SUPPLEMENT TO MARK THE INAUGURATION OF EAST AFRICAN RAILWAYS CORPORATION

On June 6, 1967, a Treaty for East African Co-operation was signed in Kampala by the three Heads of State and came into effect on December 1, 1967.

One of the remis of the Treaty was that the E.A.R. and H. would be separated into two independent of the control of the separated into two independent of the control of the East African Community. Intelly January 1, 1969, was nominated as a sarpet date for this relative to the control of th

NEW DIMENSION IN SPECIALIZED FREIGHT

Specialized freight equipment, designed to meet the varied transportation needs of modern industry, agriculture and natural resources is one of many ways in which E.A.R. is availing itself of the opportunities and challenges of over expanding markets in East and Central Africa. Special-purpose wagons along with modern handling facilities, electronic data processing and enlarged freight terminal facilities are spurring the development of new rail traffic potential throughout the entire system.

This marketing flexibility and foresight in providing for the fast-changing requirements of

Railways may see new kind of steam age will our grandchildren know what a steam engine is? Will it be a remote relic that lives only in the pages of boys' books and gin the heart of every middle-aged man who once longed to drive the Plying Scotsman?

It is beginning to look very runch as though this will not be the case. The age of steam may be officially dead — Britain, creator of the railway engine, pensioned off her last steam locomotive last year — but it seems determined not to lie down.

Indeed, it was recently estimated that in Britain there are now more active steam-engine enthusiasts than in the days when every crack express was hauled by a "kteamer".

Poligrip is an important part of my make up. I mean, what's the point in choosing just the right shade of lipstick, and wearing a really good perfume if you haven't the confidence to relax and be yourself. Poligrip gives me that confidence. A few dabs of Poligrip on my dentures in the morning keeps them firmly in place right through the day. I can eat what I like, laugh... drink and really enjoy life. And I feel utterly confident. In other words I can be myself. Take my word for it. If, like me, you wear

Overcoming the manufacturers' dilemma

Motor manufacturers always seem to be in a dilemma — should they-bring out a new model with the consequent cost of tooling up, testing and launching it, and the risk of a flop, or continue with a well-tried model and watch the sales igradually dwelling away.

Buyers become chary of makers that introduce new models two frequently partly because of high depreciation, but also though difficulty with spares for the older types, as the agency is less able to maintain a comprehensive stock for all the variations.
