COAL DEPOSITS IN TANGANYIKA

Réport by C.D.C. SUCCESSFUL EXPLORATIONS IN RUKHU RIVER AREA

TANGANYIKA has been blessed with a rich coal-bearing area of some 400,000 acres in the Rukhu River area of south-western Tanganyika. The area is situated in the Rukhu River valley, which is one of the most fertile and densely populated areas in the country. The coal deposits are of the lignite type and are estimated to contain about 100 million tons of coal. The coal is of a high quality and is suitable for use in power stations and for domestic consumption. The discovery of these coal deposits is a major step towards the development of the coal industry in Tanganyika. NAIROBI ESTIMATES CUT BY £325,000

Council discusses Embakasi airport project and bus service

The Nairobi City Council has approved a reduction of £325,000 from the city's 1951-52 budget. The council also discussed the Embakasi airport project and bus service. The council is expected to make further decisions on these matters in the near future. The reduction in the budget is a result of the council's efforts to reduce expenditure and improve efficiency. The council is committed to providing the best possible services to the citizens of Nairobi.

RACIAL STRESSES IN EAST AFRICA: Kikuyu Juices a Wood fuel famine

U.S. ROYAL Air Ride

A REVIEW

Racial and other problems of East Africa are described by a Special Correspondent of The Times, who visited the East African territories in 1948.

East Africa, he says, is one of the most interesting grounds where the clash of a racialist and a non-racialist society has to be witnessed. The continent is divided into three parts: the white, the black and the Indian. The white population is concentrated in the highlands, the black in the lowlands and the Indian in the coastal strip.

Confused

The attitude of one business as the third race is confused. A large section of the Indian community in the Moslem-Community in Kenya looks for development of the Indian Government for the Indian people and to force a link with the South African Government.

Settlers' views

The settlers, and certainly the European political representatives, tend to take rather a different view. They give more emphasis on the stability of the white population. In the case of a white population, the opening of a white population in the East African territories is not a matter of course. WHEN Mr. Harry Watt, of the National Studios, London, has been investigating the possibilities of making a film about the present state of affairs in East Africa, he has found that the situation is far from what it once was. The white population is concentrated in the highlands, the black in the lowlands and the Indian in the coastal strip.

AFRICAN SETTLEMENT IN KENYA

REPORTING on the work of the African Land Utilization and Settlement Board for the third quarter of the year, the Executive Officer says that a good deal of work was necessary in July and August on the annual estimates. The total of 1952 expenditure was originally £200,000, but this sum was reduced to two stages to £209,000, a cut of eight per cent.

The report says that about 120 families from all parts of the Mbariki district were settled on land at Makindu by the end of the quarter reviewed, and that the 1950 target of 450 families was 1500 target of 450 families. The report also mentions that the number of plots was 1000, and that the number of plots was 1000, and that the number of plots was 1000.

New departure
If the Government is to succeed in its policy of settling African farmers on the land, it must be prepared to meet the needs of the settlers in many ways. One of the most important of these is the provision of housing. The Government has now decided to build a new type of house for the settlers, which will be built of local materials and will be suitable for the climate of the region.

Cattle census
The Kenya Cattle Census for 1950 has been completed, and the results show a steady increase in the number of cattle in the country. The total number of cattle was 1,000,000, an increase of 10 per cent on the 1949 figure. This increase is due to a combination of factors, including a high birth rate and a low death rate.

World population and food needs

WORLD population just keeps growing. During the last 50 years it has increased by no fewer than 500 millions. Every day there are 60,000 more mouths to feed. The increase in population is a major problem for the world, and it is essential that we find ways to increase food production to meet the needs of the growing population.

Probable population of various countries

Total	2500	2800	3100	3400	3700

The greatest growth will be in the developing countries, particularly in Asia and Africa. This increase in population will place a heavy burden on the world's food resources, and it is essential that we find ways to increase food production to meet the needs of the growing population.

Some of the ways in which we can increase food production are by using modern agricultural techniques, such as the use of fertilizers and pesticides, and by increasing the efficiency of our farming operations. We can also increase food production by expanding the area of land under cultivation, and by developing new sources of food, such as the use of algae and other marine organisms.

Many of the world's food resources are being used up, and it is essential that we find ways to conserve them. We can do this by using food more efficiently, and by reducing our consumption of meat and other animal products. We can also conserve food resources by using modern agricultural techniques, such as the use of fertilizers and pesticides, and by increasing the efficiency of our farming operations.

A SAFARI ROUND MOUNT KENYA

I'm all for Eno's

It's good for the liver!

A glass of sparkling ENO'S first thing in the morning is good for the liver. It isn't the food in the time. The wonderful effectiveness in cleansing and refreshing the whole body is the key. The gas bubbles forming in a glass keep up a steady upward movement. It is this upward movement which cleanses the liver. A real liver tonic. Keep 3 pints of Eno's Fruit Salt.

MERUS diversity of climate is illustrated by the fact that the District boundaries run from the mountains of the great Mountain to the edge of the desert. There are over 150,000 people in Merus and most of them stay there through a great part of the year. In the course of employment mostly for limited periods.

Even this brief and discontinuous contact with the ferment of the outside life is disliked by the bulk of the Merus people because those who go away and return with strange ideas and turn of mind, and their behaviour seems to impair rather than challenge a way of life as well as a social system based upon equilibrium. Merus is not a place where one can go down a road and see a signpost pointing in the direction of the modern world. It is a place where one can go down a road and see a signpost pointing in the direction of the modern world. WORLD-KNOWN CELLIST RETURNS TO NAIROBI

East Africa is to be honoured by a visit during October and November from May Maitai. She is a well-known cellist who has returned to her native Nairobi and Nairobi after the first time in 1947 and will tour Kenya and Uganda during the Christmas season.

She will also give a series of recitals in the various parts of the country during the Christmas season, and will also give a series of recitals in the various parts of the country during the Christmas season.

OSTRICH FEATHER HATS THE VOGUE

Black glaucous straw over honey stain with black dots

At the March past of members of the Women's Voluntary Services in London starting the Victoria Parade of 1945 Mr. Winston Churchill is reported to have turned to the Dowager Lady Reading, the Chairman of the W.V.S. and said: 'But they all have their hats on at different angles, to which Lady Reading replied: "Why not, they are individuals."

This is probably the answer to the question why the ostrich feather hat is so popular with designers to persuade their clients to make hats that are new, because, because the individuality of the hat is the thing that counts.

TWO IMPORTANT MAKE-UP HINTS

THESE days the natural look is favoured for eyebrows. They should be quite thick and well defined, but not overdone.

Before you think of all the various shades of eye shadow, remember that the best is the one that is most natural.

LONDON MONOPOLISES ALL THE STAGE LEADERS

"STANDARD" CORRESPONDENT

WITHOUT any suggestion that it is a sign of political times, I think that some people in the profession are pleading that the Government should make a big effort to decentralise the theatre. London has been such a powerful entertainment magnet that it tends not only to crowd out the top class actors, but to monopolise much of the talent which is unfair.

It is not that the theatre has been taken over by Government, and it is not that the Government has taken over the theatre. It is that the theatre has been taken over by a few men, and that these men have taken over the theatre.

I will now say a few words about the theatre in London. It is a very interesting and important industry, and it is one that has been largely neglected by the Government.

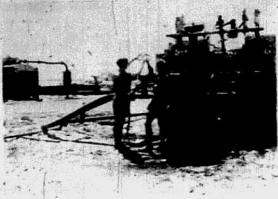

THE R.A.F. MAY OWN A RICH OIL-WELL

BY A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

It is being generally held that the world's headlines. In one of the fabulously oil-rich kingdoms of the Middle East another vast reservoir is soon to be tapped. Zaurub oilfield, 15 miles from Basra, 40 from Abadan, on the Iraqi side of the Strait of Arab, goes into production in October. Oil expert predict it might prove the largest and richest oil deposit ever discovered in the Middle East.

The oilfield's center lies beneath the surface of the desert, and has been found in a singular way that the British had discovered the great oil reservoir.

Some of the British Petroleum Company's geologists in the Middle East, in 1928, were exploring for oil in the area of the Zaurub oilfield. It was then that they discovered the oilfield.

Oil—Regulating the supply of oil is one of the most important tasks of the Government. It's between the teeth that danger lies. That's where bacteria multiply and go to work—producing the acids that cause decay. Kolynos foam penetrates straight to the danger spots. Kolynos foam contains special ingredients that neutralize the acids, destroy bacteria. From laboratory tests we have proved that Kolynos foam kills up to 92 per cent of harmful mouth bacteria.

The cost of living in East Africa is today a problem which taxes the minds of all of us. In fact I know quite a few chaps who are worrying themselves silly wondering where the next car is coming from. Letters to the Editor have outlined many ways in which living expenses can be straitened.

I am glad to tell you that the following can be done through means so unobtrusive, so simple, so easy, that they require very little outlay.

During a month's time I have been in the habit of using a certain brand of soap. I have found it to be very good for the skin, and it is very cheap. I have also found that it is very good for the hair, and it is very good for the eyes.

THE WILD HERITAGE OF THE NOMADS

In spite of the hard conditions that prevail in the Northern Frontier the sand and scrub covered terrain is nevertheless capable of supporting a large variety of indigenous fauna and tribespeople, as well as immense numbers of domestic stock, camels, cattle, goats and sheep, which wander over the hinterland. Having adapted themselves through generations to subsist on the meagre amenities of their environment.

With the introduction of war in all districts and the resultant flight and migration of the herdsmen, the nomads have been forced to seek out the few remaining grazing areas. In the past, the nomads were nomads, and they have now become nomads. In this article on the Northern Frontier of Kenya, MERRELL DALTON describes the fortunes of the nomads, the conditions of hard life and the use they make of what Nature provides.

Two 'Don' name trunks, lashed together, make haari for the Et Beate and (below) the camel is the 'train' of the desert.

whom they have distilled out a white veil, the area known as the 'white' of the desert. The 'white' of the desert is the result of the desert's dry climate. The 'white' of the desert is the result of the desert's dry climate. The 'white' of the desert is the result of the desert's dry climate.

Medicine
The nomads have a rich tradition of medicine. They use natural remedies and herbs to treat various ailments. Their knowledge of the desert's flora and fauna is extensive, and they use this knowledge to their advantage.

Fortitude
The nomads possess a great deal of fortitude. They are able to withstand the harsh conditions of the desert and continue to live their lives. Their resilience is a testament to their strength and character.

MUSICAL AFTERMATH OF THE FESTIVAL

By L. HOPE-JONES

The music of the festival was a blend of traditional and modern. The performers were talented and their music was captivating. The festival was a success and it was a pleasure to attend. The music was a reflection of the culture and the people of the region. It was a beautiful experience and it was a privilege to be there.

Camel hats
Camel hats are a traditional part of the nomads' clothing. They are made from animal skins and are designed to protect the head from the sun. They are a practical and functional piece of clothing that is essential for life in the desert.

NOVICE BUNKERS GET A CHANCE

Featured in Eastleigh programme

KENYA'S boxing season opens in a week's time when local novice fighters are featured in a tournament promoted by the Amateur Boxing Association of East Africa, at the R.A.F. Station at Eastleigh.

A good number of entrants are battlers who have not previously fought, but particularly from young R.A.F. and civilian ranks in fact out of 100 who have already been seen.

It is expected that the tournament will be a success and that the fighters will be well matched. The most popular reason for the success of the tournament is the fact that several good bouts are expected to be seen.

The tournament will be held at the R.A.F. Station at Eastleigh on Friday, October 26, and will be a success. The fighters will be well matched and several good bouts are expected to be seen.

Bunker golf is the way to better play

STANDARD CORRESPONDENT
LONDON
BUNKER GOLF is developing as a new pastime among British enthusiasts anxious to improve their play. The idea — which is gaining more than practice strokes from bunker positions — is based on the belief that Americans generally win competition golf because they take time and trouble to perfect bunker technique.

There was an interesting episode at the course where the score for three professionals was particularly high on a bunker shot. The professional who had the bunker shot was a member of the club.

It is thought the more high-class the course the more the players will take time and trouble to perfect bunker technique.

The week in golf passes in review

By The Standard Golf Correspondent. The golf world of the week, the match between the Lady's Men of Kenya, Mrs. Crawley of Nairobi and the Chonyi Men of Mombasa, R. W. Barr, took place at the Royal Nairobi Golf Club.

Huberto the Lady's Champion, who was the favorite, lost to Mrs. Crawley. Mrs. Crawley was the only woman to play in the match.

Who's who in Kenya cricket

R. CALDECOTT, Nairobi C.C.

Kenya cricket is a growing sport. The Kenya Kings are the leading team in the country. They have won many matches in the past.

Tour comments by Dudley Joyce

The Uganda Kobs are a first-class team and have won many matches in the past. They are expected to be a strong team in Kenya.

Old problem

The problem of the Kenya Kings is a long one. It has been a problem for many years. The Kings are a first-class team and have won many matches in the past.

Other sports

There are many other sports in Kenya. Football is the most popular. There are also many other sports like tennis, badminton, and table tennis.

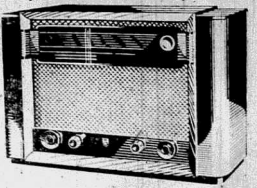

Highest award for Kenya swimmers

The Kenya swimmers have won the highest award for their performance at the 1952 Olympics. They are a very talented team.

Bigger entries for 1952 Olympics

ASIAN WOMAN'S DEATH MYSTERY

STANBURY STAFF REPORTER KAMPALA

UNDA corner, holding an inquest recently at Mbulu, refused to believe that a woman had committed a crime of such magnitude as her husband's diagnosis of strychnine poisoning was by her husband in circumstances amounting to murder or manslaughter.

It was which was concerned by Mr. P. W. Workman, who had been called to the scene by the death of the woman, Mrs. D. D. Debono, wife of an Asian driver, who had been found dead in a room at the Victoria Hotel, Kampala, on August 11. The woman was found lying on the floor, apparently having been strangled, and her husband, who was also present, was found with a strychnine tablet in his hand.

NO CANING FOR CRUELTY

STANBURY CORRESPONDENT DAKAR

CRUELTY to animals will no longer be punishable by corporal punishment in Tanganyika, according to a bill passed by the Legislative Council.

The Bill, which was introduced by the Attorney-General, provides for a maximum fine of 100 shillings for a first offence and 200 shillings for a second offence. It also provides for a maximum fine of 50 shillings for a third offence.

The bill was passed by the Legislative Council on October 11. It is expected to be passed by the House of Representatives in the near future.

Geologists investigate Sulphur on Kilimanjaro

STANBURY CORRESPONDENT DAKAR

GEOLOGICAL Survey Department expedition, which spent 20 consecutive days above 15,000 feet, has made an investigation of the sulphur deposits located on a gully lying about 200 feet from the summit of Kilimanjaro.

The indications are that this sulphur has been formed over the past 20,000 years by the fumarolic activity which has given rise to much conjecture regarding the state of the volcano.

The sulphur was found in a gully about 200 feet from the summit of Kilimanjaro. The sulphur was found in a gully about 200 feet from the summit of Kilimanjaro.

DRILLING FOR COAL IN TANGANYIKA

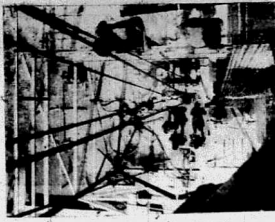

BURLEY, England (Scott) Scott blasted into Nairobi last week after six months in the "blue" diamond drilling for coal in Tanganyika.

About the time the article was leaving his drill, the Colonial Development Commission announced that it was increasing its expenditure on coal with "marked success."

Scott's "you never know what is going to break down in your career" motto is a very apt one. Often they had to work three months for every year part. It was not until the end of 1951 that they were able to get a "marked success" in the coal field.

When the hazards of the business were first being considered, the Government was not sure if it was worth the cost of coal in the country. But when the coal was found, the Government was sure that it was worth the cost.

RHODESIA'S 'SOAP-BOX DERBY' ROCKET CAR

BULAWAYO, the commercial capital of Southern Rhodesia, believes in indulging the caprice of its children from time to time. Though its population, like any other town, normally raises its eyebrows at the gangster-of-the-wilderness juvenile elements, there is one day a year when its younger citizens can give free rein to their high spirits, when the local council turns a blind eye, gives a helping hand, in fact, to activities that might fairly be called "carnivalism" at any other time of the year.

This red-letter day in the Rhodesian calendar is "Soap-Box Derby Day." Sponsored by the Rhodesian Holiday Association, the annual event is a race in which competitors were made up of school children, and the prizes were of a nature to give a little extra to the winners by the way of a "bonus" to the victor by the R.H.A. and the Rhodesian Council of Education.

This year the Derby attracted an enormous entry of 1,000 competitors, and the Rhodesian Holiday Association, which organizes the event, had to make arrangements for the race to be held on a track which was built for the purpose.

The winner of the Derby was a 12-year-old boy named John Smith, who drove his car, which was made of a soap box, at a speed of 45 m.p.h. The car was built by his father, who is a well-known car mechanic in Bulawayo.

A match between the Rhodesian and the South African teams was held in Bulawayo, and the Rhodesian team won by a score of 3-1. The match was held on a track which was built for the purpose.

Some Nursery Suggestions

By Mary Kenney

THE majority of people nowadays, and family lives are being so busy that they are unable to spend as much time as they should on their nurseries. It is a pity, because the nursery is the child's world, and it should be a place where he can find comfort and security. It should be a place where he can learn and grow, and where he can find a sense of peace and well-being.

Plenty of room

It is a pity, because the nursery is the child's world, and it should be a place where he can find comfort and security. It should be a place where he can learn and grow, and where he can find a sense of peace and well-being.

PUBLICITY FOR PARENTS

By Robina Wright

LITTLE James across the road came in to see me the other day. He watched me shuffling, trotted behind me around the house, and garden, and talked incessantly.

My daughter is a very happy child. She is full of life and energy, and she is a very good friend to all her friends. She is a very kind and generous child, and she is a very good listener. She is a very good student, and she is a very good worker.

The right way

NO doubt the way of doing things is the right way. It is the way that has been tried and tested, and it is the way that has been found to be the most effective. It is the way that has been found to be the most efficient, and it is the way that has been found to be the most economical.

WOOL-BUT NOT RED FLANNEL. FOR THE MODERN WOMAN

Eliza M. Sanders' London Letter describes the way models shown by French designers.

Models at the International Wool Secretariat Show, La Coudre Parisienne.

IN the grandmother's time of red flannels, slinky serge and velvet that tickled thighs, the modern woman has found a new way of dressing. She has found a way of dressing that is both elegant and practical, and that is both comfortable and stylish. She has found a way of dressing that is both simple and sophisticated, and that is both classic and modern.

The Christmas factory is here

By Joyce Batchelor

THE children's play-room, so recently converted, has had a notice affixed to the door, keeping out the hordes of visitors between the hours of 5 p.m. and 7 p.m., and on all afternoons when the occupants are therein, and said notice is as follows:

It is so that the younger generation have a chance to see the factory, and to see the way in which the toys are made. It is so that the younger generation have a chance to see the factory, and to see the way in which the toys are made. It is so that the younger generation have a chance to see the factory, and to see the way in which the toys are made.

Mass production

IT is a pity that the younger generation have a chance to see the factory, and to see the way in which the toys are made. It is a pity that the younger generation have a chance to see the factory, and to see the way in which the toys are made. It is a pity that the younger generation have a chance to see the factory, and to see the way in which the toys are made.

TROUBADOUR TRIM GOES TO PARIS WITH RICHE

By Dorothy Barkley

THIS season, the most exciting thing in the world of fashion is the return of the troubadour trim. It is a trim that has been found to be both elegant and practical, and that is both comfortable and stylish. It is a trim that has been found to be both simple and sophisticated, and that is both classic and modern.

CHOCOLATES

LAST Friday the E.A.S.P.C.A. held a Bazaar and Bazaar in the Great Hall of the new Stanley Hotel. The bazaar had been organized by a sub-committee of the E.A.S.P.C.A. presided over by Mrs. Mary Murray and assisted by Mrs. Mavis Stacey, Mrs. W. G. Wood, and Mrs. M. J. Smith.

The bazaar was a very successful one and the proceeds were collected mainly to help finance the bazaar and the purchase of a new building for the Society.

Mrs. Murray's speech of last night was a most interesting one and she was cheered on the occasion by the Society, which was not only to be seen but also to be heard.

The bazaar was a great success and the proceeds were collected mainly to help finance the bazaar and the purchase of a new building for the Society.

THE MOUNTBATTEN LEGEND—3.

DRIVING down the London Embankment, between Westminster and Blackfriars, you will see berthed against the river's side a ship reminiscent in appearance of the R.M.V. It is H.M.S. President, now given over to the use of the Admiralty.

But few visitors have been seen in the summer of 1953. They could not have wished for a better glimpse west of the Tower of London.

One evening, standing on the bank, I watched her come out to sea and remember the days of the war when she was the headquarters of the Admiralty's operations in the North Sea.

A B. Wilson never was in the ship again during the war. He was in the Admiralty and was in charge of the operations in the North Sea. He was in the Admiralty and was in charge of the operations in the North Sea.

By Godfrey Winn

pumps on board" our captain reported. During my own survivors' leave I learned that during the war the Mountbattens at Chichester Street and recall that episode with extraordinary detail.

However, our losses were not heavy. I realised afterwards that I had been very lucky. I had been very lucky. I had been very lucky.

There were no survivors. The ship was sunk. The ship was sunk. The ship was sunk.

Cross, as well as her own service to visit the wounded and sick in hospital, to ensure by her own devotion that the needs of the hospital were met.

After standing the distance that she had to travel, she was in the hospital, the ship was in the hospital, the ship was in the hospital.

She was in the hospital, the ship was in the hospital, the ship was in the hospital.
