complete year under the Emergency, the Kenya Government Labour Department shows in its annual report how the Colony's troubles have affected almost every branch of its work from unemployment to wage demands, from trade unionism to labour exchanges, from housing to industrial disputes and from the employment of women and children to the estimated long-term effect on the Kikuyu.

The report touches several times on the ways in which the Kikuyu have suffered because of Mau Mau. From this tribe came many of the country's most industrial and intelligent workers, and those most likely to form the basis of a stable labour force. The situation, however, has now changed radically.

The report states there was the likelihood that for many years to come employers would be reluctant to employ Kikuyus they employed and give preference to workers of other tribes.

Difficultly greater

In a review of the Emergency, the report says that one of the distressing features of the Emergency has been its effect on workers, whose lives had previously been spent wholly in the settled areas. Many of those who had to pull up their roots and return to a native environment quite foreign to them, who occupied were often extremely reluctant to receive them.

It is clear that the Emergency continues, the greater will be the difficulty for Kikuyus to re-establish in the new lands and outside the tribe.

Most in agriculture

Of the 1,000,000 Kikuyus there were 801,000 people in all forms of employment. The report states, "The Colony's African labour force totalled 43,763. There were 11,444 Kikuyus males and 27,342 Asian and other non-African males in employment. Females numbered 4,000. The report also states that the number of all races engaged in agriculture totalled 31,400, nearly half of the total African labour force."

Labour shortage

Although the figure for Africa in employment showed an increase of 17,000 over 1953, the report estimates that this must be partly attributed to a better coverage by the census. There were some shortages of labour in the Rift Valley and Central Provinces at the beginning of the year, but the position improved when recruitment from Nyassa, Malakhas and other areas was obtained.

The report says there is no unemployment among Africans.

Customs boat arrests three dhows in its first swoop

The Zanzibar Customs patrol boat, the Shahab, in its first swoop, arrested to-day three dhows suspected of being used for smuggling in Pemba. Two of the craft were confiscated by the Government.

The Shahab was carrying six bags of smuggled goods which were found which was unsatisfied to carry the goods. The boat was carrying 11 people from the mainland and was carrying 100 lbs of opium. The boat was carrying 100 lbs of opium. The boat was carrying 100 lbs of opium.

NAKURU RATE INCREASE AVOIDED BY ECONOMIES

£9,000 reduction in estimates

NAKURU'S rates next year will remain unchanged at 31 per cent on the unimproved value of land in the municipality. It was decided at the monthly meeting of the Nakuru Municipal Board.

Prince Aly Khatun will be allowed to see daughter

Tim arid Miss Rita Hayward is in an £800 a year support from Prince Aly Khatun for their five-year-old daughter Yamin under a divorce settlement in London.

Elections in Jamaica

Jamaica will have a general election on January 11. Mr. William Hamilton, the Chief Minister, has announced that the election will be held on January 11.

Decision awaited on 1956 grants

Zanzibar does not know what her development prospects are for 1956 and meanwhile there is doubt whether the whole programme will be able to proceed. He said that the proposals for 1956 are not yet available.

Decision next year

The Mayor of Nakuru, Cecil W. H. Bayer, said that despite all the proposed economies, present services would be maintained next year and certain essential services would be extended. It was obvious, however, that with a rapidly growing town the Nakuru municipality would be needed in the future.

Good Soups Without Meat

If you are trying to reduce the cost of living, why not try and eliminate soup from your bill? Many delicious vegetable soups can be made without any meat stock, and there are a few ideas.

Cream of Tomato

Was about two pounds of really ripe tomatoes, cut into quarters, place in a saucepan with a teaspoonful of sugar and one small chopped onion; cook for five minutes at 15 lbs. It is not necessary to add any pressure or to use the pressure cooker as usual, the release valve will start to ring to save the tomatoes through a two ounces of butter in another saucepan, add one and half ounces of flour and stir until smooth. Then mix the hot and blend in one pint of milk, add the tomato puree. Return the soup to the fire, bring to the boil and add a little salt. A few drops of green sea weed can be made in a similar way with green peas and broad beans or green peas and broad beans or green peas and broad beans.

Many of the new dresses are carbon copies of last season's styles. Straps are down with full ties in the front and matching "cover-up" boleros, so fear that last year's best seller will become this year's flop.

Chicken soup

- 1 chicken cut-up
 - 2 lbs. salt water
 - 2 cups sliced onions or leeks
 - 1 onion
 - 1 parsley
 - 1 small dried thyme
 - 1 small dried turmeric
 - 1 bay leaf
 - 1 cup rice
- Put the chicken bones, onions and leeks and water in the pressure cooker and cook for 20 minutes at 15 lb. pressure. Add all the other ingredients and pressure-cook for a further five minutes.

BLUEPRINT FOR THE FASHIONS OF 1935

By Dorothy Barkley

IN the materials, not styles, the dress story will be told this year. Around the London show, the talk centres on new fabrics.

One of them is presumably bleached cotton which is being used for full-skirted dresses with scooped-in necklines. New materials are being used, there's no doubt about that, but there's no doubt about the fact that the dress story is permanent, doubtless to last it before long. It is a simple length of the material was taken for two years—and it came out smiling.

Another new cotton pattern is an appearance this year in white serge (terry-cloth) and in blue and white broad. Harkness was the first to do this, and match the good things, and much cotton and coffee.

Then there is hand-bleached cotton which has been used in a line of color. It comes to us from Jamaica, where lengths of cotton are printed locally with early printed tropical floral designs.

The color which is going to make fashion news in a really English Channel way. It is a wonderful color for people for a sunny climate and will probably come down slowly. The money, we see it in the social dresses. But one of the most elegant fashion jobs, had stolen a march on them and was wearing a hat and coat of the same shade.

Many of the new dresses are carbon copies of last season's styles. Straps are down with full ties in the front and matching "cover-up" boleros, so fear that last year's best seller will become this year's flop.

Low lucky are those looking for new styles.

The designers who have taken Dior's new line to heart are few and far between. However, if you search carefully you will find a few here and there, but for the most part, they are still wearing the styles of last year. They are still wearing the styles of last year. They are still wearing the styles of last year.

The thin-and-white two-piece design of sheer dress in black motif and beaded lace is printed on steel.

One of the new inexpensive cottons. This dress has a lead print along the edges of the stripes to give it an extra crisp look.

DIOR BACKS VOGUE FOR COSTUME JEWELLERY

Inn Signs Of The Times

MANY things are changing in Britain these days but the colourful inn sign which is such a picturesque mark of the "local" is not one of them, nor is it likely to die so far a long time to come.

There are 12,000 public-houses in the country, and their signboards whether they stand in the wet or the bright sunshine or are brightly illuminated at night, are a striking feature of the landscape. Many of these signs are modern, reflecting the advances in advertising and design of the past few years, but many are old-fashioned, and some are of a type which has almost disappeared.

The variety of signs is almost infinite, and many are of a type which is almost unique. Some are of a type which is almost unique, and some are of a type which is almost unique.

There is no exact reason why the inn sign should have survived, but it is a sign which has survived for a long time. It is a sign which has survived for a long time, and it is a sign which has survived for a long time.

Churchill As A Parliamentarian

EARL WINSTON has written this article on Sir Winston Churchill, who will be 80 in four days' time. A week today LORD JUSTICE BIRKETT will write on 'Churchill as an orator.'

SIR WINSTON CHURCHILL'S PARLIAMENTARIAN career has presented a remarkable picture of rises and falls throughout its existence which has by no means always coincided with the changes of fortune of the parties to which he has belonged.

Decline

IN the early thirties, after the formation of the National Government, of which he was not a member, there was a distinct decline in Churchill's prestige and prominence about his personality and character, which were so prominent in the 1930 Parliament, began to recede in the thirties and onwards.

His influence

MUCH has been written about achievements of a statesman in the darkest hour of Britain's history. In the years 1940-1945, Lord Lema has been said about his influence in Parliament and the joint contribution which he brought to the House of Commons in World War II.

The secret

He attained this achievement by a series of qualities, which, brilliance and had on the House and the House of Commons which he has so long led. In his last year will over 70 and after having undergone a period of tremendous strain and terrible loss, he has emerged as Prime Minister in the previous five years. It cannot be denied, I think, that no other United Kingdom statesman has approached Churchill's record in this regard.

Credit to both

THE general relationship between Churchill and Parliament in the World War II, it is a credit to both. It is a credit to both. It is a credit to both.

It cost £3 to collect £1 fine

JOHANNESBURG traffic fines, collected by motorists, amounted last year to £121,000, but it cost the Traffic Department almost three times this amount to collect the money, according to Mr. Neville Dierman, the department's new chief traffic officer.

It is estimated that the average cost of a motorist's fine for parking is £1.10, but the cost of the motorist's fine for parking is £1.10, but the cost of the motorist's fine for parking is £1.10.

CHINESE INVASION OF ISLAND REPULSED Force 'annihilated' by Nationalists NO MOVE BY AMERICAN FLEET TO INTERVENE

CHINESE Communist troops which yesterday invaded Wuchu, a Nationalist-held island 80 miles west of the main Nationalist stronghold of Formosa, were "annihilated" according to a Nationalist Defence Ministry spokesman.

In Easasia it was stated that the attack on Wuchu started early yesterday. Ten gunboats supported the invasion with an "intense bombardment," which was followed by an amphibious assault by troops landed from motorized landing craft.

Reports of the fighting were conflicting. Nationalist forces claimed that they had "annihilated" the invading force, said that many prisoners were taken as the Nationalist Air Force and Navy joined ground troops in repelling the invaders.

In Hongkong, however, it was reported that the battle for Wuchu was still going on yesterday and that "heavy fighting" was in progress.

The American Seventh Fleet "neutralizing" the Formosa Strait between Formosa and the Chinese mainland has so far made no move to support the defenders of Wuchu. Late yesterday the 13,000-ton United States cruiser Toledo was still at anchor in Hongkong Harbour and her crew were ordered to leave.

Later, New York Radio reported that the United States Navy had ordered the Toledo to the defence of the Nationalist island. The Navy Department also stated that the Toledo was to be ordered to return to the East Coast.

Wuchu is a Nationalist-held island in the north-eastern part of the Formosa Strait. It is one of the Communist-occupied islands of the Formosa Strait.

MULTI-RACIAL AIM 'GRADUAL' Success despite extremist views—Mr. Blundell

MR. MICHAEL BLUNDELL, said in London he believed the Morrison Plan for multi-racial government in the Colony would succeed in bringing the races together despite "extremists in all groups."

Mr. Blundell, as he gave a joint meeting of the Royal African and the Royal Empire Societies the last night to the Kenyan, said "Success despite extremist views—Mr. Blundell."

Mr. Oliver Lyttelton, Secretary of State for the Colonies, said that the Morrison Plan was not a "blueprint" but a "framework" for a multi-racial government. He said that the Morrison Plan was a "gradual" process and that it would be implemented in stages.

Sir Winston's 'rearm Nazis' plan defended

Sir Winston Churchill was strongly defended by many members of the House of Commons yesterday in the controversy over his statement that it would be necessary to rearm Germany in the event of a Communist takeover of the German Government.

Thursday's newspapers, led by the Daily Telegraph, were full of articles expressing dismay and hostility to Sir Winston's rearmament proposal. The opposition opinion was widely expressed in the House of Commons yesterday.

The Daily Telegraph, in its leading article, said that Sir Winston's proposal was "a rearmament of Germany in the event of a Communist takeover of the German Government."

Rebuff for colour bar proposer UNION CHIEFS IGNORE PLAN

TRADE Union leaders administered a snub to Mr. Jim Morrison, Minister of Labour, when he proposed a colour bar in his Bill for the promotion, prospects and working conditions of the coloured population in the Colony.

Mr. Morrison had submitted a Bill to the Legislative Council yesterday, which would have provided for a colour bar in the Colony. The Bill would have provided for a colour bar in the Colony.

ASIANS 'NOT GIVEN FAIR CHANCE' IN THE FORCES

Multi-racial regiment and training centres urged

A SUGGESTION that Asians had not been given a fair chance to serve in the security forces was made by Mr. D. S. Madan (Government Member) in the Legislative Council today.

Mr. Madan said that the Government should consider the possibility of forming a multi-racial training centre for the security forces. He said that the Government should also consider the possibility of forming a multi-racial regiment.
