After reading my letter and the letter I have now written to you, I would like to suggest that you should be examined in your subject in the next few days. Islam and uhuru speech

It is a view of the ever-increasing necessity of good relations and understanding between my country and the countries of this part of the world and also in deference to the sentiments of our respected friends Messrs. Chikwe and Yahya Hussain. I take this opportunity to clarify what I expressed at the Kibera tea party.

I expressed great pleasure that, for the first time, I noticed people of all races had gathered together to find a solution for the problems of the education of the Muslim children who happen to be the most backward of our schemes in the hope other people would come forward to help them.

Quoting from the Quran "God helps those who help themselves," I said that the real solution for them was to revive the spirit of initiative which is the essence of the African spirit.

SAFARI LURE FOR SUB-OWNER

He came to drive—and stayed on

THE 1960 East African Safari brought Pierre D'Ursenville, owner of the Macumba Club to Kenya and the seed of the country's marketing way on. After finishing fourth in the class on one of a safari led by John Havers, Ltd. and was "hooked" him completely on Kenya.

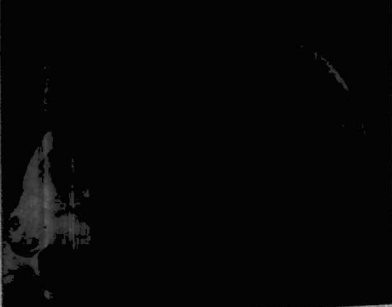

He returned to Madagascar where he had a thriving motor business, sold up and returned three months later to spend two years as a freelance photographer before operating before joining the staff of Professional Hunters, Ltd.

When the old Maxine's Club was visited, Mr. D'Ursenville brought the creature with the idea of forming a club for the title of "Safari Club" and set up the Macumba Club was conceived.

Born in Mauritius 26 years ago, Mr. D'Ursenville was the son of a French doctor and a British nurse. He studied in the French colony of Madagascar and then in London where he worked as a bank clerk before returning to his native island.

He founded plantations which Mr. D'Ursenville grew grandeur, grandfather and other family, grandfather and other family, grandfather and other family. He also worked as a bank clerk before returning to his native island.

IN MADAGASCAR
The was changed his life for the time. He served in Madagascar with the I.C.A.R. and remained in the island for 14 years running a car dealership, a restaurant, a service, and a garage.

Two young cheetahs in the Macumba Club, shot by the founder in the 1960s and given as gifts for the hotel. Colour photographs of the cheetahs are being taken from their training on a 100-acre area.

But for the East African Safari, Pierre D'Ursenville—owner of Nairobi's Macumba Club—would probably still be operating a motor business in Madagascar. His third Kenya safari after competing in the 1960 Safari led to the club.

One of the three animals of Pierre D'Ursenville's—Kiamba home in Dogaflat, his pet son—multi-colored lion cub. "He helps keep the burglars away," Mr. D'Ursenville says.

ANIMALS FIND A FRIEND

FURMEST of friends at Pierre D'Ursenville's Dogaflat lion, Chui the cheetah and Duke the German shepherd dog. This odd trio is the result of their owners' passion for rescuing any animal he hears in distress.

Dogaflat, now bearing his first birthday, was a stray, orphaned cub when he was captured up-country. No one wanted him, so he was brought to Dogaflat to be used for hunting. He was later rescued by Mr. D'Ursenville's pet dog.

Now Dogaflat is a happy, well-trained lion, saving 12th of a pound a day and romping on the lawn. He is a very friendly lion, but sadly, the other two are not so fortunate. When Dogaflat was captured, he was found in a cage in a garden. Then his thought of capture led to the thought of putting him in a cage. He was later rescued by Mr. D'Ursenville's pet dog.

CHONG PET
Chui the cheetah was the pet of an Oriental Province farmer who fed the cub when the Congo trouble started. Chui was left behind when the Congo trouble started. D'Ursenville was told about it when on safari on the island. He went on safari on the island to rescue Chui and made a dramatic dash through the tall grass to rescue Chui before the Congolese killed him.

OVER 35- and WORRIED?

Read how you can STAY YOUNGER LONGER and get the most from your extra years of life!

"VITAMINS ESSENTIAL" by Cambridge School of Anatomy Lecturers

In an article in the British Medical Journal (June 2, 1956, p. 1342) two doctors of the Cambridge School of Anatomy state: "Vitamin are not drugs to be abandoned because they fail to cure certain diseases; they are essential food factors, and unless they are present in our diet are not available."

Statistics show that, due to tremendous advances in medical knowledge, people today are expected to live much longer than their grandfathers did! Medicine has learned how to keep us alive longer, but we need the help of modern science in order to enjoy life to the full.

Extra vitamins are all-important especially after age 35. After age 35 we become more prone to petty ailments, especially when care and exercise accumulate. So it is particularly important to keep our bodies healthy. A specified minimum intake of essential vitamins can help us greatly.

You can enjoy to your normal age, as long as you make sure that you get the minimum of vitamins every day.

Mr. Butler sees observers guessing on Federal future

Advisers to follow up Minister's visit

Mr. Butler, minister in charge of Central African Affairs, Mr. Butler, and his advisers are guessing yesterday with a remark about the future of the Northern Federation.

Mr. Butler, winding up a four-day visit to Northern Rhodesia, said that he had been struck by the need for interdependence.

It is precisely because I believe there is a need for interdependence that I am proposing to appoint certain advisers to myself to follow my visit to this territory.

The Minister whose team will help to decide the fate of the Federation, said he did not want to decide anything about Northern Rhodesia's future before the territorial election in October. I hope the election will take place and I hope it will produce results, he added.

Winning on intimidation

Last week observers predicted that the talks which Mr. Butler had with Dr. Hastings Banda had paved the way for Nyasaland's secession from the Federation.

Northern Rhodesia, not been healed. "The irreconcilable hostility which exists is a question of wrong and right. It is very often a question of right versus right and so I realize how difficult this is going to be."

Twice he came down against intimidation in the territory's Rhodesian politics and warned: "The question of security must always remain uppermost in our minds."

'Peace march on Rhodesia is off

Standard Star Reporter, Dar es Salaam.

THE World Peace Brigade was not to march on Northern Rhodesia as planned but will be held in readiness, it was stated in Dar es Salaam yesterday.

This is the request of the Northern Rhodesian African Nationalist Union, Mr. Kenneth Kaunda, who has suggested the postponement of the march under the conditions he has demanded for the withdrawal of the British from the subject of an African republic.

This was disclosed in a joint statement by the chairman of the British North Africa Council, Mr. Michael Scott, who is chairman of the Emergency Committee.

Mr. Scott said that the British Government will be prepared to accept the terms of the march. Those will include the withdrawal of British troops, the withdrawal of British advisers, the withdrawal of British officials, the withdrawal of British military and air forces, the withdrawal of British naval forces, the withdrawal of British merchant ships, the withdrawal of British aircraft, the withdrawal of British ships, the withdrawal of British aircraft, the withdrawal of British ships, the withdrawal of British aircraft, the withdrawal of British ships.

Lack of interest in E.A. trade deplored

He held a luncheon of the Federation of Commerce, Wealth and British Chambers of Commerce that in East Africa, business was being conducted in a "Communist style."

WHOLEHEARTED SUPPORT

TRAFFIC SCHEME

A further selection of letters to the Editor on Nairobi's controversial traffic system.

As speed or braking facilities, I am certain that this system would not just lead to a London Paris or many other capital cities. Yet I believe it is a pity that such a scheme should be carried out in the absence of the complete facilities which are necessary to make it a really useful system. It is a pity that the Government should have the opportunity to do this in Nairobi, where no parking is permitted, where the roads are very narrow and where the traffic is so heavy. It is a pity that the Government should have the opportunity to do this in Nairobi, where no parking is permitted, where the roads are very narrow and where the traffic is so heavy.

As to the pedestrians, I have done so with the greatest of care. I am sure that the Government will do its best to make the system work. I am sure that the Government will do its best to make the system work. I am sure that the Government will do its best to make the system work.

There are one or two small weaknesses in this system which have not been taken into account. It is a pity that the Government should have the opportunity to do this in Nairobi, where no parking is permitted, where the roads are very narrow and where the traffic is so heavy.

AFTER having given a fair trial to the new traffic roundabout system in Nairobi, May 19, 1962.

Instant coffee

Exporting Kenya

Exports

Kenya's apparent preference for "instant" coffee rather than the real thing is explained by Kenya Coffee Board's annual report for 1962.

The Kenya people were trying to scratch a living in Britain, it says. The result was that the coffee growers were lured to increase the production of other similar products in the coffee area. This was a quite unpalatable by-product of the "instant" which as a drink was palatable and consistent if little else.

Kenya is a tropical country and the report says that several activities in Britain and elsewhere were "probably the most important" in Kenya. These include: "Kenyans were active in the United Kingdom and elsewhere, especially during the year under review. The British Government has been made to the fact of the Kenyan presence in the United Kingdom. In Holland, Kenya was represented by a trade mission last year. The Kenyan presence in the Netherlands is a "temporary" one, and the Kenyan presence in the United States is to be maintained. The Kenyan presence in the United States is to be maintained. Compensation pushes C.L.A. budget to over £100 million

Big Budget for Local Authorities

Efficiency must not be impaired

The programme of localisation and training was outlined to the Legislative Assembly yesterday by the Tanganyika Minister for Local Authorities, Mr. P. P. Bostani.

Mr. Bostani was presenting the estimates of expenditure of the East African Council of Governors (General Fund Services).

Review of programme

The total budget for this year was £68,070,000. Part of the increase was because of the need to provide compensation for retiring executive officers. The British Government was providing half by way of grant and the other half from the local authorities. The £28,218,171 in the estimates provides under the current financial year for the further 200 training posts for promotion to higher posts. By the end of the current financial year it was expected that 180 of these posts would be filled.

It will be necessary in the near future to undertake a complete review of the localisation programme with a view to ascertaining and augmenting the training programme and providing more positive encouragement to Africans. Mr. Bostani said that the Government was anxious to provide as much as possible in the way of training posts and to ensure that the programme was not impaired.

The Commission Services Authority was already giving consideration to the localisation programme with a view to formulating a policy for the localisation of the necessary staff. All the authorities were asked to consider the need for localisation in their own areas.

The programme of localisation was being reviewed in the light of the need to provide as much as possible in the way of training posts and to ensure that the programme was not impaired.

Mr. Bostani said that the Government was anxious to provide as much as possible in the way of training posts and to ensure that the programme was not impaired.

The new-year supplement is published to coincide with International Milk Day, the most celebrated occasion in the dairy industry in Kenya.

Kenya's dairy farmers rise over setbacks

THROUGHOUT drought and flood, war and uncertainty always triumphant and strong, the dairy industry has risen to the challenge. The late Lord Delamere, who led the first dairy farmers to the country, first saw the potential of the dairy industry as a means of earning a living in Kenya.

By 1900 he and his family settled for good in Kenya. The first dairy farm was established in 1901 near Nairobi. In 1902 the first dairy farm was established in Kenya. The first dairy farm was established in Kenya.

MILK is an international drink and no matter what country you travel to the health-giving beverage is among the 'best sellers'.

Even in Scotland, where it might come second to other well-known drinks, it has its uses (strictly for the children, the good Scotsmen say).

The 'international dress' in the Hotel Ambassador, Nairobi, toast each other to celebrate International Milk Day.

It is with these two reasons why International Milk Day has a special significance for Kenya. First, we are celebrating it this year because Kenya has now become a member of the International Dairy Federation.

It is with these two reasons in mind that I send my good wishes for the success of International Milk Day in Kenya.

Message from the Acting Governor

The Acting Governor of Kenya, Mr. Griffiths, has sent the following message to mark International Milk Day—

There are two reasons why International Milk Day has a special significance for Kenya. First, we are celebrating it this year because Kenya has now become a member of the International Dairy Federation.

It is with these two reasons in mind that I send my good wishes for the success of International Milk Day in Kenya.

HOW THE KENYA DAIRY BOARD HELPS YOU

- If you are a dairy farmer, the Board makes you sure of a stable price for your product.
- The Board keeps in close touch with the opinions of farmers, retailers and consumers.
- It makes sure that all farmers share both the problems and the profits — whether you are a member of a co-operative or not.
- If you are a consumer, the Board makes sure that there is always a good supply of clean, sound-quality milk, cream and butter.
- Kenya must export to prosper — the Board assists exports of Dairy Produce.
- The Board takes a keen interest in nutrition and welfare problems. It has recently sponsored a scheme for providing milk for under-nourished children.

PHENOMENAL GROWTH IN INDUSTRY THAT BEGAN AS A HOBBY

LIKE all good histories, the story of the Kenya Co-operative Creameries has a simple beginning — a farmer's wife at Lunenburg started to make butter in her own house for sale in Nairobi back in 1901. Sixty years on there is an industry which employs more than 1,000 people and exports butter to many parts of the world. Supplies of milk, butter, cream, cheese, yoghurt and milk powder come from nine creameries and are sold through 1,000 outlets. The original supplies come from 3,500 farms in 1901, 1,700 of whom were small holders.

The K.C.C. is owned by the 1,700 members who were in 1951, 1952 and 1953, 1954, 1955 and 1956, 1957, 1958, 1959, 1960, 1961, 1962, 1963, 1964, 1965, 1966, 1967, 1968, 1969, 1970, 1971, 1972, 1973, Unicef organizes quiet revolution

£1.0 000 LOAN TO PROMOTE AFRICAN DAIRYING

Those in authority here are fully aware of the fact that the world's population is increasing at a rapid rate. It is estimated that by the year 2000 the world population will be 4,000 million. This increase in population has led to a corresponding increase in the demand for food and other necessities. The health of the world's population is therefore a matter of great concern.

In the African farming areas of Kenya, where the population is increasing at a rapid rate, it is essential to see something done to improve the standard of living. One of the most effective ways of doing this is by promoting the production of milk. The Kenya Dairy Board has been set up to coordinate the development of the dairy industry in Kenya. It has been granted a loan of £1,000,000 to help it carry out its programme. This loan will be used to finance the purchase of equipment, the construction of processing plants, and the training of staff. It will also be used to subsidize the production of milk in the early stages of the industry.

The Kenya Dairy Board's present activities are to be financed by a combination of grants from the Kenya Dairy Board, the Co-operative and Veterinary Departments, the Kenya Co-operative Creameries, Ltd. and United Representatives.

NEW TRAINING SCHOOL

At Nairobi, a training school is already being built where the purpose of the loan is to train men in the handling of milk and butterfat. It will be under the wing of K.C.C. (Kenya Co-operative Creameries) Ltd. Other subjects will be included in that when the men go out to the new collecting centres they will be able to handle the milk in a satisfactory manner. The school will be equipped with the latest machinery and will be staffed by experienced staff. It will be the first of its kind in Kenya.

The school will be able to accommodate 100 students. It will be equipped with the latest machinery and will be staffed by experienced staff. It will be the first of its kind in Kenya.

Kenya offers gourmet wide choice with 13 different cheeses

KENYA produces 13 different types of cheese, each with its own speciality to attract the palate of the discriminating person.

- The cheeses are:—
- CHEDDAR
Because of its peculiar sweet-tangy flavour and rapid ripening qualities, this most famous of English cheeses is made and enjoyed throughout the world.
 - CREAMY-YELLOW in colour, Kenya Cheddar is matured for three months before it reaches the discriminating palate.
 - BLITON, which is an unconventional known as the King of Cheeses. It produces a soft, creamy cheese with a percentage of fat and a small amount of salt.
 - PONT L'EVÊQUE
This is still made to the point of the same name in France. It has a rich, tangy flavour with an exciting tang, made from white French milk. When ripe it is plant and yielding to the touch.
 - BLUE VALLEY
Highly recognized by its blue-green pattern of veins, the 'Blue Valley' cheese was originally made in Denmark. Quickly ripening, it is the favourite cheese of the true gourmet.
 - TILSITER
Originating in East Prussia, this is a soft, moist cheese with a sharp taste.
 - STILTON
This has a rich, savoury taste. It is made from cow's milk and is placed in a jar and a glass of port poured over it and allowed to soak well in.
 - JABIRU CREAM
This is an early-ripened table cheese. Its content is jersey cream, skimmed milk and cheddar, so all its ingredients are "home grown" except for salt and cayenne pepper.
 - WHITE HIGHLAND
Another type of "blue" resulting from several years' ripening which is usually fairly sought to make a characteristic East African cheese suited to the local climate and taste. It is sold at two ages — "mature" and "extra-mature".
 - RED HIGHLAND
A well-ripened cheese which is proving increasingly popular as a substitute for Gorgonzola cheese in the making of cheese fondue. It is also very suitable for eating as a mild after-dinner cheese.
 - WHITE STILTON
Brother to the English Blue

THE FINAL CHECK

All cheese made by the K.C.C. are checked and weighed before being sent out for sale. Here Cheddar and Creamy are through the inspector's hands at the factory.

Two firms can equip whole dairy

To meet the demand of the growing dairy industry, Industrial Plant (E.A.) Ltd. was formed in 1959 and since then a large amount of equipment has been built for the East African continent. The firm has a wide range of machinery for local workers and a saving in currency.

The work calls for careful design and skilled craftsmanship, with a minimum of cost and labour. The local men, who are trained by the firm, have 30 years of experience in the industry.

WELDED STEEL
Any type of fabricated plant can be supplied by the firm, including aluminium in all tanks, open or closed storage tanks, cheese vats and glove boilers.

Stainless steel is mostly used, welded with the Argon-arc process, although aluminium is used with some equipment.

Sales are made through the firm's associates, Arden's Ltd. and Huxley's (E.A.) Ltd. who are also agents for British overseas companies supplying equipment to the dairy industry.

For further details, the two companies can plan and equip complete dairies.

TAKEN FOR GRANTED — BUT WE OWE IT ALL TO THE ARABS

CHEESE is a commonplace enough article these days. So commonplace that it features as a regular item of food for most discerning housewives. Yet, while we may be able to hazard a shrewd guess at its origin, nobody knows for certain who first invented the delightful, creamy substance. Some of the earliest legends claim it was first really invented in Mesopotamia. It seems likely that the discoverer was Arab or their predecessor. It is known that the Arabs used to bury their pebbly excavated at the feet of the Children, depicted one man milking and another with a form of curdy, soupy milk-making butter.

Carried around in leather or skin bags, the milk would sour but turn sour due to the heat and the residue of previous milkings left inside.

The curdling action of the bag carried on the back of a camel or dromedary would complete the curd formation of the stronger stomachs of our ancestors. It must have been a brave — or desperate — man who lacked the evil-smelling porridge which resulted.

Cheremaking appears to have been one of the good things which the Romans took over from the Greeks. It is quite likely that they also got some ideas on the subject from the Arabs, but since the Greek civilization was far more advanced it seems logical that the Romans brought the art of cheesemaking to Britain when their Legions moved in. There may have been some primitive cheesemaking in the country before that but there is no doubt that the Romans had a fairly advanced practice and taught it to their British subjects.

It is odd to think that although nowadays we take it for granted that the milk we use is our's milk, in those days it was almost certain to be either from sheep or goats.

By the time of the Norman Conquest cheese seems to have been made with varying degrees of success on most farms. The Norman, naturally, brought with them some more well-known variety which is known as Cheddar and one British — Wensleydale — is a direct result.

Trucks versus Roads : Assembly debate

MOTION IS WITHDRAWN

Kenya's railways only paid between 10 and 15 per cent of the cost of the railway apparatus to be used in the country, the Kenya Legislative Assembly was told yesterday by Sir Philip Muriuki.

Mr. Muriuki said one of the methods used to protect the railways appeared to be to use the trucks which were being standard. An example of this was the use of the standard 40-ton trucks.

Sir Philip Muriuki, who is in charge of the Kenya Railway Development Authority, said that the Government should give consideration to other forms of transportation. He said that the Government should be described as an "excellent chance to air their views," to withdraw his motion.

SYSTEMS BACKBONE

He conceded that protection was still needed at this stage of the country's development, but said it was important that consideration should be given to other forms of transportation before money was used in further development of the railway system.

The railway should remain the backbone of the system but, he said it was transport which also would develop other forms of railway competition.

Mr. Muriuki said that the Government should be better, but his statement was not intended to be a criticism of the Government. He said that the Government was doing very well, but that there was a need for a change in the Government's policy.

Books for Liberal Studies

These are planned to stimulate the student to acquire a perceptive and critical attitude towards all forms of human equity, and to explore beyond the confines of specialist and vocational interests. Their subject matter and presentation will not only encourage their use in formal courses in Liberal Studies, but will also meet the needs of the general reader.

Incentives for Authors

The Publishers are arranging Commonwealth and international co-operation in textbook writing and distribution. Authors are guaranteed speedy publication, widest dissemination, and maximum income from sales. Where suitable, simultaneous translation and publication will be arranged into French, German, Spanish and Russian. All this constitutes a major inducement to authors to undertake the writing of books for the Library and to exercise the greatest care in the preparation of their manuscripts. A 48-page handbook giving detailed information about the Library, and the help available to authors in the preparation of their manuscripts, is available free of charge on request from the Publisher.

The Author's, Editor's, and Advisor's Responsibilities

Criticism of the Press

SINCE Mr. Mbuya's speech to the International Press Institute sparked the question of the freedom of the Press in Africa, and this being a vital question, I would like to see accorded a small measure of it in your esteemed media to make comments on the observations of Mr. Eric Marden, the Chairman of the East Africa Branch of the I.P.I.

Mr. Marden speaks Mr. Mbuya's having implied that most local journalists, especially those who take up jobs as a pallium or as the last resort of their education, are in fact, Mr. Marden's charge is that the Press is a mere tool of the Government and that it is not a free press. It is not a free press, it is a tool of the Government.

What everyone would like the Press accorded the almost freedom to do as it pleases in its service of the public interest. The Press is a mere tool of the Government and that it is not a free press. It is not a free press, it is a tool of the Government.

It is not a free press, it is a tool of the Government. It is not a free press, it is a tool of the Government. It is not a free press, it is a tool of the Government.

It is not a free press, it is a tool of the Government. It is not a free press, it is a tool of the Government. It is not a free press, it is a tool of the Government.

It is not a free press, it is a tool of the Government. It is not a free press, it is a tool of the Government. It is not a free press, it is a tool of the Government.

It is not a free press, it is a tool of the Government. It is not a free press, it is a tool of the Government. It is not a free press, it is a tool of the Government.

It is not a free press, it is a tool of the Government. It is not a free press, it is a tool of the Government. It is not a free press, it is a tool of the Government.

It is not a free press, it is a tool of the Government. It is not a free press, it is a tool of the Government. It is not a free press, it is a tool of the Government.

It is not a free press, it is a tool of the Government. It is not a free press, it is a tool of the Government. It is not a free press, it is a tool of the Government.

It is not a free press, it is a tool of the Government. It is not a free press, it is a tool of the Government. It is not a free press, it is a tool of the Government.

It is not a free press, it is a tool of the Government. It is not a free press, it is a tool of the Government. It is not a free press, it is a tool of the Government.

It is not a free press, it is a tool of the Government. It is not a free press, it is a tool of the Government. It is not a free press, it is a tool of the Government.

It is not a free press, it is a tool of the Government. It is not a free press, it is a tool of the Government. It is not a free press, it is a tool of the Government.

It is not a free press, it is a tool of the Government. It is not a free press, it is a tool of the Government. It is not a free press, it is a tool of the Government.

It is not a free press, it is a tool of the Government. It is not a free press, it is a tool of the Government. It is not a free press, it is a tool of the Government.
