Deflationary moves feared by City dealers

FOCUS ON FINANCE

LONDON stockmarkets were unsettled yesterday by the latest economic bulletin that showed a less encouraging picture of unimproved, but an overall slight deflationary movement, but lowered demand to many exports, through strikes and some commodity price falls.

The London market opened with a slight decline in the opening hour, but recovered to close with a slight gain. The 100 index closed at 100.12, up from 99.88 on Monday.

The market was unsettled by reports that the Government was considering a deflationary budget for the next financial year, which would involve a reduction in public expenditure and an increase in taxation.

The City dealers are concerned that such a move would lead to a further decline in the value of the pound sterling, which would have a detrimental effect on the export trade.

UNILEVER PLANS £22m TAKEOVER

THE giant Anglo-Dutch Unilever group announced its latest acquisition today, making a £22 million cash bid for the British biggest soap maker, including companies. This move already covers 56 per cent of the firm, the Standard, London Co., founded in 1885 by an American, Mr. William J. Aldred.

The takeover offer had been made in a circular given to the shareholders, headed by the firm's chairman and managing director, Mr. W. J. Aldred.

A Unilever spokesman said the bid was being made "in the belief that the Standard Soap Co. will give us a valuable addition to our soap-making interests in other countries, the Unilever" said.

Mr. P. B. Matunga (Tanganyika) had asked: "Why minimum does the Minister propose to institute to stop the continuing fall of labour productivity in our ports and particularly at Mombasa?"

Mr. Mwarumba admitted that labour productivity at Mombasa had fallen to 40 percent since 1945. Working parties were being formed by a work-study team which had made many desirable suggestions for working methods.

Management and labour had agreed to set up a new Joint Productivity Committee to study working conditions at Mombasa and other ports. The committee would be made up of representatives of management and workers. It would be asked to report on the situation in the ports and to suggest ways of improving it. Up to 100 people a day are queuing for advice at the Rent Control Administration Office in Nairobi's Law Courts to testify to rapidly growing confusion in which the only people benefiting are exploiters such as those referred to in recent Government statements.

EVICION RESTRICTED

The landlord cannot evict a tenant whilst he will need pay his rent or make a payment, or the landlord must be the house to live in, that a landlord can raise the rent if he can prove he has had possession of the house after 1962.

KEY MONEY

Their names appear in the proceedings of the court. Many people have had to pay key money to their landlords in order to obtain possession of the house. This money is often paid in instalments and the landlord is often obliged to give it back when the tenant leaves.

SEVEN STAND UNPOSED IN NAIROBI POLLS

Seven candidates were elected to represent the constituencies of Nairobi in the 1963 general election. The candidates were: Mr. J. M. Njoroge (U.P.), Mr. J. N. Njoroge (K.P.), Mr. J. N. Njoroge (K.P.), Mr. J. N. Njoroge (K.P.), Mr. J. N. Njoroge (K.P.), Mr. J. N. Njoroge (K.P.), Mr. J. N. Njoroge (K.P.).

NO CEILING

There is no ceiling on the amount of rent a landlord can charge. This is often a source of complaint, as tenants are often forced to pay exorbitant rents. The Government has not been able to enforce a rent ceiling due to various loopholes in the Rent Control Act.

TAX WARNING

The Government has issued a warning to landlords and tenants regarding the taxation of rent. Landlords are required to declare the full amount of rent received, and tenants are required to pay taxes on their rental income. Failure to do so may result in severe penalties.

THE GREAT EAST AFRICAN STANDARD FOR INDIA

Death of Mr. Nehru stuns nation

WAILING crowd burst through the police cordon into the house in New Delhi where Jawaharlal Nehru lay dead yesterday. The grief-stricken nation mourned the maker of modern India. His body will be cremated early today on the banks of the Jamuna River, the spot where Gandhi was cremated 16 years ago. State mourning will last 12 days.

TEMPORARY PREMIER SWORN IN

Thousands surged to the home when he died after a sudden heart attack. Both houses of Parliament are still in session. Nehru died of a massive heart attack in a room which he had reserved for himself in the Prime Minister's residence.

Successor an open question

Mr. Gulzaril Nanda, the Home Minister, as Senior Cabinet Member, was sworn in as Prime Minister, but the question, who will be his successor, is still an open one. Mr. Nehru is the only man in the cabinet who has given reasons for his own refusal to be nominated. "People would be jealous of his status," he said. Mr. Nehru's body lay under a white sheet on a huge double bed, surrounded by a sea of men in whom which suspicion to Hindus, accentuated the pallor of his face. Two white candles, which he had placed with crossed staves tall above his head.

He was brought down to the mortuary in the night. When the bedroom door was closed for the night, the body was placed in a coffin. The coffin was carried to the mortuary in the night. The mortuary was a double-deck bus. The body was placed in a coffin. The coffin was carried to the mortuary in the night.

"Balance" is the key word. Because you can get too far in either direction. Too little or too much. Lonsdale Research developed the "Micronite" filter to do a good job in filtration. # Children's health problems urgently needed in Nairobi

One of the biggest problems facing the Child Welfare Society of Kenya was to urgently launch a campaign for babies and young children.

Mr. G. Gilbert, secretary of the Nairobi branch's annual meeting yesterday.

Mr. Gilbert explained that the society often had homeless babies and nowhere to put them. Sometimes they had to be taken to a refuge which was not at all suitable.

Enough foodstuffs were available for the day although the society had recruited African housewives and the domestic expenditure had been almost abandoned or miserably skimpy. A house was needed for these babies.

The president said that the work of the branch had been very busy. A further 266 families, involving 1,916 children, had been visited. The society had also been asked for medical help. Some of about four cases had been treated. Some of about four cases had been treated.

The home feeding scheme continued to be one of the branch's major activities and up to 100 families provided with food. The society had also been asked for medical help. Some of about four cases had been treated.

The East African Medical Officer, Nairobi, had been asked for medical help. Some of about four cases had been treated. The society had also been asked for medical help.

Further the medical officer was the necessity to continue to care for the children who were members of the general population. The society had also been asked for medical help.

KENYA'S AIR FORCE IS BORN

Premier says Navy may follow soon

The Kenya Air Force was inaugurated yesterday with a military parade and fly-past outside the Prime Minister's Office in Nairobi. Thousands of onlookers—many of them civil servants given special time-off to watch the parade—heard the Prime Minister, Mr. Kenyatta, welcome the air force and hint, in Swahili, that a Kenya Navy would soon be formed.

He reminded the crowd that this was the first anniversary of Kenya's formal self-government and pointed out that the Government would be "vigilant" against aggression in the North-Eastern Region.

The parade started off with a contingent of the K.A.F. cadets, flanked by Kenya Rifles and G.B.U. troops, march into the Government of Works Building. They were preceded by the band of the Kenya Rifles.

Member wearing furs

Most of the Cabinet and parliamentary members, with some civil servants and the British High Commissioner, the Governor-General, were seated in front of the entrance, The Market Place, Nairobi. Mr. Kenyatta, who was wearing the furs, was seated in front of the Prime Minister's Office in Nairobi.

A few minutes later the Prime Minister came out of the building with the Commander of the Kenya Air Force, Group Captain I. B. Stockwell, and the parade commander, Captain J. M. O'Rourke. At the front of the parade were the K.A.F. cadets, flanked by Kenya Rifles and G.B.U. troops, march into the Government of Works Building. They were preceded by the band of the Kenya Rifles.

Mr. Kenyatta said that he was glad to see the Kenya Air Force in uniform and that he was sure that the Kenya Navy would soon be formed. He also mentioned that the Government was interested in the Kenya Air Force and that he was sure that the Kenya Navy would soon be formed.

SANTA CLAUS BACKED FOR RACE

THIS last six classic races in Britain have gone to overwhelming odds against the Irish colt Santa Claus has been heavily backed to make it across in today's Derby run over a testing mile and a half of undulating course at Epsom Downs. This brilliant colt, bred in Rockingham and owned by Mick Rogers in Ireland, is carrying a fortune of £100,000. Two leading bookmakers alone stand to lose half a million between them if he wins, and victory will mean £20,000 for each of his backers.

Being well able to live with the odds, the Daily Mail's racing editor, Mr. Charles Johnson, who writes the "Race News" column, says they need the risk to be a winning one.

Santa Claus will provide a strong chance for the other backers. The question is will he be able to live with the odds?

There are those who only bet on horses who are not only unbeaten but also have a major claim for a classic with the best of the breed. In this case, the question is whether Santa Claus is an exception.

The gas-burning engine has won the last three years of the Epsom Derby. The Irish colt, bred by the late Mr. J. C. Clarke, was trained by the late Mr. J. C. Clarke and was a three-year-old when he won the race.

On the other hand, there is the question of whether Santa Claus is a horse who can live with the odds. The question is whether he is a horse who can live with the odds.

Can he be the odds by E. H. Johnson. Santa Claus is a colt who has been heavily backed to make it across in today's Derby. He is owned by Mick Rogers in Ireland.

Youth reward in kind, not in cash

MEMBERS of the National Youth Service will not see a penny of their bounty for the duration of the war, says Minister of Education, Mr. J. M. Mwangi.

Students who wish to join the service should expect the State to contribute to the bulk of their maintenance in the form of boarding, clothing, books and medical care which will be provided in addition to a $2 monthly allowance for pocket money.

Students who are not selected for the service will receive their bounty in the form of a grant which will be paid to them as a lump sum at the end of their school career.

Mr. Mwangi said that the Government was not in a position to pay cash bounties to students because of the financial crisis.

Vehicle tour of airport

After the playing of the Ethiopian and Kenya National Anthems the Emperor and Mr. Kenyata travelled in an open Land-Rover, watching the dancers and waving in response to the cheers of the crowds.

An official estimate put the crowds waiting at the airport at 45,000. There were several thousands at the airport, where the Emperor was hailed by a 21-gun salute.
